Third.—Unpack the goods ; mark the wholesale price in letters and the retail price in figures. Arrange the goods nicely on shelves, in windows or any other place that will display them to advantage. A proper display of goods does more to sell them than a clerk can do.

Fourth.—I would have some neat circulars printed on good paper, stating that I had opened a grocery store, also describing the kinds of goods handled, qnoting a few prices, but dwelling mainly on the fact that I was prepared to suit everybody, and the goods being new, and the best to be had for the money.

IN A POPULAR PLACE ;

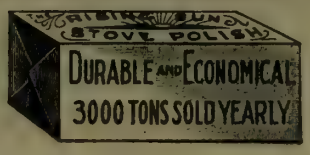
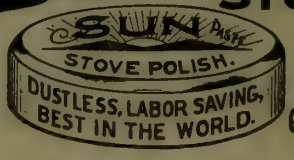
Fifth. —I would then have them distributed. I would see to this personally. I would also advertise in one or two newspapers.

Sixth.—I would then go out and solicit trade personally :

a.—Among those in my own ward, with whom I am at present taking orders for my employer. I am satisfied that out of 45 customers in this ward I would get 30 of them as regular customers for myself. This may seem quite an assertion to strangers. But to explain, allow me to say that I got all these 45 customers for my present employer and held them as regular customers for six years. I take their orders every Monday. I do all the collecting. I do no not think that half a dozen of these customers were ever in the storeroom. So I think by this time you will agree that I could get at least 30 of them ; also that I could hold them as regular customers.



b. — I would then go into other wards in which I am at present soliciting for my employer ; also among my personal friends, and here I would get not less than 15 more.



c.—Then I would go among my personal friends in my own ward who do not deal with my present employer, but who said, when I solicited their trade for him, that "if I was in business for myself they would patronize me." Among these I could get 15 more. I was now and delivering, and got 55 regular customers on whom I could depend to give me their patronage and their support in getting new customers. These 55 regular customers would use from $10 to $15 worth a month. But counting only $10, would make my sales for the first month alone $550 from this source alone. Ten per cent. profit, would give me $55 profit, counting the rent $15, would leave me $40. For the other expenses, I allow all the profit on those who would come to the store personally. This would leave me $40 profit the first month. My wife, who has been at the same work before, would stay in the store while I would be out. My oldest boy (nine years of age) could deliver small articles in the morning and evening. So you see that my expenses, outside of rent would not amount to much a month, and we would be making money from the start. During the following months I would continue my personal soliciting, and, with the aid of my friends, could more than double the amount sold during the first month. This would before the six months are up. In speaking about the aid of my friends, I mean that when you please your customers they speak to their friends about how everything that they get is so satisfactory ; how nicely they are treated, etc. The result is, their friends say : "Send him to my house," and you can rest assured that you have a new customer. Many a new customer did I get in the above way in the last six years. During the time when not engaged in soliciting and delivering, I would clean up the goods, do my buying, etc. The spare time I would utilize in putting up sugar, rice, and all articles that must be weighed and measured. By thus making use of the time usually spent standing around, any ordinary store can save the expense of one man, which, by the way, is quite an item during a year. I can put up an order or wait on a customer in less than half the time required if not prepared, by having things weighed out. Another advantage of the above is that customers, as a general rule, are in a hurry, and they will go to the place where they are waited on quickly. You can also be more

PARTICULAR IN GIVING CORRECT WEIGHT.

I do not mean that I would give short weight, but I would give a pound where I intend to give a pound, and not a pound and two or three ounces. I would also study each individual customer; their different dispositions and tastes, thus being enabled to hold their trade the better. Try and please them, and they will be more considerate with you and help you. By the time the six months are up I expect I would need some outside help, and for that purpose I would choose a young man who would like the work and who would take an interest in it. If possible, one from this city, who is well liked and respectful to the customers. A clerk has often more to do with the success of a store than the proprietor himself. I would expect him to have some friends that he could get as customers, and thus help pay his expenses.

CANNING FACTORY IN NOVA SCOTIA.

The Middleton, Nova Scotia, Outlook, says that a cannery is being established in that town. J. G. Rood, Waterville, Nova Scotia, is the gentleman trusted with the starting of the concern. He canned apples at Waterville for eight years.

Last year, says The Outlook, at this place he made over 36,000 cans of apples and 60 bbls. of cider vinegar, using about 2,000 bbls. of apples. For these he paid 50 to 80c. per bbl., or a total of over $1,400 for apples. It required 14 hands for three months, to whom $600 were paid in wages. The principal markets are Halifax, St. John and England, the latter taking the largest part of the output. The extent of the business at Middleton will depend wholly upon the patronage the farmers give the factory.

The early and soft varieties of apples are most used. The must be not less than two inches in diameter, free from rot and not too wormy. Nos. 1, 2 and 3 may be all put together. They must be brought in barrels as they bruise in bags. The barrels, however, are returned. Spot cash is invariably paid. If the supply of raw materials will justify it, Mr. Rood intends next year to erect a building and put up besides apples, strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, plums, tomatoes and pumpkins.

EDAM CHEESE.

While the Edam cheese is a familiar visitor on the table, not everyone knows whence it comes, nor how its cannon ball proportions and gay coloring have been achieved. The northern part of Holland is the seat of the Edam cheese industry, and the consequent cleanliness of the relish is, therefore, doubly assured. In making it, the fresh cow's milk is carefully strained and the rennet added. As soon as the milk curdles the whey is drawn off, and the curd, thoroughly kneaded, is pressed into moulds. This process is repeated until the whey has all been extracted and the curd is comparatively dry. It is then wrapped in a linen cloth and kept for ten or twelve days until quite solid. Then the cloth is removed and the cheese put into salt lye. Afterwards a little more dry salt is sprinkled on the cheese, until the maker thinks it is salt enough to insure its keeping. It is next put into a vessel, and, after being washed with whey, is scraped to remove the white crust. It is next carried into a cool room and laid on shelves, where it is frequently turned. The ripening process lasts from two to three months, the round balls growing the fine yellow or reddish color peculiar to Edam cheese. The cheeses intended to be exported to this country are rendered still more brilliant by dyeing the rind with a vegetable dye.—Grocers' Journal.

BREAD-WRAPPERS.

Some time ago, some of the continental communes, cities, and villages issued regulations that bread, meat, fish, and the like foods, subject to constant handling, should be protected by clean paper wrappers.

A baker in Hull, having had his attention drawn to this matter by an employe of The Eddy Paper Mills there, has been the first to voluntarily carry this idea into effect in Canada rather than to wait for the enactment of a law to compel this necessary protection to the health of the users of these kinds of food.

Mr. Feeley has printed the following on the outside wrapper of the two sizes of bread tubes that he uses : "I am the first baker in Canada to enclose my bread in a pure, clean paper wrapper as the bread leaves the oven, thus insuring perfect cleanliness."

During the first seven months of the year the United States exported 379,319 cwt. of cheese to Great Britain, compared with 327,446 cwt. the same period last year. The exports of butter during the same period were 84,298 cwt., against 33,331.

MEETINGS OF RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

MONTREAL ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association was held in Monument National Hall, 220 St. Lawrence street, at 8 o'clock p.m. on Thursday, September 7. Present: John Scanlan, president, in the chair; V. Raby, J P. Dixon, Alderman Turner, N. Chartrand, S. Demers, J. E. Manning, S. D. Vallieres, C. H. Pitt, and others.

Moved by J. P. Dixon, second by P. O'Brien, V. Raby and Alderman Turner, that the secretary be instructed to write to Mr. H. Graham, of The Star, and the Hon. Mr. Berthiaum, of La Presse, expressing the thanks of this association for the splendid manner in which these gentlemen did gratuitously advertise our picnic in their respective papers. Carried unanimously.

Moved by J. P. Dixon, seconded by S. D. Vallieres, that the rule be suspended, and that the nomination and election of officers be postponed to next meeting, and that this fact be advertised in The Star and La Presse two days previous to said meeting. Carried unanimously.

Moved by J. P. Dixon, seconded by M. DeRepentigny, that the secretary be instructed to write to the city council asking that inspectors be appointed by the city to protect merchants in general against peddlers without license, as it is evident that the city police are inadequate to suppress this injustice to merchants in general, who are heavy taxpayers. Carried unanimously.

Moved by Ald. Turner, seconded by V. Raby, that S. D. Vallieres and P. O'Brien be named auditors to audit all the books of this association, and report at next meeting. Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

P. GANNON, Secretary,

TORONTO ASSOCIATION.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held their regular monthly meeting in St. George's Hall, Elm street, on Monday evening. President F. W. Johnson occupied the chair.

At the last meeting of the association, on request of the Metal Polishers' Union, of Toronto, the association decided to hear a deputation from that body with regard to differences that existed between The Money-Weight Scale Co., of Dayton, Ohio, and its employes. Letters were received from both the scale company and the Metal Polishers' Union stating that all differences had been satisfactorily settled.

A letter was received from the London Retail Grocers' Association asking the opinion of their Toronto brethren concerning the proposed wholesale grocery syndicate. The question was discussed at the last meeting of the London association, when the feeling was manifested that such a combine would not be in the interests of the retail trade.

When the matter was opened for discussion at the Toronto Association it was suggested that the communication be laid on the table to await developments in the formation of the syndicate.

As, however, an opinion had been asked, several members opposed this suggestion. The ground taken by these speakers was that the scheme was impracticable; that as the surces of supply were open to all it would be impossible for any syndicate to get control of the whole business, and that while such a syndicate as that proposed would be unsatisfactory to the retail trade, there was little reason to fear the organization of such a body, because of its impracticability.

This view was concurred in by the meeting, and Secretary Hawes was instructed to write the London association to that effect.

The financial report of the excursion committee was received. It showed a balance of $244 as the net profits of the trip. On motion, $15 was granted Secretary Hawes as a recognition of the value of his efforts to make the picnic and excursion successful.

A debate between O. A. J. Anderson and Benj. Panter regarding trading stamps was to have taken place, but as Mr. Anderson was unwell the debate was deferred.

Notice was given that a motion would be introduced next month amending the constitution so as to make eligible for membership sons of grocers or managers of grocery stores.

It was decided to procure a ballot box for balloting candidates for membership.

T. Holmes introduced a discussion re early closing by declaring his conviction that moral suasion would never bring about early closing in Toronto. This method of securing shorter hours in the grocery stores had been given a good trial, but the results were unsatisfactory. He believed that the association should start to work at once, and do what is possible to have a petition brought before the council to make early closing compulsory.

T. Nolan stated that he was of the same opinion as Mr. Holmes. Where moral suasion failed, compulsory closing had been proven a success, and he was sure this would be true in this case.

B. Panter was ready to try compulsory closing if it could be made to work. It would mean a good deal of work and expense on the part of the association, but they should be willing to accept the responsibility.

Ways and means were discussed at some length, culminating in a motion by Messrs Bond and Holmes that the sum of $100 be set apart as an early closing fund; that a petition be prepared for signatures of retail grocers and butchers, and that Secretary Hawes be engaged to have the petition presented to the grocers and butchers with a view of persuading them to sign it.

D. J. Kelly expressed the opinion that an eminent lawyer should be consulted as to what would be the proper steps to take to have a by-law satisfactorily carried out. The meeting concurred in this, and the executive committee were appointed to consult a suitable lawyer as soon as possible.

Total failure of the plum crop is reported from New Brunswick. The potato crop is also said to be suffering from rust.

GOODS CONSUMED IN VANCOUVER.

Mr. McConley, of Knowles & McConley, Vancouver, has been spending a few days in Toronto. He speaks well of trade prospects on the Coast. "It is extraordinary," he said, "the quantity of goods that is consumed in Vancouver, considering the population. I do not know where the goods go."

"I have noticed the same thing, too," remarked a Toronto manufacturer. "Vancouver consumes of our particular line of goods nearly as much as Toronto, Hamilton, and London together. They go in for high-class goods out there."

FIRM TEA MARKETS.

THE market for Indian and Ceylon teas is not turning out as a good many seemed to think it would a short time ago.

It was expected that when the dispute over the one-pound draft question was settled teas would be offered at the London auctions in such quantities as to induce lower prices.

The cause they were counting upon to produce these bearish results did not put in an appearance, for, as noted in our last issue, a committee of five brokers was appointed to regulate the quantity of tea to be put up at the regular auctions.

This had the desired effect. And now prices, instead of declining, are advancing.

During the past week, cables received from London have all been of a more or less bullish nature. One, for instance, stated that the market was stronger, with no Pekoe Souchongs under 6d., which would mean 14c. here, while another noted an advance of ½c. per lb. in Indian and Ceylon teas.

Toronto representatives of shipping-houses are in receipt of more inquiries for teas of Indian and Ceylon growth, particularly for those from 12 to 14c., which are scarce.

The tone of the Japan tea market is also stronger, if anything. Low grades which sold freely two or three weeks ago have, in at least some instances, been withdrawn, and as far as can be learned there is nothing on the market under 15c. Low-grade teas are very dear in Japan, while the quality is poor.

BASIS OF THE TEA AGREEMENT.

The new tea regulations governing the sale of Indian and Ceylon teas at the London, England, auctions go into force on October 1, and their main provisions are as follows: (1) One pound draft to be allowed as heretofore. (2) That, in respect of all teas ordered, weight to be taken as described, and recorded as at present. The alterations in the weighment of tares are as follows: (a) If the empty package weighs the even pound, it is to be entered as such. (b) If it weighs the even half pound or over, it is to be entered as the next pound above. (c) If it weighs below the half pound, it is to be entered as the pound below. (d) No overtakers. (e) Boxes to be weighed and tared as heretofore.

These provisions are the basis upon which the recent dispute regarding the pound draft was settled, and they are to remain in operation for 12 months.

THE OUTLOOK FOR NUTS.

Judging from present conditions, the price of nuts, generally speaking, may be expected to rule firmer during the ensuing season.

Tarragona almonds are expected to be not only an insignificant crop, but the quality of what there is will not be up to to the average, the nuts being dull in color. Prices are already high, carlots costing importers in the neighborhood of 12c. per lb.

Filberts are higher and will cost importers in car lots, laid down, 8½c. per lb. October shipment.

One of the kinds of nuts which show rather more favorable conditions is Marbot walnuts and both crop and quality is good. The crop of Grenoble walnuts, on the other hand, is short. Prices have not yet been named, but they will probably be as high as 11½c. per lb.

GRAIN IN MANITOBA AND THE TERRITORIES.

JUST when such large and excellent crops are being garnered in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories a reference to the output in those parts of the Dominion last year is, perhaps, not out of order, particularly as it is now more possible to do so intelligently than it was even a month ago.

Manitoba has, for some years, issued official returns in regard to its cereal crops, but it was not until within the last few weeks that the first official report on agriculture was issued by the Government of the Territories.

According to this report, there were produced in the Northwest Territories in 1898 3,542,478 bushels of wheat from 307,580 acres, or an average of 18.01 bushels per acre; oats, 3,040,307 bushels from 105,077 acres, or 28.93 bushels per acre; barley, 449,512 bushels from 17,092 acres, or 26.29 bushels per acre.

The crop report of the Government of Manitoba placed the yield of wheat in that Province in 1898 at 25,313,745 bushels. Thus the total yield for Manitoba and the Territories was 28,856,223 bushels.

The yield of other grains in Manitoba was: Oats, 17,408,252 bushels; barley, 4,277,927 bushels; rye, 63,860 bushels; peas, 31,880 bushels.

The total yield of grain in Manitoba last year was 47,095,664 bushels, and in the Territories 7,032,297. Taking the Province and the Territories together the total was 54,127,961 bushels.

This year the yield of wheat in Manitoba alone promises to be 50,000,000 bushels or more. The acreage under wheat in that Province, according to an official report issued in June last, is 1,629,995 against 1,488,232 last year, and the present crop is beyond all question larger and better than that of 1898. Taking Manitoba and the Territories, the yield this year will possibly be in the neighborhood of 55,000,000 bushels.

With trade conditions so favorable the world over, the outlook for Manitoba and the Territories for the ensuing 12 months is particularly bright.

Hard work is the easiest way to obtain success in life.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA SALMON PACK.

ALL doubt now as to the size of the pack of salmon has been set at rest by the issuance of the official report, which places the pack at 676,000 cases. This is more than 179,000 in excess of the pack of 1898, and is only exceeded by the pack of 1897, when the total was 1,105,477 cases.

Detailed statements of the pack are published by the British Columbia papers just to hand, and we herewith reproduce them.

TOTAL PACK FOR THREE YEARS.

	1897. Cases.	1898. Cases.	1899. Cases.
Fraser river	860,549	268,203	463,600
Skeena river	65,905	80,000	106,000
Rivers Inlet	40,207	105,484	70,000
Naas river	20,847	20,000	15,000
Namu and Alert B	12,959	8,189	11,000
Lowe Inlet	10,666	10,323	10,000
West Coast, V.I	4,434	4,330	4,000
Total	1,105,477	496,529	679,600

The total, it will be noticed, given for 1899 is slightly in excess of the official figures, but they are not sufficiently so to be of importance.

The pack on the Fraser river is given in detail as follows :

PACK IN THE UNITED STATES.

The pack on the rivers of the United States is given as follows :

Columbia	300,000
Puget Sound	500,000
Alaska	1,000,000

Notwithstanding the size of the pack, the season has been anything but a profitable one for the canneries on the Fraser river, owing to the high cost of the fish which averaged 20c. each, compared with 12c. paid by the canneries in the United States.

The Victoria Daily Times, commenting upon the packs, says : "All the rivers and inlets gave better results this year than last, with the exception of Rivers Inlet, and the Naas, where this year's packs were lower than than those of last year. The catch of this year on Rivers Inlet, which was 30,000 cases higher than that of last year's, was, however, an exceptional one. It was 60,000 more than that of the season which preceded it. On the Naas the pack is 5,000 cases short of that of last year and that of 1897. The pack of Alaska canneries is estimated at 1,000,000 cases, and that of Puget Sound at 500,000, and that of the Columbia river at 30,000. The product of the Sound and Columbia river canneries is being sold, for the most part, in the United States, a market for it having lately been opened up. As is known, the British Columbia pack goes for the most part to the United Kingdom, and six big sailing vessels have already been chartered to carry the fish around the Horn. Last year the fleet numbered but five. Canners have been obliged to pay higher rates for the tonnage secured by them this season, owing to the scarcity of ships, which has advanced rates considerably. Last year the rates ran from 32s. to 34s. 3d., while this year the price runs from 36s. 3d. to 40s. Two of the first vessels chartered for the salmon fleet for this season failed to make port, the Celtic Bard and Carradoc. They left the Orient about a year ago, and were never seen again."

Although the pack is larger than it was some weeks ago anticipated it would be, the market is steady. The fact that the cost of the Fraser river pack has been so high is probably the cause of that. There is every reason to believe that at the price at which the canneries took most of their orders they will positively lose money.

It is expected that the cohoe pack will be light on account of the high price—15c. per fish—which the fishermen are expected to demand. That, however, of course, remains to be seen. At any rate the canneries are now slow to quote. There has, as everyone knows, been some business done in cohoes for future delivery, and some of the transactions were at low figures, namely, $3.25 f.o.b. the Coast; but to-day $3.50 is the lowest figure heard, and some of the canneries are not quoting at all.

A despatch from Vancouver states that negotiations are progressing by which New York capitalists will acquire every salmon cannery in British Columbia. The New York Journal of Commerce interviewed Mr. Thomas B. McGovern, of Delafield, McGovern & Co., who had just returned from British Columbia. He admitted that such a deal had been talked of, but said that matters were, as yet, in a very incipient state. Some of the canners, he said, were in favor of consolidation, and had made propositions to New York parties, who were considering the matter. As to whether any options had yet been taken Mr. McGovern could not say. He said that the capital of the new company would probably be about $5,000,000. There were, he added, 67 canneries in British Columbia, of which 45 are on the Fraser river.

RICE STRONG ABROAD.

According to cable advices there is a very active demand and a large business in rice at Rangoon for shipment to India, where a famine is threatened owing to drouth.

The movement is expected to continue, and it looks as if prices would remain high for the balance of the season.

The English market has also advanced considerably from the lowest point, and, of course, all these circumstances make for a more confident tone in the markets for rice on this continent.

EVAPORATED EGG FOOD.

THE GROCER has a letter from a firm in France asking where they can purchase evaporated egg food. We understand that this is a new product, and that a hundred tons were ordered recently for use in England. Can any of our readers give us the address of the manufacturers?

NEW CITRON PEEL.

The first shipment of new season's Corsican citron peel is being taken into stock this week by the various wholesale houses. The quality is exceptionally fine. The ruling price to the retail trade is 16 to 17c.

IMPORT SALES OF DRIED FRUIT.

So far, business, both in new crop raisins and currants at Montreal for forward importation has been light—lighter, in fact, than at the corresponding date last season.

This, importers state, is due to the fact that the average prices ruling are fully 2s. higher on raisins and 1s. higher on currants than at the same time last year.

Choice brands of raisins are especially high, and, as the first direct steamer has not yet sailed from Denia, buyers are still holding off in the hopes of securing supplies at lower prices. Agents, however, state that it is doubtful if they will be able to do so by the first boat, whatever may be the case by the late steamers.

The first boat is expected to sail on September 18, and prices for shipment via this vessel are quoted as follows: Layers, £1 3s. 6d.; selected, £1 1s. 6d., and fine off-stalk, 19s.

Cables to hand from Patras on currants report the market very strong, and note a further advance in prices of 1s. to 1s. 6d., with Provincials quoted at 14s. 9d.; Filiatras, at 15s. 3d.; Patras, at 18s., and Vostizza, at 20s. 6d. Recent advices note that the gathering of the crop has progressed satisfactorily, and no doubt has been safely housed by this time. Some authorities estimate the outturn at only 140,000 tons, but it is the general impression that it will come fully up to 145,000 tons. It seems that the carrying out of the retention law as to the collection and sale of the retained currants has been turned over to the "currant bank," all growers being shareholders of the bank in proportion to their crops, the shareholders being able to obtain advances in small amounts at a moderate interest.

A REACTION IN CHEESE.

The exceptional advance in cheese, which sent the price at country boards from 10¾c.—the figure of two weeks ago—to 12c. last week, has been followed by a reaction almost as great as was the advance.

On several boards, a decline of ¼ to 1¼c. has taken place since last week, and 10½ to 11¼c. is the top price paid this week.

The cause of the decline was an abrupt shrinkage in the demand. Canadian dealers who were forced to purchase in very few cases bought more than one box, and exporters were very chary about placing orders at the advanced figures.

The effect of the hesitancy was to frighten buyers at country boards, and, in some cases, sellers too, with the result mentioned. No sales were made at the boards over 11¼c. this week, and many sales have been made from 10½ to 10¾c. Some sellers, however, have more confidence in the market, and have refused to make sales at the prices offered.

Meanwhile, the feeling in Great Britain is steady at rather higher figures than two weeks ago, and the assumption seems reasonable that 11c. can safely be paid for September cheese at country boards. It would not be surprising if the 12c. figure were again reached.

A SHORT HONEY CROP.

Last year the honey crop of Ontario was unusually heavy. This year it is extremely light.

There are three districts from which Ontario gets most of its honey, the Toronto, the Stratford, and Prince Edward County districts.

Last winter a great deal of the clover was winter-killed, with the result that what little clover grew had no bloom from which the bees might extract their honey.

This has been especially true in the Toronto district. Many large producers in this district have no honey to market, as all which was made by the bees will be needed to feed them during the winter.

In the Stratford district the shortage is not so great, as the damage to the clover does not seem to have been as great in that section as in the Toronto district.

One result of the shortage will likely be that little, if any, honey will be exported this year. Last year a large quantity was shipped to Great Britain, but the returns were not as satisfactory as the prices paid for home consumption.

Last year the opening price of strained honey was 6 to 7c. per lb. This year it is 9 to 10c. The opening price of No. 1 clover in comb was $1.50 per doz. last year, and $2 per doz. this year. This difference in price is so great that it is very unlikely that any export trade can be done this year.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH BELGIUM.

In a report which he has just submitted to the Department of Trade and Commerce, the agent of the Canadian Government at Antwerp, Belgium, expresses his belief that it is possible for Canada to largely increase her export trade with that country. He specifies a number of lines in which he thinks trade might be developed. They are: Winter apples, boots and shoes, winter butter, canned goods, cheese, furniture, hides, leathers, horses, rolled oats, starch, etc.

A glance over the trade returns of the last 25 years shows that the exports to Belgium have fluctuated a great deal. For instance, their value was $688,811 in 1880, but six years later they were only $6,565. In 1893, they were up to $669,040; but three years later they had fallen to $98,031. By 1898, however, the exports were up to $973,944, over $300,000 in excess of any previous year.

Canada's chief item of export to Belgium last year was grain, the total being $874,739, or about 89 per cent. of the exports of all kinds.

"Metals and minerals and manufactures of" came next with a value of $33,420. "Wood and manufactures of," valued at $29,871, was next in order.

Of the lines which the agent specified, Canada at present exports but little to Belgium. In fact, in boots and shoes, cheese, furniture, hides, horses, rolled oats, and starch, there is nothing done. Of the other lines he enumerates the following were exported in 1898: Apples, $933; butter, $401; canned fruits, $1,305; leather (sole, uppers, etc.), $5,070.

Although Canadian products have not now favored nation treatment in Belgium, there is no reason why an increased export trade should not be done with that country.

The Canadian agent has, no doubt, arrived at his conclusions after investigating the market. And, then, the trade we already have with Belgium should be an encouragement for us to go on.

Canada's imports from, like its exports to, Belgium were also last year the largest on record, being $1,450,197, making the aggregate trade — imports and exports— $2,424,141.

The line of goods which Canada imports chiefly from Belgium is sugar, of which we last year took $766,265 worth. Glass and manufactures of come next, with $248,912. Cement comes third in importance, with $151,588, while metals and manufactures of follow, with $47,760.

It might not be, perhaps, interesting to note that of the total imports $1,343,935 were dutiable goods.

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, September 14, 1899.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS for this particular time of the year is good, and the tendency of prices is, as a rule, rather upward than downward. The first shipment of new season's Valencia raisins, which was due to arrive at the end of last week, did not put in an appearance after all. They are not here yet, but may arrive before the week closes. The situation in regard to canned goods is much as before. The feeling in regard to tomatoes is uncertain, on account of the more favorable weather. But the firmness is just as pronounced as ever regarding other lines of canned vegetables. In canned salmon, business is at a standstill as far as transactions in futures are concerned. Although the pack is now known to be a fairly good one, the fact that it has cost more than usual to put up keeps the market steady. Business is improving in teas, and the demand keeps good for coffees. Inquiries are being heard for molasses on importation account, but little or no business has yet transpired. Sugars, although not as active as they were, are still in good demand. Spices continue firm with an upward tendency. Currants are steady. New fruit is due to arrive in about two weeks. Some business is being done in Sultana raisins for importation. English sal-soda is 3c. dearer, but local quotations have not yet been affected.

CANNED GOODS.

Another week has passed without anything particularly new developing in the canned goods market. Naturally, there is not much doing in either canned fruits or vegetables. The favorable weather has, naturally, increased the prospects for the tomato pack, and no one appears willing to do business in futures until something more definite is known as to the outcome of the season. Some of both the packers and wholesalers are still refraining from quoting, and both for the reason that they want first to be assured of being able to fill the orders they have already booked. Others, again, are offering, but under different conditions and prices. One, for instance, is asking 80c., another is quoting 75c. f.o.b. factory, and a third would take orders at 75c. delivered, subject to pack. We hear of no transactions, however. Old tomatoes are being quoted by wholesalers at 80 to 85c., but there is not much doing, which, of course, is to be expected at this time of the year.

The position of corn appears to be as strong as ever, although there is not much business doing. Practically nothing is being offered for future delivery. Wholesalers are experiencing a light demand for last season's corn at 95c. to $1. Peas are steady at 75c. up.

There is some demand for canned peaches of last year's pack at $1.75 for 2's and $2.75 for 3's.

Very little interest is being taken in the canned salmon market at the moment. Although the pack is a fair one, the high cost of packing gives people more confidence in the future of the market than they otherwise would have. The pack is officially stated to be 676,000 cases, against 496,529 cases last year. There is, however, naturally some uncertainty as to the future of the market, and until this wears away no busi- may be expected. Then, of course, it must also be remembered that there have been some heavy purchases made since the opening of the market. The chief interest is now, perhaps, in the cohoe pack. Advices from the Coast indicate that the pack is likely to be light on account of the probable high prices, namely, 15c., which the canners expect to be the minimum figure they will have to pay for fish. As far as can be learned none of the canners are now offering futures. The idea as to price, however, is $3.50 f.o.b. the Coast, but there have been transactions as low as $3.25. Wholesalers are quoting for future delivery, "Horseshoe" at $1.35 to $1.40, "Clover Leaf" at $1.45 to $1.50, "Lowe Inlet" and other similar fish at $1.25 to $1.50, and cohoes at $1.05.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

COFFEES.

Mail advices from London, England, state that there will be a good demand for mild coffees during the autumn, and that higher prices will rule. Receipts of coffee at Rio and Santos continue large and the market rules easy. Locally, business is improving, and the movement is fair, particularly in Rio coffees.

SUGARS.

The European raw sugar market is quiet, but it has, at the moment, a steady undertone. In New York, last week, centrifugals declined 1-16c. per lb., and refined sugars, on account of the competition among the refiners, declined slightly. On the local market, the demand has been checked a little on account of last week's advance in prices. There is still, however, a good movement in small quantities. There are not many car lots moving.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There are some nice United States syrups offering, but the high duty precludes transactions. Wholesalers report a little better movement in syrups, with the preference for corn syrups, which are quoted from 7 to 8c. cheaper than bright sugar syrups. Importers are beginning to inquire for molasses, but not many orders have so far been placed.

SPICES.

Pepper has further appreciated in price during the week in the outside markets, and ginger is 1s. 6d. dearer. Pimento, which has been easy, has taken a firmer tone. Quite a little business has been done the past week in pepper for importation.

NUTS.

The crop and quality of Tarragona almonds are turning out poor and prices are high. It will cost importers about 12c. to lay carlots down. Filberts are high and will cost wholesalers about 8½c. in carlots for October shipment. Marbot walnuts will be good in both crop and quality, but the yield of Grenoble walnuts will be short.

TEAS.

Indian and Ceylon teas are firmer on the London, England, market and cables this week announce an advance of ½c. per lb. No Pekoe Souchongs are obtainable there under 6d., or equal to 14c. per lb. here. Mail advices from Ceylon state the dry weather is likely to result in a stiffening of prices towards the end of the season. Local brokers report a good inquiry for Indian and Ceylon teas at from 12 to 14c. per lb., but there are not many of them obtainable at those figures. Stocks in first hands on spot are exhausted.

Shipments of new season's China Moyunes are arriving this week, but not much business is being done, on account of the high prices. The lowest grades of China green teas are scarce.

Advices from Japan state that low-grade teas are dear and of poor quality. Locally, there appears to be nothing offering by the brokers under 15c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS — The currant market rules firm. Locally, nothing particularly new has developed during the week, and there will not be until the new season's fruit arrives, a couple of weeks hence. Transactions for importation have been light during the week. Wholesalers' quotations to the retail trade to arrive are 6½c. for fine Filiatra, up to 7½c. for Vostizzas.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The new season's Valencia raisins did not arrive at the end of last week, after all, and at the time of writing are still marked by their absence. The cause is attributed to the severe storms on the Atlantic coast. Shipments may be expected however, towards the end of the week. A cable advice of Tuesday noted an advance of 6d. per cwt. in the primary market. Ruling quotations for first shipment are: Selects, 7⅛, 7¼, 7½c.; fine off-stalk, 6½c. per lb. A fair business for importation has been done during the week.

SULTANA RAISINS — Some business on importation account has been done during the past week, as prices are more reasonable than they were. They are now being laid down at 9 to 13c. per lb., according to grade.

CALIFORNIAN LOOSE MUSCATEL RAISINS —It is expected that the price of new season's Californian loose muscatel raisins will be made this week. The range is likely to be much about the same as last year.

PRUNES —European prunes are quoted at prices which prohibit business with Canada at present. The 110 size fruit will cost about 6½c. per lb. laid down in car lots. Very little is being done just now in Californian prunes for importation, as the bulk of the orders has already been placed.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS — Evaporated peaches and apricots are too high to allow of much business being done.

CITRON PEEL—New season's Corsican citron peel is on the market this week. The quality is excellent, and the ruling price is 16 to 17c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

The amount of business being done at the Scott street fruit market is gradually lessening. No berries are now coming in. Tomatoes are less plentiful, and all good stock brings about 20c. per basket. Some stock has to be sold at about 15c. because of its inferior quality. Peaches are arriving more freely, but canners' wants have been large. One factory alone took 7,000 baskets of peaches and several thousand baskets of pears. Prices of peaches have, therefore, been well maintained at an advance of 25c. for best qualities. The demand for pears nicely absorbes all supplies at steady prices. Plums are not offering as freely as they were a week ago with the result that prices are 10c. higher. Red peppers have been in excellent demand, but the reduction in supplies of tomatoes has lessened their sale. Prices are well maintained. The supply of grapes is not as large as the demand would absorb, so prices of good stock are firm. Inferior stock is not in such good demand. A moderate movement in watermelons is noted. The offerings of sweet potatoes are larger, with the result that prices are 50c. lower. New lemons are starting to arrive. Rhodis are offering at $8 per box of 300's. Bananas are 25c. cheaper than a week ago, and are selling freely. The range of prices is now from $1 to $1.50 per bunch. Winter apples are starting to come in. About $2 per bbl. is being paid for first-class stock in the orchard. This means about $2.65 to $2.75 for carload lots f.o.b. Toronto.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — The offerings are considerably larger than the consumption, and, as the export keeps light, a good deal of stock is being put into cold storage. Notwithstanding, prices are being held up, and the week shows an advance of 1c. The range now is 12½ to 15c. per dozen, according to condition.

BEANS—None of the new crop is yet moving. A little business is being done in old stock at $1 to $1.10 per bushel for hand-picked and 85 to 90c. for primes.

POTATOES—The supply continues to improve, and prices are down 5c. The demand keeps fair. We quote 55 to 57c. per bag on track, and 60 to 65c. out of store.

HONEY—The new crop is starting to come in. The crop is very light, whereas last year it was unusually heavy. The demand is good. Clover extracted is selling at 9 to 10c. per lb., according to size of package. Clover comb is quoted as follows: No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

Fruit Commission Merchants.

VEGETABLES—There is a good movement of all fresh vegetables. We quote: Cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz; red cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 75c. to $1 per doz.; celery, 30 to 50c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 20 to 40c. per hundred; muskmelons, 30 to 50c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; fall apples, $2 to $2.50 per bbl.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The market shows the effect of the lack of rain during the summer. Good qualities of dairy butter are scarce, but too much inferior stock is coming in. Creamery is in excellent demand, and prices are well maintained at 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The week has witnessed a reaction just as large and just as remarkable as the advance of the previous week at the country boards. Buyers who paid 12c. last week refused this week to bid above 11c. Holders do not seem to be anxious to sell at this figure, however, and at some boards no sales were reported. The local jobbers are quoting 11½c. per lb. in Toronto.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

No Oregon salmon, maskinonge or perch are on the market this week. Whitefish are more plentiful, and sell readily at 7½c., a decline of ½ to 1½c. Trout is in big demand, at unchanged prices. Oysters are coming in more freely, but prices are well maintained, as the demand is excellent. We quote as follows: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; whitefish, 7½c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.35; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The wheat market is unchanged. Prices are firm at 69c. outside for both red and white. A fair delivery of wheat, oats, and peas is reported on the local street market. Oats are 1 to 1½c. cheaper and barley is 2c. dearer. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 69 to 70½c.; goose, 71 to 71½c.; peas, 61½c.; oats, 29c.; barley, 40 to 44c.; rye, 53½c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat, 78½c. Toronto and West.

AGENCIES WANTED.

WANTED.—By a man of experience, a few agencies in the grocery line on commission, in and around Montreal. Can furnish good references; correspondence solicited. Address J., 82 St. Famille St., Montreal. (38)

FLOUR—Prices are unchanged, and the demand is quiet. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS — The demand is improving. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.55 in bags and $3.65 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES--A brisk demand continues, hence prices keep firm. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS — Sheep and lambskins are 5c. dearer. Other prices are unchanged, though very stiff. We quote as follows: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 50c.

WOOL—The feeling is slightly improved, with the result that unwashed is 1c. dearer. There is little yet doing. We quote fleece at 14 to 14½c., and unwashed at 9c.

SEEDS.

Alsike is moving more freely, with jobbers offering $4 to $6 per bushel at outside points for good to choice lots. Extra fancy lots should bring about 25c. more than this figure. Very little red clover is moving. Dealers offer $4 to $4.25 for choice lots. A fair quantity of timothy is being jobbed out of store at $1.50 to $2 per bushel, accoreing to quality.

SALT.

The demand continues excellent. Prices are unaltered. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

English sal-soda is 1c. dearer.

The Imperial Soap Co., Limited, which recently purchased the soap factory of The Grocers' Goods Manufacturing Co., Limited, has taken temporary offices on Bay street.

Indian and Ceylon teas are cabled ½c. per lb. dearer.

New season's China moyunes are arriving on the Toronto market this week.

New season's Corsican citron peel is in stock with the various wholesale houses.

Whitefish is 1 to 1½c. per lb. cheaper. No Oregon salmon, perch or maskinonge are offering this week.

The new crop of honey is starting to come in. Prices are much higher than last year, as the crop is very light.

Cheese has declined in Toronto ½c. per lb. this week, while country board prices are 1c. lower than a week ago.

J. F. Kavanagh, who succeeded Caldwell & Hodgins, retail grocers, Queen street west, Toronto, has sold out to G. H. Cooper.

New season's Valencia raisins did not reach the Toronto market last week after all. They are, however, expected towards the end of this week.

Rhodi lemons are offering at $8 per box of 300's. Bananas are 25c. cheaper, the range now being $1 to $1.50 per bunch. Sweet potatoes are now selling at $3 to $3.25, a decline of 25c. Winter apples are offering at $2.75 in carload lots.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, September 14, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE general grocery situation has not developed any radical change since last report. Sugar is steady at the advance, and there is no alteration in syrups or molasses. Advices on Valencia raisins and on currants show that primary markets are firm, but little has been done here for forward delivery. Canned goods generally are steady, while in spices the feature is an easier feeling on pimento. Tea contributes nothing special as the movement is moderate, and there is nothing noteworthy in other respects about the market.

SUGAR.

There has been no further change in sugar since the recent advance in refined. A moderate business is doing for the season at $4 65 for granulated and $3.75 to $4 40 for yellows at the factory. The foreign market for raw beet also showed some signs of strength, but later was quiet. Java has been weak with a further decline of 1½d. on the decline which set in last week.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrups is quiet as ever, and the market, on the whole, is dull and featureless at 1¼ to 2¼c. per lb. as to quality at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There is nothing new to report in the molasses market. The demand for round lots of Barbadoes is slow, and holders are asking 33 to 33½c. A fair demand is beginning to be felt from country traders at 35c. in car lots and 36c. in single puncheons.

DRIED FRUITS.

The Valencia raisin market is very firm. Well-known brands for shipment by first direct steamer are quoted at 23s. 6d. for layers, 21s. 6d. for selected and 19s. for fine off-stalk, other quotations being from 17 to 18s. for fine off-stalk. Demand on spot has been slow, and only a small business has been transacted so far. Cables from Patras report currants strong at a further advance of 1s. to 1s. 6d.

CANNED GOODS.

Business in canned goods has been very quiet, but the general tendency is firm, and especially for corn, none being obtainable under 85c. Spot goods are also firm at 90 to 92½c. for corn, and 77½c. for tomatoes.

COFFEES.

There has been no change in the coffee market. Demand is still slow and few sales are being made. Jamaica is offering in round lots at 8c. for the bean in bags.

SPICES.

The feature in spices is an easier feeling in pimento and prices here are rather easier at 8¼ to 8½c. Other lines are unchanged.

TEAS.

There is no new feature to note in the situation of the tea trade, demand still being slow, and importers say that buyers still continue indifferent. Some small lots of Congous have changed hands at 13c., and

OF

FIRST, THE QUALITY IS REGULAR.—Not only best, but "regular." Please note. This is as important as excellence. Good Tea of regular quality which does not vary is a delightful beverage and it can always be relied on.

SECOND, THE DESCRIPTIONS ARE TRUE.—There is as much variety in Tea as in Wine. Every lady who buys Tea desires to know the truth about her purchases. Full reliance can be placed on the description of the various qualities in their Price List.

THIRD, THE PRICES ARE POPULAR.—A fair price for a good article is a wise principle. Unfair prices, whether too high or too low, mean robbery. The prices of TOWER TEA are based on the cost of production and distribution. Therefore these prices are popular.

CANADIAN REPRESENTATIVE - -

Young Hysons at 12c. for mediums, and 14½ to 16c. for higher grade. Sales of Japan siftings are also noted at 6½ to 7c.

GREEN FRUITS.

Supplies of green fruits have been heavy, but the consumptive demand has been good so that no accumulation is to be noted. Early apples are a free receipt and sell at $2 to $3 per bbl. Lemons are rather firmer under reduced stocks at $2 50 to $3.50, and some new Messinas have sold at $3.75 to $4. Oranges are steady and unchanged with few offering. The quality of Canadian fruits that are arriving is improving with the advancing season. Canadian free stone peaches, which made their appearance last week for the first time this season, are commanding 60 to 90c. per basket. Pears are also improving in quality, and are coming in in larger quantities. Barrels are offering at $3 to $4, and baskets at 25 to 30c. There is a good demand for Canadian plums at 45 to 60c. per basket. The receipts of western muskmelons have not been so heavy during the past few days, and better prices have been realized at 50 to 75c. per crate, while Montreal melons are offering at $3 to $4 and $4 50 per large basket. The arrivals of Californian fruits have been heavy, but they have been in good demand, and the market is cleaned up every day at the following prices: Pears, $1.90 to $2.40; peaches, $1.30; plums, $1.25 to $1.75. Canadian grapes are beginning to arrive in limited quantities, and are offering at 2½ to 5c. per lb., as to variety and condition.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A feature of the market is the improved demand from foreign buyers for choice fresh stock for prompt shipment, and, as cables were firmer in tone and bids more satisfactory than they have been of late, several fair-sized lots were placed. Locally, the demand to-day was only fair. We quote: Choice candled stock, 16 to 16½c.; straight lots, 14 to 14½c.; No. 2, 11½ to 12½c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The market for maple product continues quiet, with no change in prices to note. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 55 to 60c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—The demand for honey continues good, and all arrivals of new are meeting with a ready sale. White clover in comb is quoted at 12c. and extracted at 8 to 9c.; and buckwheat at 5½ to 6½c. per lb.

BEANS—There is no change in beans. The demand is limited and prices steady at 95c. to $1 for choice hand-picked and 85 to 90c. for primes.

POTATOES — Receipts in potatoes are steadily increasing, for which the demand is fair and wagon loads sell at 35 to 40c. per bag.

ASHES—In ashes business is quiet, with no change to note. We quote: First sorts, $3.70 to $3 75; seconds, do., $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—Business in all grades of flour was quiet, owing to the fact that the demand was only for small lots to fill actual wants. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.75 to $3.80; strong bakers', $3.50.

GRAIN—Business in coarse grains over the cable to-day was quiet, and the market, on the whole, was without any new feature of note. Oats continue in demand at 29¼ to 29½c. afloat. For peas for prompt delivery, 65½c. is being bid, and for October, 64½c. afloat. Rye sold at 57½c. afloat, No. 2 barley at 45c., and feed barley at 41½ to 42c. New No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat, October delivery, is offering at 68c. afloat.

MEAL — Business in rolled oats was slow and prices unchanged at $3.65 per barrel, and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—The demand for feed continues good, of which the offerings are small and prices firmly held. We quote: Ontario bran, in bulk, $14.50 to $15; and shorts, $15.50 to $16 per ton; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16 to $17; mouillie, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

HAY—There was a fair demand for baled hay, and the market is firm. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, at $5 50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

There is no improvement in the demand to note for any line; consequently, the market is still quiet, but the undertone is steady. We quote: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5¼c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—There has been a regular slump in the market since last report and now buyers and sellers are far apart. Recent transactions have shown a decline of fully ½ to 1c. per lb. from the high prices recently paid, and, naturally, factorymen are not selling freely at the decline, and as they are pretty closely sold up have no reason to be in a hurry. At present, exporters are bidding 11 to 11½c. for finest Western, and 10¼ to 10¾c for Eastern cheese.

BUTTER—This market also is quiet and prices are lower than they were last week. Creamery in export lots is quoted at 21¼c., and in a jobbing way at 21½ to 22c. Western dairy, however, is scarce and wanted at 16 to 17c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Cheese has declined ½ to 1c. per lb. from the top price last week.

The price of creamery butter has fallen away over ½c. per lb.

Cables from Patras on currants show an advance of 1s. to 1s. 6d.

Pimento has ruled easier on outside markets lately, and has sold lower here.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., September 14, 1899.

THERE is increased volume to business. Markets are steady, and, in many cases, tending higher. Dried fruits continue to have particular attention. While the Exhibition has brought very many dealers to the city, it has somewhat interfered with regular business. The most important changes in the markets are in beans and spice; in the latter, pepper is a firm line. In cream of tartar, there is also a firmer feeling, though quite low prices were quoted during the week.

OIL—Burning oil holds the advance of last week, and is very firm. There seems to be no competition in spite of the two companies here, and the promises of one if the city would give them certain concessions. There is an active business. Lubricating continues quiet, and will be from this out, the spring being the season of demand. Paint oils are still high. Cod oil is arriving quite freely, but price continues low.

SALT—Market is well supplied, there being quite free arrivals from Liverpool, and a considerable quantity of English which arrived via Boston. There have also been direct importations to other parts of the Province, chiefly by sailing vessels, calling at those points for cargoes of lumber. On this account they quote very low freight rates, and, as the freight is a large item in cost and the one which causes about all the fluctuation in price, the chance to import in this way is much appreciated by the dealers. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to CANNED GOODS—The market is a very firm one, and there is general regret on the part of dealers who have sold largely ahead, and the outlook is for short stocks. Arrivals of new salmon continue. Receipts are not large, and dealers are in the market for further supplies, which they find it hard to get. Prices will rule high. The fact that American pineapple is both scarce and high is causing a demand for English and Singapore packed. Oysters are scarce and high, but with new goods, which should be to hand next month, lower figures are expected. Canned peaches will tend high this season. The offerings are as yet light. In fish a new line is noticed, namely, halibut. Samples of canned beets are also shown, but are not likely to prove sellers here. In meats, Canadian packers have made sales during the week, the market showing every sign of higher prices soon.

GREEN FRUITS—Business is very active. Ontario grapes arrive freely and add much life to business. Some Malagas are here, but the season is early for much interest to be taken. Apples are quite low. Quality of fruit from both our own Province and Nova Scotia improves. There is a fair crop, and prices are tending higher. Californian fruit is lighter in volume, though in pears there is quite active sale. Eastern Bartletts have, however, the chief attention. In peaches, those arriving from Ontario are very good. Some arriving from Eastern American points are also of good quality. Prices are well maintained. In plums, while a few Nova Scotian are being received, the market continues to be chiefly supplied from Ontario. Fair prices rule New oranges are to hand, the best being Jamaicas, but it is early for good fruit. Lemons have but a fair sale, and prices are high. Ontario tomatoes still share the market with local grown. Bananas have but a fair sale at easy figures. Cranberries are high. Some nice blueberries continue to arrive.

DRIED FRUITS—While Californian raisins are not yet quoted, the latest information received points to much higher prices than last season. As yet, there is no word of a rebate to Canadian buyers, but even if this is allowed, the increased cost will throw an increased demand on Valencias. In these latter, there is increased competition among brokers this week. Some very low figures hove been quoted on off stock. In currants, the fact that New York houses offer cleaned in pound packages, at very low figures, is tending to decrease direct importations. The higher outlook in prunes is causing some buyers to give increased attention to this line. Evaporated apples are expected to rule firm. In gallon apples, tendency is to higher figures. Eastern packers have largely sold their output. Onions are firm. It is expected Americans will soon give place to Canadians. The fact that the former came in two sized barrels, somewhat complicated the trade.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs are easier, owing to less demand. Buyers are very particular about quality, and need to be. In butter, rather firmer figures rule, but the quantity of poor butter offered very much hurts the market. In cheese, prices are higher. Stocks in the city are light. Prices here are still below Western points. The close of the week noted somewhat of a reaction in the market, and buying for export was less brisk. The output in the Province will not be as large as last season, owing to the fact that, in one dairy centre, the attention this season has been to butter, and with good results.

SUGAR—Values are rather firmer, though there is little change in price. Some American yellows arrived this week and some round lots of American granulated were sold. There is a report to the effect that offerings of American sugar here are to be withdrawn, though for what reason is not evident. It would look as if there was to be some change in the American rebate.

MOLASSES—Prices here seem lower than the market warrants. There is, however, a fair stock of Porto Rico held, much of it being of particularly fine quality. In New Orleans some nice values are shown, and such lots as have been imported are moving off freely.

FISH—Fresh fish are still very scarce. In dry cod, while there is no change in price, there is an easier tendency. Pollock, however, are firm at the rather high figures. In all lines there is an improved demand. Receipts of pickled fish continue light, and a steady market is expected. Smoked herring have but fair inquiry and rather lower figures are looked for. In finnan haddies, with the cooler weather, there is improved sale. In boneless fish, packers are very busy, and full figures are asked. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2 to $2.10 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.65 to $1.70 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PROVISIONS—There is an improved sale, and values are higher in all lines. Stocks held are not large, though there is a fair supply of lard. Improved demand is noticed for local mess pork for lumbermen, who used to buy the very heavy clear; the other is now preferred.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Full figures are asked for flour, particularly for Ontario grades. Stocks are not large. Buyers stipulate old wheat now, when buying. In oats and oatmeal, where prices have ruled high, lower figures are looked for with the new goods, which will soon be offered. Cornmeal keeps high, owing to lack of supply; with a new mill soon starting, lower figures will rule. In beans, there is light supply, and prices are higher. It is said the old crop is used up and the new is light, but of good quality. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.55 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.90 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4 10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3 40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Perhaps few know that it is possible to get pure cod without a bone. This is not surprising, from the quality of much of the boneless fish offered. John Sealey is finding it difficult to supply the demand.

F. H. Tippet is in Toronto.

Netherson & Powers, retail grocers, are in financial difficulties.

F. P. Reed, of Moncton, was in the city on business this week.

W. S. Clawson & Co. have been appointed local agents for D. S. Perrin & Co., manufacturers of fancy biscuits and confectionery.

Mr. T. S. Millard has been in the city during the week in the interest of The MacLean trade newspapers. Mr. Millard has made many friends and met with quite a generous response to his efforts.

DEATH OF GEORGE J. CLANCY.

On Saturday last one of the most progressive of Toronto's young business men, George J. Clancy, broker in grocery specialties, and a member of the firm of Clancy Bros., retail grocers, Queen street and Harbord street, died of kidney troubles at his home at 33 Bloor street east, Toronto.

About 10 years ago, Mr. Clancy, in partnership with his brothers, Hugh P. and Michael M., started in business as retail grocers at the corner of Harbord and Major streets. All three were industrious and capable, and the business of the firm soon reached large proportions. For several years they have done a jobbing business in general groceries besides a large retail trade.

A year ago last March a branch was opened on Queen street west. About this time the long hours and steady personal attention to detals in the retail business began to tell on the deceased. So, in September last, he started in business on Front street east as broker in grocery specialties, though still retaining his partnership in the retail business. This partnership was never dissolved, and both businesses will be continued by the deceased's brothers.

Mr. Clancy was a hard worker and of a kindly disposition, and will be greatly missed by those with whom he was associated. He leaves a widow and two children.

Mr. England, of C. P. England & Co., Dunham, P.Q., was in town last week and reports business during July and August much better than in previous years. With such high prices being paid for butter and cheese, together with the good crops, he says the prospects for fall business are all they can ask for.

The Dominion Government has made an arrangement with The Elder Dempster Steamship Co., whereby that company is to furnish a vessel to call at Charlottetown to carry two cargoes of Prince Edward Island produce to the Old Country. The Lake Huron, which is the vessel in question, will call at the Island capital on October 11 and November 15. The Lake Huron will be fitted with a cold storage plant, under the direction of the Department of Agriculture, the Government paying half the cost of the storage of Prince Edward Island goods. The produce to be exported will be chiefly cheese and potatoes.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

September 14, 1899.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations for staple products are under the diredt control of the Editors who call daily upon all the leading houses in the principal centres.

A GOOD CATCH.

Since their recent victory over the grocers' ball team, the Toronto city travelers have had their share of fun at the expense of their old rivals. The fact that the laugh has always been on the other side before seems to make them the more desirous of making full use of their present opportunity.

One traveler tells a yarn on one of the grocers' team which is a good one whether there be any truth in it or not.

He tells the story somewhat after the following style: "I was in to see ——— as usual on the Monday after the game. He was full of ball talk, and was still sure his team could beat ours. Of course, I wouldn't admit that, but I was after an order, so when I got a chance, I said to him, 'say, ———, you played a fine game, a really good game.'"

"Yes," answered he, "I made one pretty good catch." I saw he was pleased, so I turned the talk to the goods I wanted to sell him. I got a good order, too. As I was coming out of his door I looked at my order-book, and says quietly to myself: "I've made a good catch, too."

FRASER AND COLUMBIA RIVER SALMON.

According to advices received by The Trade Register, of Seattle, the salmon pack on the Fraser river to August 23, aggregated 400,000 cases of sockeyes, consisting of 250,000 cases of talls and 75,000 cases each of flats and half-pounds. The season closed August 26 under the law, and it is believed that the above-named quantity closely represents the total pack. The paper above quoted says: "Preparations for the fall pack are going forward on the Columbia river, and several canneries that have hitherto only packed spring fish will operate this fall. Several cold storage plants will also operate. Salmon reached the Tacoma seining grounds August 15. At South Bend, prices have been raised to 2c. per lb. and 30c. each to fishermen. Humpbacks are running freely on Puget Sound. It is reported that a San Francisco firm is taking orders for delivery in September and October of pinks at 80c., red at $1.05, $1.10, and $1,20, Columbia river salmon, ½-lb. flats at 75c., and red Alaska 1-lb. flats at $1.20. Receipts of Alaska salmon at San Francisco to August 19, were: June 23, Jeanie, from Prince of Wales' Sound, 4,584 cases; July 25, Maid of Orleans, from Uyak Bay, 7,300 cases; August 15, Santa Clara, from Karluk, 39,656 cases."

TO KEEP DOWN DUST.

We grocers like to find methods of saving labor, also to improve the salable appearance of goods, writes C. B. Vail, in Grocery World. We like to hand out bright and new-looking packages. It's hard work to keep a grocery clean, and I believe many of us get a great amount of the dirt just when we ary trying to get rid of it.

It's sweep and dust continually, so just a few hints on sweeping: First, get some kind of floor dressing for the floor.

How much dust accumulates when you sprinkle with water and sweep? How often, perchance, something gets a shower bath that ought not? I have used various floor oils and dressings, and would not keep store without using them. To use them is economy that saves labor in making the sweeping so easy. Besides, if sweeping ever is easy, this makes it so.

But, again, it is economy that saves the shelf goods that in time would become clouded with dust and dirt that in time makes goods look old, shelf-worn and unsalable. A good, clean grocery, I believe, is one of the best advertising mediums for the grocer. One can sweep the oilless floors, but the broom that does the sweeping is guilty of a great percentage of the dirt that ought to be taken up on the dirt pan, but, instead, clouds of dust are blown here and there and settle on everything. The thing to do, then, is to avoid the dirt, and I believe the most successful way is to use floor dressings.

The best way to apply it is to first scrub the floor and let it dry thoroughly, then apply the oil with a good mop. An easy way, however, that has proven very satisfactory to me is to put some of the dressing into the sprinkling pot and sprinkle the floor as you would with water. This is a speedy method, and the result will astonish you.

Kerosene oil sprinkled in this manner, and then swept, makes a fair dressing, and is quite inexpensive.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, September 11, 1899.

TRADE is active and very fairly satisfactory, but there is little change in the price of general groceries, though the produce market shows considerable advance in some lines. The weather, after a suspiciously wet day at the beginning of the week, seems to have settled down to steady, fine weather, warm and clear. This is just what is needed to complete the successful harvesting of the crop. In another column will be found the opinion of an expert as to the present position of the harvest and the outlook for the season.

SUGAR—There has been an advance of 10c. per cwt. during the week, but this has hardly made an appreciable difference in the regular jobbing price.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Apricots continue without change, and the market is very firm, 15½ to 16c. are the jobbers' quotations. New peaches have not arrived, but offerings are large. The market is, if anything, a little stronger than last week.

CANNED GOODS—The situation is without development during the week, barring the fact that factory quotations are somewhat higher. A few more factories have withdrawn quotations in some lines.

CEREALS—There have been 50 cars of new wheat inspected at Winnipeg, all of which have graded No. 1 hard. The price paid is 57½c. on a standard rate of freight. Country markets will not open until next week. All the oatmeal at present on this market is either American or Ontario ground. The drop quoted last week has been sustained, and trade is dull and slow at present.

CURED MEATS—The market is without change. Business is fair and prices firm. We quote: Hams, smoked, 14c.; Breakfast bellies, 11½c.; backs, 11c.; shoulders, 10c.; spiced rolls, 10½c.; picnic hams, 10c.; dry salt long clear bacon, 8½c.; extra short clear bacon, 7¾c.; dry salt backs, 9c.; dry salt shoulders, 8½c.

BUTTER—Creamery butter continues to advance, and factory quotations are now 19½ to 20c. The amount being made is very fair, as pasturage is good. Dairy butter is worth 10 to 11c. country points, or 13 to 14c. Winnipeg for choice fresh dairy. The demand for this product is entirely confined to local market, and the bulk is still going into cold storage. There is a large quantity of inferior make in the country.

CHEESE—Is practically out of sight, 11½c. being paid on Saturday for September make. This is thought to be high-water mark in regard to cheese as the market in Ontario is easier. There is no doubt that ultimately Ontario cheese will be brought in, as there is not enough in the country for winter consumption. The cheese factorymen are jubilant this season as it has been a particularly favorable one for the manufacture of cheese, and prices have been high throughout.

EGGS—The supply is fair and the market firm; 15c. country points or 16c. Winnipeg is the latest quotation.

GREEN FRUITS—Red plums of all kinds are scarce in this market. In fact, the plum crop is scarce, and there is difficulty in getting a supply. The wet weather in British Columbia has prevented shipments from that direction coming forward when expected. Some Washington fruit is here, and these plums are selling at $1.25. Assorted lines of Californian plums, $1.65; Crawford peaches, $1.25 per crate, and Bartlett pears $2.75 per box. Tokay grapes, $2.50; Muscatels, $2.25; Malagas, $2.25, and Rose de Peru, $2 per crate. No Ontario grapes are on this market at present. A shipment of Ontario peaches, pears and plums is expected daily. Ontario tomatoes, 45 to 50c. per basket. Oranges and lemons are without change. The orange market is pretty well cleared up.

SEEDED RAISINS.

IN 1896, William Forsyth, of Fresno, Cal., placed on the market, under the "Owl" brand, the first seeded raisins of good keeping quality, prepared by a process for which patent has been granted by the United States Patent Office.

Since that time many seeded raisins have been sold to the trade as prepared by the "Forsyth Process," some of which are not treated by any process whatever, and do not keep.

The Forsyth Raisin Process Company having acquired the above patent, has brought suit against parties infringing, and has licensed others who use the exact process necessary to insure preservation. To maintain standard of quality no one will be licensed until it is proven that the standard can be produced.

As a safeguard to the trade against raisins of uncertain keeping quality, this company calls attention to its trade mark and license stamp, which will be placed on boxes produced by licensees. Note signature of W. Forsyth, President, on each stamp and imprint of American Bank Note Co.

Differing colors will be used to distinguish the several grades. The trade mark and stamp is protected by law.

Raisins bearing above stamps will be available in every market of the United States when the season opens, and quality can be readily determined by both wholesale and retail trade by observation of the stamp. Wholesale dealers who wish to avail themselves of the stamps for their private brands can have their brands put up by licensees of the company at no greater cost than would ensue for ordinary or uncertain goods.

THE ADVANCE IN LAKE FREIGHT RATES.

INQUIRY was made at the C.P.R. freight department on Wednesday of last week in regard to the advance in the lake freight tariff. Mr. G. Shaw, assistant freight agent for the western division, stated that the company still quoted the same tariff for bulk grain which has been in force since the opening of navigation, which reads 7c. per bushel from Fort William to Peterboro', and 8c. from Peterboro' east to Montreal. This is on the C.P.R. steamers and the regular lines. Lines carrying ores have advanced rates, and vessels are in such demand, even at the higher rates, that the owners have taken advantage of the situation to raise the grain rate. The coal rate, which a year ago was 25c. per ton, is now 60c.

The statement that there had been a heavy advance in the lake transportation rates on grain was confirmed by a number of prominent dealers in the grain exchange on Wednesday. The explanation given for this advance was quite correct. As stated in Saturday's Free Press, the demand for structural iron has been enormous in the United States this summer, and orders can only be filled with from four to six months' grace, such being the notice of larger companies like the Carnegie and Cambria works. Those who are interested in iron have been keenly alert, and have chartered practically all the bottoms on Lake Superior for the entire season. The scarcity of tonnage, it is believed by local grain dealers now, will continue to increase, and the only possible result will be the increase of rates for grain carriage. There is only one outcome as far as Manitoba is concerned, and that is that the price paid for Manitoba grain must fall correspondingly. The same state of affairs had, during past years, lowered the price as much as 8 and 9c., as the value of grain is fixed at the seaboard, and any increase in transportation rates must be pared off the price at its starting point, when the district does not control the market. The prospect of a solution by all-rail shipment has not been yet entertained further than that railway men expect a stimulating effect on this class of business.

The grain dealers are at present paying 6c. per bushel, and, although the shipments are light up to date, it is by no means easy to secure vessels, even at the existing high rates. It is expected, moreover, that the rate will be advanced to 10c. per bushel in a few days.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

RECENT cables note an advance of 6d. in the cost and freight price of new crop Persian dates for shipment on the first tide steamer.

It is expected that the first shipment of new crop Turkey figs will reach Liverpool in time for transshipment to New York market on the Etruria, which is due to arrive in New York on September 23.

According to The California Fruit Grower, the first car of new crop prunes, season of 1899, was shipped from San Jose, Cal., on August 26 by Porter Bros. Co.

Packers of sockeye salmon who have any unsold stock have advanced prices to $1.20 for talls, $1.30 for flats, and 85c. for ½-lb. f.o.b., declining to consider bids of anything less.

CANNED TOMATOES IN THE U. S.

The depression in the market for canned tomatoes has been intensified during the past few days by the big drop in the price of green stock in the Baltimore market caused by the glut there. The crop which is about two weeks later is now arriving very freely, too fast for the packers to take care of it, notwithstanding their better canning facilities because of the absence of peaches this year. This, in connection with the continued indifference of buyers, has, it is understood, notwithstanding the further increase in the cost of tin cans, caused a feeling bordering upon demoralization among the packers.

According to some informants there is little chance for improvement in prices in the near future, unless an early frost should put an end to the crop, as the output of the Maryland fields, although undoubtedly much curtailed by the unfavorable weather conditions prevailing during the month of August, promises from present indications to be the largest on record, the acreage this year having been increased fully 50 per cent. in anticipation of a greatly enlarged demand from the canners, because of the failure of the peach crop.

There is, on the part of buyers, little disposition at present to take hold, particularly as a majority of them bought futures heavily in the spring and are now getting deliveries. Prices as at present quoted are, according to brokers' reports, beginning to look attractive and in some quarters there is an inclination to watch the market for bargains, but until there is a further decline or some influence is brought to bear to materially strengthen the market, there does not seem to be much prospect of important general buying. The only influences that would be likely to bring about the latter condition would be, it is held, the appearance in the market of one or more large speculative buyers, or a sharp early frost.—New York Journal of Commerce.

BETTER FEELING IN TEAS.

A generally better feeling continued to dominate the market. Both dealers and brokers generally reported that there was more activity to the line business, both local and out-of-town jobbers being better buyers, although thus far the purchases made have been almost exclusively of such supplies as were needed to meet current wants; prices were well maintained, particularly for the lower grades. The market for invoices was firm. There was considerable bidding for tea, and within the past few days sales have been made of 500 packages new crop Pingsuey, 500 packages do. country greens to arrive, 200 packages do. Congou to arrive; 200 packages do. do. spot, and 600 packages do. Formosa. Latest cable advices from Foochow report the receipts of tea thus far this season at 60,000 half-chests; sales only 1,000 half-chests, and they were to the South African markets. The estimated crop is 100,000 half-chests, against 133,000 half-chests last year.—New York Journal of Commerce.

CANNED SALMON IN THE UNITED STATES.

The San Francisco Trade Journal, of September 1, says of the salmon situation: "The run of fish on the Sacramento river is slow, yet the fall pack will be fully up to last year's, if not larger. We are not fully advised as to Oregon outside rivers, but it is stated that it will be from one-third to one-half larger than last year, with the quality of fish better. Preparations are being made for a large fall pack on the Columbia river. If expectations are realized, it will be fully 175,000 cases, for all the canners that will run expect to put up quite heavily for a fall season packing. The Puget Sound pack, including spring salmon, sockeyes and humpback, is placed at 550,000 cases. The Fraser river aggregates what we gave last week. It is shy of 400,000 cases. The upper British Columbia river is about 230,000 cases. Advices from Alaska state that the run of fish at Karluk, which started in light, had improved. The Alaska pack will be around 1,100,000 cases. market is quiet but firm, as holders are not willing to make concessions, believing that, large as the Coast's pack is, still all will go into consumption before another season. Alaska red salmon, in barrels, are stronger at $7.50 per barrel, in round lots."

T. W. Trotter, grocer, Webbwood, Ont., has discontinued his business in that place, and has removed to Copper Cliff, Ont., where he has bought out Hamilton Bros.' grocery business.

THE MANITOBA WHEAT CROP.

An Expert's View.

YOUR correspondent called upon Mr. F. W. Thompson, manager of the Ogilvie Milling Company, on Friday last, and was kindly accorded an interview, in order that readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER might enjoy an expert's opinion in regard to the present wheat crop of the Province and Territories. Probably no man is in a position to speak on this important subject with more authority than Mr. Thompson. He said:

"Up to the present time the crop has been saved in splendid condition. There has been neither frost nor rain to damage it, and the sample has so far been uniformly good. Fifty cars have been inspected in Winnipeg up to date, and every car has graded No. 1 hard. The wheat is practically all cut and farmers are busy stacking. It is safe to estimate that at the present time fully 50 per cent. of the crop is in stack, and another week of fine weather will see the crop of 1899 beyond the possibility of damage from wet weather, should it occur. The farmers of Manitoba, profiting by the bitter experience of last year, are stacking very carefully. The crop is the cleanest, probably, that has ever been produced in the Province. The absence of weeds is very marked. This is no doubt largely due to the late seeding. A certain number of weeds came up before there was an opportunity to seed, and these were cut down and killed during seeding operations. Once the seed was in, the development of the wheat plants was so rapid the weeds had no chance. It means an immense saving in the handling and cleaning of the crop. Threshing will be general through the Province next week, and I am fully of the opinion that the wheat crop of Manitoba and the Territories will reach the enormous figure of 50,000,000 bushels. The price is already established on the current market rate, and is about 57c. on a standard rate of freight. With the enormous yield per acre, this will be a very profitable crop to the farmers.

"The new Inspection Act is working well, and will be found a great improvement on the old manner of doing things. Traders in wheat will be able to obtain quicker and more accurate knowledge of their transactions. They will get the grade of the cars at once, instead of having to wait two, three and sometimes four weeks to get the grade from Fort William."

Asked as to the result of their large sale of imported seed oats last spring, Mr. Thompson said that the result has been most satisfactory. The farmers claim that the yield is, on the average, 25 bushels per acre more than they had been getting from the seed formerly used. "The sample is very fine," continued Mr. Thompson, "and we will start our oatmeal mill next week, and expect all season to have a full supply of first-class oats to keep it going."

The oat crop, as a whole, is probably the largest ever harvested.

Winnipeg, September 11, 1899.

THOSE LITTLE FINGERS.

If I knew the little fingers,
Clasped around my neck so tight,
Would soon lose their touch forever,
How my soul would lose its light.

Ah! those tiny little fingers,
How they sweeten life's rough way,
How they fill my heart with gladness,
How they chase dull care away.

How they make the hard rough feelings,
That have filled my heart so long,
Melt and disappear from in me
To the tune of a sweet song.

God bless those little fingers;
They have taught me to do right;
When the world has seemed against me,
They have filled me with a might

That has overcome all trouble,
Till it seemed but a mere speck;
God bless the little fingers
That are clasped around my neck.

—R. MUAT.

HOTELS FIT FOR TRAVELERS.

The Maritime Commercial Travelers' Association has sent out a circular to its members stating that a hotel committee has been appointed to compile a list of hotels in the Provinces thought worthy of patronage of members of the fraternity. The circular states that, while there is a marked improvement in the hotel service of the Provinces, there are yet some about which complaints are received. The hotelman careless about his table or cleanliness of rooms will not be mentioned on the list, and not only will his name be omitted, but the association will offer its patronage to any good man who will establish a modern and well-conducted house in the same place.

ADVERTISING IN CHURCH.

A contribution box in use in a church in Las Calles, New Mexico, has the spaces along the outside, inside and bottom rented for advertising purposes. One of the advertisements on the box reads:

He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord.

Ashquith gives 60 days' credit on carpets, stoves, woodenware and furniture.

Another is as follows:

cheerful giver.
Benedict gives

"Edwardsburg"

The names "Edwardsburg," "Benson" and "good starch" have been so closely identified in the minds of all successful grocers for over forty years, that now one name suggests the other name naturally.

For a day—for a year it may be—a new thing may command some attention, but enduring success must be founded on intrinsic worth. Quality always counts—in the end. But you must maintain quality steadfastly year after year—you must compete in quality as well as in price, else you are lost.

"Edwardsburg" or "Benson" on a Package of Starch

guarantees highest quality always—and, too, it means that unusual skill and painstaking care and absolute purity have made its contents "best" by all the tests that go to prove it so.

Time tests all things—"time-tested and true" is the Edwardsburg motto. Not for a day—or for a year—but for all time, and thus far with Edwardsburg—for half a century. You are safe when you buy "Edwardsburg"

FOR YOUNG CANADIANS.

Don't wait until the iron's hot,
But make it hot by muscle.
Don't wait for the wealth your father's got,
Take off your coat and hustle.

What a year 1900 is to be! What a time for the young Canadian hustler—the rapid stenographer, the expert bookkeeper and the nimble telegrapher! They will all be wanted just as surely as that bright year is coming around. A start now will put you with the successful ones, and we can start you aright. Will you send us your name and let us tell you how? It is no trouble to us, and will benefit you.

Nothing succeeds like success!

Why are we successful?

Why is it our business is increasing?

Because we know what people want and we are in a position to supply the demand.

THE PUBLIC are realizing that such standard brands of Table and Dairy Salt as "Coleman's" and "Rice's" can always be relied upon, and DEALERS are correspondingly becoming aware that to be up to the mark they must keep these brands of Salt for sale.

Absolutely pure, do not harden like inferior brands, and cost no more. Try them and be convinced.

SCOTCH HERRING FISHERY.

THE following from The Aberdeen Free Press of August 14 in regard to the Scotch herring fishing will be interesting: The herring fishing on the northeast coast cannot be characterized as other than a disastrous failure, and the season may now be set down as by far the worst experienced in many years. For some weeks past, the outlook has been very black, but, up till recently, a faint hope was held out that matters would take a turn for the better, and the season might be redeemed from absolute failure. The success of the fishing may be said to have been trembling in the balance last week, and the results obtained have sent the scale down very heavily on the wrong side. An approximate estimate of the catch from Wick to Eyemouth gives a total of about 50,000 crans for the week—hardly half of the catch at the corresponding week last year—and close upon 190,000 crans for the season to date. Last year, at this time, the catch was 640,288 crans, and in 1897 it was 318,115. The

is, therefore, between 400,000 and 500,000 crans. At Fraserburgh, the shortage is over 182,000 crans, at Peterhead, 116,000 crans, at Aberdeen, 45,000 crans, at Wicks, 32,000 crans, while from Buckie and the other minor stations the returns, with one or two exceptions at most, show similar reductions. The Morayshire stations are the exceptions. Herrings have been got in abundance in the Moray Firth, and the catches at Burghead have exceeded those of last year by about 2,000 crans. Lossiemouth is also making considerable headway, being only some hundreds of crans behind the figures of last year. As the result of the successful fishing here, which is purely local, the Fishery Board have appointed Mr. James Donaldson, fishery officer, Campbeltown, to assist Mr. Hendry, the district officer, during the remainder of the season. The reports from Burghead and Lossiemouth are regarded by many as indicative of the

but the facts which are disclosed by the weekly reports, which are appended, do not give reason to hope for great things during the remainder of the season. As a result of the scarcity, quite unprecedented prices have been paid for the green fish, sometimes reaching the high figure of 49s. 9d. per cran, which constitutes a record for the East Coast. This sum was paid at Fraserburgh. The fishing has been partial throughout the week, and the fortunate fishermen who happen to strike the shoal and bring in good catches have, therefore, been reaping a good harvest.

So far, there is no season in the annals of the industry, except the year 1859, to compare with the present for scarcity of fish. Since the Fishery Board was constituted in 1809, the seasons have fluctuated from moderate to bad and good, but except in 1833, 1859, and 1876 none of them till the present could be described as generally and curers alike. It is not easy to assign a reason for the failure in the present season. Calms and dull tides have no doubt militated against the operations of the fishermen, but, with the splendid seagoing and fully-equipped craft of to-day, nothing should prevent a large proportion of them from going to sea. From Peterhead, the report comes that the herrings were not seen in great abundance, and a similar statement is made by the Fraserburgh fishermen. The boats fishing from this port spread themselves during the week over every distance, from close inshore to 70 miles off, and no other explanation of the poor fishing remains except the fact that the herrings are not on the grounds in any quantity. The experiences of 1859 are more like that of the present year than any other. In that year, accord- to the report of the Commissioners for the British Fisheries, only some 397,829 bbls. were cured, and this number included the cure of the English fisheries as well as the Scotch.

MANY THEORIES

were then advanced for the failure, and many can be heard at the present day. Some took the alarming phase of "the decay of the herring fisheries," others were "inventive and fictitious" as to the supposed habits of the fish, but none "would stand the test of even the slightest investigation, much less the scrutiny of scientific inquiry." The theorist has added trawling to the stock-in-trade of the philosophers of 1859; but when the enormous catch of last year is remembered the charge against trawling for this year's shortcoming is easily disposed of. Whatever the cause, the seriousness of the calamity cannot be overestimated. Coopers are likely to suffer more the fishermen. In many of the curing yards operations are at a standstill, the curers being unable to provide work for their employes owing to the scarcity of fish. Curers will be exceptionally fortunate whose purses are able to bear the strain of this season, and the fish salesmen, who, since the bounty ceased, have financed the fishermen to a certain extent, cannot expect to get a tithe of their money in this season. The gutting girls, who mostly hail from Lewis and Barra, are already, in many cases, in sore straits. Withal, it is a grati fying circumstance that fishermen are no

J. Y. GRIFFIN & CO.'S VANCOUVER BRANCH.

J. Y. Griffin & Co. issued a circular to the trade on September 1, announcing the opening of their new warehouse at No. 5 Johnson street, Victoria, with Mr. R. T. Cooper managing the business. Mr. Cooper is well known to the trade in that particular line, so that the firm will have the benefit of his acquaintance and connection in Victoria. The warehouse will be well stocked with the well-known Griffin brand of cured meats and other produce, as well as poultry in season. Mr. J. D. Naismith, manager for J. Y. Griffin & Co. in British Columbia, whose headquarters are in Vancouver, will have a general supervision of the Victoria business. The change will relieve Mr. Prentice, the firm's well-known traveling representative, of visiting the capital on his regular trips.—The Province, Vancouver.

FILLING THE GAP.

The narrow chasm between success and failure is bridged by effort. Many an advertised article has been on the verge of success only to be dropped at the moment when, by a little more hustling, it could have been made profitable to its exploiter.—The Advertising Man.

THE MANNA OF THE BIBLE.

EVEN at the present day but little is generally known about the manna of the desert, which, according to the Old Testament played such an important part in the preservation of the Jews. Old writers tell us that manna fell like rain from Heaven. This statement is not borne out by recent investigations, the testimony of a writer in The New York Ledger to the contrary notwithstanding. This writer says of manna that it is "an edible species of lichen, of apparently supernatural origin, which suddenly falls on the ground like rain, often to the depth of three inches or more. It is in small lumps like a pea—greyish, irregular, inodorous and insipid—having at no time any appearance of a base of support." He then cites instances where large tracts of country "were suddenly covered by this lichen, which seemed indeed to fall from Heaven." He further states that "rains of edible lichen, well authenticated, occurred during the siege of Herat, and also as late as 1846 one fell at Wilna."

A more scientific investigator tells us in a recent number of La Nature, that manna is realy "a fungus, the thallophyte, either Canona esculenta or Lichen esculentus." According to this authority, the fungus is found on the sand after every rain, sometimes in great mounds or heaps; but he does not pretend to believe that it is of "supernatural origin," or that it falls like a rain."

The fungus, he says, is of a grey color, and about the size of a pea, and it breaks with a mealy fracture. The taste is rather agreeable and somewhat sweet. When eaten manna acts as a laxative, and analysis shows that it has the following composition:

	Per cent.
Water	16
Nitrogenous matter	14
Non-nitrogenous matter	29
Carbohydrates	32
Mineral matter	5

This analysis demonstrates the fact that the manna, while not a complete food in the strict sense of the term, is still rich in certain kinds of food material and is capable of sustaining life for a time. Even to-day, Arabs who are compelled to traverse the sandy wastes of Arabia, not only feed their camels upon manna, but also eat it themselves. The fungus is common to the sandy plains of Southwestern Asia and Northern Africa.—The International Confectioner.

DEATH OF EDWARD LEADLEY.

Mr. Edward Leadley, head of the firm of E. Leadley & Co., wool merchants, of Front street east, Toronto, died at an early hour on Sunday last. Mr. Leadley had been ailing for just a week, having been at church the previous Sunday. Death was the result of a complication of kidney trouble. The deceased, who was 72 years of age, was a native of Scarboro', Yorkshire, England. He came to the United States from England in 1850, and went into the grain and milling business in Dundee, New York State, remaining there until 1863. In that year he came to Toronto and engaged in the wool and hide business at the corner of Queen and Crawford streets, which is now a branch buying house of the firm. A few years later he occupied the present warehouse on Front street, where a continually increasing business was done. Amongst his friends Mr. Leadley was known as a very rich man. Although he never made any parade of his wealth he was undoubtedly a millionaire.

WRITING ADS.

Business writing is neither an art nor a science. It is just plain common sense coupled with natural or acquired ability to write with simplicity and force. The writer of business literature must be a practical man. He must have a knowledge of the the common sense laws that govern successful business. He must be able to grasp quickly the "talking points" of the article to be advertised. And, above all, he must have the knack of telling his story in few and simple words—yet with a forcefulness that carries conviction.—William S. Power.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

More than Satisfied.

J. F. Morrish, 276 Yonge street, one of the few retail grocers on any of the principal promenade streets of the city who gave early closing a fair trial throughout the past summer, expresses himself as more than satisfied with the results of his experiment. Since June 1 Mr. Morrish has closed his store at 7 o'clock every evening except Saturdays, and states that he will continue to close at that hour. Needless to say, his clerks are also more than satisfied with these short hours.

Evidences of Prosperity.

It is interesting the way in which the fact that good times are prevailing manifests itself in the retail grocery business. The first evidence is increased purchases. This is speedily followed by quicker payments. These two in themselves are of sufficient consequence to make a big difference in a grocer's net profit in a week or a month. The observant grocer soon notices further evidences, however. Customers, who, in order to economize, have shown a disposition to beat down prices, and have ever been on the alert for the cheapest place to buy, seem to be more anxious now to get goods of known quality, and to have them delivered clean and in good condition, rather than to buy the cheapest stuff at the cheapest place. The result is a general demand for the higher class of goods, and less tendency to carp about prices. There has been a greater demand for fruit, and it has been much easier to get fair returns for it. All luxuries are now in better demand than has been the case at any time in this decade. The necessaries sell in as large quantities and at better prices than ever, proving that the increase in the consumption of luxuries is entirely a result of greater capability for purchasing on the part of the public.

It is a peculiar fact, yet a true one, that a season of prosperity is often followed by an epidemic of fake schemes to make money quickly. The fact that their incomes have been increasing more or less rapidly has induced several bright grocers to expend sums ranging from $10 to $15 (and more in some cases) per week in attempts to increase their business by dividing 5 per cent. of their profits between their customers and philanthropic (?) companies. Most of the grocers have already found that the coupon companies were the recipients of the great proportion of the 5 per cent. they so generously gave away, and have, consequently, given up the use of stamps, coupons, etc., as a venture that didn't pay. It would be a good thing if the retail trade generally realized, that in seasons of prosperity like the present, there is no necessity for cutting to get trade. A good, clean shop, with stock kept bright and up-to-date, and well advertised, will result in a steady growth of business, which will stay; which will never be as transient as the trade that is won either by cutting or by giving coupons. Quality rather than price should be the first consideration in times like the present year.

H. Tolchard Removed.

H. Tolchard, who has been in business as retail grocer at Yonge and Alexander streets, Toronto, for fifteen years, has moved across the street into 518 Yonge street, which store has beeen entirely remodelled into a bright up-to-date grocery store. Mr. Tolchard has now one of the brightest and neatest stores on Yonge street. THE RAMBLER.

THE ADVANCE IN NEWFOUNDLAND FISH.

THE St. John's, Newfoundland, Herald, of a recent date says: "The not unreasonable dissatisfaction among the fishermen at the reduction in the price of cod the past few days has moved us to undertake an investigation into the causes thereof, and we have interviewed a number of representatives of both the merchant and fisher class, with the result that we are enabled herewith to present to our readers what may be considered a fairly impartial statement of the case and a review of the fishery situation as it is likely to develop within the next few months. This season's fishery opened badly, the weather was unfavorable, the water was cold from the abundance of ice in the offing, bait was scarce from the same cause, and the northern coast was blockaded by the floes, Labrador not being accessible until the middle of July, and its more northern parts being icebound

UNTIL WELL UP IN AUGUST.

This warranted the belief that the catch, on the whole, would be very small, and so the dealers started paying high prices on that account. But, as Augurst opened, the fishery improved to probably an unprecedented degree, and now everything points to an all around big fishery—one authority says the best in 10 years. This unexpected turn of the tide, coming at a time when most of the outport traders had arranged for the taking over of large stocks from those doing business with them, left these small merchants face to face with the certainty that they would have unloaded on to them stocks which they could not dispose of at anything like the figure they gave for them. The same conditions prevailed, to a greater or less extent, among the merchants in the city, who realized that, while they could sell the first few thousand quintals at the ruling figure, the general improvement in the catch would operate in the foreign markets. They felt, therefore, that, to safeguard themselves from heavy losses, it would be necessary to reduce the current price here. The situation in Oporto confirmed them in this. The bubonic plague broke out there, the place was quarantined, and, if no worse result followed, we were deprived of the benefits of a month's consumption of fish, or possibly, two months'. Oporto is our best customer for large and medium merchantable cod, as it is a large distributing point for the interior towns of Portugal; and it is these grades of fish we have most of this year and want worst to dispose of. Therefore, the blockade of Oporto meant serious damage to us. Consequently, with the lessons of 1895 before them, our fish dealers had to hedge. In that year the fishery opened poorly, prices went high, then the fishery improved a lot, prices were maintained, and, as the foreign market became glutted,

TO BRING DOWN THE PRICE

CARGOES HAD TO BE SOLD

at a loss until fish that cost $3 brought only $1.60 a quintal. One firm alone on Water street, lost $300,000 on that year's shipments, and another dropped $240,000. Similar conditions stared our exporters in the face this year, and reluctantly they had to make a cut in the price. An evidence of the gravity of the situation is found in the action of one firm in shipping cargoes to the Mediterranean by steamer in order to get stocks to market so as to forestall, if possible, a fall in the markets, and in the instruction to an another local house from its London correspondent to confine itself to its collections, i.e. the fish to be turned in by its own dealers, and not to make purchases from other planters. The matter was pithily put to us by one exporter, who said that if we could sell all our catch at $3.50 there would be money in it all round—

FOR FISHERMEN AND MERCHANTS;

but if we tried to market it at $4 or $4.50

CANADIAN KIPPERED HERRINGS

the losses would be considerable. The fact of our having a good fishery is speedily known in the ports abroad with which we trade, and the tendency is to beat down our prices, the better the fishery the more this is resorted to. But, on the other hand, we have this in our favor the present season, that almost all the stock of last year's fish held in store here had been sent forward to market, not more than 40,000 quintals remaining, all of which will follow within a few weeks. This will leave the fall and winter demand to be supplied out of the present season's catch, and if the markets remain any way fairly stiff we should be able to hold on to the present prices."

CANADIAN CUSTOMS DECISIONS.

The Minister of Customs has approved of decisions of the Board of Customs, classing boxes or packages for chocolate paste in section 13 (B) of the Tariff Act, at a duty of 20 per cent. Cocoa cola (an article used with soda water as flavoring for summer drinks, and containing not more than 25 per cent. of proof spirits) is placed in section 5, with a duty of 60 per cent, Barilla soap is decided to belong to section 25, and bears a duty of 35 per cent. Refrigerating plants, coils and condensers are assigned to section 321, with a duty of 35 per cent.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Robert Grey, formerly of Montreal, has settled in Toronto, having just removed his family to that city. His office is in the Manchester building, No. 29 Melinda street, where he will carry on a brokerage and commission business.

The ss. Lancashire brought back to Ceylon on Saturday night Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Webster, who have been in England since February, 1896. They were met on board by their daughter, Mrs. A. S. Valentine Webster, managing-director of the cooperative tea gardens of Berwick House, Cinnamon Gardens, is a son of Col. and Mrs. Webster, who are at present residing with Mr. and Mrs. Berwick. We learn that it is the intention shortly of Col. and Mrs. Webster to settle down in Nuwara Eliya for good. Col. Webster, it will be remembered, was not very long ago at the head of the army pay department in Colombo.—Overland Times, Colombo, Ceylon, Aug. 7.

A DINNER TO STANISLAS DEMERS.

On Wednesday of last week, Stanislas Demers, grocer, 146 St. Antoine street, Montreal, ex-president of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, on the occasion of his return home from his trip to Europe, was entertained to a complimentary dinner. It was extended by many of the business and professional men of the city who were interested in Mr. Demers' efforts towards securing the new French transatlantic line. In reply to the toast heartily given him, Mr. Demers stated that he had every reason to believe, after his trip to Europe, that closer relations would soon be obtained between France and Canada.

W. A. RUTHERFORD HOME.

W. A. Rutherford, of Rutherford & Marshall, commission merchants, Toronto, returned last week from a month's tour in the Maritime Provinces. He visited the principal points of historic and industrial interest in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. While in St. John and Halifax he interspersed his pleasure by a little business, sending a carload or so of butter to Great Britain from those points. Mr. Rutherfrod, who was accompanied by his wife, returned home via Boston and New York. He reports that every section of the Provinces he visited gave evidence of being in a healthy condition.

PRIDE AND FAILURES.

"I think pride has more to do with failures in business than any other one cause," said a merchant to the Woonsocket Call. "A man in business falls in love with his establishment, and after he goes along for a few years he dislikes very much to reduce it if it becomes apparent there is a leak somewhere that should be stopped. For instance, he may find that some part of the business is running at a loss, and the proper thing to do is to cut it off. But he is afraid that people may talk about it and size it up as a sign that he is going back. That would hurt his pride, and he refuses to do what his business sagacity tells him should be done. I can name several men who sacrificed their business because their pride would not let them sacrifice one part of it at the proper time."

TRADING STAMPS STAMPED OUT.

The stamp-trading system in Glasgow is "stamped" out. The offices in which the firm carried on its business in St. Enoch Square, Glasgow, is closed, and the window which contained the flashy display of articles meant to lure the Glasgow purchasing public bears the familiar legend "To let." The "system" did not take in the West of Scotland, a fact largely due to the vigorous crusade started against it on the initiation of The Scottish Trader. Its origin, history, growth, and development was given in our columns, along with its methods of working, and the so-called system was never allowed a footing in our midst.—Scottish Trader.

CANNED SWEET POTATO.

According to reports from local packers, the canned sweet potato, the latest extension in the canning industry, and for some time the object of much doubt, is actually acquiring a prominent place among other staple products of the packing-house. The demand is said to be constantly and rapidly increasing, particularly at home, while the call from foreign markets—those of Germany principally—is gradually growing. At home the Western markets have the lead.

The experiment was made, it appears, by a Boston packer about five years ago. As indicated above, considerable adverse comment was expressed by various packers, but the experiment was continued, with the result that, after many little introductory difficulties, a market was found for the crude product. Little by little it finally began to receive favor, till other packers, having become a little in favor with the outlook, took the cue, and finally all became engaged in the enterprise.—Baltimore American.

The grocer doesn't live who has not groaned over a two-mile delivery of a 2c. yeast cake. He thinks no one has trouble like that but himself. But the department store people have their sorrows as well as he.

"People have pretty small packages sent home, and quite often a spool of thread goes all through our system and gets delivered in due course.

"The other day, a woman bought 2c. worth of pins and asked that they be sent with her rubbers to her home !

"She had us, all right, for we have always delivered waterproof cloaks and rubbers with other goods, when the day has been rainy but has cleared off.

"So the 2c. bunch of pins carried the lady's rubbers home."

No grocer has more trouble than this, we're sure.—Grocers' Advocate.

LITTLE MONEY NEDEED.

THE first question that a man usually asks himself when he makes up his mind to start in business is, "What is the least amount of capital that I shall have to have, and how much credit can I obtain to take the place of the cash I cannot secure and which I may need, perhaps?"

If a man has a good, strong, practical knowledge in a certain line of business and very little capital, it is comparatively easy for him to obtain the requisite amount of credit. Credit does not believe in theorizers—it is practical experience that counts, but there are times when even a very little money will enable a man to do an immensely profitable business, and, perhaps, we may be pardoned for apparently contradicting ourselves in asserting that experience is not an absolutely necessary adjunct to a grocer who is selling a specific article like cigars, for instance. The reason why is plain—a grocer sells canned goods, but not one grocer in 10 knows anything about the various processes that are used in the canning; nor does one grocer in 50 understand how a staple article like flour is manufactured.

We call cigars a "side line," but it is no more so than brooms or brushes or clothespins, which rightly belong to the hardware dealer.

Experience is not necessary in the handling of cigars—it does not involve a technical knowledge of cigarmaking, and, better yet, very little money is needed to do a profitable cigar business. As small an amount as $50 will buy a good assortment of 5c. and 10c. brands, and profits on reliable brands will average 60 per cent. Indeed, there is everything to encourage a grocer to handle cigars.

In past issues of THE GROCER, we have pointed out many times the success that grocers have met with, without exception, who were willing to be convinced. A grocer will oftentimes be persuaded into buying some new article which is in an experimental state, and soon finds to his sorrow that dead stock accumulates, and when that happens the wheels of business begin to clog.

We do not hesitate for a moment to advise caution in the buying of cigars, because there are so many brands that are not "up to sample." Only a little money is needed to stock up with a nice side line of cigars, but even that little money is worth saving.

If a grocer will correspond with some reliable manufacturer, who is well known to the trade or who is not afraid to advertise his brands over his own name, he will be pretty sure to invest his money wisely. If there is any one article that will help a grocer to pay a large portion of his running expenses, that article is cigars. And a grocer should not forget that little money is needed to put this side line in.

GRATIFYING RAILWAY EARNINGS.

The earnings of the Canadian railways during the eight months ending August 31, were most gratifying.

For example, the gross earnings of the Grand Trunk were $16,497,957, against $15,223,300 the same period last year. Those of the Canadian Pacific were $17,502,989 and $15,858,247 respectively.

In the one instance the increase was over 8 per cent., and the other over 10 per cent. But the Canadian Pacific is this year operating 384 miles more of railway than it did in 1898.

"SIFTING" EMPLOYES.

THE better the times the narrower are the meshes through which employers of labor sift their employes. In other words, the more difficult it is to make the supply of labor equal the demand the more necessary is it for manufacturers, merchants and other employers of labor to take what employes they can get and keep what they have.

We have to-day an example of this: In more than one branch of business the demand for workmen so exceeds the supply that the incompetent are taken as well as the competent. The employer may sometimes wax profane over much of the material he is compelled to take in; but, after all, poor as it is, he is glad to get it.

But there have been times of sifting in the past, and, no doubt, there will be again in the future. And, as these times approach, the wider will become the meshes of the "sifter."

When trade depression materializes the incompetent employes drop out of employment like rain drops through a sieve. In their going no commotion is created, and after they are gone they are not missed, unless it be that the ratio of botch to good work is found to be not as great as it was.

The more competent a man is the more difficult is it to get rid of him in the sifting which dull trade necessitates.

Times are good now; but the fact that they cannot always be so should induce every young man to so perfect himself in his vocation, no matter what that vocation may be, that when the time for more careful sifting comes he shall be too large and too important to his employer to be allowed to pass out and seek employment elsewhere.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNES.

Last season, the shippers of Santa Clara prunes were up in arms against the injury done to the reputation of these prunes, which stand at the head of all that are grown in California, in consequence of inferior fruit being shipped to San Jose, and there branded "Santa Clara," and reshipped. It is understood that the same methods are being practised this season, as "Santa Claras" are always worth much more than those from other parts.

The trade will do well to be on their guard, and will, no doubt, find it to their advantage to stick to reliable shippers who have a reputation in Canada.

FAKES AT THE TORONTO INDUSTRIAL.

IT is no easy thing to manage an exhibition of the extent and importance of the Toronto Industrial. There are so many diversified interests to consider and such a multiciplicity of tastes to which to cater, that it could not be otherwise.

That the management has, on the whole, been fairly successful in the past is evidenced from the position unto which the Toronto Industrial has attained, not only in Canada, but in the United States. And even on the other side of the Atlantic it is by no means unknown.

But an exhibition can no more exist on what it has done in the past than can a man on the breath he drew yesterday. The management of the Industrial may not be trying to do this, but it is certainly drifting into a policy which, if pursued in, cannot fail to bring the Exhibition into ill-repute and destroy its usefulness.

If the purpose of an exhibition is anything it is to give in concrete an idea of the agricultural and manufacturing development of the country.

That the Toronto Industrial is departing from this original purpose has for some time been evident; during the recent Exhibition it was doubly evident.

We do not charge that the management is doing so designedly, for we do not for a moment believe that it is. It is a matter of drifting. As a result of this drifting the Industrial is being allowed to develop in two particulars, and at the expense of the legitimate exhibition.

The one is the encroachment of the circus and the side-show element; the other is the encroachment of the people who occupy space not to exhibit goods, but to sell them.

Just as most people like a little sugar with their tea, so most people like a little entertainment with an exhibit of products of the farm and factory. And it is not only natural, but it is proper, for it lends variety, and variety is the spice of exhibitions as well as of life.

But there is a line where a halt should be called. And that is when the entertainments are either indecent or of the fake character.

During the last Industrial Fair at Toronto there were side-shows which were unquestionably both. We have special reference to the so-called Midway Plaisance, where the suggestive immorality of some of the shows disgusted respectable people, and the fakes which characterized some of the others disgusted everybody—except, apparently, the management.

Against the legitimate performances before the grand stand we have not a word of complaint to offer.

Now, as to space taken up, particularly in the main building, by people who were there not to exhibit goods, but to sell them.

Leaving out most of the exhibits of the products of the field, the average exhibitor undoubtedly hoped to reap financial benefit from the display he made. But it was never intended that the main building should be the habitation for "Cheap Johns" and restauranteurs. And yet they were there in strong force, and in such force as to draw uncomplimentary comments from visitors.

As a result, the legitimate exhibit in the main building was unusually poor, taken as a whole. There were a few exhibits which were of a high order. But we are speaking of the main building as a whole. And because of the space given up to "Cheap Johns" of sundry descriptions there were legitimate manufacturers who could not get as much space as they desired.

When it comes to a competition for space between manufacturing firms and "Cheap John" concerns, and the latter came off victor, it is quite obvious where the Industrial Exhibition is drifting.

Cheap jewelery vendors, patent potato peelers, peanut pedlars, candy sellers, etc., no doubt help to increase the revenues of the Industrial Association. But keep them out of the main building. And the fake and indecent show, let it be anathema.

NEW SEASON'S VALENCIA RAISINS.

Valencia raisins of this season's production are at last upon the Toronto market. They reached the warehouses on Saturday last, a week or ten days later than they were due to arrive.

The quality is good, although some of the fruit is rather damp, which is not, however, unusual with the first shipment.

The shipment came by New York, and is merely a forward one. The first direct shipment will not be here for a couple of weeks yet.

For the fruit which has just been taken into store, wholesalers are experiencing a good demand at 7½c. per lb. for selected and 6½ to 7c. for fine off-stalk.

Fruit to arrive by the first direct steamer is quoted at 6c. for off-stalk, 6¾c. for selected and 7½c. per lb. for layers. Still slightly lower prices are being quoted for arrival by the second direct steamer, the Jacona.

A BUSINESS MAN'S TROUBLES.

THAT the old proverb, "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall," is especially applicable to business is well illustrated by the misfortunes of a prominent business man of New York, W. W. Farmer. Mr. Farmer owned valuable patents and original steel punches and matrices worth $250,000, and refused an offer of $750,000 for his plant. About a year ago he lost heavily by a fire, and borrowed $75,000 from The United States Mortgage and Trust Co. The debt matured September 1, 1898, and through bad management and dabbling in outside speculations, he was unable to meet his note at maturity, and was compelled to borrow $50,000 to take it up, the security being 1,997 shares of The Farmer Co. These passed lately into the hands of a competitor. A meeting of stockholders was held and Mr. Farmer ousted from the management.

Though an exceptional case, this is a sober reminder that "eternal vigilance" is necessary on the part of the best established business houses.

ADVANCE IN CORN SYRUP.

An advance has taken place this week in the price of corn syrup. Barrels and kegs are ⅛c. per lb. dearer and two and three-gallon pails show an advance of 10c.

The price to the retail trade is now as follows: Barrels, 2⅝c. per lb.; half-barrels, 2¾c.; kegs, 2⅞c.; two-gallon pails, $1 each; three-gallon pails, $1.30 each.

A company has been organized to fight the starch trust. It has got some stiff work cut out for itself.

HIGH PRICES FOR DAIRY PRODUCE AND THEIR CONSEQUENCES.

THE violent fluctuation lately witnessed in cheese makes a consideration of extremely high prices and their immediate effect upon demand pertinent at the present moment. It is hardly necessary to recall that when the cost price in the country suddenly bounded from 10½ to 12c. demand immediately ceased with the late sharp reaction in prices as a result. This is easily understood when the customs of the retail market in Great Britain are considered. The British housewife expects to get her cheese at 6d. and her butter at 1s. per lb., and when the cutting price in Great Britain gets beyond this basis, all authorities agree that it has the effect of curtailing consumption to the extent of at least 25 per cent.

Now, ever since July both staples have been beyond the customary retail basis in England, because, to retail cheese at 6d., and butter at 1s. per lb., the former has to be purchased at an average cost of 9c., and the latter at 18c. Of course, the prevalence of good times in England has to be considered, but how this will influence consumers, is as yet unanswered, for the reason, that the latter have not as yet been asked to purchase any of the higher priced goods.

The establishment of the above ruling basis on butter and cheese was an outcome of the introduction of the big provision companies in England. These concerns, with thir 100 to 400 shops and their large capital, simply froze out the small concerns to a great extent. That is, they bought during the recent years of low prices, put the cheese in cold storage, and kept prices on a 5d. basis for cheese and a 11d. basis for butter, to the detriment of the smaller traders. Their lower prices also did not lead to any increase in consumption; they simply took trade away from the smaller dealers. The presumption is, therefore, that the few pence per pound that the British housewife saved on her purchases of dairy products were diverted to the buying of little trinkets or sundries under the head of luxuries.

This season, however, it is noteworthy that these big companies have not got the reserve supplies of low-priced goods, so that they cannot possibly go on selling cheese at 5d. to 6d. if they have any consideration for its cost at points of production. For this reason it would seem that the smaller dealers have a chance this season which they did not possess during the past two or three years, but, as pointed out above, all depends upon the attitude which the British consumer will adopt, when he is asked an advance upon his customary 6d. 1s. basis, as he will be in the course of a week or so at the most, as by that time some of the higher priced cheese will have reached most of the retail counters in Great Britain.

Naturally, a good deal is said at times in regard to the speculative exporter and his influence. On the whole, however, the shipper at Montreal or elsewhere has simply come to be the simple medium between the producer in Canada and the buyer in Great Britain. On the average, his margin for handling cheese is ⅛c. per lb., so that he is only interested in having a steady market so that he can have a fair chance to make this profit. Violent fluctuations in the market naturally interfere with this, and, as a rule, they are traceable quite as much to speculative dealers in Great Britain as to the much-abused Montreal exporter.

To sum up, the present scarcity of dairy stock in the world's markets has been due to drouth, and, besides, the increased attention that Canadian producers have paid to butter during the past two years has diverted sufficient milk from cheese to seriously influence the market for the latter. However, it is safe to assume that if the farmers continue to make butter, they need never go back to 7c. cheese. An increase of 10 per cent. in the production of cheese, it is figured, will cause prices to go off at least 1 to 2c. per lb., whereas, on the other hand, an increase of 50 per cent. in the production of butter will not vary prices over 1c. per lb.; the consumption of the latter being immeasurably greater than the former.

The conclusion for our farmers is obvious; to continue increasing their output of butter, even if temporarily the return may not be as profitable as in the case of cheese.

CANNED TOMATO SITUATION.

The easier feeling which a good many expected would develop, has not yet materialized. On the contrary, the tendency at the moment appears rather to be the other way.

As far as can be learned, the factories have not, as a rule, yet put up enough to fill the orders they have on their books. Consequently, there does not appear to be many of them who are willing to take further orders, especially if they have to guarantee delivery.

Then, at best, several factories are not able to get a sufficient daily supply of tomatoes to keep two staffs going, as they usually count upon doing about this time of the year. Consequently, they are only working a day staff.

This, together with the fact that the time when frosts are due is near at hand, to say nothing of the comparatively light purchases on Northwest account, is lending its influence to the steadying of prices.

HALF-POUND LOBSTER FLATS.

A feature of the canned lobster trade is the relatively increased attention which is being given to half-pound flat tins, to retail at 20c. The cause of this is undoubtedly the high price to which canned lobster has attained.

HAMILTON RETAIL GROCERS.

The Retail Grocers' Association, of Hamilton, held a special meeting on Monday night to wind up the affairs of the last picnic, President Bolligan being in the chair. It was shown than over 3,000 people had attended the picnic, and, after all expenses were paid, there was a small surplus.

Chairman Kirkpatrick, of the picnic committee, made several suggestions in connection with the annual outing. He thought that, instead of two trains with 14 coaches each to carry the crowds, there should be three trains with 12 coaches each. He suggested improvements at Ballentine's Landing, and more shelters in Queen Victoria Park.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation of a beautiful ebony and gold clock to Chairman Kirkpatrick, by President Bolligan, on behalf of the association. Mr. Kirkpatrick was greatly surprised and pleased.

The inscription on the clock is as follows: "Presented to Joseph Kirkpatrick by the Hamilton Retail Grocers' Association, as a memento of his being chairman of a successful picnic held on July 19, 1899."

ONTARIO MARKETS

TORONTO, September 21, 1899.

GROCERIES.

NO complaints regarding trade are heard from the wholesale grocers this week. The general report is that business is good. Canned goods are quiet, but that is only to be expected at this time of the year. As far as prices are concerned, they are as firm as ever. Coffees are meeting with a fair demand, and the sale of tea to the retail trade continues to improve. Trade is active in sugars at unchanged prices. Syrups and molasses are meeting with an improved demand, and corn syrups are quoted fractionally higher. New season's Valencia raisins arrived on Saturday last and they are in good demand. Currants are in fair demand and cabled dearer. Wholesalers are beginning to book orders for Californian prunes for future delivery at prices much about the same as last year. There is a marked scarcity in tapioca, and prices are temporarily higher.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation is anything but weaker than it was a week ago. The most interest at the moment is, of course, taken in the canned tomato situation. As far as can be gathered tomatoes are not coming into the factories as fast as it was anticipated they would. And this has rather tended to strengthen the position and increase the confidence in prices. There is little or no business being done, however, either for present or future delivery. For present delivery 80 to 85c. per dozen is the ruling quotation, and for future the nominal figure is 85c.

The position of both is still decidedly strong. Very little is being offered by either packers or wholesalers. And some of both the latter and former are still refusing to quote at all. We know of one packer who is offering at 85c., and of still another who refused to accept that figure. The lowest price heard by any wholesalers who are quoting is 90c.

Peas are quiet and firm at 75c. per doz. up.

Canned fruits are quiet. The market is pretty bare of old pack gallon apples, and first-class brands of new will cost the retailer about $2.40. Canned peaches are firm, and one packer who was in Toronto this week stated that he was compelled to pay $1 per basket for several hundred baskets of Crawfords.

New pack salmon is expected early next week. Business at the moment is quiet. The pack of cohoes begins on Monday next, the 25th inst. Wholesalers are still quoting for future delivery, "Horseshoe" at $1.35 to $1.40, "Clover Leaf" at $1.45 to $1.50, "Lowe Inlet" and other similar fish at $1.25 to $1.30, and cohoes at $1.05.

The consumption of lobsters is being materially affected by the high prices. The trade has gone largely to ½-lb. and flats to retail at 20c., but even in these there is not much doing.

COFFEES.

The price of Rio coffee keeps low, but the market appears to be steady at present figures. Local wholesalers report a good demand for green Rio coffee at 7½c. per lb. up. The demand is also beginning to improve for green mild coffees, quite a few little lots having been sold during the past week.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

The demand for sugar on the local market is brisk and prices are unchanged, the fixed price of Montreal granulated still being $4.75 Toronto, and of Acadia, $4.70. Yellows are from $3.85, upwards.

The outside markets have ruled easier during the past week. European cables on Saturday reported a dull and dissappointing market with beet sugar 2¼d per cwt. lower for this month's delivery and ¾d. for next month. On Monday the cables reported a further decline of ¾d. in beet sugar and of 3d. in Java sugar. In New York the market is dull, with soft sugars being shaded 1-16 to ⅛c. per lb.

The stocks of raw sugar in Europe and America at the close of last week were 984,754 tons against 1,058,094 tons the previous week and 1,233,463 tons last year.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The most interesting feature in connection with the syrup market is an advance of ⅛c. per lb. in the price of corn syrup in kegs and pails, and of 10c. in barrels and half barrels. The demand is chiefly for corn syrups, and business is improving in sugar syrups. There is a little more doing in molasses than there was, but the volume of business is still light. Advices from New Orleans report the market quiet at steady prices.

NUTS.

It is expected that the cost of Marbot walnuts will permit of their being sold to consumers at about 15c. per lb. This is on account of the crop being a large one. As noted in a previous issue, the crop of Grenobles will be a short one. Cables from Messina report a strong and advancing market for Sicily filberts, and quote 49s. 6d. for early shipment.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Rice is in good demand at unchanged prices. There is a general scarcity of tapioca throughout the country, and some wholesalers will not take less than 5¼c. per lb. The ruling quotation is, however, 4¾ to 5c. per lb. Shipments are near at hand, and in a week or two easier prices are likely to rule.

TEAS.

Wholesalers are experiencing a continued increase in the demand for teas, and a good business is now being done. The brokers report that they are experiencing a good demand for teas of Indian and Ceylon growth under 15c. per lb. Business is limited on account of the smallness of supplies on spot. Very little is being done from London, as importers prefer to wait until teas are on spot. A cable received on Monday from Colombo, Ceylon, stated that teas under 9d. had advanced 1c. per lb. A cable from Calcutta to a New York house stated that the market there was strong, and that there was nothing in Pekoe souchongs under 6d. c.i.f. New York.

Representatives of shipping houses report that there is very little inquiry for Japan teas, and from Japan it is learned that the market is quiet at last week's ½c. advance. During the past week there have been some transactions in low-priced teas of last season's growth. They sold at 10½ to 11c. per lb.

Prospects for very low-priced China black teas are not good, and mail advices state that the inquiries which have been received have not led to much business, as the teas could not be secured at the price buyers were willing to pay.

The China green tea market is still firm. The demand in the primary market for teas on United States account is brisk. Local brokers report quite a few orders for high-priced China blacks for import.

Lloyd, Matheson & Carritt's Ceylon tea circular under date of London, September 7, in referring to the auction of that week, says: "This week the quantity offered was rather moderate, being 31,365 packages. The demand was decidedly brisk, common kinds of leaf being dearer, while medium kinds showed distinctly better market. Broken Pekoes also attracted more attention, and sold in favor of sellers, but they still show remarkable value, and there is plenty of room for further advances. Fine teas continue scarce and sell well."

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The tendency of the currant market is still upward. A cable from Patras early in the week announced an advance of 6d. per cwt., and cables since then state that the market is strong and that a further advance is expected. Local wholesalers report a fair demand for currants.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The first shipment of new season's fruit arrived on Saturday. The first direct shipment will not be here till the middle of October. For the fruit that is on the market the demand is good, and the price at which it is selling is 7½c. per lb. for selected and 6½ to 7c. for fine off-stalk. The ruling quotations to the retail trade for fruit arriving by direct steamer are as follows: Layers, 7½c. per lb.; selected, 6¾c. per lb.; fine off-stalk, 6c. Very little off-stalk will be on the market this season.

SULTANA RAISINS—Are attracting some attention for importation as the prices, considering the short crop, are more reasonable. No further shipments of new season's fruit have arrived.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNES—Orders are being booked by the wholesale trade for future delivery. This is somewhat earlier than usual. Not a great many orders have so far been taken.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED PEACHES—Some wholesale houses in Toronto are quoting Californian evaporated peaches to arrive. The prices named are 9c. in bags, and 9½c. in 25-lb. boxes for choice quality fruit.

GREEN FRUITS.

The receipts of peaches and tomatoes have averaged considerably better this week than last, but, as the demand has been excellent, prices have been well maintained. Tomatoes have been firm at 20 to 30c., an advance of 5 to 10c., on the Scott street market, and as high as 50c. has been paid for choice baskets about the St. Lawrence market. Crawford peaches, in large open baskets, have brought as high as $1.35, but the ordinary run of stock sells at from 40 to 75c. Bartlett pears are about done, and, as there is a good demand still, prices are steady at 50 to 65c. Common varieties of pears sell readily at 30 to 40c. Plums are in fair demand, with just about enough receipts to supply it, at 50 to 75c. The receipts of grapes in 10-lb. baskets are not as large as the demand would absorb, and what comes in is quickly bought up. The large baskets are offered more liberally. There is a fair offering of watermelons, but, as the consumption has been decreased by the coolness of the weather, the demand is light, and prices are easy at 20c., a decline of 5 to 10c. Native watermelons are in moderate demand at 13 to 15c. The receipts of sweet potatoes are steadily increasing, with the result that prices have fallen $1 per bbl. The ruling price is now $2.50 to $3. The winter apple market is restless. Buyers are paying as high as $2 for the bare fruit at orchards, but this is considered by many to be more than conditions warrant. The demand for bananas is good, but as supplies are large, the price of all grades has declined 25c. The stocks of Rhodi lemons which were offered last week were cleared out by the end of the week, but more are expected this week. Some Messinas are still left on the market. They are selling at from $3.50 to $4 per box.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — The offerings continue large. Prices are well maintained here at from 12½ to 15c., according to quality. At outside points 13c. is the lowest figure that will be taken for strictly fresh. As this price leaves a small margin for export, there is considerable movement on that account at present. Yet a large number are still being put into storage. It is considered by many that the great quantities of eggs which have been cold stored during the summer are likely to keep down prices locally throughout the winter unless the export demand improves.

BEANS — There is a moderate movement of old beans at $1 to $1.10 per bushel for hand-picked, and 85 to 90c. for primes, None of the new crop is yet offering.

HONEY — The demand is brisk, and as further evidences of a short crop are shown prices are firm at last week's figure. Clover extracted is selling at 9 to 10c. per lb., according to size of package. Clover comb is quoted as follows: No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

VEGETABLES—Celery and cauliflower are 25c. dearer, but the quality of the stock offering, especially of celery, easily makes up for the advance. Squash and vegetable marrow are offering. We quote: Cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz; red cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; cauliflowers, $1 to $1.25 per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 20 to 40c. per hundred; muskmelons, 30 to 50c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; fall apples, $2 to $2.50 per bbl.; squash, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The receipts of both dairy and creamery are moderate. First qualities are scarce. The demand, both locally and for export, is excellent. Prices, therefore, are well maintained. Choice dairy tubs are quoted at 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—A steadier feeling is noted this week. The reaction of last week ended when the price at country boards fell to 10¾c. This week, buyers have gained more confidence, and 11 3-16c. was paid for 1,450 boxes at one board. The demand locally is good, but the movement for export has been quiet, as holders are waiting for the market to recover.

PROVISIONS.

There is a brisk trade in all provisions being done. All pork products, except hams, are decidedly firm. The price of hams has been reduced ½c. An unusually good sale of plate and mess beef is reported. Plate is steady at $11.50 and mess is firm at $10.50.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

The scarcity of supplies and the good demand for whitefish and trout have advanced the price of these fish ½ to 1½c. Western salmon are offering at 12½ to 15c. per lb. Ordinary brands of oysters have declined 10c. We quote as follows: Trout, 7½ to 8c.; whitefish, 9c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; western salmon, 12½ to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.35; other brands, $1.15 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The market is easier, the outside price for red and white wheat being 67 to 68c., a decline of 1 to 2c. The local street market is quiet, with white and red wheat 1c. lower, and goose wheat, peas and barley 1 to 2c. dearer. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 69 to 69½c.; goose, 72 to 73c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 29c.; barley, 44 to 46c.; rye, 53½c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat, is ½c. cheaper, now being quoted at 78c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—A good movement is reported. The Manitoba grades are easier, while the short crop of fall wheat in Ontario has resulted in a stiffening of the price of Ontario grades. So far, however, no change in price has been made. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—A decline of 5c. in the price of standard oatmeal and rolled oats is noted, otherwise there is no change. A good demand is noted. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.50 in bags and $3.60 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Prices are firm as the demand keeps brisk. We quote as follows: Cowhides, No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS—A further advance of 10c. in the price of sheep and lambskins is noted. No other change is noted. A good business is reported. We quote as follows: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 60c.

WOOL—The improved feeling has resulted in another advance of 1c. in unwashed. Fleece is unchanged. The movement is light. We quote fleece at 14 to 14½c., and unwashed at 9 to 10c.

SEEDS.

Occasional samples of timothy are being received by local jobbers, but, as a rule, the quality is inferior. As the demand for fall is practically over and all purchases would have to be carried over until spring, dealers are offering only $1 to $1.25 for good to choice machine-threshed seed, though more is paid for fancy samples. As the crop of alsike is light, buyers are keenly competing for stocks at $4 to $6 per bushel at outside points, with 25 to 50c. more for extra fine parcels.

SALT.

The demand keeps brisk, with prices unaltered. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Currants are cabled 6d. dearer.

Corn syrups are fractionally dearer.

Tapioca is scarce and higher on the local market.

Teas under 9d. are cabled ½d. dearer from London.

Large sales of mess beef have been made at $10.50 per cwt. this week.

Sweet potatoes have declined $1 per bbl., and bananas 25c. per bunch.

The first lot of new season's Valencia raisins reached this market on Saturday.

Whitefish and trout are ½ to 1½c. dearer. Western salmon is offering at 12½ to 15c. per lb. Ordinary brands of oysters are 10c. cheaper.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, September 21, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been nothing very striking to report in the grocery market lately business being of the average volume for the season. Refined sugar has ruled steady with a fair inquiry, but the raw article has been rather easier outside. Molasses is moving well, in a jobbing way, and prices are steady. Valencia raisins have been placed to a considerable extent for forward importation. Prices show an increase in cost of about 2s. the 100-lb. Currants, on the other hand, have been very quiet. Canned goods furnish nothing new. Rice is firmer abroad, and easiness in pimento has led to further decline in this spice. Tea has been extremely quiet, a scarcity of cheap Congous being noteworthy. Green fruits, generally, have been active, and cheese and butter both show improvement on the heavy feeling noted last week.

SUGARS.

There has been no material change in the local sugar situation during the past week. The steady feeling is maintained at the late advance, as stocks in refiners' hands are light, while a good demand has been encountered from local, country and western buyers. This has led to a fair movement at $4 65 for granulated and $3 75 to $4.40 per 100 lb. for yellows. Abroad, the raw market is rather heavy for both cane and beet. The former at London, according to cables, has been dull and nominal, with Java quoted at 12s.—a decline of 3d.—and fair refining 11s. 6d. Beet also has been dull and rather easier, with September 9s. 10½d. and October 9s. 6¾d., this being a loss of ¾d. on the closing prices of last week. In New York raw has ruled quiet and steady, fair refining, 3⅞c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4⅜c., and molasses sugar, 3⅝c.

SYRUPS.

There is no demand for these, the current consumption running almost entirely on molasses, and prices are nominal at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., at the factory.

MOLASSES.

Jobbers as a rule are well stocked up with molasses, so that business from first to second hands is rather quiet, no round lots moving. The demand for distributive account, however, is good; in fact, is expanding, and prices are firmly held at 35c. in car lots, and 36c. for single puncheons of Barbadoes. Porto Rico stock is offering at 28 to 30c., but there is little doing in it.

DRIED FRUITS.

A fair number of orders for Valencia raisins for forward delivery were booked for shipment by the first direct steamer, which sailed from Denia on Monday. Cables received lately are firm in tone, and noted no change in prices, layers being quoted at 23s. 6d; selected, 21s. 6d., and fine off-stalk, 19s. for well known brands. These figures are equal to 6½c. for layers, 6c. for selected and 5⅜c. for fine off stalk here,

FIRST, THE QUALITY IS REGULAR.—Not only best, but "regular." Please note. This is as important as excellence. Good Tea of regular quality which does not vary is a delightful beverage and it can always be relied on.

SECOND, THE DESCRIPTIONS ARE TRUE.—There is as much variety in Tea as in Wine. Every lady who buys Tea desires to know the truth about her purchases. Full reliance can be placed on the description of the various qualities in their Price List.

THIRD, THE PRICES ARE POPULAR.—A fair price for a good article is a wise principle. Unfair prices, whether too high or too low, mean robbery. The prices of TOWER TEA are based on the cost of production and distribution. Therefore these prices are popular.

and are fully 2s. higher than the prices ruling at this time last year.

There is nothing new to note in currants, except that recent cables were, if anything, easier, as they asked for offers, but no quotable alteration in prices was cited. The demand here for forward importation has been slow up to the present, and few orders have been booked. Quotations are: Provincials, 14s. 9d.; Filiatras, 15s. 3d.; Patras, 18s., and Vostizzas, 20s. 6d. A private letter says: The Greek market holds firm at recent quotations, and mail advices note that growers hold firm, resisting any decline, although present prices are considered very satisfactory for them; but they are, no doubt, in a position to hold, having secured remunerative prices for the bulk of their last crop, and are able to secure advances from the Retention Bank at low rates. The method of collecting the retention has also been changed somewhat, thereby actually increasing the retention to 17.64 per cent., the retention of 15 per cent. being taken on the actual export of fruit.

CANNED GOODS.

This market continues quiet, but the tone is firm. There is no demand of any consequence at present, as buyers are well supplied. Common spot is held at 90 to 92½c. and tomatoes 77½c. per doz.

RICE.

With the situation in India considered, English advices are strong and the fact is reflected by a firmer tone here, though prices are not quotably changed. Standard B is quoted at $3.30 to $3.40.

COFFEES.

The coffee market has ruled very quiet during the week, and there has been no material change in values. From 25 to 35-bag lots of Maracaibo are offered at 8 to 14c., as to quality, and Rio at 8 to 9½c.

SPICES.

The weakness already noted in pimento continues, and prices show a further decline of ¼ to ½c., with sales of 100-bag lots at 8c. Advices from London on pepper are strong, and values here on this and other spices, with the exception of pimento, are steady.

TEAS.

Another quiet week has passed in the tea trade. A few sales of Japans of good medium grades are noted at 15 to 16c., but only of small parcels. Indians and Ceylons have moved to a small extent at 14½ to 15c., while there is a fair inquiry for cheap Congous around 11 to 12c., but supplies are light. Greens moved to a limited extent at 15c. for better grades, with 13 to 14c. for lower qualities.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a good business in green fruits, demand, in nearly all cases, being equal to the supply. Early apples meet a good sale at $2 to $2.25 per bbl., but fancy descriptions sell as high as $2.75. New lemons arrived this week and are selling at $4.25 to $4.75. Bananas are dull at 65c. to $1.25 per bunch. Light supplies of peaches have been the feature in domestic fruit, with sales at 60 to 75c. per basket. Pears are offering at 25 to 40c. per basket, and $3 to $4.50 per bbl. Receipts of plums are light, while demand is good and prices are firm at 40 to 60c. per basket. Grapes are rather a glut and Niagaras are offered at 20c., Concords for the same money, and Delawares, 30 to 35c. Receipts of Californian fruits have been lighter, and pears are selling at $2 to $2.40 per box; peaches, $1.25 to $1.40, and plums, $1.60 to $1.75.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was some demand from foreign buyers for fresh stock and several sales were put through at prices equal to 15½c. here. Shipments of limed eggs have now commenced on early contracts. A few sales of round lots of limed have been made on local account for future delivery at 16c. per doz. The demand for fresh was fair to-day, and a moderate amount of business was done. We quote: Choice candled stock, 16½ to 17c.; straight lots, 14½ to 15c.; No. 2, 12 to 13c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The demand for maple product is still slow. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 55 to 60c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY — There is a steady demand for honey and prices rule firm. White clover in comb is quoted at 12c. and extracted at 8 to 9c.; and buckwheat at 5½ to 6½c. per lb.

BEANS — A small trade continues to pass in beans at steady prices. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95 to $1, and primes, 85 to 90c. per bushel.

ASHES — there is no change in ashes to note. We quote: First sorts $3.70 to $3.75; seconds, do., $3.50, and first pearls, $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lb.

HOPS—Samples of new Ontario and Quebec hops have been offered at 22c. at country points.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—There was no new feature to note in the situation of the flour market. There was a better demand to day from both local and country buyers, and a fair amount of business was done. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.30 to $3.40; in bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.75 to $3.80; strong bakers', $3.50.

GRAIN—The demand over the cable for all lines of grain to-day was good, and, as bids were more satisfactory, an active business was done. The demand for coarse grains on spot was good, and a fair trade was reported. The tone of the market is firm, and prices fully maintained at the recent advance. Peas were quoted at 70c. afloat; oats at 30c.; No. 2 barley, at 46½ to 47c.; feed barley at 44c., and rye at 59c.

OATMEAL—The demand for meal is slow but the tone of the market is steadier. Rolled oats are selling at $3.50 per barrel and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—A fairly active business was done in feed and prices rule steady. We quote: Ontario bran in bulk, $14.50 to $14.75; and shorts, $17 to $18 per ton; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16 to $17; mouillie, $18 to $25 per ton, including bags.

BALED HAY—In baled hay there is no change to note. The demand is good and trade fairly active. Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50; and clover, at $5.50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

There was no improvement in the demand, consequently trade in all lines was quiet again, but the tone is steady and prices show no change. We quote: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—There has been a recovery in cheese from last week's decline, and holders to-day manifested a disposition to hold out for fuller prices. Current demand is principally for Eastern cheese, especially colored, and there seems to be little of it to be had, so much so that inquiry has been forced upon Western colored, but, as a rule, the latter is held too high to permit of business in it. Bids of 11c. and better for it were turned down to day. For Eastern colored 10¾ to 10⅞c. is easily obtainable, while white may be quoted at 10¾c. At the wharf this morning 6,000 boxes of Quebec cheese were sold. Some of the offerings changed hands at 10½c., but the ruling price was 10⅝c., and it is reported that a fraction more was obtained in some cases. The cable is unchanged.

BUTTER — This staple has also recorded improvement on last week's dullness, and while business is not active, either for export or on local account, holders are firm in their views. For export, creamery is quoted at 21½c., and in a jobbing way 21½ to 22c. Western dairy for export is less active than it was at 16 to 16½c., and is jobbing out locally at 16½ to 17c. Townships dairy is steady at 18c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

New lemons are offered on the market this week.

Foreign advices on rice continue very strong in tone.

New hops are now offering, but prices are still largely nominal.

Cheap Congou teas are difficult to procure on this market.

A further decline in pimento has been established since last week.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., September 21, 1899.

THE week has been a busy one. The Exhibition was a much greater success than was expected, very large numbers attending. The number of visitors who came into the city was large, and included a great many customers both for wholesale and retail stores. Our local people have but to put a right interest in the matter to make Exhibition week one of the best business weeks of the year. In markets values are firm. Molasses is of particular interest, stocks being light and higher prices are sure to rule. In tea, considerable business is being done. Spices show firmer figures, while in cream of tartar the market is rather easier. Canned goods show high figures, and at best stock will be light here. Apples are arriving freely. The supply of soft apples is large.

OIL—The advance in burning oil of 1c. per gallon is maintained, and the market is a firm one. The advance is, however, as far as the supply trade is concerned, largely on paper, as large fall contracts at the old figures were made; but the retailer may, if he will, make the profit. But, except in a jobbing way, he finds it difficult to advance his regular figures. Business in paint and lubricating oils is quiet. The former keeps high. In cod oil, there are quite free receipts, but price is still low.

SALT—The position is about as last week. There is a good demand for Liverpool coarse. Prices are firmly held, and there is likely to be little, if any, change this season. In Canadian salt, there are quite free arrivals, but, the fall business is much less than that of the spring. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS — It now looks as if tomatoes would be as strong a feature in this market as corn, as, in proportion, stocks are likely to be lighter. But much will depend upon the deliveries from the packers. Peas are also firm, and it is very difficult to get any low-priced goods. Fruits will be high, though in gallon apples our trade have bought a fair stock at right figures. Pineapple is scarce, particularly grated, which has the large demand. Dealers look for lower figures where new goods are quoted. The number of lines canned is growing very fast; the last one noticed is sweet potatoes in 3-lb. tins. Meats, except deviled and potted, are higher, and the market is firm. In fish, haddies will rule very firm this season. This is one of the best lines packed, and the supply is short. Bloaters are also firm, but sardines show no change in price.

GREEN FRUITS—Apples are now the active feature. Soft fruit is quife plentiful and prices easy. Quality needs attention. New Brunswick apples largely hold the trade, though Gravensteins are beginning to come in. In pears, prices are higher, while quite a few come from Nova Scotia; except a few they are not liked. Peaches are getting scarce. Plums are now coming quite freely from Nova Scotia, but receipts are much smaller than usual. They are held quite firm in price. In quality they are preferred to the Western. In berries a few blueberries and blackberries are being received, but season is about over. In cranberries, prices this season for the small berry has been high. In bog berries both American and local berries are being received. Grapes are plentiful. For best stock there are Malagas and Californian, and some nice Ontarios are being received. The chief business is in the last named. Bananas show no change in price, and have but fair business. Lemons show a firmer tendency. In oranges, supplies are light and largely West Indian; there is but little sale.

DRIED FRUITS—Prices on Californian are not yet received. They will rule high and sale will be affected. In Valencias, fair stocks have been bought. While market seems a firm one there is some range in prices quoted. The demand is for layers. Some new fruit is to hand and quality is nice, but prices are quite high. New peels are here, both English and American. The latter is in much the larger quantity, the American being confined to citron. Currants show a range in prices. Our buyers are not importing as largely as usual, owing to getting cleaned from New York at particularly low figures. Many, owing to these low prices, who have been cleaning their own, have stopped. In nuts, prices are high. This is a small market. Prunes are very light supply. It is thought prices will rule higher, but the season is early. New evaporated are to hand; price quite high and the market a very firm one. In onions, there is a good sale. Canadians are shortly expected.

DAIRY PRODUCE — Eggs begin to move slowly. Prices show little change, and good stock commands full figures. In butter, the tendency is to higher figures, but there is a great deal of poor on the market, and holders are anxious to move it at any figure. Cheese are hardly as firm, and while prices here have been away behind Western figures the easier feeling is noticed. Stocks are not large, but neither is the local sale. Twins are favorites here. Factories are about all sold up to present time at good figures, though quite a number contracted too early. Owing to the quantity of milk received the output will not be as large as last year.

SUGAR — While full figures are asked there is nothing of interest. There is still considerable American sugar here. There is a good general demand. Outlook is a firm one.

MOLASSES—The position is a strong one Barbadoes is almost out of the market, and cannot be replaced. Stocks of Porto Rico are also getting into small compass. Prices are very firm. There are some offerings from outside points, but at quite full figures. In other grades there is little held here. Some New Orleans offered has found a fair sale, and it looks as if considerable of this grade would be used during the balance of the season.

FISH—There is quite an active business, but in dry cod it is rather easier. Pollock are still held at full figures. There is a fair demand for smoked herring, but prices on new fish are easier. It is quite difficult to get the small mediums. Pickled herring are firm, and there is improved business. Boneless fish is in quite active demand at full figures. Fresh fish are scarce. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; halibut, 10 to 12c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; shad, 10c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2 to $2.10 per 100; salmon, 15 to 16c.; pickled herring, $1.65 to $1.70 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — There is a good, steady business at even figures. Millers are firm in prices. Change is towards a lower tendency in Manitobas. Oats and oatmeal tend easier, with a fair business doing. Cornmeal is still high, but rather lower figures are expected. Beans are higher. In regard to the new crop, there is a difference of opinion, but it looks as if there would be no such low prices as we have seen. Stocks here are not large. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.55 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.10; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.90 to $4.10; cornmeal, $2.25 to $2.30; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 95 to $1.00; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Batger & Co.'s peels were received by the trade this week.

S. W. Ewing, of S. H. Ewing & Sons, called on the trade this week. This was Mr. Ewing's first visit here, and we were pleased to note his kind remarks in reference to our city.

W. G. Cloyes, representing The Boston Molasses Co., was in the city during the week, and, with the local broker, J. Hunter White, called on the trade. He found the market in his favor, and, particularly in New Orleans, did a nice business.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

September 21, 1899.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations for staple products are under the direct control of the Editors who call daily upon all the leading houses in the principal centres.

A FORMULA FOR WHITEWASH.

A German paper publishes a formula for a wash which can be applied to lime walls and afterwards become waterproof so as to bear washing. Resenchek, of Munich, mixes together the powder from three parts of silicious rock (quartz), three parts broken marble and sandstone, also two parts of burnt porcelain clay, with two parts freshly slacked lime, still warm. In this way a wash is made which forms a silicate if often wetted, and becomes, after a time, almost like stone. The four constituents mixed together give the ground color, to which any pigment that can be used with lime is added. It is applied quite thickly to the wall, or other surface, let dry one day, and the next day frequently cover with water, which makes it waterproof. This wash can be cleansed with water without losing any of its color, on the contrary, each time it gets harder, so that it can even be brushed, while its porosity makes it look soft. The wash or calcimine can be used for ordinary purposes, as well as for the finest painting. A so-called fresco surface can be prepared with it in the dry way.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

T. B. ESCOTT & CO. have arriving in a few days, a carload of Rio coffee bought at very low prices ; also two carloads of Santos coffee, which they offer to the trade lower than they have ever been quoted.

"Maypole" soap is moving out well with The Davidson & Hay, Limited.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol are offering specially fine quality of canned beets, asparagus and spinach.

In medium, choice and choicest Japans Lucas, Steele & Bristol report they are offering goods cheaper and better than last season.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, are taking into stock this week direct importations of new season's Young Hysons and new season's Japans.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, have just received a carload of very choice green Rio coffee, fine clear bean, which they offer at very close figures.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol are offering the York Co.'s peels, also "C. & B.'s," and some of the latter in pound cartons. Their "Empire" peel is extra choice "turned-down" stock.

Chaput, Fils & Cie. report increased sales for Williams Bros. and Charbonneau's goods. They received another consignment this week of 2,000 cases.

In their British-grown "Empire" Pekoe and golden-tipped Pekoe teas, Lucas, Steele & Bristol guarantee prices and quality up to last season.

T. B. Escott & Co. have arriving next month a carload of candied peels, and have control of the sale of "Crossin" brand in the Canadian market. "As we bought these tons of peels at exceedingly low prices, we are prepared to give our customers the benefit," write the firm.

"Yes," say Lucas, Steele & Bristol, "it is true we are offering Rio coffee very cheap, and it is also true that our sales of 'L., S. & B.' and 'Empire' are larger this year than ever before."

CANADIAN TOBACCO.

Mr. Sol. Wigle, ex-M.P., when attending the Western Fair last week, told The London Advertiser that Canada could grow all her own tobacco. He thinks the home-grown article will, in time, entirely supplant the imported, although about 12,000,000 lb. of the latter are now used annually by Canadian manufacturers out of a total average of 14,000,000 lb. The yield in Kent and Essex this year will be 3,000,000 lb., about half what it was last year, and Mr. Wigle gives as a reason why a market could not be obtained last year that it was spoiled in curing. Mr. Wigle's success as one of the largest tobacco growers in Essex is referred to by The Advertiser in support of his opinions. It seems a little strange that the failure to find a market last year should all result from bad curing, because Mr. Wigle went all over the two counties during the previous winter instructing farmers how to grow and cure the plant. Either there must have been want of attention to his instructions, a lack of correctness about them, or some other cause exists than that which he has named. It has been stated, and it does not seem to have been successfully contradicted, that the Canadian manufacturers will only use a certain proportion of Canadian tobacco. English manufacturers are said to regard favorably the Canadian raw product, and to agree with Mr. Wigle's view as to bad curing. Factories are being erected, and will shortly be in operation at Leamington and Kingsville, and then the question will probably be settled as to whether Canadian-grown tobacco can be used in larger proportions than it now is.—Journal, St. Thomas.

ATTRACTIVE GROUND GOODS.

The sightliness of any ground material depends on the apparent evenness of the size of the grains which compose it. Perfect evenness in this regard is not to be obtained by any sort of reduction process, though good results are obtained from mills which control the discharge of the product by sieves. This very sifting process, however, tends to separate the finer parts of the finished goods from the coarser, as the former drops through the sieve more readily. And it is found that a great improvement is effected in any ground substance by mixing it—just mixing it with itself, so that any noticeably small pieces or large pieces are not collected by themselves, but are mingled uniformly through the whole batch.

It is surprising how differently a lot of ground coffee looks, for instance, after being run by itself through a good mixing machine. All the unevenness seems to disappear, if it was well ground to begin with. A good mixing improves a poor grinding as much in proportion as it does a good grinding ; and a half-mixing, by the vigorous use of a hand scoop, will give some improvement in either case. But the best results come, of course, by turning out from the mill the most even product possible, and then treating this in a perfect mixing machine. Goods so handled do not look like ordinary ground goods. They have uniformity and finish ; and, if anyone doubts this, he need only make a practical test on ground coffee or spices in a good mixing apparatus.—Spice Mill.

SHIPMENTS OF N. S. APPLES.

Reports generally favor the opinion that the apple crop of Nova Scotia will this year be fully equal, if not greater, than last year. Shipments to England have begun, though with no unusual vigor. The first shipment last season was by the steamer Halifax City, on September 11, when 8,559 barrels were forwarded. This year the first shipment went forward on September 7, when the quantity was 2,980 barrels. On Thursday of this week the London City sails with 14,000 barrels. The corresponding shipment last year was on September 22, when one of the Furness boats took 11,335 barrels. The shipments so far this season, therefore, are 20,337 barrels, compared with 24,029 to a corresponding date last year. The figures are :

September 7—Halifax City	2,980
September 13—Dahome	3,357
September 21—London City	14,000

September 11—London City	8,559
September 18—Dahome	4,135
September 22—Halifax City	11,335
Total	24,029

In Halifax, dealers' supplies are coming in fair quantity, and dealers are quoting the fruit at $2.50 for No. 1 gravensteins ; $2 for for No. 2's, and $1.50 for drops.—Herald, Halifax, September 19.

NOTES ON PEPPER.

PEPPER (piper nigrum) is indigenous to the southwest coast of India, and, although at present the cultivation is widely diffused throughout the tropics, the product is nowhere equal in quality to that of its mother country. Unfortunately, America gets very little of this superior kind, European and Oriental nations taking the pick. Pepper raised from cuttings is of better quality than that produced from seeds, but soil also has much to do with quality. Usually, two crops are plucked each year. After the third year of planting, one during the winter season, the other in summer, the latter is inferior. The economic life of the vine varies, but about 15 years is considered a good stand. The quality also varies with the seasons, so that a certain plantation may yield a fine lot one year and a lot of poor stuff another year. Wide regions, however, never turn out anything but very poor stuff, indeed.

When the time arrives for plucking and curing, great care is necessary to attain the best results, for, in the wet season, the crop may be too soggy, and in the dry season become too woody and fiery, as ripening is destructive of flavor and aroma. Curing by artificial heat is the method in vogue on large plantations, but sun-curing, when properly done on matting, is better. The practice of "swelling the crop" is not uncommon among the Chinese and native planters in the pepper countries by the addition of wild pepper, as well as berries not akin to the pepper family; not to mention a modicum of sticks, stones, and dirt, but this fraud is generally tabooed by British and French planters, though dirt will adhere to the hull under the best system; therefore, crude pepper used at home should always be "shotted" in water, quickly washed, and the floaters rejected with the dirt.

Pepper is one of the most wholesome and useful of the spices. With persons in ordinary health it has the effect of stimulating the stomach gently to the performance of its functions, and is particularly serviceable to persons who are of cold habit or who suffer from weak digestion. Used in moderation pepper decidedly promotes the appetite and aids digestion, though, as to the quanity the system can take care of, as much as a spoonful is sometimes given in a little water in severe cases of flatulency. The natives of India esteem pepper as a stomachic, and make a strong infusion of it to drink by way of creating an appetite and to cure gout and palsy. They have also a method of making a fiery spirit of fermented fresh pepper with water, which they use for the same purpose, and also prescribe in cases of cholera morbus; a liniment for rheumatism is distilled from the berries, while the root of the vine is employed as a tonic, stimulant and cordial.

Piperine is the most interesting constituent of pepper, and ought to be present, in the best qualities, to the extent of 8 per cent. and upward. It is now a recognized substitute for quinine, and it is worth knowing that Celsus, in the first century A.D., in his "List of Useful Plants," recommended a decoction of pepper berries to be drunk in fits of ague, to ward off the paroxysm; though it took 1,800 years for the doctors to find out by chemical analysis that piperine contained in large, colored cells in the berry, had anything to do with the case.—Chicago Journal.

THE SPICE OF BUSINESS LIFE.

Says the Man in the Corner: "I have at various times had occasion to note the commercial value of a friendly spirit in trade and I have become more and more impressed with the idea of its increasing importance in the changing conditions under which business is conducted. Time was when the financial risk was the main thing that the credit man had to consider, but, in the time that is, the moral risk has come to have an equal if not a greater importance and with it the value of a personal acquaintance has grown.

"The world is smaller than it used to be, and we are all thrown into more intimate relations with each other than in the olden days when the Western Reserve was further away than Honolulu is to-day. The traveling salesman trading in good-fellowship as a side line, magnifying his house when out and his customers' good qualities when in, has had his effect in heightening the value of a good personal impression. And out of it all is growing a prevalent feeling of frank good will, a kindly tolerance when differences arise and a sense of mutual personal obligation that cannot but be healthful in its results.

"Business is not all a matter of barter. There is more that goes out to a customer at each transaction than the goods and invoice, and more is received from him than the orders and payment; and this incorporal reasoning of personality that permeates trade is what gives to it its savor and lifts it above the drudgery of mere money grubbing."

RETAIL GROCERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

The Retail Grocers' Protective Association, of Montreal, have elected these officers: President, M. E. Miller; vice-presidents, J. Pauze and S. Vanier; secretaries, O. D. Duckett and A. A. Masse; treasurer, J. J. Beauregard; committee, M. Thibault, H. Lemieux and I. Carmel.

Will all wholesale grocers and brokers, therefore, kindly send us at once their names and addresses, as we desire to make the list as complete as possible?

A TRUE STORY.

WALKING along one of the crowded streets of one of our busiest cities, I saw something that set me to thinking, and perhaps had more to do with changing my business career and making me an independent hustler than anything ever happening in my life. I was attracted by one of the neatest and cleanest display windows I have ever seen in any store, and, to the reader's surprise, it was a grocery window, but it was an up-to-date grocery, so scrupulously clean that it challenged my investigation. As this article is not intended to advertise a grocery firm, I will call the firm Uptodate & Co.

I had only reached the city, coming from a small Western town where the principal business "was everybody's business," and, very naturally, was shifting about for something by which to earn an honest penny. Here was the turning point. I had taken in at a glance what I knew to be the best-selling article on the American market—a money-weight computing scale. I saw its merits, and saw the influence this article or fixture had over the whole store of Uptodate & Co., and I made up my mind to become a salesman.

To-day, I am a salesman with the highest and best record of any man on the road for The Money-Weight Scale Co., general agent for The Computing Scale Co., of Dayton, and I am successful because I have selected an article to sell which possesses genuine merit—an article which saves a merchant money; an article which permeates his whole store with system. That is why I have succeeded, and I ask any young man, in business or out of business, to write to me, care of general delivery Dayton, O., care of The Computing Scale Co.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

NEW crop Californian prunes are beginning to come forward in small lots, but hardly enough has been received here yet upon which to base market quotations.—New York Journal of Commerce.

The Picqua with the first of the new crop American grapes is expected in New York about October 1.

It is currently reported that the bulk of the stock of 1898 crop of Californian raisins bought from the Association has been resold to seeders.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

Both dealers and brokers generally reported a fairly good undertone to the market. Advices from the East continued to report firm markets and advices received from Calcutta reported a firmer market, naming 6d. c.i.f. New York for common Sanchong, equal to about 12½c. in bond laid down here. A fair amount of interest continued to be shown in the market for invoices and there were indications that fair sales were made; no particulars, however, were made public. There was a moderate amount of line business transacted, the jobbing trade taking hold with more freedom; the business transacted was at full quoted prices.—New York Journal of Commerce, September 19.

SMYRNA FIG CONDITIONS.

An English trade paper says: "According to the latest reports from Smyrna, figs are not coming in from the country districts so readily as at first, and it is possible that optimistic reports, which were founded on the fact that stocks in Smyrna had accumulated rather more quickly than usual, may have slightly overestimated the probable supply. Orders for bags, both for home and abroad, have been larger than usual, and this will have the effect of reducing the quantity available for boxes, as finer fruit than usual will have to be packed in the bags to complete the quantity required in this package."

A GLOOMY VIEW.

The Pacific Rural Press takes a more gloomy view of the prune situation on the Coast than seems to be entertained there in most quarters. It says: "The prune market is in an unsatisfactory condition for the producer. The last of the 1898 crop is not yet off the market, although nearly so, and new have already been forwarded east. Last year, Oregon stood in the way, underselling California. This year, not much competition is looked for from Oregon, but the Californian crop is larger. Buyers are not operating freely, and the conditions are unfavorable for the exertion of selling pressure. San Joaquin prunes have been sold at 2½c. in bags for the four sizes, which is equivalent, at the customary rating, to 2¾c. for Santa Claras, although the latter are held on a 3¼c. basis for the four sizes, immediate delivery, and at 3c. for later deliveries. These are discouraging figures for the grower. It is very evident that either new fields must bo opened for the consumption of this fruit or else there must be decreased production."

SULTANA RAISINS IN LONDON.

The first small shipment of new Sultanas arrived at the beginning of the week, and sold rapidly at full prices, being now all cleared. So far as can be seen for such a small quantity, and the fact that such an early shipment must, of necessity, be immature, the fruit of the 1899 crop is very satisfactory. It is hardly likely, and by no means desirable, that the high level of prices obtained for this first shipment will be maintained on the arrival of more liberal supplies, and, in fact, the prices asked for later shipments indicate clearly that there is no such expectation on the part of merchants. The universal stock of old is, however, exceptionally small, and the demand for new fruit consequently good, so that no great decline in values can be expected for some time to come.—Produce Markets Review, September 2.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

There is a steady demand on the spot for salmon, more especially for Alaska, which shows better value than anything else in the market, and holders are not at all desirous of realizing unless at firm prices to a slight advance. Now that the pack for 1899 on the Fraser is known the market is assuming a more settled aspect, but, as prices for forward delivery are not sufficiently tempting, buyers appear in no hurry to commit themselves. Whether this is a wise policy still remains to be proved. — Produce Markets Review.

THE U. S. TOMATO PACK.

We are now at the middle of September, and it is more than evident that we are very far past the middle of the tomato pack. The influence of the past 10 days on the canners' crops has been such that the jobbers who control the majority of the contracts for both corn and tomatoes can now rest assured that they are safe in their ventures and possibly certain of a very heavy profit on the pack of 1899. We have had some unseasonably cool weather during the past week, which, united with other causes, seems to have seriously affected the tomato vines, and these appear to be going already into their last stages of decay. There is, of course, quite a quantity of green fruit still upon them, much of it ripening rapidly under the influence of the warm sunshine, but the vines themselves seem to be wilting as if under the influence of nightly frost, and yet so far we have not had any white frost in this section. There have been some severe storms during the past week, which beat violently enough against the plants to knock off much of the green fruit upon the ground, but the extent of the crop at present is so great that any loss from this cause will not be felt.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md., Sept. 15.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, September 18, 1899.

THE whole wheat situation is now on a business basis and deliveries at country points are large, especially at Melita and Morden in the south-west, Gretna South, Altona on the N. P. and Macdonald on the M. and N.

Several points west of Brandon report that they will begin shipping this week, and from many others the report comes that threshing is well under way and will be completed early in the week. So far the crop has been saved in splendid condition, with practically no damage from frost or rain. Even along the Calgary and Edmonton, where grave disaster was feared from the heavy rains, the crop has ripened very well, and the bulk will be saved in fine shape.

Up to date the wheat inspected at Winnipeg has nearly all graded No. 1 hard, the percentage of lower grades being chiefly conspicuous by their absence. The new inspection system continues to give every satisfaction. The cost of delivering to elevators and buyers has been materially reduced and farmers are reaping the advantage in the price of their grain.

The Government estimate of 20½ bushels to the acre is now kuown to be very conservative. Market closed at 1 p.m. on Saturday with the following prices at country points. On 15c. rate of freight, No. 1 hard, 56c. ; No. 2 hard, 53c.; No. 3 hard. 48c.; 16 and 17c. rate of freight, No. 1 hard, 55c.; No. 2 hard, 52c.; No. 3 hard, 47c.; 18 and 19c. rate of freight, No. 1 hard, 54c.; No. 2 hard, 51c.; No. 3 hard, 46c.; 21 and 22c. rate of freight, No. 1 hard, 53c.; No. 2 hard, 50c.; No. 3 hard, 45c. October delivery, 67c. afloat Fort William ; spot wheat, 67½ to 68c. In groceries, trade is very fair, but payments are necessarily slow, and will be until money is received for new crop. Very little change has occurred during the week.

SUGAR—Is a little stiffer, and granulated is now quoted at 5 1-5c.; bright yellow at 4⅜ to 4⅝c., according to grade. The market is fairly active.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—New stocks of choice evaporated apricots are quoted at 16 to 16½c. New yellow nectarines are also on the market at 14c., and fine unpeeled peaches at 12c. New prunes are expected to arrive by the end of the month. The evaporated fruit market is very firm and fairly active.

DRIED FRUITS—New Valencia raisins are booked to arrive in 10 days. Prices are not yet obtainable: Dates, Hallowee, 7½c. ; layer, 7c. ; cartons per doz., 90c.

CANNED GOODS—Vegetables and fruits remain without change, and there is not likely to be anything fresh to say of this line until the new stocks arrive, which will not be for a week or 10 days yet.

DRIED FISH—With this week the fish market may be said to open, as cod, mackerel and salt herrings have arrived. Prices, on the whole, show an advance of ¼ to ½c. over last season, while half-barrels of herring show an advance of 25c. Finnan haddie will not arrive until frost comes, except in small lots by express. These are usually brought in by retail dealers. Pure boneless cod (catch of 1899) in 5-lb. boxes, 12 in crate, 7½c. per lb. ; 2-lb. bricks in wax paper, the same price. Oysters have also appeared, and standards are quoted at $2.50 per gal.

CANNED FISH—There has been a slight advance on cove oysters, amounting to about 50c. per case. This is due to shortage of supply. Canned finnan haddie has also advanced about 25c. per case.

NUTS—With cooler weather there is more inquiry for nuts and dates. Cocoanuts per doz., 80c. ; walnuts (Grenobles). 13c. lb. ; Brazils, 12c. ; almonds (Tarragona), 15c. ; pecans, 13c.; filberts, 11c.; peanuts (roasted,) 11c. ; green, 9c.

GREEN FRUITS—The market is now well supplied in nearly all lines. Ontario grapes are arriving plentifully, so are the apples, and these two fruits are in good condition. With everything else from Ontario the old, old story has been repeated. Pears are arriving in baskets, which appear often to be filled with a mysterious paste with a few lumps here and there that may once have been pears. When, oh when, will the Ontario fruit grower learn to put his fruit on the market in proper shape ! The wet weather has delayed the shipments of British Columbian plums until now it is doubtful if they arrive at all. Washington fruit is coming in more freely than anticipated, and in fine condition. The only thing really short is crabapples. Southern and Western State crops are a total failure. Goods sent arrived scabby and heated, and it looks as if the housewives of Winnipeg would have to "jell" something else this season. Quotations are as follows : Plums, Californian, $1.50 ; Washington, $1.25; Ontario, 80c. per basket ; peaches, Californian, $1.25 ; pears per case, $2.25 ; Ontario, 90c.; crabapples, $5 per barrel ; apples, $3.25 to $3.50, according to variety; grapes, Tokay and Malagas, $2.50 per crate; Muscat and Rose Fern, $2.25 ; Ontario grapes, 30, 35 and 40c. per basket, according to variety ; bananas, $1.75 to $2.25 ; oranges, Valencia, $5.50; lemons, $4.50; watermelons, $3; sweet potatoes, $5 per barrel.

BUTTER—The market for creamery is firm at 19½ to 20c. for September make. In dairy butter, there is a demand for fresh dairy to send East, and for a good quality 11 to 12c. country points is being paid. There is also a demand for fresh and very choice dairy for local consumption, which would command 13 to 14c. per lb. if it could be had, but it is almost impossible to get it.

CHEESE—The past has been a field week for cheese, as high as 12½c. being paid by dealers. The market is very bare, supplies coming in in very limited numbers. The Montreal market being lower the feeling is easier here, but the latest quotation was 11 to 11½c. It is the general feeling, however, that the price cannot hold.

A BRONZE MEDAL FOR BRUSHES.

The directors of Toronto's Industrial Exhibition for 1899 have awarded Boeckh Bros. & Company a bronze medal for their display of brushes, brooms and woodenware, and a diploma for the patent adjustable display tables. This firm manufacture all their own goods, and the factories are located in Toronto, and cover an area of over 50,000 square feet. Boeckh Bros. & Company have exceptional facilities for storing hundreds of casks of bristles and other raw materials, such as brush ferules, block handles, broom corn, etc. All their raw materials are imported direct from the producers, enabling this firm to reduce the cost of manufacturing and handling to a minimum. The brush, broom and table factories are all lighted with electricity, generated by the firm's own plant. The sample-rooms, offices and warehouse, are located at 80 and 88 York street, and 12 Clarence street, where thousands of dozens are shipped daily, and several carloads in the course of a week's time.

ANTICIPATED CUT ON ST. JOHN.

It is a little early yet to make a definite estimate as to the cut this coming season upon the St. John, but from information gleaned from well-informed sources by the St. John Sun the following may be considered a pretty accurate forecast of the amount to be cut upon the upper St. John river :

	Feet.
W. J. Nobles and Robert Nobles, for Cushing	10,000,000 to 12,000,000
Guy McCallum, for C. F. Woodman	5,000,000 to 6,000,000
John Kilburn, for W. H. Murray	8,000,000 to 10,000,000
Silas Dickie, for Stetson	5,000,000 to 6,000,000
John Stevens, for E. L. Jewett	2,500,000 to 3,000,000
J. A. Morrison	3,500,000 to 4,000,000
Cunliff & Sons	7,000,000 to 8,000,000
Neil McLean	3,000,000 to 4,000,000
John R. McConnell, for Ashland Lumber Co	10,000,000 to 12,000,000
F. H. Hale	8,000,000 to 10,000,000
R. A. Estey	4,000,000 to 5,000,000
Adam Beveridge	2,000,000 to 2,500,000
George Baird	2,000,000 to 3,000,000
D. McKeswick	2,000,000
Various other small operators	10,000,000

John Dickinson, of Dickinson & Brown, flour and feed dealers, Vancouver, is dead.

OVER 70 GROCERS.

The magnitude of the "Salada" tea business is best conveyed to our readers by the fact that 73 Toronto city grocers ordered "Salada" Ceylon tea on Wednesday last. This proves better than anything else the demand there is for this article. There being no cutting in prices, and as it is never sold to peddlers, the management is recognized as most friendly to the grocer.

HUNTING FOR LUMBERMEN.

For the first time in a number of years shantymen are at a premium, and a sufficient number cannot be obtained to properly carry on the lumbering operations in the north woods this winter. Agents of the different lumber firms are patrolling the Ottawa valley, going through all places, looking vainly for men. Telegrams and letters have been sent to places in the lower Provinces asking for men to come and be hired, and although a few have responded the demand is still far in excess of the supply. In consequence of the scarcity of laborers, wages are away up, and are still rising. Men who have never had any experience in the lumber woods can this year command a larger wage than was paid last year to experienced log and timbermakers. The cause of this state of affairs in the lumbering industry is that other branches of business have been improving of late, and, as a consequence, have taken all spare laboring men. It is estimated by lumber experts that unless sufficient men can be had in the near future to go to the woods, the cut will be several millions of feet less than was expected earlier in the sason, owing solely to the fact that there are no men to cut down the trees.—Exchange, Merrickville, N.S.

FRESH LAID.

A lady who did not appear to be in a very good temper bounced into a certain grocer's shop the other afternoon.

"Is your father at home?" she asked of the small boy behind the counter.

"No'm," was the reply. "Anything I can do for you?"

The lady hesitated before remarking:

"I've called to complain about the eggs I obtained from your father this morning. He told me they were fresh laid, and—"

"Did he get 'em from the window?" asked the youthful salesman.

"Yes."

"Then it's all right, 'm—they are fresh laid."

"But I say they are not."

"You'll excuse me, 'm," said the youngster, endeavoring to be polite. "But I ought to know. They came in a crate yesterday. I unpacked every one on 'em an' laid 'em there in the window only this morning. So I knows they're fresh laid, and that settles it."—London Answers.

TRADE CHAT.

THE Lion's Head, Ont., Milling Co., Limited, has been incorporated with $10,000 capital. The provisional directors are: Robert E. Moore, John H. Cook, Charles Williams, Andrew Agar, A. Lymburner, Henry Wilson and Finlay McPherson.

Sivart, Anderson & Co., grocers, Vancouver, are opening a branch store.

J. Olton's sorghum factory is being worked night and day to accommodate his customers.

The Whyte Packing Co., Limited, Stratford, Ont., has increased its capital to $50,000.

Reports from the apple-raising regions of Nova Scotia indicate a fine crop, that will reach not less than 500,000 bbls.

Galloway Bros., general merchants, Gladstone, Man., have received the contract for supplying beef to the camps on the Ontario and Rainy River railway. They will also supply butter and similar provisions.

A despatch from Winona, Ont., states that this has been the greatest fruit-shipping season in the history of the Niagara district, and more fruit is leaving the neighborhood of Winona these days than ever left there before.

Many friends of Martin Maloney, the well-known traveler for The Provision Supply Co., Montreal, will extend congratulations on the occasion of his marriage on August 21 to Miss Belanger, of Quebec.—St. John Sun.

The Milk Association of Hamilton and Wentworth county met at the Dominion Hotel on Saturday afternoon last to consider whether the price of milk should be raised to 6c. per quart or not. After considerable talk, it was decided that, owing to drought and the scarcity of milk, it was only fair to put the price up at least 1c. However, no definite action was taken, and the matter was deferred until Saturday of this week.

A Burford, Ont., correspondent writes that the merchants of that place are at present closing their business places at 8 o'clock all evenings, except Saturday, and that they may continue to do so throughout the fall and winter.

The exports from Ingersoll, Ont., for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, were $2,358,789, an increase of $177,569 over the previous year, and $1,381,163 more than the total exports in the year ending June 30, 1896.

The exports of butter from Montreal last week were 44,527 packages, as compared with 9,524 packages for the corresponding week last year. The exports of cheese for the same week were 85,330 boxes this year and 51,233 boxes last year,

A movement is on foot to organize a company among the farmers in the vicinity of Perth, Ont., for the purpose of equipping and operating a creamery. The local papers state that the promoters are meeting with good encouragement, and the prospects are favorable to its success.

A. Waldon, commission merchant, Winnipeg, died on Saturday night in a cab, while being driven to his home from the station. He was taken ill at Regina on Friday with tonsilitis, an abcess broke while he was on the train and death from suffocation resulted while in the cab. Mr. Waldon was a former resident of Palmerston, Ont.

The lumber camps during the coming winter bid fair to display much of the old time activity. Men are scarce and wages are high. An Ottawa letter states that operations in the Georgian Bay district will be very active, and that good men will command high wages. The price now being paid is $25 a month, as compared with $18 last year.

A despatch from Cornwallis, N.S., states that a heavy wind storm prevailed throughout the country on Wednesday night and on Thursday morning of last week. This storm blew off the fruit in every quarter and is a loss of thousands of dollars to the farmers. The entire loss cannot be estimated at present. Some of the farmers have lost $500. The windfalls are selling to the fruit evaporators at 35c. per cwt.

At the annual meeting of The Nova Scotia Pork-Packing Co., Limited, Middleton, N.S., the following resolution was passed: "Owing to certain causes which render the successful prosecution of the object of The Nova Scotia Pork-Packing Co., Limited, impossible, therefore, resolved, that the directors of the company be authorized to call a meeting of the shareholders on Thursday, September 28, at 1 o'clock p.m., to consider the propriety of disposing of the property and franchise of the said company."

A SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING.

"Smithkin," said the employer, "you may take a month off."

"Oh, sir," replied the clerk as soon as he could command his voice, "it is so good of you to suggest it! I have felt the need of a rest for some time, but have hesitated to ask for it, knowing how busy we are. But it will do me no end of good, and I thank you most heartily for your consideration."

"Smithkins," said the employer, "are you crazy?"

"Why, no, sir. Didn't you say I might take a month off?"

"Certainly that is what I said. This is the first of the month, while last month's calendar remains over your desk. Take last month off and keep up-to-date. That's what I meant."—Exchange.

COLONIAL BUTTER IN GREAT BRITAIN.

WEDDEL & CO., in their review of the Australasian dairy produce season of 1898 9, remark that the season was characterized by two very satisfactory features—increased imports into the United Kingdom of over 2,000 tons of butter, and an average rise in the price of nearly £4 per ton, comparing the figures with those of the preceding season. After four censecutive years of drought, the extra receipts have been welcome indeed to the long-suffuring dairy farmers of Australia. When the figures for Canada also are added, there is an increase in the colonial total as follows:

IMPORTS OF COLONIAL BUTTER.

	Australia. cwt.	N. Zealand. cwt.	Canada. cwt.	Total. cwt.
1894-5	243,279	46,093	.....	289,372
1895-6	151,693	51,166	31,067	233,926
1896-7	175,683	61,763	66,810	304,256
1897-8	157,350	73,607	85,050	316,007
1898-9	193,122	81,332	121,989	396,443

The manner in which Canada has overtaken and passed New Zealand and individual Australian colonies, except Victoria, which sent us 142,358 cwt. in 1898-9, is remarkable. With respect to prices, although the average price of the choicest Australasian butter last season was £5 3s. 7d. per cwt., or 3s. 2d. more than in the preceding season, it has made no progress towards overtaking the average price of the best Danish, which was 8s. 9d. per cwt. higher. In quality and flavor the best Australian or New Zealand butter is at least equal to the best Danish, but the latter has such a hold on the market that it still commands a higher price than Australasian produce. New Zealand cheese sold well—up to 48s. per cwt., and it is a question whether the colonists did not lose by making more butter and less cheese.—British Trade Journal.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

It is a favorite doctrine that the credit system in trade, especially in retail, is the cause of high prices and of great loss to the customers who pay cash. The other side of the question was presented recently in a casual conversation by one of the best known and most successful merchants in Eastern Canada. This gentleman was not talking for publication, but his testimony is worth publishing to show that the average buyer at the counter, in St. John at least, is pretty good pay. He says that in his line of business, given reasonable prudence in extending credit in family accounts, and proper care in collections, the losses are not serious. Less than one per cent. should cover the shortage. His own experience, so far as the retail business is concerned, was that not more than three-fifths of a cent on the dollar was lost through the failure of customers to pay. The firm in question makes no cash discount, and probably has as large a number of family accounts as any house in this end of the Dominion.—Sun, St. John, N.B.

CHEAP COFFEE.

It is alleged that cheap coffee is dangerous to health, and that it is the custom to use Paris green "in coating the cheaper grades of coffee. Pickers are employed to go over the coffee and pick out the Paris green, but they will occasionally miss a chunk about the size of a grain of coffee. This gets into somebody's coffee, and there is a poisoned family as a result." This may or may not be true. We wouldn't vouch for its truth, neither are we prepared to deny the allegation. We do say, however, that it is best to sell good-quality goods, and enforce upon your customers' attention the importance of buying only pure goods. It is unpleasant to have a customer made ill by goods purchased at your store, no matter how innocent you may be of intentional wrongdoing.—New England Grocer.

LIVELY ADVERTISING AGENCY.

One of the most progressive of the younger advertising agencies of this city is the Snow-MacKay Advertising Agency, which has recently moved from the Devonshire Building into larger quarters on the fifth floor of the Niles Building, 27 School street. A suite of connecting rooms, numbered 68, 69, and 70, now affords ample space for the Agency to carry on its increasing business, and, at the same time, it is so located as to give opportunity for further expansion.

At the head of the Agency is Henry E. Snow, who for 10 years has been an expert advertising writer of this city, doing original and highly commendable work for large advertisers. Prescott Warren, well known in Boston newspaper circles, is the treasurer of the firm. A. Q. Miller, for many years manager and confidential clerk of the Niles Advertising Agency, and later advertising manager for 14 years for the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company, is also connected with the Snow-MacKay Agency.

The Snow-MacKay Agency has a large clientage of business houses, which have profited by its up-to-date methods and its singular ability to insure returns for the advertiser by means of its well-constructed advertisements. It is proud of the fact that it has never lost a customer, and now, in its new quarters, with increased facilities, it is already enlarging its list of patrons.—Herald, Boston.

Ready ?

The thoughtful housewife begins to serve light, dainty, wholesome dishes about this time—Autumn. Are you ready to meet the demand with one time-tried article that she will want to use? Benson's Prepared Corn has taken first prizes at all Canadian Exhibitions. Awards were made by skilful judges, carefully chosen for this one purpose—of selecting the best by all the tests that go to prove it "best."

It is absolutely pure—it has a delicacy which is all its own—it never varies from the one high standard of quality that has made it famous. It pays to handle articles of recognized merit like PACKET VS. LOOSE TEA.

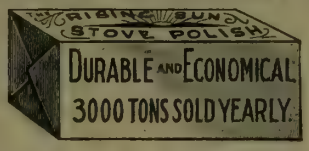
By A Teaman.

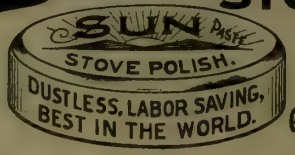
THE tea question to-day is one of paramount interest to the grocer, because of the revolution that has been and is taking place in the trade in Canada and the United States. We do not here refer to the ascendency of Ceylon over Japan and all other teas, but to packet vs. bulk tea. While many have gone over to the packet, and are using all their energy to build up a trade in this form, others are wavering between it and loose tea. Then, again, a few others will not handle the packet at all, cherishing the hope that the tide will recede and leave them with a good bulk trade. These latter, to be sure, are few and composed mostly of the older generation of grocers. The question then is: "From which does the retail grocer get the most benefit, a loose tea trade or a packet trade?" The advocate of bulk tea will tell you that when you take hold of packet tea you lose your individuality. The advocate of packet will tell you that he is not in the business for "individuality," but to make money. The advocate of bulk will tell you that the profit is larger on bulk tea. The packet man will say that it is not, and that the packet tea shows the greatest profit, because it is an assured profit. That there is no loss in weight or in deterioration. And what is, perhaps, better, there is no bother in blending. More important still, it is not necessary to carry a heavy stock, which is continually losing its value.

Then, there is no responsibility. If the tea is not good the retailer is not blamed for it. And what is likely the most important feature of all is that there is no cutting in prices. The packet man will also tell you that if you want to see packet vs. loose tea, why look at the state of the Japan trade to-day against the black tea trade! He says that Japan has not been sold in packets, and the result is that to-day there is no Japan tea sold higher than 25c., and a great deal of it is sold at 20c., netting the grocer about 2c. per lb. profit, whereas there is still a good trade in blacks at 40, 50 and 60c.

If it had not been for the introduction of the packet and the enormous advertising it received, the grocers would have continually been cutting prices of loose teas until the public would have been led to believe that there was nothing better to be had than 25c. tea. This is what they accomplished with the bulk teas of Japan, and the same thing would have been accomplished with black teas had it not been for the introduction of the packet, its regular prices and no cutting. The packet man will tell you that it is a great advantage to have stock on your shelves which you can always return to the man from whom you got it. This you can do with at least one well-known packet, and, as you have not to purchase large quantities, you need only a very small stock; in other words, it is practically sold before it has to be paid for; whereas it is a common thing in the bulk tea trade for the retailer to carry $400 or $500 worth of tea, all deteriorating in quality, all paid for, although he did get long terms when purchasing.



And then there is "mine ancient enemy" the tea peddler. The packet has struck the hardest of blows at his occupation. Where the consumer favors the packet he has no further use for the peddler, as he does not sell the packet; in fact, he cannot get it to sell (at least, not the well advertised ones), and so he cannot any longer fool the consumer, and, if his occupation is not already gone, it is going rapidly since the introduction of the packet.



After all this is showered on one, he is half convinced that packet tea is to be altogether the tea of the future. Then it is time to inquire what the reason of this is, and a large handler of tea states that the real reason is simply that the wholesale bulk tea business is not done honestly; in other words, that any man who tells the truth will state plainly that he dare not buy the tea that he knows to be the best (in the cup) at a given price. For instance: Four teas are shown at 25c. per lb.; No. 1 is the best, No. 2 the second, and so on to the fourth. Now, he dare not buy No. 1 or No. 2; he buys the third or fourth, or the poorest of the four teas. Why? Because it is the best in style; nice black leaf, well rolled and with a nice golden tip; in other words, he buys what is known among the trade as a "flat-catcher." No. 1 is really the best in cup, but has poor style and is a tea that would be very hard to sell. If he buys it it is sure to be a stock-keeper. He, therefore, buys the tea that is poorest in the cup and gives samples to his travelers, who, perhaps, not being excellent judges, or, if they are, not having the time or the opportunities of putting it against other teas at the price, consider it good value, and they go out and tell their customers so.

Now, if the purchaser in the wholesale house, who is a good judge of tea and knows the market, did not know that when selling bulk tea his responsibility ceased as soon as he sold to the retailer, he would not have been inclined to buy this tea. He would rather have bought the one that was finest in cup. Therefore, the position of the packet tea man, who pays no attention whatever to style and everything to cup quality, is the one that is likely in the end to find favor with the tea drinker. And if with packet teas it is a case of the survival of the fittest, the grocer would do well to keep in the front rank of progress and not "lag superfluous on the stage."

A FORTUNE IN GOOD MANNERS.

ONE cannot but feel that God is a lover of dress. He has put robes of beauty and glory upon all his works. Every flower is dressed in richness; every field blushes beneath a mantle of beauty; every star is veiled in brightness; every bird is clothed in the habiliments of the most exquisite taste.

Yet, some fanatics will tell you that beauty is a sin, and that the loveliness and gorgeousness of nature are a consequence of the fall of man in Eden.

Some people look upon polished manners as a kind of affectation. They claim admiration for plain, solid, square, rugged characters. As well say they like square, plain, unornamented houses made from square blocks of stone. St. Peter's is none the less strong and solid because of its elegant columns and the magnificent sweep of its arches, its carved and fretted marbles of matchless hues. Why do not such people wear their diamonds in the rough? Why not take them as we must step on the scales of each person's opinion, and the loss or gain from our last weight is carefully noted. Each asks, "Is this person going up or down? Through how many grades has he passed?" For example, young Brown enters the drawing-room. All present weigh him in their judgment, and say, "This young man is gaining; he is more careful, thoughtful, polite, considerate, straightforward, truthful, industrious." Beside him stands young Jones. It is evident that he is losing ground rapidly. He is careless, indifferent, rough, profane, obscene, does not look you in the eye, is mean, small, stingy, snaps at the servants, yet is over-polite to strangers. And so we go through life, tagged with these invisible labels by all who know us. I sometimes think it would be a great advantage if one could read these ratings of his associates. We cannot long deceive the world, for that other self, who ever stands in the shadow of ourselves holding the scales of justice, that telltale in the soul, rushes to the eye or into the manner and betrays us.

But manners, while they are the garb of the gentleman, do not constitute or finally determine his character. Mere politeness can never be a substitute for moral excellence, any more than the bark can take the place of the heart of the oak. It may well indicate the kind of wood below, but not always whether it be sound or decayed. Etiquette is but a substitute for good manners, and is often but their mere counterfeit.

Sincerity is the highest quality of good manners.

The following recipe is recommended to those who wish to acquire genuine good manners:

Of Unselfishness, three drachms;

Of the Tincture of Good Cheer, one ounce;

Of the Essence of Heart's-Ease, three drachms;

Of the Extract of the Rose of Sharon, four ounces;

Of the Oil of Charity, three drachms, and no scruples;

Of the Infusion of Common Sense and Tact, one ounce;

Of the Spirit of Love, two ounces;

The Mixture to be taken whenever there is the slightest symptom of selfishness, exclusiveness, meanness or I-am-better-than-you-ness.

Pattern after Him who gave the Golden Rule, and who was the first true gentleman that ever breathed.—Pushing to the Front.

SEEDED RAISINS.

The Griffin & Skelley Co. advise their customers that all seeded raisins handled by them this season will be packed under the "Forsyth Process," and all boxes will bear a license stamp pasted on them. As these license stamps will only appear on new crop raisins, buyers will thus be protected against old raisins newly seeded, but which have no keeping quality, and are made from sugary or wormy stock.

CEYLON TEA IN AMERICA.

The following appeared in a recent issue of The Overland Times, of Ceylon:

SIR,—I inclose a copy of a letter received from Mr. Mackenzie, re Ceylon tea in America, which may be of interest to your readers.

Yours faithfully,

(Signed) W. D. GIBBON,
per H. W. GAVIN,
Acting Secretary, Planters' Association of Ceylon.

Kandy, Aug. 17.

(Letter referred to.)

VANCOUVER HOTEL, VANCOUVER, July 10.

DEAR MR. MACKENZIE,—When last I had the pleasure of seeing you in my place, at 3 Great Tower street, we had some conversation in regard to your work in the States, about which I rather gathered you were inclined to be a little disheartened. At the time I had no real personal knowledge of the conditlon of the trade or its prospects, but I have since gone through it carefully and have visited the States from east to west, taking in New York, New England, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota, Dakota, Montana, Washington, Oregon and California, in all of which places I have visited the chief cities and discussed Ceylon and Indian prospects with the leading tea houses. I have come to the conclusion that you very much underestimated the result of your labors to me, for I am convinced the most heartbreaking portion of the difficulty (i.e., the initiation) of introducing Ceylon and Indian tea has been well overcome I myself found no difficulty in getting Ceylon tea to drink in all the important hotels I stayed at in the big cities from Portland, Oregon, to Frisco, New York, Chicago, Boston—it was even announced in the bills of fare, that is the tea list was Oolong, Japan, English breakfast and Ceylon tea. No menu that I have seen had Indian tea on it. I am sure that all that now remains to be done is to be extravagant for about 12 months in your subsidies to the large American firms. They are immensely powerful both as to capital and to their facilities for pushing the business. I saw a letter of yours to Reid Murdock, of Chicago, and that is the stamp of firm I consider you would be wise in backing. The Arbuckles, Franklin McVeagh, Sprague Warner, Reid Murdock, Chase & Sanborn, have and control, I believe, far more money than the whole of the London tea trade put together. No English firm can have a chance of competing successfully with the established grocery firms, for, after all, credit is the chief facility required by the retailers. I am sailing to-day for Ceylon in the Empress boat.

(Signed) ARTHUR LAMPARD.

A CASH SYSTEM ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE following circular was issued by a firm in South Portland, Me., that had decided to introduce the cash system:

On and after August 21, 1899, we shall discontinue our credit system and conduct our business only on a strictly cash basis.

We make this change only after careful thought. We will this year complete our thirteenth year of business in South Portland. During that time we have done a large credit business, and from the experience of those years we are firmly convinced that the credit system is an expensive way of doing business, both for the dealer and the customer. We have also learned by experience that it is often those in whom we have reason to place the most confidence, who prove unfaithful to their financial obligations to us, and, therefore, we can see no halfway method of giving credit. Explain it away as much as we please, the fact remains that the credit grocer is handicapped by long and poor accounts, so by selling for cash, and cash only, lower prices can be made than when credit is given, because business can be done at very much less expense, and the loss by bad bills eliminated.

We shall prove to you by prices quoted on and after August 21, that the little effort required to pay cash on delivery of goods will be more than made up to you in the saving by the change.

We have always conducted our business on a "strictly one price to all" basis, which, we believe, has been appreciated by the trade. Our prices have always been the lowest possible for a credit house to give, handling the highest grade of goods.

While we wish to collect in our outstanding accounts as soon as possible, we do not mean by this change to express any dissatisfaction over unsettled accounts due us, and shall exercise a reasonable amount of patience until you become accustomed to the change and see your way clear to meet your obligations.

We take this opportunity to thank you for your generous patronage in the past, and shall make every effort possible, not alone by reducing prices, but by courteous treatment and prompt attention, to merit a continuance and increase of the same.

Believing the cash system to be the more honest and equitable way of doing business, and hoping this may be accepted in the spirit in which it is given, we are,

Yours very respectfully.

WHERE WILL THE TEAS BE SOLD?

The shutting out of inferior teas from this country has naturally led to a larger movement of low-grade leaf towards the British Isles, but most of it is prevented from entering by the Customs officials. Of late the Treasury has ordered greater vigilance to be exercised, at the request of members of the trade. It is reported that more inferior tea has been excluded during the past six months than during the previous four years. If the rejected tea is not destroyed at once it may be sent to some other country or treated with lime and assafœtida, preparatory to the extraction of the alkaloid, caffeine.—N.Y. Merchants' Review.

AN EVIL OF THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

One of the most annoying features of a credit business, when accounts are allowed to go beyond a safe point, is due to the practice of some debtors in transferring part of their patronage to another store, for fear that their account may grow still bigger and beyond their means to pay. These are the honest people, who mean to pay some time. A certain percentage of debtors, of course, will try to get out of paying anything.

But in the case of the honest debtors the creditor finds himself facing a situation in which his own leniency has forged a weapon to drive trade elsewhere, at least temporarily.

Verily, the only absolutely safe course is to sell only for cash.—N. Y. Merchants' Review.

IMITATORS

of IMPERIAL CHEESE always copy our jar and label. In this they may be successful, but they can never imitate the cheese itself.

For this reason, Imperial Cheese is practically the only product of its kind on the market, and always will be, in spite of imitations which are sure to follow.

DEFENCE OF THE TORONTO FAIR.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER, — In an editorial article contained in your issue of the 23rd inst., under the caption of "Fakes at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition," you make three assertions which have no foundation in fact, and which, I think, are calculated to materially injure the Exhibition. They are, (1) that the main building was overrun with "cheap Johns," having the right so sell cheap jewelry, potato peelers, peanuts, candy, etc.; (2) that on account of the number of these "cheap Johns" legitimate manufacturers could not get as much space as they required; and (3) that the number of these selling rights is yearly growing larger and keeping out legitimate exhibitors.

For the past seven years I have had the honor to be chairman of the main and music buildings, and if there is blame in this matter I must shoulder the responsibility. The fact is, however, that during the entire period I have steadily decreased the number of selling rights in these buildings, until at present there is not one selling right where there formerly was five. There were only 11 selling rights all told given in the main building this year, as against 19 last year, and in this are included the refreshment stands put in at the request of the ladies' committee. In the piano building, where last year there were nine selling rights, this year there was only one, and that a soda water fountain put in at the request of the exhibitors themselves.

It is absolutely untrue that manufacturers have been crowded out, or the space of those exhibiting curtailed by reason of these selling rights, for we have always made it a rule to serve exhibitors first, without any regard, whatever, to the matter of selling rights. We do not pretend to give every exhibitor all the space they want. To do this would require a building several times as large as the one we are now compelled to use. We do, however, try to give them all that they can in fairness ask for, and all that we think they can reasonably use. You know, Mr. Editor, that even in the newspaper business it is impossible to please everybody, and it is just the same in the Exhibition. The superintendent of the main and music buildings, Mr. Unitt (one of the most gentlemanly and obliging men alive), finds it difficult to suit every exhibitor. Some people practically want the earth, and it is impossible when there are several of such exhibitors to give them all the most prominent places, and a monopoly of space, although we try to do so.

In regard to the quality of the exhibits, opinions appear to differ. My duties oblige me annually to carefully inspect every exhibit in the buildings under my control, and, in my own opinion (which has been indorsed by many capable judges, who made a careful examination of them) the exhibits this year were fully equal, if not superior, to those of former years. On account of the unprecedented rush of business among our manufacturers, many of our usual exhibitors found it impossible to get goods enough together to make an exhibit at all. On the other hand, quite a number of manufacturers sent the goods they had made up specially for the coming World's Fair at Paris, France, and, as may be inferred, these were the best they could produce, and a credit to Canada or any other country.

Without taking up much more of your valuable space, I may say that it has always been the policy of the board of the Toronto Exhibition to give their exhibitors (whether manufacturers or others) all the space and facilities that they can fairly use.

I have never known of an exhibition that had not selling rights amongst its exhibits. I challenge an honest comparison as to the numbers of these, between the main and music buildings of the Toronto Exhibition and any other prominent exhibition in the world, not excepting the World's Fairs of Philadelphia and Chicago. In spite of all this, however, our policy, as previously stated, has always been to subordinate these selling rights to the needs of actual exhibitors, and I am satisfied that it will so continue.

In my opinion, the crying need of our Canadian manufacturers at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, is a new and thoroughly up-to-date main building, where their products can not only be properly exhibited, but properly seen and inspected in comfort by the visitors. The present main building, although quite good enough 21 years ago, is to-day away behind the age and ill suited either to protect valuable goods or show them to advantage. The addition of such a building to the equipment of the association would mark a new era in the growth of the Exhibition, and if influential journals like THE CANADIAN GROCER would aid in effecting this they would do the Exhibition more real good than by enlarging upon the faults that I have dealt with in this letter.

W. K. MCNAUGHT.

COCOA IN THE UNITED KINGDOM

An English trade paper of a recent date has the following:

"In the year 1897-98 there was a very large rise in the imports of foreign manufactured cocoa—so large that we felt it our duty to direct the attention of British manufacturers to the question whether they, too, could not manage to hit a public taste which was evidently only waiting to be catered for. We are, therefore, very pleased to see the result which followed more careful attention to the manufacture of thin as distinct from thick cocoa, which is, no doubt, the root of the change. The manufacturers in the United Kingdom have looked to their laurels, have 'buckled to' with a will, and the result is that while last year our imports of raw cocoa showed an increase of 4,500,000 lb. the importation of foreigh manufactured cocoa shows a decrease of 1,663,031 lb., plainly indicating that while the popular appreciation of cocoa is on the up-grade, British manufacturers are now reaping due benefit from it."

LONDON RETAIL GROCERS.

THE ninth annual meeting of the London Retail Grocers' Association was held on September 19, with Mr. R.A. Jones, president, in the chair.

Mr. J. C. Trebilcock, on behalf of the excursion committee, reported that a full statement of receipts and disbursements had been made out, and, as chairman of the committee, he took pleasure in handing over to the treasurer of the association a cheque for $73.52, balance on hand.

The excursion committee were tendered a hearty vote of thanks for the able manner in which they conducted the excursion. Everything was so well arranged that not a word of fault could be said by any person who took the trip. The excursion was a success financially, and a pleasant day's outing, which must be very gratifying to the committee and the members of the association generally.

The officers elected were :

President—T. A. Rowat.
Vice-President—J. C. Trebilcock.
Treasurer—W. H. Branton.
Secretary—E. Sutton.
Guard—W. H. Ferguson.
Directors—George Lo eless, F. Robinson, N. McLeod and D. Shoebotham.

Mr. T. A. Rowat thanked the members for the honorable position they had placed him in, and he hoped he would always have the hearty support of the officers and members of the association. This association had been a benefit to the trade from the time of its organization to the present, and he hoped the members would all join hands with the officers elected and make it still more beneficial. The several officers elected thanked the members for placing them in office, and hoped for a prosperous year for the association and the trade. It was suggested that a special meeting of the officers be called as soon as possible, and the president called a meeting for Monday evening, September 25.

The market committee reported progress on the application to the city council for space to stand grocers' horses and rigs on the market square during the time grocers are purchasing and loading market produce.

The supply of some lines of canned goods was reported to be limited, and quotations considerably in advance of last year. A half-hour's sociable chat brought a very pleasant meeting to a close.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS WANTED.

The following are among the inquiries received at the Canadian Government Office in London during the week ending 15th September :

A large firm of general importers and buying agents are open to take charge of consignments of wood pulp, and are desirous of corresponding with Canadian producers.

Manufacturers of cemented strapping for machinery, Welsh and English roller skins, laces and other leather goods, ask for names of Canadian houses to whom they can submit prices and samples.

The sole agency for consignments of first-class Canadian butter and cheese is desired by a gentleman with good connection among large supply stores.

A commission agent in Antwerp is desirous of taking up the agency for a few first-class canning and preserving companies.

Any information that can be supplied will be forwarded by THE CANADIAN GROCER to destination.

A full stock of codfish, cases, quintals, half-quintals, and boxes ; boneless fish, Labrador and shore herring, has been received by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

THE LACK OF THOROUGHNESS.

THE great need of to-day is thoroughness. Lack of it in the performance of duty begins with the clerk and stays with the employer.

Knowledge of duties which are to be performed is proportionate to the thoroughness which is exercised.

Doing a thing even within 1 per cent. of your best is not thoroughness; thoroughness is the exercising of the 100 per cent. of your ability.

It is a great temptation, in the hurry and bustle of life, to just stop short of doing your best, and console yourself with the thought: "Oh, that will do; no one will know the difference." But some one will know it. You know it. And there is no one the practice injures as much as it does you; for the oftener a man fails to do his very best the harder is it for him to do his best the next time he is called upon to do so.

The very foundation of success is thoroughness. Genius has no comparison to it.

Employers are to-day watching for men of thoroughness; customers are watching for merchants of thoroughness. And success awaits all who practise it.

There is an old motto which we often forget, but which it would pay us all to remember, namely, "Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well."

DRIED FRUIT BUSINESS IN MONTREAL.

BUSINESS for importation in currants and Valencia raisins this fall has been disappointing in Montreal so far, contracts being light, the high prices ruling at primary points having checked the demand.

Within the past ten days, however, easier advices have been received from Denia on raisins, quoting a decline of 1s. to 1s. 6d. in the price of well-known brands, for shipment by second direct steamer to Montreal.

Layers are now quoted at equivalent to a laid-down price in Montreal of 6¼c. for layers, 5¾c. for selected, 5c. for fine off-stalk, and 4½c. for off-stalk.

The first direct steamer for Montreal sailed on September 18, and is expected to arrive between October 10 and 15. No definite details of her cargo have yet been received.

Cables from Patras on currants repoited the market better, with an upward tendency, owing to an improved demand, and it is added that only smaller quantities are obtainable at the higher prices.

Other cables quoted a decline of 3d. in the price of Provincials and Filiatrias, but quoted higher grades steady.

THE HOP CROP.

From advices received by W. P. Downey, Montreal, it would appear that while the hop crop in the Eastern United States is only about two-thirds, the crop on the Pacific Coast and in continental Europe is so much larger than usual that prices will be kept at a reasonable figure.

The stock of yearling and older hops is now in small compass, and any deficiency in the crop this year would have been disastrous to consumers. The condition of affairs leads to the conviction that time will come when it would be wise to fill up any stocks and to keep a few over for the following year.

WHY ADVERTISING DID NOT PAY HIM.

ADVERTISING, to be successful, must be honest. And not a few who complain that advertising does not pay could, no doubt, trace the cause rather to their own untruthfulness than to the medium through which they make their announcement to the public.

Most people who are dishonest in their advertisements would, doubtless, scout the idea that they were. They would, perhaps, acknowledge that they exaggerated a little. And exaggeration, they fancy, is legitimate.

But to exaggerate is to lie, and to lie is to be dishonest.

A customer may not discover that the article advertised is only worth $1 which the advertiser declared to be worth $1.50, but would be sold for 75c. But there is a possibility that he will. And merchants cannot afford to run risks of this kind. Neither does it pay to fool people by resorting to the trick born of the department store, namely, to advertise that a certain line will be sold at a certain hour at a fabulously low figure, and then to declare it has been sold out when people flock to the store to buy it.

Dishonest advertising and successful advertising are not synonymous terms, as some seem to suppose. A large retail merchant in a certain Canadian city had this proved to him a year or two ago.

He was complaining to a friend of his who was engaged in the newspaper business that advertising did not pay. Being on intimate terms, the latter plainly told the former that advertising did not pay him because he frequently did not tell the truth in his announcements. "People," he said, "have come to your store time and again and found that the goods were either not as represented or had been sold."

The outcome of the conversation was that the newspaperman volunteered to write his friend's advertisements for a short time, in order to prove the correctness of his promise.

The merchant agreed. After a while people began to learn that the goods were as advertised. And the merchant in question no longer doubts the efficacy of advertising—that is honest advertising.

MR. TARTE'S EYES OPENED REGARDING THE ST. LAWRENCE.

THE Minister of Public Works evidently kept his eyes open when he was abroad recently, for he tells us that he has discovered that the buoys and lighthouses on the St. Lawrence are totally inadequate to make that route to the sea a safe one, particularly in comparison with the rivers and harbors he visited in Great Britain.

If there is anything done as a result of Hon. Mr. Tarte's seeing, the Dominion in general, and the St. Lawrence route in particular, will be the gainer, for it was no stretch of the imagination when the Minister intimated that the route in question is in an unsafe condition owing to a laxity of buoys and lighthouses.

What has become so evident to the Minister of Public Works has long been evident to a good many conversant with the St. Lawrence route, except seemingly Ministers of the Crown, who were, it is more than suspected, much more interested in the buoys and lighthouses that would guide them into ways and bye-ways which would perpetuate them in power. The marine insurance underwriters in Great Britain knew, however, and the high rates of insurance on steamers running to the St. Lawrence, as compared with those plying to United States ports, is the result of this knowledge.

With the public expenditure as large as it is, to urge the undertaking of that which would still further enlarge it is something that should only be done when circumstances urgently demand it.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is persuaded that an increase—and a large increase, too—in the buoys and lighthouses on the St. Lawrence is necessary, beyond all question, and, as this cannot be done without money, it does not hesitate to urge the Government to make the necessary expenditure.

The trouble is that, in our over-liberality in bonussing railways, we have to a large extent overlooked the safeguarding of such outlets to the sea as the St. Lawrence river and Gulf.

Now that we are reaping the whirlwind of this policy, we are becoming thoroughly awake. With this awakening there is a desire to put our house—or, rather, our St. Lawrence route—in order, and thus bring about a removal of the discriminating marine insurance rates against Canadian ocean routes.

But we cannot secure this as long as we expect to secure a maximum of safety from a minimum of expenditure.

Before, however, undertaking the work it would, it seems to us, be best for the Government to appoint experts to thoroughly investigate, not only the St. Lawrence, but every other important Canadian exit to the Atlantic, and to formulate its policy upon their report. The question of extensive deckloads and lengthy delays to which steamers are put might also come in for a share of the attention of the commission.

And whatever is done should be done quickly.

CANADIAN BUTTER IN ENGLAND.

ACCORDING to late mail advices it is not yet certain that the drought of 1899 has broken up in Europe.

It is argued that the showers prevalent during the early part of September over Europe, are far too insignificant in character to supply the thirsty land with the immense amount of moisture necessary to restore it to a normal condition.

It is many years, in fact, since such unfavorable conditions for dairying existed as prevail at present all over the butter producing countries of Europe. These circumstances have an important bearing in relation to Canadian creamery, and it is satisfactory to note that our butter is increasing its hold on the British market. For instance, during the four weeks ending September 8, British imports of Canadian butter amounted to 58,648 cwt. This is an absolute record.

During August 61,000 cwt. were imported as against 15,700 cwt. for August last year, and 10,800 cwt. for the year previous. The high prices prevailing in the British market, which are higher than any year since 1882, are largely responsible for this enormous influx of Canadian butter into England, but the greatly improved quality of the Canadian product has also been no inconsiderable factor.

Values on choicest fresh-made Canadian creameries in England have ranged lately from 106s. to 110s. per cwt., and "Finest" 100s. to 104s.

Arrivals of Australian butter have already commenced, and weekly shipments from the Antipodes are due until about the middle of October, when the new season's spring grass butter will arrive. This butter has mostly gone into cold storage in Britain, but some of it has been sold at 103s. to 112s., according to brand.

Danish butter has ruled very high in price, the official quotation at Copenhagen having advanced to 108 kroner, as against 97 a month ago. Last year at the same time it was 15 kroner lower.

This great rise in value since the end of July has been due to the short European supply, caused by the hot, dry weather, which destroyed pastures in the west and northwest of Europe. Great Britain has been forced into increasing her imports from this continent by this condition, for during August she took from Canada and the United States 92,425 cwt., against 16,586 in August, last year. In the four weeks ending September 8, she took 90,591 cwt. from Canada and the United States, as against 113,948 from Denmark.

The bulk of her transatlantic receipts during the period named came from Canada; 61,000 coming from ourselves, and 29,591 from the States. The Canadian and American receipts in Britain, therefore, have nearly equalled Danish, and, if Canadian butter, having once gained this foothold, only maintains its high grade of quality, there is no reason that it should ever lose it again, but rather that it should be increased.

The manufacturing confectioners of the United States have formed a trust. The sweet thing!

WHOLESALERS' AND BROKERS' DIRECTORY.

One of the features of the coming special fall number of THE CANADIAN GROCER will be a directory of wholesale grocers and grocery brokers in Canada. Will all wholesale grocers and brokers, therefore, kindly send us at once their names and addresses, as we desire to make the list as complete as possible?

MR. McNAUGHT'S DEFENCE OF TORONTO FAIR.

IN another column will be found a letter from Mr. W. K. McNaught, in reply to an article headed, "Fakes at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition," printed in our last issue.

We must congratulate Mr. McNaught upon the gentlemanly and dignified tone of his letter, but, in self-defence, we cannot allow it to pass without some criticism.

What Mr. McNaught says in regard to the selling privileges in the main building we are quite prepared to accept. We are glad to know that he, as chairman of the building, has been instrumental in reducing the number of such selling privileges, and we presume that he would have still further reduced the number were it not that he could not resist the importuning of the ladies' committee. From the very fact that Mr. McNaught has so persistently set himself to the task of weeding out from the main building those who took space to sell and not to exhibit goods, he is obviously of the same mind as THE CANADIAN GROCER, and a good many people whose opinion it voices, that such things are foreign to the original intention of the Toronto Exhibition.

We think, however, that Mr. McNaught is a little hard on us when he declares the article in question made "assertions which have no foundation in fact," for we still persist, notwithstanding what he himself has tried to do as chairman of the building committee, that there is too much space given up to people whose purpose is not to exhibit, but to sell, and that goods which are commonly designated "Cheap John" goods. In this report we are not voicing our own opinion alone, but that of scores of people who visited the main building.

Mr. McNaught must not for one moment think we are blaming him personally for the condition of affairs in the main building. We are blaming no one. What we are blaming is the system that permits those "Cheap John" affairs to have a place in the main building. We believe that Mr. McNaught, as chairman of the main building, is the right man in the right place, and we are more than ever confident of this after learning from his letter, published elsewhere, that he is engaged in the task of weeding out the potato peelers, jewelry and other pedlars, and the restauranteurs. May he long be chairman of the main building!

It will be noticed that Mr. McNaught makes no remark whatever in regard to the gravest of all charges levied against the management of the Industrial Exhibition. We refer to the charge regarding the indecency, implied and real, which characterized, day by day, some of the side-shows in the so-called Midway Plaisance.

Those who know Mr. McNaught, either personally or by repute, are perfectly aware that such shows would have rather his condemnation, than his approval. If, therefore, he did not think it politic to commend our remarks in this respect, we do not think he should, in the beginning of his letter, have declared that our assertions had "no foundation in fact."

CHEESE AGAIN DEARER.

As anticipated in these columns two weeks ago, the slump in the price of cheese, which was then noted, proved to be but a temporrary depression, as THE CANADIAN GROCER at the time intimated was possible.

Since that time, the market has steadily strengthened, until now the ruling figure for September cheese at country boards is 11¾c., just ¼c. lower than the remarkably high notch of three weeks ago. This figure has been maintained all week.

The erratic manner in which prices have risen and fallen at country boards shows that there is more than ordinary market conditions at work. In the past month prices have risen from 10¾ to 12c.; slumped back to 10¾c., and advanced again to 11¾c. In this time there has been no change in the market conditions that might be considered as remarkable, or that warrant such changes in values. The natural inference is that the large dealers of cheese are manipulating prices to help swell their profits for the year.

While the market conditions warrant 11¾ to 12c. for good September cheese, concerted action on the part of buyers may result, as it has resulted, in a short panic, when the operators can secure supplies at from 11 to 11¼c. Such a panic would naturally be followed by a strengthened feeling, which, sending prices on country boards up again to 11¾ or 12c., would help the operators to sell at the top figure, thus netting for them the extra ¾c.

INFERIOR DAIRY BUTTER.

The receipts of dairy butter at Toronto at present include altogether too much stock that shows signs of being held in cellars or storehouses. It is off color, and has to be sold or held, as inferior stock.

It has frequently been emphasized that the market conditions are not such that it can prove profitable to hold butter in storage in the hope of a material advance.

In the past six weeks there has been an advance of 2c. in the price of dairy butter. This is as much as could possibly be expected.

Merchants who have held butter, which a month or so ago would have received the top figure, have to accept from 3 to 4c. less than the high prices now ruling, on account of deterioration in quality. This means that, besides the capital locked up in butter that has been thus held, the merchant loses 1 to 2c. on every pound of butter he now sends into market that has been held in cellars for a month or six weeks, and that has lost in quality while so held.

THE INDIAN TEA CROP.

The total season's crop of Indian tea is now estimated at 163,000,000 lb. The actual crop of last season was 154,000,000 lb. It is estimated that 135,000,000 lb. will be shipped to the United Kingdom, against 135,400,000 lb. last year.

A HELP FOR WINDOW-DRESSERS.

During the summer season the grocer finds it difficult to make his window displays attractive; in fact, many of them make no attempt at it. Flies and the extreme heat render it impossible to show fancy shelf goods without loss. But now, as the cooler season is here, the wide-awake merchant will take advantage of it and use his show-windows to the best advantage. Most window-trimmers are often puzzled to know what kind of a display to make for a change, for, unless a window has some artistic or some mechanical design that will make the people stop and look, the time expended is wasted, as the busy public will pass them by unnoticed.

A little book has been gotten up by American experts and published in New York City, which contains 52 new designs for window dressing. We think it would be a great help to the clerk or merchant who takes an interest in his show-windows and uses them to attract trade to the store.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, September 28, 1899.

GROCERIES.

TRADE continues in a satisfactory condition for this time of the year. New seasonable goods are gradually arriving on the market. The first shipment of new currants arrived on Saturday last. It was a small one, however, and came via Liverpool. Another shipment of Valencia raisins, this time via Liverpool, is expected within a few days. The sugar market is easy, and the demand is not as brisk as it was. Molasses and syrups are meeting with a fairly good demand. Teas are steady to firm in price, and wholesalers are experiencing a fairly good trade. There has been no apparent change in the canned goods situation, business still being quiet and prices firm. Further shipments of candied peels have arrived during the week.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no apparent change during the week. The market is now in a waiting condition, and as the demand is almost nil, there is no need of hurry. Corn continues to be the strongest feature of the market. A transaction is reported at 90c. f.o.b. factory. One factory would sell at 95c., delivered, but a wholesaler informed THE CANADIAN GROCER that he could buy at slightly lower figures than those named. Very few packers, however, are offering corn, or, in fact, anything else for that matter. We hear of no tomatoes being quoted by wholesalers this week at 80c., the ruling quotation being 85c., either for old or new pack. New season's pack is now being delivered to the wholesale trade. Last year delivery was guaranteed as early as September 1. Canned salmon is quiet and steady, although a little uncertainty obtains as to the future of the market. New pack salmon is arriving this week. Ruling quotations to the retail trade are: Fraser river fish, $1.35 to $1.40; northern pack, $1.25 to $1.30; cohoes, $1.05 to $1.10.

COFFEES.

The coffee market is characterized by a steady undertone, particularly in regard to Brazilian kinds. Locally, there is a fair demand for green coffees at unchanged prices.

SUGARS.

The European and United States markets have been unsettled during the past week, and prices have ruled lower on both beet and cane sugar. In Canada, the demand has fallen off during the week, although there is still a fair trade being done for this time of the year. One of the refineries, the St. Lawrence, reduced its prices 5c. per 100 lb. on Tuesday, but, up to the time of writing, the other refineries had not followed. It is most likely, however, that they will, unless the outside markets take a turn for the better. In the meantime, however, prices remain the same as they were last week.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is a good demand for molasses this week, and syrups, both corn and sugar, are selling fairly well. There are some United States offering, but they cost too high.

NUTS.

The feature of the nut market is an advance of 10s. per sack, or equal to 1¼c.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

per lb. in the price of filberts. The advance is due to the short crop, and the laid-down cost of carload lots is now about 9c. per lb.

TEAS.

The tea markets continue to rule steady to firm. Indian and Ceylon teas advanced another ¼d. at last week's auction in London, and advices indicate a strong market in Colombo and Calcutta. On the local market there are very few desirable teas to be had. It is practically impossible to get teas on spot under 14c. per lb. The market for Japan teas rules steady. There have been some more transactions in old teas at about 11c., but these are gradually getting out of first hands. China green teas continue firm.

Gow, Wilson & Stanton's tea report on Indian and Ceylon teas, under date of September 15, says: "So much of the accumulation in importers' hands has now been disposed of that the market may be considered to have almost regained its normal condition. Dealers' stocks were so much reduced by the long cessation of auctions that the resulting demand has now proved sufficient to cause an advance from recent low prices. A strong inquiry for low-priced teas has also been noticeable during the past week, indicating a shortage of this grade in buyers' hands. As recent advices from India and Ceylon point to only moderate supplies coming forward, prospects seem to favor a good market, which should be maintained through the aid of the regulating committee, by bringing easily working quantities to auction."

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The first shipment of new season's currants arrived on Saturday last. They came via Liverpool. The quality is good and rather above the average. The first direct shipment, ex ss. Escalona, is expected to arrive about the second week in October. The small shipment which arrived on Saturday cost high. The finest Vostizzas are going out to the retail trade at 7½c. per lb. To arrive 6½c. per lb. is being quoted for choice Patras, and for Vostizzas 7 to 7½c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Although the primary market continues to fluctuate with narrow ranges, advices from reliable shippers seem to indicate that anything in the shape of low prices is not to be expected this season, the crop being distinctly smaller than last year, while the demand from all parts of the world is good. The chief difficulty in Spain has been to get the farmers to sell at prices which the exporters are prepared to pay. A second shipment via Liverpool and Montreal is expected to arrive at the end of this week. Prices will probably rule about ¼c. per lb. lower than first shipment.

SULTANA RAISINS—The few new Sultana raisins there are on the market are selling at 12 to 13c. for good to fine fruit. For arrival by the first direct steamer 10 to 12c. per lb. is quoted.

CANDIED PEELS—Further shipments of peels are being taken into stock, but there is not much being done yet. We quote: Lemon, 11 to 12c. per lb.; orange, 12 to 13c.; citron, 15½ to 17c., according to quality.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS—A telegram received in Toronto on Tuesday announced an advance of ½c. per lb. in the price of Californian peaches on the Coast. The wholesale trade is quoting to the retail trade at 9½ to 10½c. in bags to arrive. Apricots continue firm, and will cost the retail trade about 15 to 20c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

A few Sorrento and Maori lemons are offering on the market at $6.50 to $7 per box. The boxes are all 300's, but the $7 box is full of much larger fruit. A few old Messinas are left on the market at $3.25 to $3.50 for open boxes. Boxes packed for outside delivery would cost $4. Cape Cod cranberries are also in. They are selling at $8 per bbl. or $3 per case. These are of excellent quality. Some Canadian berries of fair quality are offering at 60c. per 8-quart basket. Winter apples are stiffening, now being quoted at $2.50 to $3. Spanish onions are steady in price and in good demand at $1.25 per case. Tomatoes are still offering liberally, but the demand is steadily quieting down. They are now quoted at 20 to 25c., a decline of 5c. Bartlett pears are in good demand at 75 to 85c. Other varieties sell fairly well at 50 to 60c. The quality of peaches now offering is inferior to that of former weeks, and prices have fallen to 50 to 85c. There is a good offering and as good a demand for grapes, which are steady at 15 to 20c. per 10-lb. basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS — Receipts are moderate, and holders are firm in requiring 13c. at outside points for strictly fresh. Dealers here are selling these eggs at 15c., giving a very small margin. They claim the price should be 15½c. to 16c., and will put it there if possible. Held eggs are selling all the way from 10c to 14c., according to quality.

BEANS—Old beans are moving fairly well at $1 to $1.10 per bushel for hand-picked, and 85c. to 90c. for primes. None of the new crop is yet offering.

HONEY — Conditions are unchanged, prices keeping high on account of the scarcity. The demand is good. We quote: Clover extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb., according to package; Clover comb No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Some new stock is beginning to arrive. The demand is good at 8½c. per lb. in a jobbing way as an opening price. It is generally expected that prices will be well maintained this season, as a good price is being paid for apples at the orchards. The opening price with jobbers last season was 8c., but this was followed by an advance of 1c. very shortly.

VEGETABLES — Fall apples are 50c. cheaper, and squash have declined 25 to 50c. There is a good demand for all other vegetables and prices are firm throughout. We quote as follows: Cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz; red cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; cauliflowers, $1 to $1.25 per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 20 to 40c. per hundred; muskmelons, 30 to 50c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; fall apples, $1.75 to $2 per bbl.; squash, 75c. to $1 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Much of the dairy butter now coming in is inferior. It is off color, giving evidence of having been held for some time. The result is that first-class dairy is in brisk demand, but inferior stuff is not sold so readily, even at the reduced prices. Creamery is steady at unchanged prices, the export demand taking all surplus stock. Choice dairy tubs are quoted at 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The market is again showing a strongly bullish tendency. From 11½ to 11¾c. is freely bid at country boards for August and September makes. While many sales are made at these figures, almost as many factorymen are refusing them. Early makes are selling locally in a jobbing way at 11½ to 12c.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

Trout is more plentiful this week, and the market consequently is easier. On account of the cold weather oysters are extremely scarce. Many packers have been unable to fill orders, some only being able to fill about half of them. Finnan haddie is offering at 7½ to 8c. per lb. Ciscoes are in at $1.25 per basket. We quote as follows: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; whitefish, 9c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; western salmon, 12½ to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; fiinnan haddies, 7½ to 8c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; ciscoes, $1.25 per basket. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.35; selects, $1.75; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The feeling is stronger, and an advance of 1c. is shown in wheat. At outside points, 68 to 69c. is paid for red and white. The deliveries are fairly active. There is a moderate movement on the local street market. No peas or rye are offering.

Corona Golden Figs

Fruit Commission Merchants.

Prices are well maintained. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 69½ to 70c.; goose, 74½ to 75c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 30 to 31c.; barley, 44 to 46c.; rye, 53½c.; No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat, is firmer at 78c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—Ontario grades keep firm, and have a steadying influence on Manitoba grades, which are inclined to be easy, because of the increased production. Prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change. A good movement is reported, with prices stiff. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.50 in bags and $3.60 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

SEEDS.

The scarcity of alsike is keeping the demand for this seed quite brisk, and buyers are paying from $4 to $6 per bush., according to quality, at outside points, and even more than this for extra fine samples. A little timothy is still moving, dealers paying $1 to $1.25 for good to choice machine-threshed seed, and 25c. more for fancy samples.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Conditions are unchanged. A good demand keeps prices stiff. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9c.

SKINS—The price of sheep and lambskins continues to rise, the advance being 5c. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 60c.

WOOL—A better feeling is noted. A fair demand from manufacturers is noted, but the general movement is light. We quote: clothing wool, 16c.; combing fleece, 14 to 14½c.; unwashed, 9 to 10c.

SALT.

A steady business is reported, with prices unaltered. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Californian evaporated peaches are wired ½c. per lb. dearer.

New season's Fraser river canned salmon is on the local market.

Evaporated apples are beginning to move in a jobbing way at 8½c. per lb.

Cheese is selling at 11¾c. at country board, an advance of ½c. in the week.

The St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery has reduced its price of granulated sugar 5c. per 100 lb.

Trout is more plentiful, and is 7 to 7c½., a decline of ½c. Ciscoes are offering at $1.25 per basket, finnan haddies at 7½ to 8c.

Sorrento and Maori lemons are offering at $6.50 to $7 per box. Cape Cod cranberries can now be had for $8 per bbl. or $3 per case.

W. Rogers & Co., of Denia, Spain, are showing, through their agents, Watt & Scott, finest Valencia raisins put up in 2¼-lb. cardboard cartons with fancy embroidered papers, 50 cartons to the case.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, September 28, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE movement in general groceries has been a fairly good one. Sugars have shown no response here to the decline in New York prices, ruling steady, but the demand is moderate. Syrups and molasses are quiet. Advices on Valencia raisins are rather lower, while currants at primary points are firmer in tone. Business for importation, however, in both lines has been disappointing, the high prices checking trade. Canned goods are steady, and the firm tendency abroad on rice continues. Coffee rules steady, and there has been some inquiry in regard to black tea, but little new business has yet resulted therefrom.

SUGAR.

The decline in New York in the price of refined has not affected prices here in any way, values on the refined article ruling steady as last quoted, at $4.65 for granulated, $3.75 to $4.25 for yellows, according to grade. Demand is fair for the season and stocks are small. In raws, the situation has been easy abroad, on the whole. London cables this week state that the tone for beet is rather weak, with the present position ¾d. lower, and quoted at 9s. 6¾d., but October was unchanged, and quoted at 9s. 6¾d. Cane was quiet, and 1¾d. lower for Java, which was quoted at 11s. 10½d., and fair refining was quoted at 11s. In New York, raw was also dull and easier; fair refining, 3 13-16c.; centrifugal, 96 test, 4 5-16c., and molasses sugar, 3 9-16c.

SYRUPS.

Trade in this line continues exceedingly quiet, and the market is entirely without feature, values being nominally quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

This staple stands in precisely the same position as it occupied last week. Demand is still limited in its nature, as the distributing trade has not yet set in to any extent, while there is little inquiry for round lots. Prices remain at 35c. for carlots and 36c. for single puncheons, while round lots are obtainable from first hands at 32½ to 33c.

DRIED FRUITS.

According to recent cable advices, an easier feeling has developed in Valencia raisins, Denia reports noting a decline of 1s. to 1s. 6d. in the price of well-known brands, and prices are now quoted the equivalent of 6¼c. for layers, 5¾c. for selected, 5c. for fine off-stalk, and 4½c. for off-stalk laid down in Montreal.

Advices from Patras on currants reported the market better with an upward tendency, owing to an improved demand, and only small quantities are obtainable. Demand for staple dried fruit for importation has been backward on account of the high prices ruling.

CANNED GOODS.

Business in canned goods has continued quiet, but the tone of the market is firm, and prices are firmly held here as a rule. Corn on spot is quoted at 90c. to 92½c., and tomatoes at 77½c. per dozen.

RICE.

The firm tendency of the rice market continues abroad, and the fact is reflected on the spot market. A fairly active trade is noted, demand being of a steady character.

COFFEES.

There is a quiet, but steady tone to the coffee market, the only business of importance consisting of a few lots of Maracaibos around 8½c., and prices run upwards to 12c., according to grade. Rio is steady at 7 to 10c., and Santos at the same range. Mocha and Java beans are quoted at 20c. upwards, as to grade.

SPICES.

There has been little change in this market. Pimento is quiet and about steady at the recent decline, while pepper rules firm. Tapioca is cabled at 16s. 9d. for prompt shipment from London, which is equal to about 4¾c., laid down here.

TEAS.

The tea market has not furnished any striking change during the week. Some inquiry has been experienced for black teas, especially Indians and Ceylons, which are strong in tone, but little or no new business resulted. A few small lots of Congous have changed hands at 12½c., and some sales of Japans are noted at 12¼c. for old crop. Cables state that Japans are ½c. up. In green teas some Pingsueys have sold at 13 to 15½c., as to grade, the inside for common stock.

FIRST, THE QUALITY IS REGULAR.—Not only best, but "regular." Please note. This is as important as excellence. Good Tea of regular quality which does not vary is a delightful beverage and it can always be relied on.

SECOND, THE DESCRIPTIONS ARE TRUE.—There is as much variety in Tea as in Wine. Every lady who buys Tea desires to know the truth about her purchases. Full reliance can be placed on the description of the various qualities in their Price List.

THIRD, THE PRICES ARE POPULAR.—A fair price for a good article is a wise principle. Unfair prices, whether too high or too low, mean robbery. The prices of TOWER TEA are based on the cost of production and distribution. Therefore these prices are popular.

GREEN FRUITS.

It has been another busy week in the green fruit trade, as a result of heavy receipts and an active consumptive demand, which has led to a well cleared up market. Early fall apples meet a fair demand at $1.75 to $2, while $2.25 to $3 is asked for late fall. Receipts have not been large so far and demand has been good. Canadian pears are scarce, with a good inquiry at $4 to $6 per bbl. and 35c. to 75c. per basket. There has been a light supply of Canadian peaches and prices were steady at 75c. to $1.25. Canadian plums are about off the market. Receipts of grapes have been ample, but demand was good, so that supplies did not accumulate. Red sold at 20 to 25c, white 18 to 22½c., and blue 15 to 18c. per basket. Supplies of bananas have been in excess of the demand, prices ranging from 90c. to $1.40 per bunch, as to quality. First arrivals of new Jamaica oranges are now on the market, and are moving well at $8 to $8.50 per bbl. New lemons are steady at $4 25 to $4.50 per box. Receipts of Californian fruits have been light in comparison with last season and prices are steady at $1.25 to $1.50 for peaches, $3.45 for plums and $2.50 to $3 per box for pears.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was a good demand, and trade was active at firm prices. We quote: Choice candled stock, 16½ to 17c.; straight lots, 14½ to 15c.; No. 2, 12 to 13c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The market for maple product is still quiet. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 55 to 60c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—A fair trade was reported in honey at steady prices. White clover in comb is quoted at 12c. and extracted at 8 to 9c.; and buckwheat at 5½ to 6½c. per lb.

BEANS — In beans, only a small jobbing trade is passing. We quote: Choice hand-picked, 95 to $1, and primes, 85 to 90c. per bushel.

GAME—Receipts of partridges were fair, and met with a good demand at 60c. for firsts and at 30 to 35c. for seconds per brace.

ASHES — There was nothing new in the market for ashes. We quote: First sorts $3.75 to $3 85; seconds, do., $3.65, and first pearls, $5 to $5.10 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR — In sympathy with the advance in the wheat market of late, a stronger feeling developed in flour to-day, which resulted in Manitoba millers advancing prices, but they are by no means on a par with one another, as one concern quotes patents at $4.10, and strong bakers' at $3 60; while the other quotes patents at $3.80 to $3 90, and strong bakers' at $3.50 to $3.60. There was an active demand from foreign buyers for the above grades, and some large sales were put through, including one lot of 4,000 sacks. The demand from lower port buyers was also good, and sales aggregating 2,500 barrels were reported. In Ontario brands there was a much firmer feeling, but no actual change in prices has taken place yet; but they will no doubt fall in line with the above grades, if the advance in wheat is maintained. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.50 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.25 to $3.35; in bags, $1.55 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.75 to $3.85; strong bakers', $3.45 to $3.55.

WHEAT—A feature of the local grain market to-day was the weaker feeling that prevailed in all lines of coarse grains in spite of the strong and advancing markets for wheat. The decline in peas, oats and barley ranged from ½ to 1c. per bushel, which was said to be due chiefly to the weaker advices from abroad on the same. Peas were quoted at 70½ to 71c. afloat, but, according to bids received over the cable, shippers stated that the could not pay more than 69c. afloat, which figure, of course, holders refused. Oats were quoted at 30¼c. afloat, and cables from London on the same stated that the market was depressed on large shipments from America. No. 2 barley was dull and quoted at 45½ to 46c., and feed do., at 43c. afloat. On the other hand there was a good demand for Manitoba wheat from foreign buyers, and a fairly active business was reported at higher prices. There was also a good demand from shippers here for wheat in the Winnipeg market, and some round lots were purchased at an advance of ½ to 1c. per bush. over Saturday's close, including one lot of 50,000 bush. of No. 1 hard at 69½ to 70c. for delivery first half of October, afloat Fort William.

OATMEAL—In rolled oats there was no change to note. The demand is still quiet, at $3.50 per barrel and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—The tone of the feed market was strong, owing to the continued good demand and small supplies. In consequence, millers marked up prices $1 to $1.50 per ton, with Manitoba bran now quoted at $15 to $15.50, and shorts at $17 to $17.50 per ton, including bags.

BALED HAY—There was no change in the situation of the market for baled hay. Demand is good and prices firm. Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50; and clover, at $5.50 to $6 per ton, on track.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the market, prices being steady all around. Demand for all lines is still quiet and trade is chiefly of a jobbing character. We quote: Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7c. to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12¼c. per lb.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The extreme prices paid Saturday at country points naturally had the effect of causing holders to ask more money. But, while this is true, it is equally true that a lot of the receipts coming in this week were bought during the period of reaction that prevailed a fortnight ago. Accordingly, a varying range is noted, and we heard of sales of western colored to the extent of 400 odd boxes, at 11⅝ to 11¾c., but it is doubtful if a round quantity could be had at the same figures. Actual values for western goods were largely nominal, but from 12 to 12¼c. about represents ideas that prevailed to-day, while eastern were at 11¾ to 12c. At the wharf, Monday morning, 7,000 Quebec cheese sold at 11½ to 11⅝c., an advance of 1c. upon last week's basis, while at St. Hyacinthe, Saturday, 5,000 left first hands, the ruling price being 11½c. The Liverpool cable was unchanged.

BUTTER—The strong tone is maintained and a fair movement is noted for export, holders wanting full prices to-day, as they refused to accept less than 23c. for finest creamery to-day. At the wharf 600 to 700 packages left factorymen's hands at 22½c. to 23c. Western dairy is scarce and firm at 17c. Jobbing trade is quiet at an advance of ½c. upon the above.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., September 28, 1899.

FALL business is now fairly under way, and the outlook is favorable, both for a large business and good profits. The trade here is too inclined not to take the latter, and is selling their goods from the standpoint of what they paid for them and not what they would have to pay to replace them, so that the margin of profit is often small, the price in many cases being lower than the actual cost of goods at time of sale. The good effects of the Exhibition have been very generally felt. In the grocery business there is no need of the buyers coming to the city to buy, so to bring them there must be some extra attraction. This the Exhibition supplies. It gives the wholesale grocers a chance to see their customers, a chance they get but too seldom, but which must lead to more satisfactory business relations. The feature of the market has been the advance in beans.

OIL—In all lines the market is a very firm one, owing to the large advance in crude oil. In burning oil, while there are no higher figures quoted than the advance of a few weeks ago, higher prices are looked for. Dealers are very busy filling fall contracts. Those who bought early were fortunate. In lubricating, there is but a fair, steady sale; prices in this line are also higher. Paint oils have somewhat limited sale, but keep very high. Cod oil is freely received, with rather better prices ruling. In seal oil, the tendency is higher.

SALT—Everything tends to rather higher figures in Liverpool coarse salt. Freights are high. The bags are costing more, and the salt itself has been advanced. Fair stocks are held here, and there is rather less demand. Free arrivals in the northern part of the Province somewhat relieve this market. Except such small quantities as come here via Boston, there are no further arrivals expected for some time. In fine salt, while prices are firm, there is no change. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to CANNED GOODS—Corn and tomatoes are now to hand. Our dealers are selling at very low figures when the condition of the market is considered, but there are fair stocks and but a certain trade. Still, they might just as well have had better profits, and considering the close figure at which canned goods are usually sold they should have taken advantage of the markets. There seems to be no weak point in canned goods. Salmon is scarce. Many of the usual brands have not been offered here this season. Peaches are quoted very high by packers and only a few are offering. Our trade were fortunate in buying at the early figures. Other lines of fruit are hardly a feature here, except apples, and they were bought right. Finnan haddies and other local packed fish are high, sardines being the easiest line. There is some demand for oysters, but dealers are holding off for new goods, looking for lower figures. Pineapples are quoted higher and are quite difficult to get. Meats have but a fair sale, but the outlook favors higher figures.

GREEN FRUITS—The first of the week saw apples quite scarce, New Brunswick stock being about out of the market, and good Nova Scotian stock still scarce. Free arrivals are daily expected. Quality continues to improve and prices are rather higher. A firm market is expected to rule. There are quite free receipts of Ontario grapes, with wholesale and retail prices about the same. Pears, except some from Nova Scotia, are about out of the market. Oranges have little sale. Jamaicas are the only kind quoted here. Lemons have a fair sale at even figures. There are but light receipts of peaches, and light prices rule. The quality of Malaga grapes received is good, and prices are moderate. It is early for much business. Cranberries, both Cape Cod and native, are offered, with prices quite low. Sweet potatoes have a fair sale.

DRIED FRUITS—Buyers are waiting for prices on Californian fruit. They are very late this season. Some old goods which are here are as good, almost better, than when they arrived almost a year ago. The high price on Californian may throw part of the demand on Malagas, but they are not liked so well ; they do not keep at all as well. Peels have been received. Some American citron is here, but at higher prices than English. The latter is rather darker in color than usual. In prunes, the trade has, as yet, bought lightly. No French are offered this year, and to buy Bosnias direct requiries too large a quantity, especially as the trade here prefers the Californian. These are quoted at low figures, but higher prices are expected. Currants, which tended rather lower, have been again advanced. Nuts continue to rule high. Evaporated apples have had considerable attention during the week, and a few cars have been placed. The outlook favors higher figures, as green fruits run particularly good and bring high figures. There is little trade for dried. In onions, the first Canadian are to hand at quite high prices.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs are lower, and even at present figures there is little demand. Quality has to be watched. This tends to lower figures. Stocks of cheese are light, but the market feels the effect of the decline West. Further supplies in this Province will be light. Local trade is not large. Better prices are expected. Butter is firmer. A rather strange thing has happened: Some of the poorest butter has been bought up and exported, it is said, to England. This has quite relieved the market. Extra quality is at least 1c. higher than last week.

SUGAR—Prices are firmly held. There is a good steady sale and rather higher figures expected.

MOLASSES—Another cargo of Porto Rico is to hand. This, with quite free arrivals of good quality of New Orleans at a fair figure, has quite relieved the market. Barbadoes is about out of this market. The demand for it has very much fallen off, and, considering the state of the market, it is offered quite low.

FISH—There are light stocks and firm figures. The only low prices quoted are for smoked herring. Dry codfish and pollock are scarce and high. With the exception of Bay and Grand Manan, there are no pickled herring offered, and these continue scarce and high. Finnan haddies are scarce, owing to the fresh fish being scarce. Hake are a fair catch, and bring full figures. Pickled shad are a light stock, and are firmer. Boneless fish has a very active sale at even figures. Bloaters are quite low. We quote : Large and medium dry cod, $3.85 to $4 ; small, $2.50 ; pickled shad, $4 to $5, as to quality ; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 8c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c. ; pollock, $2 to $2.10 per 100 ; pickled herring, $1.70 to $1.75 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PRODUCE—There is little change, but the tone of the market is upward in both pork and beef. There is a fair business. Lard is rather higher.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour there is a fair business at even figures. Oats and oatmeal are rather easier. Of feed, there is great difficulty in securing supplies. Cornmeal is rather lower. Beans have been the feature of the week. Prices are quoted much higher, and dealers have been caught short, but they hope for lower figures as the new comes to hand. As, however, they will come on a bare market, it looks as if the extreme low figures are, as far as the coming season is concerned, a thing of the past. There has not only been an American demand, but large shipments have been made to South Africa. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.50 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.00 ; medium, $3.60 to $3.75 ; oatmeal, $3.80 to $3.90 ; cornmeal, $2.15 to $2.20; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 35 to 38c.; hand-picked beans, $1.15 to $1.25 ; prime, $1 to $1.10; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2 ; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15 ; hay, $7 to $7.50 ; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

"Pure Gold" pickling spice is a favorite seller at this season.

The first car of Canadian onions to come to this market this season was received by A. L. Goodwin.

White's pickles are having an increased sale in this market. Bowman & Angeine have a shipment to hand.

Vincent S. White & Co. received the first new evaported apples of the season this week. They were bought from W. B. Bayley & Co., Toronto.

Merritt Bros. & Co. received a cargo of Porto Rico molasses this week. This was shipped after the great storm and will be the last cargo to arrive here this season.

Not only have St. John buyers bought freely of New Orleans molasses, but A. F. Randolph & Sons, Fredericton, and F. P. Reid & Co., Moncton, are offering some particularly nice values.

The wholesale millinery trade of the city have had a very busy week, a very large number of buyers being here to the openings from all over the Maritime Provinces. This is a very growing trade. It is receiving particular attention.

SOLD 1-2c. ABOVE MARKET PRICE.

Harry Brown, the well-known grocer of Queen street west, tells us of a funny incident in connection with packet tea. The other day there was an auction sale on Queen street of the O'Malley bankrupt stock. In the stock there were a few half-pounds of Brown label 25c. "Salada" tea. This was in ¼-lb. packets, and was bought for 13c. a package, or 26c. per lb., realizing 1c. per lb. more than it can be purchased for at any grocer's in the city and 5c. per lb. more than the price at which it is sold wholesale.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

CIGARMAKERS' ANNUAL MEETING.

ON Monday and Tuesday, the annual meeting of the Dominion Cigar Manufacturers' Association was held in the council chamber of the Board of Trade, Toronto. The gathering was a very representative one of the trade. Among the delegates were: J. Bruce Payne, Granby, Que.; John Michaels, Montreal; Chas. H. Nelson, Montreal; J. M. Fortier, Montreal; E. Youngheart, Montreal; R. Goulet, Montreal; O. R. Brener, London; J. M. Daly, London; W. J. Stirton, London; W. G. Reid, Toronto; Geo. Milligan, Toronto; John Spilling, Toronto; M. K. Halloran, Brantford; I. Blumenstiel, Hamilton; F. Oberndorffer, Kingston, and H. Gagnier, Toronto. The chair was occupied by Michael Hirsch, Montreal, the president of the association.

Mr. Hirsch, in his annual presidential address, showed the cigar manufacturing industry to be in an exceedingly prosperous condition, the past year having proved more than satisfactory to all the makers. The consumption of cigars for the fiscal year, he pointed out, had been the largest in the history of the trade, totaling 123,000,000. Another feature of the year was the fact that the demand from all sections had been for a much higher class of goods, which, he stated, was due partially to the good times so evident throughout the country, and to the advance made by the Dominion Government two years ago of the duty on cigars from $2 to $3 per lb.

The reports of the Treasurer, Otto R. Brener, London, and of the Secretary, George Milligan, Toronto, showed that the association, both in its finances and its membership is in a satisfactory condition.

In the discussion on trade topics which followed these reports chief interest centred in the point referred to by President Hirsch, the good effects of the increase in the Customs duty. It was generally believed that if this duty was again increased, it would lead to a still greater demand for high-class cigars. The result was a resolution petitioning the Dominion Government to increase the duty on imported cigars from $3 to $4.50 per lb., this, besides the 25 per cent. ad valorem duty. This is the duty now imposed by the United States Government.

Another matter that took up the attention of the meeting was the information furnished by the Government regarding the production of cigars. This was generally considered to be inadequate, and a resolution was passed requesting the Government to give the trade more comprehensive statistics regarding the monthly production and importation of cigars.

In the afternoon addresses were delivered by J. Bruce Payne, on "Bad Debts"; by John Michaels, on "Estimating Costs," and by J. M. Fortier, on "Systems of Manufacturing."

In the evening the visiting delegates were entertained at one of the theatres, after which a banquet was held at McConkey's. The chairman of the evening was President Hirsch, who was upheld by Honorary President Payne. All the delegates attended. A jovial time was spent, as the feeling of brotherhood seemed to dominate everything, including the toasts, speeches and songs.

On Tuesday morning officers for the ensuing year were elected. As general satisfaction was felt over last year's progress, most of the old officers were reelected. The following are the new year officers:

Advisory Board—M. E. Davis and J. Bruce Payne.
Honorary President—J. Bruce Payne.
President—Michael Hirsch.
First Vice-President—R. D. McDonald.
Second Vice-President—J. M. Fortier.
Third Vice-President—M. K. Halloran.
Treasurer—Otto R. Brener.
Secretary—Geo. Milligan.
Acting Secretary—H. Gagnier.
Executive Committee—H. Simon, F. Oberndorffer, and Ed. Youngheart.
Legislative Committee — John Michaels, Ed. Youngheart, and R. Goulet.

PURE GOLD GOODS ABROAD.

The Pure Gold Company announce the despatch of sets of samples of their lines to Trinidad and also to Australia this week. The people in these localities are not so bare of fancy groceries as to have to come this length for them, but where there is business to be done the "Pure Gold" people believe in having it to do, if at all possible, and have taken steps to have the trade diligently pushed among the "Isles of the Sea."

NEW BRUNSWICK NOTES.

Messrs. W. F. Dibblee & Son, hardware merchants, Woodstock, N.B., are building a new addition to their premises which will be fitted up as general and private offices.

Trade must be on the increase in this locality as a large number of alterations are being made to several of the leading stores.

The nickel mines near St. Stephen, N.B., are looked forward to by the residents as a big boom to the border town. Just across is Calais, Maine. The parties interested are English capitalists, and, according to reports, the deeper they go down the richer is the ore, and a good showing is expected before long.

Woodstock, N.B., intends holding its annual fair this year during the coming week. For two years past it was deemed advisable to not have the show. But this year the residents and town council have gone into it again with renewed vigor and offer splendid inducements to northern New Brunswickers to participate. A good programme has been arranged to suit all comers, and they look forward to a good old-time show, providing the weather is favorable.

AN AWARD FOR PICKLES.

W. H. Gillard & Co., Hamilton, who were the first firm in Canada to introduce Gillard's new pickle and Gillard's new sauce (of London, Eng.), send us the following extract from The Licensing World and Licensed Trade Review: "Honors for Messrs. Gillard & Co., Limited.—The Coolgardie Exhibition in West Australia is the most important exposition that has been held in that rapidly-increasing and very prosperous colony. It gives us pleasure to find that those well-known friends of trade protection, and benevolence, Messrs. Gillard & Co., Limited, of The Vintry Works, Walthamstow, London, sole proprietors of the 'Licensed Victuallers' Relish' and the 'Licensed Victualers' Pickle,' have secured at the Coolgardie Exhibition the special first award for their sauce and pickle."

W. H. Gillard & Co. advise that they have just received a new importation of these goods, and that the demand in Canada is rapidly growing.

SALERATUS OR BAKING SODA.

Most grocers remember well when every housewife asked for "baking soda," or "saleratus," and there used to be a good deal of argument as to which was which. Some customers would insist that "baking soda" was the thing, and others that "saleratus" was it. We do not know that the matter was ever settled to the satisfaction of the housewives, and we must confess that we fear that the grocers never quite cared much one way or 'tother.

A controversy has recently arisen between a prominent grocer and a representative of a widely and favorably known house, which supplies such goods to the trade.

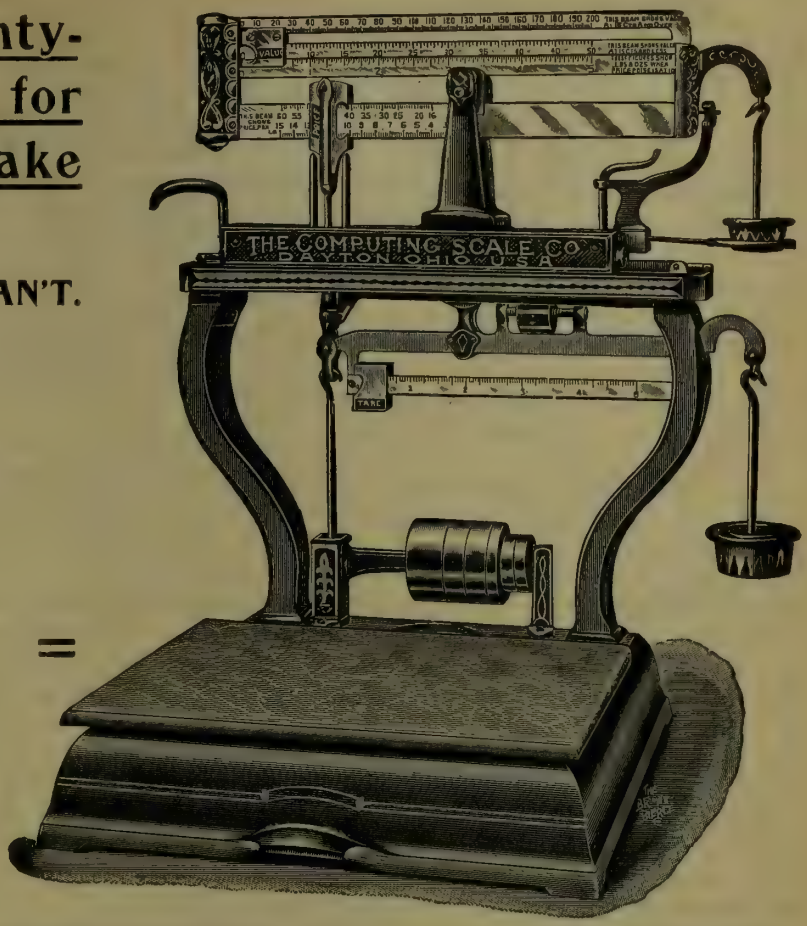
A sale was being made, and the salesman said that the goods should be labeled "baking soda," while the grocer said that the label should be "saleratus" the former claiming that both were the same thing, and the latter claiming that they were different, in that "baking soda" was refined more than "saleratus."

We find that the term "baking soda" is probably a corruption of "bicarbonate of soda," which was the name erroneously given to what is known as saleratus.

The term "baking soda" does not appear in the dictionary, nor in any of the special works that we have seen.

So, the verdict is that "baking soda" and "saleratus" are one and the same thing.

If you disagree, kindly advise us as to your reasons for so doing.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.



F. P. Freeman has purchased the stock of groceries from D. Howe and Chas. Davis at their store just above the barracks. Mr. Freeman will conduct a wholesale and retail general supply store. Dr. Howe and Mr. Davis will give their attention to mining, the coming winter.—Yukon Sun, Dawson.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

A few months ago a grocer from a country town came to Beverly and opened up on the main street. He said he didn't need to advertise, as advertising didn't pay, and he could sell goods so cheap people would all come to his store. He marked prices on pieces of brown paper and stuck them on his windows, and on the sidewalk he chalked a few prices, then he sat down and waited to see the trade go to the firms that advertise in the newspapers. He stood this for a few months until he got tired of putting up his good money for expense beyond his income, and a few days ago he loaded his counters, together with beans, hams and other articles he brought with him that were not perishable, and shook the dust of Beverly from his feet. There was a good examble of a man who tried to do business without advertising. As it is now, the store that advertises makes the prices and gets the trade. The man who advertises saves his customers money.—Beverly Times.

CANNED GOODS FUTURES.

When everything is going smoothly, that is to say, when packs do not promise to exceed demands, when prices slowly strengthen instead of declining, and when there is no experiment in "cornering" the market being tried, then it is that the future contract system of buying canned goods has many friends. But, let the business become temporarily unprofitable, or other unnsual conditions prevail, and then people begin to throw bricks at "futures."

Sometimes, it is not the system itself that is the target, but the form in which the contracts are worded. For example, the peculiar crop conditions this year have led to a movement among the wholesale grocers to have some protection when packs are short, and the canner may profit by supplying the smallest possible percentage of the quantity contracted for, and the Wholesale Grocers' Association of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware have adopted a resolution accordingly, the text of which is as follows :

Resolved, That members of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware will not sign any contract for future goods unless the seller stipulates in the contract that he will deliver a specified percentage.

Other goods besides canned foods may be included in this resolution, but it is, no doubt, aimed chiefly at the canners.—Merchants' Review, New York.

FAR BETTER THAN MOLASSES.

A well-known grocer, according to an exchange, has lately been driven almost to despair by the small boys in the vicinity, who take great delight in climbing the iron awning-poles in front of his store. The nuisance grew to such an extent that the grocer was compelled to put his wits at work to remedy the evil. He liberally plastered all the awning-poles with molasses one night after the urchins had gone home, and then retired and couldn't sleep all night for laughing at the good joke he had put up on the boys. The boys came the next day, and all were surprised at the welcoming smile of the grocer. Soon the molasses was discovered, and the boys, looking upon it in the light of a treat, licked the poles as clean as a whistle. All that day they climbed the poles without interference from the chagrined grocer. The next day, however, he effectually baffled his juvenile foes by daubing the poles with a thick coating of tar, and now he conducts his business in peace.

Dunlap Bros. & Co., Limited, grocers and hardware dealers, Amherst, N.S., have been incorporated.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, September 25, 1899.

WHEAT—Along the Pembina and Southwestern railway deliveries have been heaviest. The points making the largest record for the week are Treherne, Methven, Deloraine, Altona, Plum Coulee, Winkler, Morden, and Boissevain. On the main line deliveries have been heaviest at Burnside, Griswold, and Virden. Although a very large number of threshing outfits were sold during the summer, owing to the immense crop, there do not appear to be enough to handle the crop as quickly as during the past two or three seasons. The weather, so far, has been all that could be desired. There is a general scarcity of teams to haul wheat from the threshers, or the deliveries would have been even larger. Already some of the elevators at country points are congested, and by the end of another two weeks almost every elevator in the country will be full. The predominating grade is still No. 1 hard, very little of anything else coming in. The farmers are well satisfied with the prices they are getting, but are not so eager to sell as in some former years. This is, no doubt, owing to the fact that little paper was carried over in many districts, and current paper will not fall due until October 1, when it is expected that the bulk of wheat in the elevators at that time will be sold. When the market closed at 1 p.m. to-day the quotations were: Spot wheat, No. 1 hard, 70c.; en route, 69¾c., and for delivery October 1, 69½c. At country points: 15c. rate of freight No. 1 hard, 57c.; No. 2 hard, 54c.; No. 3 hard, 49c.; 16 and 17c. rate of freight: No. 1 hard, 55c.; No. 2 hard, 52c.; No. 3 hard, 47c.; 20 and 21c. rate of freight: No. 1 hard, 54c.; No. 2 hard, 51c.; No. 3 hard, 46c.

FLOUR—Though prices have remained unchanged throughout the week the market is much more active and a very fair trade is being done. Quotations are: Lake of the Woods patent, $1.75; strong bakers', $1.55; Algoma, $1.35; XXXX, $1.05; Ogilvie's Hungarian patent, $1.75; Glenora, $1.55; Manitoba, $1.40; Manitoba 2nd Bakers', $1.20; Imperial, 95c.

CEREALS—The Ogilvie's oatmeal mills opened during the week and new rolled oats are offered at $1.85 for 80's; other cereals are without change. Millfeed is very firm and dealers are finding difficulty in complying with the demand. Bran is $10.50 per ton and shorts $12.50.

CURED MEATS—The market remains very firm and without change. Quotations are: Sugar cured hams, smoked, 14c.; bellies, 11½c.; backs, 11c.; shoulders 10c.; spiced rolls, 10½c.; picnic hams, 10c.

DRY SALT MEATS—Long clear bacon, 8½c.; extra short clear, 7¼c.; backs, 9c.; shoulders, 8¼c.

LARD—Pure lard in 20 lb. pails (Winnipeg rendered), $1.70; imported do., $1.60; pure lard, tierces, 7¼c.; 50-lb. tubs, 8c.

BUTTER—The market for creamery is very firm, with a tendency to higher prices. General quotation, 20 to 21c. point of shipment. It was ascertained that one of the largest creameries in the Province sold their early September make, for immediate shipment to the Coast, at 22c. This is thought to be an outside figure, however. The amount of creamery being made is small. Farmers are not paying much attention to their cows owing to the pressure of other duties, especially threshing, and it is likely that a goodly number of the creameries will close about August 1. Dairy butter is in more active demand, but the prices have changed but little, 11½ to 12c. country points for round lots of fresh-made, and 14 to 15c. for choice rolls nicely covered with cloth.

CHEESE—The market is very firm at from 11½ to 12c. The easier feeling reported last Saturday did not continue, as the market again stiffened with the advance at Montreal and is now very stiff at the figures quoted. There was a report that a carload of Ontario cheese was in transit and would be jobbed here at 12c., but the house supposed to be bringing it in declare that though they tried to buy in the East they could not get it at a price they could lay it down here to sell at any such figure. The Manitoba supply will very soon be exhausted, as, like the creameries, many factories will have to close about October 1, owing to the shortage of milk and also to the fact that few, if any, of the storage rooms at factories are suitable for curing cheese in very cold weather.

EGGS—This product is only arriving in limited quantities, the price being 16c. Winnipeg for fresh-gathered, subject to candling.

GREEN FRUITS—Lemons are still quoted at $4.50, but, before this is in print, will be $5 to $5.50. Oranges are without change, and the stocks are now very limited. Ontario apples are $3.50 to $4 per bbl., according to variety. Peaches will soon be over, the last car being booked to arrive on Tuesday; price, $1.25. Plums of all kinds from Oregon and Washington are $1.25 per crate. Ontario plums are over. Pears are $2.25 per case. Crabs are practically out of it, but small lots are quoted at 40 to 60c. per basket. Ontario grapes continue to arrive in prime condition. Quotations are: Concords and Niagara, 30c.; Rogers, 35c. The fruit market is very active, and the amount of preserving being done is unusually large. With the next consignment of Ontario tomatoes, the price will advance to 60c. per basket.

GROCERIES—Sugar has advanced ½c. on last week's quotation for granulated. This is the only change of price in the whole list of general groceries for the week.

CANNED VEGETABLES—The feeling continues stronger, and corn has again advanced in the East, but, as these goods are not yet on this market, quotations cannot be given.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

ADVICES from the Coast to September 16, state that the weather in the raisin-curing districts is favorable and that grapes are developing the necessary sugar to insure fine quality raisins.

According to The Astorian, of September 13, the run of salmon on the Columbia river has increased, the receipts at the canneries on the 12th being the largest since the fall season opened. The traps along the Middle river were doing particularly well, which promises that a large quantity of fish will be taken in this way this fall.

FIRST SALE OF JAMAICA ORANGES.

The first public sale in this city of new crop Jamaica oranges was held to-day. But 90 bbl. were offered, and they brought $6.37½ to $6.62½. Last year the first auction sale was held on September 26, and the prices realized $3 to $4.37½, but last year at this time there were still a good many Californian oranges about, while the new fruit is now coming in on a practically bare market.—New York Journal of Commerce, September 21.

SALE OF 50,000 CASES OF TOMATOES.

It is reported from Baltimore that Western packers bought 50,000 cases of tomatoes there yesterday, paying full prices, understood to be 62½c. net in the country. At the close the spot market here was firmer, and it was said to be doubtful if anything more could be picked up from second hands at 65c. less 1½ per cent. delivered New York.—New York Journal of Commerce, September 23.

CURRANTS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The first two cargoes of new currants per Naranja and Wazzan, consisting of about 1,700 tons of all growths were shown on the market on Monday last. So far as can be judged from the fruit brought by these steamers the quality of the 1899 crop is somewhat inferior to that of its immediate predecessors, and the want of size and weight shown by most of the samples affords important confirmation of the more moderate estimates of the yield of this year's growth. So far as Provincial fruit is concerned, it is not unusual for the earliest shipments to be inferior to subsequent ones, as the former consist of the growth of districts which are not usually numbered among the best, and, moreover, the quantity of Provincial in the two first steamers is this year exceedingly small. An improvement may, therefore, be looked for in succeeding cargoes. As regards other growths, however, the same argument cannot be used, since, in the case of Vostizza especially, the first shipments are frequently among the best. The same is more or less true of the remaining growths except, perhaps, in the case of Gulph, of which hardly a sufficient quantity has arrived to provide a basis for the formation of a conclusive opinion. Patras and the better parcels of Amalias have found most favor with buyers, but the latter show the most marked inferiority of any growth, so far as size and weight are concerned. In Vostizza fruit, the only thing wanting is size, the quality of the fruit otherwise being satisfactory. Why our London buyers should insist so much on large currants to satisfy their requirements is somewhat of a mystery. The principal consuming districts of the country certainly give what would appear to be a well-deserved preference to smaller fruit, insisting only on a plump, well-matured, even berry and, consequently, obtaining the maximum of flavor and sweetness. In large fruit, on the other hand, if the best parcels of Vostizza are accepted, these latter qualities are usually wanting. The sale of new currants has certainly been much smaller up to the present than was generally expected. This may be accounted for by the large quantity of old fruit purchased recently, and by some slight disappointment as to the quality of the new. Prices also, although the wholesale markets had been prepared for the new level for some time past, are sufficiently above those of previous years to induce some caution on the part of grocers. This caution can only be considered as wise ; but, at the same time, as is now seen, shipments are at present taking place wery slowly, and the quantity of currants to be placed on the London market during September will be small.—Produce Markets Review, September 9.

CANNED SALMON IN LIVERPOOL.

The Liverpool correspondent of a London, England, trade paper of September 9, says: "There is an excellent demand for salmon of all kinds, the deliveries from public store for the last month being heavier than any recorded since the statistics have been kept. Talls are now in most request, and prices for forward delivery show a considerable advance on late quotations. There are still some good values offering in flats, but it is generally thought that the appreciation in talls will have a favorable influence on the values of flats."

In the Name

"Benson" and "Edwardsburg" there is a sure profit to the grocer who sells Starch, because Edwardsburg Starch is known by, and sells on its merits. It is not a new thing or an experiment—it has been tried for over forty years and not found wanting in any vital part. Whether it be for the laundry or for cooking, if the name is on the package, a grocer's profit is absolutely assured, because that package will sell. You won't have to stop to explain the virtues of the Starch, because its high quality, its absolute purity, and the unvarying evenness of the grade is known by cautious buyers all over Canada.

"Edwardsburg" or "Benson"

Three Strong Points Make The Perfect Whole.

The most economical woman in the world dislikes to experiment in her cooking. If she can save money in no other way she is not going to run chances of spoiling her "baking" and ruining her temper by the use of inferior Flavoring Extracts.

Few women are "a penny wise and a pound foolish," especially when their labor, skill and time are at stake in the kitchen. It pays a grocer to please a woman—the grocer that a woman trusts obtains that woman's permanent trade!

Jonas' Flavoring Extracts

have been on the Canadian market for 30 years, and their sales have increased steadily from year to year. They are absolutely free from adulteration of any sort or nature. They have the true, delicate richness of the fruit, flower or spice which they represent—they have great strength. They combine these three strong points and make a perfect whole—they lack absolutely nothing that will win a woman's confidence and induce her to keep on buying them. Their great strength makes them the most economical extracts that a woman can use. All flavors and each one is "best."

Two Brands are not all.

For a better and better Cigar business I would suggest that grocers do not confine themselves distinctly to my two brands that have been advertised so extensively, namely: the "Pharaoh," 10-cent cigar and the "Pebble," 5-cent cigar.

It is well to carry an assortment of other brands that I make—the "Pharaoh" and the "Pebble" are simply my leaders to attract your trade. My price list gives in detail a number of brands that it will pay a grocer well to stock up with. Two brands are not all that a grocer should keep. I speak from experience. Write me for fuller information on the subject—it will pay you to do so to-day.

HINTS ON KEEPING CHEESE.

SWISS cheese should be kept in a cool cellar, not exposed to a draught; when cut, cover the same with a salt sack saturated with water and kept moist; in fly time, vinegar is better than salt water. Never let a loaf stand on its edge, as it is apt to break or crack on the inside. Do not lay more than two cheese together, as there is danger of injuring the one underneath. Parties retailing Swiss should keep the part exposed covered with a glass globe; this prevents loss in drying out, and sells better. It is not safe to carry stock longer than three months, as it is apt to get hard and brittle.

SAP SAGO AND PARMESAN

cheese are good one year, and sometimes longer, if a little care is taken to keep them cool and not exposed to insects, light, or draught. It is a very good plan to wrap Sap Sago cheese in tinfoil when exposed for sale, but the best plan is to place them under a glass globe. If neither of these are done, they will crack and break and be worthless in a short time; it is much the same with Parmesan cheese.

ROQUEFORT AND GORGONZOLA.

It is a well-known fact that these cheese are very brittle and break easily, and great care must be taken in handling them. Care must be used in removing them from the packages, and when once removed do not place them more than two high, as the weight of the upper ones cracks those underneath. It is very important to keep these articles, as well as others mentioned, free from draught and as cool as possible, not allowing them to freeze. The best way to retail a Roquefort or Gorgonzola cheese is to take and cut them in quarters and eighths, and wrap each piece in tinfoil and mark the price on the piece; this can be done at any slack time, and when busy with customers they will not be obliged to wait while you cut, weigh and wrap the cheese. This plan has been tried by many of the largest stores as well as the small ones, and it works admirably. Glass covers should also be used.

should be kept in a cool place; if not very soft, keep them from air; but if soft, they will harden by being exposed; if they become too hard, they will soften by being placed under a glass globe. Do not buy more than a week or ten days' supply, as they do not improve by age. They are received by every French steamer.

LIMBURGER CHEESE.

That made in summer should be used before January 1; the September and October cheese will keep all winter. Keep in a cool cellar, turn the boxes over every two or three weeks. We recommend wrapping in parchment paper, as the foil is heavy and will turn the cheese black in two or three weeks' time. If the cheese are inclined to get too soft, put sticks between the boxes to keep them from heating. Those exposed for sale should be kept under a glass cover.

MUNSTER

cheese is dangerous to keep any length of time. We would recommend not laying in more than four or six weeks' supply. They may be kept a long time by taking them from the box every two or three weeks, and rubbed with the hands until grease appears on the outside. Glass globes are very necessary when exposed on the counter.

HAND KASE

should be left in the original boxes; turn the boxes every few days, and, when retailing, remove only a few from the box and keep under a glass cover; never get more than two weeks' supply at one time.

NEUFCHATEL AND PHILADELPHIA CREAM

keep best exposed to the air; do not cover them, as they are apt to mould. Do not get more than one week's supply, as they are better fresh.

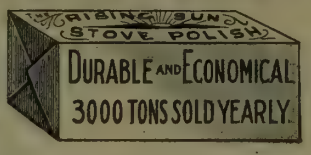
FROMAGE DE BRIE

keep well in the original boxes. If they should get soft, will harden by being exposed to the air by removing the cover from the box and putting them in a cool place. If too hard, can be made soft by putting them under a glass cover. If the wrappers become soiled or moulded, it is well to rewrap them in fresh paper.

DAIRY OR STORE CHEESE.

If bought in bulk, the boxes should be turned over every two or three weeks. When exposed for sale, a glass cover is good to keep it moist and free from dust. Sometimes a little butter spread on the side of the cheese not used keeps the same from wasting and drying.

ENGLISH DAIRY



cheese should be treated the same as store cheese, except that the cheese should be greased occasionally. Greasing will improve them very much, and they will cut better. The older an English cheese becomes the finer it is considered to be, although it will crumble when cut. This is to be expected.

are better in foil; this prevents, to a great extent, drying out; but when not in foil, it is well to grease them occasionally. We have known them and pineapples to keep well all summer by being well oiled and wrapped in brown paper, then placed in paper bags, separate, with insect powder, and hung up in an ice-house or cool cellar. This plan we have known to work well, and the idea was given us by one of the oldest grocers in this city several years ago.

During hot weather most all kinds of cheese should be kept on ice.—Alvah L. Reynolds, in American Grocer.

HISTORY OF THE TEA-DRAFT.

The tea-draft has obtained for centuries, and was not brought into existence to compensate dealers for stray bricks, pieces of lead, and other substances, the use of some of which as make-weight is not unknown even at the present day. Long before the East India Company was given a monopoly, Dutch merchants were in the habit of supplying this market with tea and of accompanying their wares to London, not only to effect sales, but to obtain personal possession of the sums realized. They were obliged to lodge with citizens engaged in trade, and the latter had to guarantee that they were peaceable and respectable, and be responsible for their conduct. Naturally, they lodged with customers, who, as recompense for free lodging and the giving of what was practically bail for their behavior, were allowed a full 1 lb. in addition to any fraction thereof off the weight of each package. In 1721, this continental trade, which was taxed at the rate of 10s. per lb., against 4s. on that imported from the East India Company's territories, was prohibited on the representation of the latter that the duty could be more easily and less expensively got from them than from a number of importers. Although this proposal commended itself to the Government and the company obtained a monopoly, it was not until 1784 that they were allowed to collect the duty and pay it over to the Government. The Dutch having given dealers the 1-lb. draft, the East India Company, who always had the smuggler as a formidable competitor, were obliged to continue the custom.—Planting Opinion, Madras.

WHEAT AND FLOUR IN P.E.I.

THE growing of wheat is becoming an important division of farming in Prince Edward Island, and would doubtless be still greater if facilities for milling were as abundant as desired. The flour mill which has been conducting operations at New Glasgow for the past four years with much success announces its readiness to take all the wheat that can be offered them by Island growers, and Montreal prices will be paid for the same.

There is no more necessary requirement in these Martime Provinces than an increased number of flour mills. The supply of wheat and the question of freight on it from Western points has ceased to be of as much importance as in the past and it no longer can be advanced as an argument against the increasing of our milling facilities. Home-grown wheat from various farming portions of these Provinces sufficient to keep busy a score of such mills, we believe will be only a matter of time. We, of course, can never hope to grow wheat in such quantities as will permit us to be exporters, but our own requirements are large and increasing, and we have in them alone a capital field for development.

While referring to a topic of interest to Islanders, we note with pleasure the announcement that a line of direct sailings fortnightly between Charlottetown and Liverpool, England, has been practically arranged for. The steamships to be engaged for this purpose are to be large and thoroughly well equipped with all the most modern requirements in the way of cold storage and other requisites in marketing perishable produce. The service was expected to have begun on September 6, and will afford Island shippers an opportunity of putting their cheese, butter, eggs and fruits on the British markets in the quickest possible time and in the best condition, and at freight rates that will be as low as though shipped from Montreal. It is stated that about six trips will be made, and as the steamers will be in the vicinity of 4,000 tons burden each, they should enable our friends over in the "Garden of the Gulf" to add a nice size figure to the right side of their ledgers this season. A sum of $7,000 has been voted by the Dominion Government to aid in the good work, and we have every reason to suppose the experiment will prove so successful that it will become a fixture in the commercial life of Prince Edward Island. The saving in freights alone from the source of growth to Montreal in those days of narrow margins means a fair profit, besides there is the further advantage that all delays and repeated handling of shipments are avoided and the goods placed in the most desirable condition as to freshness and quality.—Maritime Merchant.

JOHN H. PARK DEAD.

John H. Park, a prominent figure in Hamilton wholesale grocery circles from 1870 to 1892, died at his home in that city on Wednesday, September 27. The late Mr. Park came from County Donegal, near Londonderry, Ireland, in 1843, when but a year old, with his parents, who settled in Toronto, whence they moved to Hamilton ten years later. Mr. Park began his business career in Hamilton as a clerk with the late G. J. Forster, wholesale grocer, of that city, about 1860, and continued at the business till 1870, when Mr. Forster died. Mr. Park was then admitted into partnership by the firm R. A. Lucas & Co., which then became Lucas, Park & Co. This firm continued under that style until 1892, when Mr. Park retired.

Since his retirement Mr. Park has continued to reside in Hamilton. For the past four or five years he has been troubled with Bright's disease, and for the past year has been confined to his house. He was unmarried.

The demand for lumbering tools and supplies has been very brisk since August, and camps are started much earlier than in former years ; a good season is expected, as prices are away up and labor very scarce,

BY-PRODUCTS OF CORN.

"IT is doubtful," says The Chicago Tribune, "if the happy farmer, as he looks out over his acres of splendid corn, realizes how many new uses science has found for the product of his fertile fields. Corn, so long neglected, has within the last few years advanced rapidly in importance, not only as an article of food, but as raw material from which at least 20 manufactured compounds are produced. If the corn crop promises to be the greatest on record, it is also true that the demand for corn will be equally as great. The fluttering green pennons on a thousand western prairies are the signal to all the world that King Corn has come again into his own.

"One of the most important recent developments is the use of corn in the manufacture of smokeless powder. Hundreds of thousands of gallons of distilled spirits, made from corn, have already been used by the great governments in making the new explosive, and until universal disarmament becomes more than a dream, the demand for corn for this purpose must constantly increase. In this view of the case, an increase in standing armies will be of value to the farmer, who may also look at the increased military activity in the far East and in Europe without regret.

"More important still to the farmer is the fact that 20 articles of commerce are produced from corn. Some of these corn products promise to attain wide use, and their manufacture may develop into important new industries. Here is the list of manufactured products for which corn furnishes the raw material :

Mixing glucose	British gum
Crystal glucose	Granulated gum
Grape sugar	Gum paste
Anhydrous grape sugar	Corn oil
Special sugar	Corn oil cake
Pearl starch	Rubber substitute
Powdered starch	Gluten feed
Refined grits	Chop feed
Flourine	Gluten meal
Dextrine	Corn germ.

"Every particle of the grain, including the cob, is manufactured into some useful product. A market is found among refiners of table syrups, brewers, leather manufacturers, fruit preservers, confectioners, druggists, cotton and paper mills, paper-box makers, mucilage and glue-makers, table-oil and lubricating-oil mixtures, shade-cloth manufacturers, paint grinders and manufacturers of fibre. This long list gives an idea of the large number of important industries which are now dependent, to an extent, on the product of Western corn fields.

"Greatest in the promise of future developments is the use of a corn product as a substitute for rubber. This new rubber, which is made from the waste of ordinary corn, will, it is predicted, soon be used in the manufacture of all rubber goods, and, it is expected, will cheapen the price of those goods 25 per cent. It can be produced, so its inventors claim, for 6c. per lb., and, in connection with an equal quantity of Para rubber, can be used in the production of all classes of rubber articles.

"In addition to the above comparatively new uses for corn, it should not be forgotten that the Indian corn propaganda is doing good work, both in this country and abroad, in demonstrating the great value of corn as a food. It is expected that the exhibit to be made at the Paris Exposition will give a great impetus to its use in Europe."

A despatch from Vancouver, of September 21, states that Kahe Otani, multi-millionaire tea grower, and one of Japan's most prominent merchants, arrived on the Empress of India and left for Philadelphia, where he will represent Japan in the Congress of Commerce which meets on October 10. Otani is chairman of the Yokohama Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Central Board of Tea Traders' Guild, and a member of the Japanese Government High Council for Agriculture, Commerce and Industry.

By Finley Acker.

TO ascend or descend its narrow streets or alleys, for none are level, and to pass under their low vaulted ceilings, reminds the traveler of subterranean passages or catacombs. The arched vaults or caves lining these alleged streets in the business portion of the city furnish the shops for the trading among the natives. They are usually large enough to allow goods to be piled upon the three sides of the vault, with sufficient room in the centre for the proprietor (who performs all the various functions incident to shop-keeping), and additional space for two, and sometimes three or four, customers ; but four is generally the limit. One vault may dispose of dry goods, another notions, another groceries, another fresh meats, another sandals and slippers, another tinware, another wax candles and religious emblems and so on until one or more vaults may be found for the sale of all such articles as are commonly used by the natives.

But Jerusalemites don't believe in encouraging the department store idea. Each little shop has its separate proprietor, and the value of the entire stock of the average store would not equal the amount of a single good-sized sale in many American retail stores.

The Oriental method of trading is unique. The customer asks the price of an article, and the shopkeeper names it, declaring at the same time with the utmost fervor, that never before had he named so low a price. The customer thereupon cautiously offers a fraction of the price named, and calls, with equal fervor, upon a number of the saints in her vocabulary to witness that she will not pay any more. The storekeeper then slightly modifies his former price, but, at the same time, ejaculates a prayer to be forgiven for making such a sacrifice. The customer then makes a slight advance, and calls upon some more of her patron saints to witness that she will absolutely pay no more. And thus they make their adroit moves back and forth, until a price is finally agreed upon, and both instinctively offer up a secret prayer of thanksgiving for having so satisfactorily outwitted the other. — Chicago Grocer.

SHE WANTED A MAN.

Over in the land of Jersey, says an exchange, there are many truck farmers, most of whom are women, if you will have it so. They are an industrious and penurious class, who sell their produce from house to house in neighboring towns, and are generally known as "country pedlars." The term is purely local and means the farmer who peddles his own growings, though some of them have been known to go to the markets of the city for their goods, and sell them as their own growth. One, whom we have in mind, is a woman, who works hard, is a widow and is on the scout for a husband.

The other day she met a fellow pedlar who struck her as a likely successor to the departed one. So she said to him :

"Me have $800 in de bank, have got four cows, two horses, ten pigs, five tons of hay, a house and some acres of land. I like your ways, and I wants a man to dig in de ground, carry de swill, milk de cows and peddle de farm stuffs. Would you like me enough to do that ? "

The man said :

"If I am to do all that for the sake of being your husband, what is left for you to do ? "

"Oh," says she, "I have got 10 children to care for."

"Good heavens! "

And negotiations stopped on the spot. The facts here stated are true, and we can put any "willing worker" in negotiation for the hand of the relict, for the man pedlar told us the story himself.

Those who doubt that there is no chance for some men in this world should read the above facts carefully and ponder thereon.

EARLY CLOSING IN GLASGOW.

There is an early-closing agitation in Glasgow. On Wednesday, September 20, a concert was given by the South Side and District Shopkeepers' and Assistants' Early-Closing Association for the purpose of raising money and giving the public the association's reasons for desiring early closing. As first class talent was provided, the attendance was large, and the programme excellent. During the evening two speakers championed the cause of early closing. They gave the reasons for wishing shorter hours, which are summed up in the following resolution which was put before the meeting and carried unanimously :

That this meeting, being of the opinion that the present shop hours are unnecessarily long, and are injurious to the well-being of all, more especially to the young, therefore resolves to support the present early-closing movement, and pledge themselves not to shop after 8 o'clock ; and, further, resolves to support the principle of Sir John Lubbock's Shop Hours Bill, and that copies of this resolution be sent to the local members of Parliament.

The Bill of Sir John Lubbock, mentioned in the resolution, stated that at the instance of three-fourths of the shopkeepers in a locality all may be compelled to close at a fixed hour. Though this association is not yet backed up by the necessary three-fourths, their supporters are said to be steadily growing in number. Besides swelling their campaign fund, the concert helped to increase public interest and sympathy in the early-closing movement.

FINE QUALITY VALENCIAS.

Now that the market is well supplied with Valencias, remarks a London, Eng., trade paper, the most noticeable feature is the large proportion of really fine fruit, and also its uniformly good condition. Prices have now settled down to what may be considered a reasonable level, and the heavy clearances show that there are not a few buyers who are taking advantage of the excellent value offered and covering a portion of their requirements. A few parcels of fruit rather out of condition have been sold at rather lower rates than previously, but values for good medium and fine qualities are practically unchanged.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, October 2, 1899.

WHEAT—The trade throughout the week has been somewhat dull, as the principal shipments by farmers have been on consignment, and the elevators have bought comparatively little. The weather has continued ideal for threshing, and operations in that line are being pushed forward with the greatest vigor. Owing to the crop being perfectly dry and very free from weeds, it is easy to thresh, and better time is being made. Through the southern, southwestern, and middle portions of the Province a large proportion of the threshing is already completed, but in the Dauphin district, Minnedosa district, and northwest of that, and the Northwest Territories it is not much more than well under way. The market for the week has been an advancing one, and to-day at local points there is considerable excitement. As high as 61c. on a standard rate of freight has been paid at several points, and at one or two others 60c. The general market, however, closed as follows: 15c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 58c.; No. 2 hard, 55c.; No. 3 hard, 50c.; 16 to 17c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 57c.; No. 2 hard, 54c.; No. 3 hard, 49c.; 18 and 19c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 56c.; No. 2 hard, 53c.; No. 3 hard, 48c.; 20 and 21c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 55c.; No. 2 hard, 52c., and No. 3 hard, 47c. Present cash price afloat Fort William and for October deliveries No. 1 hard, 71c.; No. 2 hard, 67½c. There is not a sufficient quantity of any lower grade going forward to establish a price. The largest deliveries for the week have been at Southern Manitoba and main line points, between Portage la Prairie and Brandon.

FLOUR—Owing doubtless to the advance in wheat, there has been a sharp rise in flour. The market is very active, exceptionally so even for the time of year. The qnotations are: Hungarian patent, $1.85; Glenora and strong bakers', $1.65; Manitoba, $1.45; Algoma, $1.40; 2nd Manitoba bakers', $1.20; XXXX, $1.15; Imperial, $1.00.

CEREALS—In contrast to flour rolled oats have dropped 5 to 10c. per sack and are quoted at $1.75 for 80's. This is newly manufactured. Beans have advanced and are scarce as well as dear, the quotation for prime mediums being $1.40 to $1.45.

FEED—There is a difference as to the price of bran and shorts. The Ogilvie's give prices unchanged at $10.50 for bran and $12.50 for shorts while the Lake of the Woods quote $1.00 advance on both lines. Feed is in very active demand and the supply is short.

GREEN FRUITS—Oranges are practically out of market for the present, as there are not stocks in the city fit for shipment. Lemons are advancing steadily, and the supply is considered short. Quotations are $5 to $5.50, according to quality. So far, the supply of fall apples has been abundant, but the quality might have been better. Few, if any, winter apples have arrived, though large shipments are expected during the next two weeks. First-class table fruit is quoted at $3.50, and good cooking apples at $3 per bbl. The impression now appears to prevail that the winter supply will be ample, but the quality has not yet been fully tested, though that also is believed to be prime. Pears are growing very scarce, and there will probably not be more than another shipment of Washington fruit. Quotations are $2.25 to $2.50. Ontario pears are practically out of the market. Peaches are approaching the finale. Late Washingtons are quoted at $1.25 per case. Plums, too, are growing short, red and green being practically over. Italian prunes, from Washington, are still abundant and of very fine quality; they are quoted at $1.15 for the 20-lb. case.

GRAPES—The report comes that there will be very few cars of Ontario grapes for this market from now forward. Heavy shipments came in to-day, and are quoted at:

Selected Quality. Full Weight.

TORONTO

Red Rogers, 35c.; Niagara and Concords, 30c. Any future shipments will, in all probability, show an advance in price. Tokay grapes are $2.50. Malagas are about over for the season. Bananas are in good supply at $1.75 to $2, according to bunch. Ontario tomatoes are quoted at 45c., the last stock to arrive being rather green. Cape Cod cranberrles have arrived in small quantities, and large shipments are expected on October 15. Present price is $7.50 to $8 per bbl.

BUTTER—The market for creamery is very active, but the supply is very inadequate to the demand. The quotations run from 20½ to 22c. factories, this latter figure having been paid for fresh September made at two factories during the last few days. As usual with Manitoba, just when it is most profitable to make butter the cows are running dry. Many of the factories will close this coming week. Dairy butter, in round lots of fresh made, is worth 13 to 15c., Winnipeg. The quantity coming in is small.

CHEESE — The market continues very firm, but, owing to the very high prices, the movement has been very slow. Present quotations, 11½ to 12c. factories.

EGGS—Dealers are offering 17c. Winnipeg for fresh gathered eggs subject to candling. The supply is limited and considerably below the demand.

CURED MEATS — The market is firm and without change in either price or situation. According to expectations the increased price of hams has reduced the consumption considerably.

LIVE HOGS — Live hogs are very scarce and selling for 5c. per lb. weighed off the cars.

SUGARS — The market is normal and the price is unchanged from last week, being 5 3-10c. per lb. for granulated, and bright yellow, 4⅜ to 4⅝c.

CURRANTS — Are slightly higher. New Provincials in barrels are 5⅜ to 5½c., and Filliatras 5⅜ to 5⅝c. per lb.

RAISINS — Old Valencias are out of market. New stocks are in and are of fine quality. Finest selected $2 per box, and lower grades $1.60 to $1.65. Old muscatels have been advanced 1c. at the Coast, so that it is not likely there will be any heavy sales of them on this market, as the Mediterranean fruit is cheaper.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS—First car of prunes was received to-day and the market is slightly in advance of last year at the opening. The quotations are 5 to 10c., according to size. Apricots are still firm at 16 to 16½c.; peaches, unpeeled, 14 to 15c.; pitted plums, 9 to 9½c.; nectarines, 14c. The market on all Californian evaporated fruits is firm. Though many of the crops are good, the demand is unusually heavy.

CANNED GOODS—New canned vegetables are arriving, and in spite of low quotations from Eastern houses a fair trade is being done, but the market is still so demoralized as to prices that no house will furnish quotations; in fact, it is impossible for them to do so. It is considered that the corner made on corn has brought the price to the limit, and that any further advance will materially reduce consumption.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, offer new pack canned blueberries at tempting figures.

A car of "Wona" New Orleans molasses has been passed into stock by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, which they quote at low figures.

The "Ozo" Co., Limited, have appointed R. J. Gallaugher their sole agent for Manitoba and Northwest, and he will carry a full stock of their teas in Winnipeg.

BEANS HIGH IN PRICE.

THE new crop of beans is coming on an unusually stiff market. The crop is rather lighter than usual, and is coming on a market which has been cleaned quite bare by United States purchasers. The demand is much greater, as, in addition to the increased inquiry for the supply of lumber camps, a demand has opened from an entirely new quarter. The great hurricane in Porto Rico destroyed, among other things, the large bean crop in that island, so there is a considerable movement in that direction now.

The result of this combination of circumstances has been to cause the market to maintain firmly an advance of 10c. per bushel for both prime and hand-picked beans. The ruling quotations in Toronto to retailers are now $1.15 to $1.20 for hand-picked and $1.05 to $1.10 for prime beans. Even at these figures the demand from outside sources is so large that there may be a shortage for local consumption.

A despatch from Ridgetown, Ont., states that buyers there are having a merry time securing beans, and, as a result, the price has been materially advanced, as high as 95c. being paid in many instances. Farmers who have not drawn a load of beans to Ridgetown in ten years are now taking produce there. As a consequence, the shipment of beans from Ridgetown last week for eastern points was perhaps the largest in the history of the town. Steele & Co., Elliott & Co., and Cochrane & Wilson were the principal exporters.

It would be well for merchants who cannot get their supplies of beans locally to look after their purchases early.

SOAPMEN AND THEIR PREMIUMS.

A meeting of soap manufacturers was held in Toronto a few days ago for the special purpose of discussing ways and means of abolishing premiums.

If there is one branch of trade which has carried to an absurd length the premium evil that branch is the soap manufacturers.

Premiums with soap have come to be practically looked upon as being about as essential as water with the use of soap.

The manufacturers have now evidently came to the conclusion that premiums have so watered down their profits that they have become unbearable.

The premium evil, like an aperture in a dyke, can be started by one man, but united action on the part of many is necessary to stop it.

The first soap manufacturer who started premium-giving, whoever he was, was doubtless actuated, like the man who cuts prices, with a desire to undermine the business of his competitor. But premium-giving is something that no one manufacturer can monopolize. And so, one after another, the different soap manufacturers were giving premiums and falling over each other to see who could be the most bountiful in this respect. Now all are in the same boat, and all find the practice does not pay.

The giving of premiums is the very antithesis of sound business practice. It cannot permanently build up a soap or any other business. It may inflate it for a while, but that is all it can do—except burst it.

The only way to build up a permanent business is to make or sell reliable goods, to employ sound business methods, and to advertise wisely and well.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS IN CANADA.

PRICES for Californian raisins have been fixed by the Raisin Growers' Association. They are, as a rule, higher than those of last year.

On 4-crown loose muscatels the advance is 1¼c. per lb., and on 3-crown the appreciation is 2c. per lb. The price of No. 1 seedless is about the same as it was a year ago.

As last, so again this year, a rebate is allowed on sales made on Canadian account. This is in order to allow the Californian shippers to compete in the Canadian market with European raisins.

The rebate is larger than it was last year, now being 1c. per lb., which makes the net advance on 4 and 3-crown raisins on this market ¾ and 1c. per lb. respectively, compared with a year ago.

Even with the rebate, however, it is not likely, judging from conditions as they exist to-day, that many Californian raisins will be sold in Canada this season.

For example, 3-crown fruit would cost the Canadian importer to-day 7½c. per lb. net, and he could not afford to sell at less than 8½c. per lb. Now, selected Valencia raisins are being sold by the wholesale trade at 7c. to arrive, and 3-crown Malaga raisins, to arrive, at 7½c. per lb.

In the face of this, it is obvious that Californian raisins cannot do much.

DRIED FRUITS ON THE SCOTSMAN.

The loss of the Scotsman is likely to cause no small inconvenience to the wholesale grocery trade of Canada for a short time, for she had on board their intermediary shipments of currants and raisins.

The first small shipment of Valencia raisins that came via Liverpool is completely exhausted, while the orders which had been taken to be supplied from the Scotsman's cargo cannot, of course, be filled.

TO BROKERS AND WHOLESALERS.

Quite a number of brokers and wholesalers have sent in their names for the directory which is to be published in the Fall number of THE CANADIAN GROCER, but we are sure there are a great many names which should yet be sent in. We again request those interested to send in their names, as we desire to complete the list within the next few days. No charge whatever is made.

CHEESE GOOD PROPERTY.

THE situation in cheese continues unsettled. Last week, buying at country points having been freely resumed, prices promptly advanced.

This week, exporters at Montreal and elsewhere are again trying to bring about a reaction, but so far have not been successful.

This is easily understood, because factorymen, to use a trade term, are probably sold "closer to the hoop" than they have ever been at this season. Accordingly they are in a strong position to fight the decline, and it is doubtful if exporters will get prices materially lower, as factorymen, with the cold weather and other conditions, need be in no hurry about selling their September and fall make generally.

Statistics certainly are in their favor. On Monday the cable gave the Liverpool stock at 53,800 boxes, or hardly one week's consumption, whereas last year at the same time there were almost 70,000 boxes at Liverpool.

When it is considered that the exports this year are in excess of last year's by 144,000 boxes, it becomes clear that the movement into consumption in Great Britain has been heavier this year than last, despite the fact that prices have averaged 2c. per lb. more than in 1898.

Nor are the stocks in Canada very much heavier, so far as can be ascertained from figures available. Probably the best indication in this respect are the receipts to date at Montreal.

Up to September 30, there were received in Montreal 1,550,000 boxes, against 1,675,000 boxes last year, a decrease of 125,000 this year.

Deducting the exports in each year from the receipts, the balance in Montreal at present is 135,000 boxes, against 365,000 last year, or 230,000 boxes less. These figures are certainly bullish.

CEYLON GREEN TEA IN PACKETS.

The "Salada" Ceylon Tea Co. have recently decided to introduce Ceylon green teas in the United States and Canada, and are putting up those teas in their lead packets. They say they believe that these green teas are destined to take the place of Japans entirely. Of course, Ceylon black teas have been doing that to some extent, but they think that owing to the quality of the green Ceylons being superior to the Japans, and yet of similar flavor, that the Japan tea-drinker will quickly appreciate them. It is presumed this means another boom for Ceylon teas.

THE POSITION OF PEPPER.

Pepper continues to gather strength in the primary market, in sympathy with the statistical position.

Black pepper is estimated to be from 8,000 to 10,000 tons short of last year.

The pepper market has been gradually advancing since the beginning of 1898, and is now 1½ to 2c. per lb. higher in the primary markets than it was at the beginning of the present year.

As the pepper crop in nearly every producing country is said to be damaged, the future of the market is strong.

ADVANCE IN COLORED COTTONS.

The Dry Goods Review states that there is a stiffening feeling in the Canadian colored cotton market. The colored cotton combination has issued a circular, dated October 3, advancing the price on all awnings, cottonades, tickings, shirtings, galateas, oxfords, eiderdowns, flannelettes and shaker flannelettes from ¼ to ½c. per yard, while the price of blankets has been raised 2 to 10c. per pair.

THE QUEBEC LICENSE LAWS.

The Licensed Victuallers' Association of Montreal, is agitating for better license laws.

The desire, in brief, is to secure either a revision of the present Quebec Provincial License Act, or, if possible, the adoption of an entirely new one.

Whether or not we are opposed to the trade which the members of the Licensed Victuallers' Association carry on, no fair-minded man will deny that the laws on our statute books must be just and not unjust.

Upon this premise then we think the Licensed Victuallers' Association have every reason to make the appeal they are now making.

The license laws of the Province of Quebec are not only out of date, but they are so tangled up with other laws as to be a positive nuisance, while to interpret some of their provisions is past the understanding of even a "Philadelphia lawyer."

COCHIN GINGER DEARER.

Cochin ginger has advanced 2s. during the past week. The cause of the advance is drought in India, where the crop is said to be almost a total failure. The Cochin crop itself was some time ago reported to be badly damaged. Should latter advices confirm the report regarding the crop in India a further and a sharp advance is looked for.

Ginger has been gradually advancing for some time on the strength of rumors of short crops, and the market to-day is decidedly strong.

New crop ginger is not due till January and March.

PRICE OF GRANULATED SUGAR.

There is a disagreement this week between the two Montreal refiners as to the selling price on granulated sugar.

The St. Lawrence Refinery last week reduced the base price to $4.60, and, up to this writing, The Canada Refinery has not made any alteration from the old basis of $4.65.

The jobbers, however, are now filling orders at the minimum price, viz., $4.60.

SYMPATHY FOR MR. ROBINSON.

THE CANADIAN GROCER extends its sincere sympathy to Mr. Alfred Robinson, general-manager of the Canadian business of Lever Bros., manufacturers of "Sunlight" soap, in the terrible and irreparable loss which he has sustained in the drowning of his wife and daughter, passengers on the ill-fated Scotsman, wrecked two weeks ago on Belle Isle.

We can assure Mr. Robinson that the regret which the grocery trade of Canada shares with other classes, at the disastrous results of the wreck of the steamer, is the greater on account of the loss which he himself has experienced.

THANKSGIVING DAY OCTOBER 19.

The Dominion Government has fixed Thursday, October 19, as a day of thanksgiving. This is a change from holding the holiday late in November, and the business men of the country will doubtless appreciate it.

DEMAND FOR BLACK TEAS.

THERE have been some interesting developments in Montreal this week in relation to black teas of all sorts, but especially Ceylons and Indias, in which an absolute scarcity of certain grades exists.

Montreal brokers who had orders this week for the teas mentioned could not fill them, except at a material advance. In one case, an Ontario firm had to raise their bids 3½c. per lb. before they could close their purchase, and shortly after the seller bewailed the fact, as he could have made more money.

The scarcity appears to be chiefly in teas worth from 17 to 19c., and it is interesting to note, as showing the increased cost this year, that the same grade of goods were obtainable this time last fall from 12 to 14c.

Advices on China Congous are strong. These also have an upward tendency, and cables state that the Russians are expected to take a third of the entire crop.

In Japans the same strength does not exist, and business in them continues dull.

LOOSE TEA VS. PACKET.

Editor GROCER,—In your edition of September 19, a teaman claims as an argument in favor of the use of packet teas "that there is no cutting in prices." This may apply to his locality, but it certainly does not in the Maritime Provinces; in fact, it is just the reverse.

That is the one great objection the grocer has to package teas. There is sure to be some dealer in about every town to begin cutting prices on standard goods; and it is no theory, but a fact, that the prices of many of the most popular and best-selling packet teas are being cut till there is no profit left. The tea pedlar also does sell the packet teas, and finds no difficulty in getting them, and naturally cuts the price. This cannot be done in bulk goods. Of course, the poorer class, who cannot afford good living, want cheap teas, and the packet seller has to handle them, as well as those who sell in bulk, but there always are, and will be, plenty who will demand good teas and are willing to pay for them.

The statement of "a large handler of tea" that the wholesale dealer dare not buy the best drawing teas, but only those of good style; also that in selling bulk teas "his responsibility ceased as soon as he sold it the retailer," shows that his tea business is not done honestly; also that he has very poor salesmen. But it does not follow that all bulk tea handlers must be dishonest. And his statement gives the retailer credit for very little intelligence. The average grocer will admit that he knows nothing about tea. He leaves it to the people he buys of to suit his trade. And the permanently-successful tea house is the one which tries to do so; also to please the grocer in all ways, and I am sure a canvass of the retailers would give a verdict against packet teas.

Of course, Ceylons and Indians have come to stay, as they are the best values, and the grocer wants to buy them blended, but not in packets. It costs the consumer 2 to 3c. per lb. extra for the cost of packing. If this were added instead to the quality of the tea, is it not plain that the trade would receive that much more for their money?

A. H. GARDNER.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only, not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

W. H. Gillard & Co. are in receipt of first shipments of Malaga fruits, comprising choice clusters, black baskets, London layers, etc., which show exceptional quality.

First arrival of new currants are selling freely with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Laporte, Martin & Cie. are booking orders for dried fruits to arrive during this month. See their ad.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, offer special values in green Rio and Maracaibo coffees.

Shredded wheat biscuit, in cases and half-cases, are having a ready sale with W. H. Gillard & Co.

T. B. Escott & Co. are offering Californian prunes, all sizes, to arrive shortly. A carload is now in transit.

A full line of Upton's jams, jellies and marmalade is in store with the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Simcoe and Kidder tomato catsups, pint tins, are quoted at close prices by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Direct shipments of new pack French mushrooms are to hand this week for The Davidson & Hay, Limited.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie. wish to say, that although they lost a shipment of dried fruit on the Scotsman, they are still able to fill all orders.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, call attention to their offerings in green Rico, a carload of which they aretaking into stock this week.

T. B. Escott & Co. write: "Two carloads of new pack salmon have just arrived, among the first of this year's pack that has reached this city from the Coast. We shall be able to ship 'Maple Leaf' brand to customers promptly from this time forward."

A complete stock of imported and domestic pickles in bottles and bulk is offered for prompt shipment by the Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

T. Kinnear & Co. are in receipt of shipments of Crosse & Blackwell's lemon, orange and citron peels; also Corsican citron peels.

"Lekko," which the manufacturers state cleans everything in the household, is finding a rapid sale with the customers of W. H. Gillard & Co.

A full carload of "Grand Mogul" tea was shipped from London to Winnipeg this week. The trade for "Grand Mogul" goods is increasing in the Prairie Province.

"We have just received a consignment of 'Princess Louise' Japan teas," write Laporte, Martin & Cie. "It is the finest tea grocers can buy, and retails at 25c., and with a good profit."

T. B. Escott & Co. have purchased five carloads of currants at the lowest point in the market, which they are offering to sell for future delivery at close prices, and will be glad to furnish quotations to intending buyers.

SELF-MEASURING OIL TANKS FOR GROCERS.

THE CANADIAN GROCER takes pleasure in calling the attention of its readers to a new advertiser in its columns this week: The firm of S. F. Bowser & Company, manufacturers of the celebrated Bowser three-measure self-measuring oil tank, which is shown in our display columns elsewhere in this issue.

These tanks come highly recommended, and it would seem appear at a very opportune time, inasmuch as a recent change in the law permits of the delivery of oil to merchants in bulk by the oil companies which renders the possession of an oil tank of some sort, by the merchant, almost imperative.

The Bowser self-measuring tank, as its name indicates, is an automatic measuring apparatus and requires no measures or funnels for its operation, the tank measuring and delivering into the customer's vessel one of three distinct quantities, viz, a gallon, half-gallon or quart, at each stroke of the pump. Many different styles of these outfits are furnished, and they possess such advantages in the way of accuracy, economy, handiness and cleanliness, as must recommend them to every up-to-date and progressive handler of oils in the Dominion.

The local address of Bowser & Co. is P.O. Box 564, Toronto. A post card request to this address will bring full detailed information.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, October 5, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE chief feature of the wholesale grocery trade this week is the decline of 5c. per 100 lb. in the price of granulated sugar. Yellow sugars are unchanged. The wholesale grocery trade, generally speaking, is good, there being a nice sorting up business doing. Canned goods are quiet, but the tone of the market is even firmer than it was a week ago, although no actual change in prices has taken place. Deliveries of tomatoes and corn are being made this week. Coffees are meeting with a fair demand. The demand for teas continues to improve. A fairly good trade is being done in syrups and molasses. The market is bare of Valencia raisins. Prices on new season's Californian raisins have been received. They are ¼ to 1c. per lb. higher than last year. Wholesalers are now quoting Californian prunes to arrive.

CANNED GOODS.

The frosts of Friday and Saturday last have, in some districts at any rate, put a stop to the packing of tomatoes. And as the season closed earlier than expected, the tone of the market is naturally firmer, although no actual change in price has taken place. Only a few wholesalers are quoting, and those that are ask 80 to 85c. per dozen. In regard to corn, the situation is also strong, the factories, as a rule, apparently not being able to fill more than 60 per cent. of their orders. Some of them are reported to have paid large sums of money to buyers on account of not being able to complete orders. Wholesalers are quoting 95c. to $1, and as high as 95c. is being asked by packers who have any corn to offer.

Canned salmon, new season's pack, is being delivered this week, but very few new orders are being taken. There is a little uncertainty as to the future of the market, although advices from Great Britain state that the market there will be cleaned up by the time the new pack comes to hand. Local wholesalers are still quoting $1.35 to $1.40 for Fraser river fish; $1.25 to $1.30 for northern fish, and $1.05 to $1.10 for cohoes.

COFFEES.

Local demand continues fairly good. The primary markets continue strong. Cable advices this week estimated the receipts of coffee for October at 450 000 bags at Rio, and 800,000 bags at Santos.

SUGARS.

As intimated last week, the reduction of 5c. per lb. in granulated sugar by the St. Lawrence refinery has led to a similar reduction by the other refineries. And, on Monday, a similar reduction was made by the wholesale guild. The price for Montreal granulated sugars at Toronto is now $4 70, and for Acadia $4.65 per 100 lb. Yellows and powdered sugars are unchanged.

The outside raw sugar markets have experienced further declines during the week, but, according to last reports, the beet market in Europe had taken a slight turn for the better. In the United States the refined market is still much unsettled on account of the cutting of prices by the refineries. As far as the statistical position is concerned the conditions are still favorable. Acadia sugars are scarce on the local market, that refinery having oversold.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Wholesalers report the continuance of a good demand for syrups and molasses. There is a fair import demand for New Orleans molasses for fall delivery. The market keeps strong.

SPICES.

Cochin ginger has advanced about 2s. during the past week. Nutmegs are 1 to 1½c. per lb. higher in the primary markets. Mail advices from the most reliable sources state that the Zanzibar and Pemba clove crops will be small this year. Pepper is firm and advancing.

NUTS.

According to cable advices from Smyrna, the final outturn of figs is estimated at 35,000 camel loads, against 40,000 camel loads earlier in the season. This is less than half an average crop. As the crop is unusually early, it is expected that packing in Smyrna will stop sooner than in previous years.

TEAS.

The position of the tea market continues strong. A cable from Colombo, Ceylon, on Tuesday, stated that shippers would only be able to ship one-half the quantity of cheap tea on orders placed in July, and that it was doubtful if the market would admit of any more teas being shipped which would cost under 7½d. Toronto for the lowest grades. As this means net cash, it would be equivalent to a little over 15c. per lb. The market for Indian Ceylon teas of low and medium grades is now fully ¼d. up from the lowest point. There is a good inquiry for Indian and Ceylon low-grade teas, but buyers have not yet got their ideas up to the price which holders are asking. There is practically no low-grade teas on spot. The market for Japan teas is strong, but there is not a great deal doing from first hands. Wholesalers report continued improvement in the demand on retail account.

Gow, Wilson & Stanton, in their tea report, under date of London, September 22, say: "During the last week or two decidedly more confidence has been shown by buyers in the future of the market. They have, in consequence, operated more freely, resulting in a brisk demand for all grade.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—There were some currants on the Scotsman, now ashore on Belle Isle, and because of their non-arrival, some inconvenience has been occasioned. The direct shipment, however, ought to be here in another week. Fine Filiatras, to arrive by direct steamer, are being quoted at 5½c. per lb. and Vostizzas at 6 to 6½c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The local market is completely bare of Valencia raisins, and it is likely to remain so until the arrival, possibly next week, of the first direct shipment. Had not the Scotsman gone ashore with an intermediary shipment for this market the trade would have felt comfortable until the direct shipment arrived. Now they do not. A cable on Monday quoted prices 1s. per cwt. higher. Quite a number of orders have been taken for shipment by direct steamer, for fruit arriving, on which the following prices are quoted: Fine off stalk, 5½ to 6c.; selects, 6¼ to 6½c.; layers, 7 to 7½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS—Are scarce on the spot, arrivals so far being of small quantities, owing to the extreme high prices which ruled at the opening of the season. Prices now, however, are much more moderate, and some good orders have recently been taken for importation. The wholesalers have also taken a good many orders for future delivery at from 10 to 12½c. per lb., according to quality.

MALAGA RAISINS—Wholesalers are quoting 3-crown Malaga raisins to arrive at 7½c. per lb.

CALIFORNIA PRUNES—As noted in our editorial columns the Growers' Association have fixed the price of new seasons raisins. The prices are 1¾ to 2c. per lb. above above those of last year, but a rebate of 1c. on exports to Canada makes the price on 4-crown ¾c. per lb. higher than last year and 1c. per lb. higher on 3-crown. Seedless raisins are quoted about the same as last year.

PRUNES—Bosnia prunes, 100 size, are this week cabled to cost 5¼c. per lb. laid down, shipment via New York. At this figure it is probable some business will be done. An advance of 1s. per cwt. is reported in the larger sizes of Bosnia prunes. The local wholesale trade is offering to arrive Santa Clara prunes in 50-lb. boxes at the following figures: 40-50's, 10c. per lb.; 50-60's, 9c.; 60-70's, 7½c.; 70-80's, 7c.; 80-90's, 6½c.; 90-100's, 6 to 6¼c. Choice northern prunes are quoted ¼c. per lb. less.

GREEN FRUITS.

A car of Jamaica oranges was received this week, and more are expected in the next few days. There is a good demand for them. The price paid for those which arrived ranged from $7.50 to $8 per bbl. Maori lemons are still offering at $6.50 to $7, and a fair movement is reported. There is an excellent demand for bananas at from $1 to $1.50 per bunch. There is still a great lot of grapes coming in. The demand keeps excellent, especially for better qualities. Prices are well maintained at 15 to 20c. for 10-lb. baskets, and 25 to 30c. for the large baskets. Winter pears are offering in good quantities, but earlier varieties are done. A fair supply of peaches is offering. The quality of offerings varies greatly, hence the range of prices is large as ever, sales being made at all the way from 35 to 75c. per basket. The feeling regarding winter apples is easier, and it looks as though many who paid top figures in the orchards are likely to lose money. There is no change in the price on the local market, though sweet potatoes are also easier, showing a decline of 25c. this week. Cranberries are starting to move at last week's price, $8 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The market shows a strengthening disposition. For strictly fresh eggs as high as 16c. is being paid locally, showing a rise of 1c. There is not as large a supply as there has been, and, as the demand keeps active, prices are likely to be well maintained. Held eggs are worth 12½ to 14c. Dealers are still paying about 13c. at country points.

BEANS—The market is decidedly stiff, showing an all-around advance of 10c. The causes of the rise are heavy purchases in Western Ontario by United States buyers; the destruction of the Porto Rican crop by the hurricane, and the comparatively light crop. Hand-picked beans are now selling at $1.15 to $1.25, and prime at $1.05 to $1.10.

HONEY — Conditions are unchanged, prices keeping high on account of the scarcity. The demand keeps good. We quote: Clover extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb., according to package; Clover comb No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

EVAPORATED APPLES — Prices are well maintained. The movement to date has been very light, as both the supply and demand are limited. We quote 8½c. per lb. in a jobbing way.

VEGETABLES — Cauliflowers are 25c. per doz. cheaper the price now being 75c. to $1 per doz. There is a good demand for all vegetables, especially pickling onions, which are not arriving in sufficient quantities to supply the demand. We quote: Cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz.; red cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 75c. to $1

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of all grades of butter are lighter this season of the year, the decreased production being due probably to farmers sending their milk to cheese factories. The quality of much of the dairy coming in is so inferior that a decline of 1c. brings the price of second grades to 15 to 16c. Choice dairy tubs are unchanged at 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—A steady feeling has been maintained this week both locally and at country boards. At country boards 11¾c. is the ruling price, and, though a few salesmen have held for 12c., nearly all have sold at the price stated. On the local market, the ruling jobbing figures are 11½c. for early makes and 12c. for late makes.

PROVISIONS.

It is expected that next week will witness the first arrival of dressed hogs for pork-packing purposes. As high as $6.15 has been paid for choice weights on the local market this week, but the market is not likely to open much above $6, and the range is likely to be from $5.75 to $6. In the meantime, provisions have been showing a weakening tendency, and declines of ½ to 1c. are noted in long clear bacon, breakfast bacon, hams, and backs. Lard, also, is ¼c. cheaper. Long clear is now selling at 7½ to 8c.; breakfast bacon and backs, at 11 to 11½c.; rolls, at 11½ to 12c. Lard is quoted at 6½c. in tierces, 6¾ to 7c. in tubs, and 7 to 7¼c. in pails. Packers claim that, with dressed hogs at $6, there will be little profit in curing meats to sell at ruling prices.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

There are no whitefish offering. The trout coming in are larger in size than usual. Some excellent Seattle salmon are offering at 13 to 15c. per lb. Oysters continue scarce, and are likely to be so until the end of next week, at the least. Prices are un-

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS

GRAIN—The wheat market keeps steady at 68 to 69c. for red and white outside. Deliveries are large. The deliveries on the local market are also heavy, wheat, peas and oats all coming in well. Prices are firm with an advance of ½ to 1½c. in rye, and 1c. in barley, and a decline of 1 to 1½c. in oats. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 69½ to 70c.; goose, 74½ to 75c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 30 to 31c.; barley, 44 to 46c.; rye, 53½c.; No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat keeps firm at 78c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—There is no change. The movement is good. Prices are firm. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Standard oatmeal and rolled oats are 10c. cheaper. The demand for all foods is steadily increasing. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.40 in bags and $3.50 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—An advance of ¼c. is noted in cured hides. Otherwise prices are unchanged, though firm. Deliveries are good. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9¼c.

SKINS—Sheep and lambskins are 10c. dearer this week. No other change is noted. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 70c.

WOOL—Advances of 1c. in clothing wool and ½ to 1c. in combing fleece is noted. The demand keeps large and the movement is increasing. We quote: Clothing wool, 17c.; combing fleece, 15c.; unwashed, 9 to 10c.

SEEDS.

The competition of buyers has sent the price of alsike up 50c., so now $4.50 to $6 50 is noted. Timothy, on the other hand, is decidedly weak, showing a decline of 25c. Good to choice machine threshed timothy is now being bought at 75c. to $1, though 25c. more is paid for extra fancy samples.

SALT.

No change to note. A good business is being done. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl, and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Beans are 10c. per bushel higher.

Valencia raisins are cabled 1s. dearer.

Low grade India and Ceylon teas are firmer.

Ginger, cloves and spices have again advanced.

Strictly fresh eggs are worth 16c., an advance of 1c.

Bosnia prunes of the larger sizes are quoted 1s. dearer.

Standard oatmeal and rolled oats are 10c. cheaper, both in bags and barrels.

Clothing wool has advanced 1c., and combing fleece is ½ to 1½c. dearer.

Alsike clover seed has advanced 50c., and timothy has declined 25c. this week.

Jamaica oranges are in at $7.50 to $8 per bbl. Sweet potatoes are selling at $2.75 to $3, a decline of 25c.

Prices have been fixed on Californian raisins. They are ¾ to 1c. per lb. dearer than last year to the Canadian trade.

Lard is ¼c. cheaper. Long clear bacon, breakfast bacon, hams and backs have declined ½ to 1c. per lb. Pork-packers expect to start operations next week, with dressed hogs selling at $5.75 to $6.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, October 5, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has exhibited a seasonable degree of activity during the past week. Sugar is 5c. per 100 lb. lower for granulated. Syrups and molasses are unchanged. Ontario buyers have been contracting freely for Valencia raisins for importation by the second direct steamer, but local importers are still backward purchasers. Prediction of a sharp advance in corn has been the most interesting fact in relation to canned goods. Rice is steady to firm, and coffee has been rather easier in tone. Spices are steady, and an upward disposition is reported in Congou teas.

SUGARS.

There is some disparity between the asking prices of the two refineries, one of them having marked down its figure on granulated, but the other has not, up to this writing followed suit. The jobbers have, however, reduced their prices 5c. per 100 lb. on granulated, which is now quoted at $4 60. Yellows are unchanged at $3.75 to $4 40. The latest London cables this week state that the raw market is somewhat firmer for beet, with present month quoted at 9s. 5¼d, and next month at 9s. 6d. Cane ruled dull, and without demand, with Java quoted at 11s. 7½d,, and fair refining, 10s. 9d. In New York, raw has been easy and inactive, fair refining, 3 13-16c., and centrifugal 96 test, 4 5-16c.

SYRUPS.

There is no improvement in this market, and prices are nominally quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. at the factory.

MOLASSES.

Business in molasses in a wholesale way is quiet, and the market furnishes no new feature in this respect. The jobbing trade in Barbadoes stock is fair, and prices are steady at 35c. in carload lots, and 36c. in single puncheons.

DRIED FRUITS.

There has been more activity in dried fruits during the past week owing to the fact that quite an active demand sprang up from Ontario buyers, and some large orders were cabled for Valencia raisins and filled on the basis quoted in this column last week, and for shipment via second direct steamer from Denia. The demand from

THREE MERITS OF

TOWER TEA

FIRST, THE QUALITY IS REGULAR.—Not only best, but "regular." Please note. This is as important as excellence. Good Tea of regular quality which does not vary is a delightful beverage and it can always be relied on.

SECOND, THE DESCRIPTIONS ARE TRUE.—There is as much variety in Tea as in Wine. Every lady who buys Tea desires to know the truth about her purchases. Full reliance can be placed on the description of the various qualities in their Price List.

THIRD, THE PRICES ARE POPULAR.—A fair price for a good article is a wise principle. Unfair prices, whether too high or too low, mean robbery. The prices of TOWER TEA are based on the cost of production and distribution. Therefore these prices are popular.

CANADIAN REPRESENTATIVE --

H. B. HUNGERFORD,

local buyers has continued slow, and few orders have been booked. Since the decline last noted values at primary points have ruled steady, as follows: Layers, 6¼c.; selected, 5¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5c., and off-stalk, 4½c., laid down at Montreal.

Demand for currants is slow, and little activity is anticipated until the first steamer arrives, on which there is said to be a considerable stock on consignment.

CANNED GOODS.

Reports here are to the effect that the crop of corn will be so short that it is difficult to quote prices, and a sharp advance is anticipated. Tomatoes on spot are selling at 75c. per doz.; marrowfat peas, 72½c., and early Junes, 77½c. Trading has been noted in beans at 77½c.

RICE.

The rice market is without material change. Demand is fully up to the average for the season, and prices are strong, with an upward tendency, in sympathy with foreign advices.

COFFEES.

Business in coffees continues quiet, the demand being only for small lots, and while prices show no actual change the tone is easy.

SPICES.

A more active business is noted in spices, and prices all around are firm this week. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 60c. per lb., as to size; mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality, and pimento, 8c.

TEAS.

There has been a stronger feeling in Congous owing to foreign advices, which state that demand from Russia has been exceptionally active. This market is lower than New York, London or China, in consequence buyers will have to advance their ideas, to some extent, in order to fill their wants. Several bids have been made during the past few days for large quantities of such teas, which are afloat and to arrive, but they were all refused, as the teas had already been sold, or are held at higher prices. The demand here is good for Congous at a price, but they are not to be had, and importers state that as long as old teas are offering on the market buyers will not pay the advance in prices asked for new crop goods. Pingsuey, Young Hyson and pea leaf teas are scarce here, there being none to be had in the market. Some sales of Pingsuey gunpowders have taken place at 12½ to 18c., and Japans at 12 to 16c.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a fair volume of trade in green fruits this week, the only striking feature being the increased receipts of fall apples, which are easier at $1.65 to $2.50, as to grade. Winter apples are held from $3 to $3.25. Canadian peaches have been off in quality, and prices have a wide range, of 40 to 70c. per basket. Canadian pears have met a good demand at 25 to 60c. per basket, and $3.50 to $9 per bbl. On account of the heavy rains the receipts of grapes have been light, but heavier supplies are expected next week. Sales this week range as follows: Blue, 1½ to 2c.; Niagara, 1¾ to 2¼c.; Rogers, 2 to 2½c.; Delaware, 3 to 3½c. The market is oversupplied with bananas, and, as there is very little demand for them, buyers have prices in their favor at 75c. to $1.40 per bunch, as to grade. Californian fruits have been very scarce, while the demand for them is in excess of the supplies; prices have been well maintained all around, as follows: Peaches, $1.35 to $1.50; pears, $2.75 to $3; plums, $1.75 to $2.50. There are very few oranges selling, on account of the large quantity of other fruits offering. Jamaicas, repacked, command $8 per bbl., but in original packages $7 to $7.50 is asked. There is very little sale for new lemons on account of the cold and miserable weather; prices range between $4 to $4 50 per box. Sweet potatoes are in fair demand at $2.50 to $3 per bbl. Cranberries are in light receipt, and command $6.25 to $7 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand from local buyers for fresh stock was good and a fairly active trade was done at firm prices. We quote: Choice candled stock, 18c.; straight lots, 15 to 15½c.; No. 2, 12 to 13c., and culls, 9 to 10c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT—There was a little more inquiry for maple syrup to-day, owing, no doubt, to the cooler weather and sales were made at steady prices. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 60 to 65c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—A fair trade was reported in honey and values are maintained. White clover comb is quoted at 12c. and extracted at 9c.; and buckwheat at 8c per lb.

BEANS—There is considerable inquiry for choice hand-picked beans, of which the offerings in this market are limited; in consequence, prices rule firm. Choice hand-picked are quoted at $1.05 to $1.15 and primes at 95c. to $1.

GAME—The receipts of partridges were fair, for which the demand was good and sales were made readily at 60 to 65c. for firsts and at 30 to 35c. for seconds.

POTATOES—There was no change in potatoes to note. The demand is fair at 40c. per bag in round lots, and at 50c. in a small way.

ASHES—The market for ashes continues quiet and featureless. We quote: First sorts, $3.75 to $3.85; seconds do., $3.65, and first pearls, $5 to $5.10 per 100 lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR — An active demand was experienced for flour to-day from both foreign and local buyers, and some large sales were made on the latter account, including one lot of 4,000 sacks of Manitoba grades. The tone of the market is very firm, in sympathy with the strong wheat markets, and values are maintained with an upward tendency. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.50 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.25 to $3.35; in bags, $1.55 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.90 to $4.20, and strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.70.

GRAIN—The demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba wheat was good to-day, and considerable business was done in this line at the advance in prices, but the inquiries for coarse grains were limited, and bids for such were generally out of line. There was a good demand from local exporters for Manitoba wheat in the Winnipeg market, and some fair-sized lots of No. 1 hard were purchased early in the day at 71c. afloat Fort William, but prices closed ½ to 1c. per bushel higher than the above figure. The local market for coarse grains was somewhat quieter to day, but the undertone was firm and values were fully maintained. Peas were quoted at 70 to 70½c.; rye at 62½c.; No. 1 barley at 51½c.; No. 2 ditto at 49½c.; feed ditto at 45c.; oats at 31c., and buckwheat at 49 to 50c. afloat.

OATMEAL—There was nothing new in the situation of the meal market. Demand for rolled oats is slow at $3.50 per barrel and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—In feed the feeling is very firm, owing to the continued good demand and small offerings. Manitoba bran is selling at $15 to $15.50, and shorts at $17 to $17.50 per ton, including bags. Ontario bran in bulk is quoted at $15 per ton, and shorts at $17 to $18.

HAY—Receipts of baled hay are not large, but supplies are ample to fill all requirements and prices rule steady. Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, at $5.50 to $6 per ton on track.

PROVISIONS.

There is no change to note in any line, the tone of the market being fairly steady. The demand just now is chiefly for small lots; in consequence, trade is of a jobbing character. We quote: Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess,

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—There has been still another shift in the situation of the cheese market, demand falling off, and exporters here are now trying to work the market down, but, so far, with scant success. Western cheese were nominal between traders at 11¾ to 11⅞c., and Eastern makes, 11¼ to 11½c. The cable was 56s. for colored, and 54s. 6d. for white cheese. The stock of cheese in Liverpool was cabled Monday at 53,800 boxes, against 65,672 the same day last year.

BUTTER—The strong tone is maintained, but trading was rather quiet to-day. Finest creamery ranges from 24 to 24½c., with seconds, 22½ to 23c. Western dairy is scarce and firm at 17½ to 18c. Jobbing parcels call for an advance of ½c. on these figures. Stock of butter at Liverpool was 19,200 kegs.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Heavy receipts of fall apples have caused a decline in prices.

Exporters are again trying to manipulate cheese prices downwards.

Ontario buyers have contracted freely for Valencia raisins for importation by the second direct steamer from Denia.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

ST. JOHN, N.B., October 5, 1899.

THERE is an active business, and the outlook is most encouraging. In many lines prices are very firm, and some show sharp advances. In this particular may be mentioned such lines as beans, canned corn and tomatoes, plate beef and Californian raisins. Interest in winter export business was quite stirred up by the backwardness of the Government in making such arrangements with the C.P.R. as were necessary for the continuance of the export business from here. The fact that the Government's facilities for export shipments via I.C.R. would not be completed in time for business this season added to the dismay. A temporary arrangement has been made, and it is expected this winter will see larger shipments than any of the previous successful seasons. In spices, firm figures rule, the advance in pepper being most noticed.

OILS—As noted in our late reports the firmness of the oil market has resulted in a further advance, and from the present outlook further higher prices would not be a surprise. Crude oil is ruling very high, while burning oil responds to the higher tone of the market quicker, it being the line at present in demand, and at any time more easily effected. Lubricating oil also tends higher. Paint oils, though not affected by the crude oil market, are high. There have been fair receipts during the week of cod oil.

GUELPH, ONT.

SALT—The stock of Liverpool coarse salt is getting quite small, and there is none afloat for here except some via Boston. There is a good demand and prices are quoted about 5c. higher. Prices are likely to remain up till the regular winter freight boats from Liverpool and Manchester begin to come here. In Canadian salt there is a good demand at even figures, We quote: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 50c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Dealers have advanced corn, and those who sold to arrive are missing a nice profit. As many packers are short in deliveries, they are even so badly off as to be in doubt if they can fill orders. The outlook for tomatoes is almost equally as firm. Peas are firm, but not as much a feature as the other lines. Peaches are rather higher and are bound to advance. Stocks here are light. Salmon are very firmly held, and tend higher. Cohoes are more freely offered than ever before. This is owing to the high figures of the better grades. First arrivals are about all sold. In haddies, bloaters, and other lines of canned fish, except sardines, there are firm figures quoted. Meats are rather higher, but the demand is more quiet. There is quite a range in price between packers.

GREEN FRUITS—Business is active. New Brunswick apples are about out of the market. Nova Scotian fruit is coming to hand very freely, and is of good quality. Gravensteins have the demand, and fair prices are obtained. Little is being done in oranges. Dominicas are poor, and even Jamaicas are not desirable. Lemons have but a fair sale. In these, there is also little really good fruit coming to hand. There is fair sale for bananas at even figures. Pears are about done, though there are still fair receipts from Nova Scotia, also of eastern Bartletts. Quite a few Nova Scotian peaches are seen. They are only fair fruit. A few Ontarios are still received. Ontario grapes are received freely, but prices hold quite firm, so that the sale is not as large as usual. In Californian fruit, the only line left is Tokay grapes. Malaga grapes are slow. In cranberries, both Cape Cods and natives are offered. Prices this year are quite low. Crabapples are a drug.

DRIED FRUITS—It looks as if there would be no Californian raisins imported this season. Prices were received this week and were a great surprise. They are just about double the price of three years ago. In 2-crown fruit there is even more difference, as this year there is but half a cent between the three grades. Inside of two years 4-crown fruit was sold here at half what they are now offered. Three-crown fruit will cost more than two cents higher than Valencia layers. This will throw the demand upon them. There is also likely to be a sale for Malaga loose muscatels, which can be landed over a cent below Californian. Market is bare of Californian. A month or two ago there were quite a few held, but holders, to their sorrow, let them go. The trade are disappointed. They like the Californian fruit, and cannot understand the reason for the present high prices. They cannot see how the association can hold the present price. It will kill the export trade and will enable Valencias and other European raisins to be imported into their own market to advantage. A rebate of one cent to Canadian buyers has been named. Grades below standard will not be offered for thirty days; perhaps not then. The spot stock of raisins is limited to a few new Valencias, which are firmly held. In peels, prices rule even. Stocks are largely to hand. In currants, dealers are not importing largely, but are depending on the New York market. The direct offering of seeded did not prove as attractive to the trade as was expected. Owing to a few old evaporated s ill held, buyers are backward. Packers are quite high in their ideas, and this affects sales. A few cars for later shipment have been placed. Dried are lower. Prunes do not have much attention. Apricots are again too high to be much of a favorite with the trade. Peaches are not favorites. In onions, market is now supplied with Canadian; prices keep high; stock is good.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Eggs show considerable range in price, but good stock is higher and in good demand. In butter, there is quite a firm feeling, particularly in regard to good stock. Choice butter is hard to get. In cheese, there is but a quiet business, and, while western prices have turned firmer, the local market is rather dull. The local consumption is small.

SUGAR—The report that American sugars would not be offered here any longer has not proved correct, as they are offered here almost daily. It is difficult to buy futures, and, while prices are easy, rather firmer figures would not surprise the trade. It only needs for the trouble between the American refineries to be arranged to have that competition withdrawn. There is a fair trade doing.

MOLASSES—The market is quite a firm one. Quite a quantity has been shipped from here to Quebec. Were it not for New Orleans, and other grades offered from American points, higher prices would rule, and as it is dealers are not willing to shade figures and look for still higher prices. The New Orleans, being in small packages, is much appreciated by the trade. Two grades at least are offered. There is as yet no inquiry for syrup.

FISH—Stocks are very light, and except in smoked herring and floaters there is active demand, and while improved receipts are expected it is not thought there will be any change in prices for some little time. Pickled herring are most needed. The market may almost be said to be bare and this is the season of demand. Very few Nova Scotian herring are being received; a few passed through from Yarmouth for the West during the week. Both dry cod and pollock are scarce, and the present high prices are firmly held. Boneless fish is active and some of particularly good quality is being put up. Smoked herring are easy. There are practically no fresh fish and so finnan haddie are scarce. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3 75 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2 to $2.10 per 100; pickled herring, $1.70 to $1.75 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PROVISIONS—In this line the upward tendency is also noticed. While barreled pork has been advanced the chief change is in beef. Stocks held are not large. Lard is also moving up. A fair quantity is held. Smoked meats feel the general movement. There is also an improved sale.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour is quite firmly held, though particularly in Manitobas a rather easier feeling is expected, still, with the general high prices and a thought of war to help the market, lower figures for the present cannot be counted on. Oats are fairly firm, but oatmeal seems at the moment a little easier. Beans have been one of the surprises of the week. Some Western houses speak of an advance of almost 50c. from the price at which sales were made quite late in August. Beans have been so much of a drag that the trade feel as if these prices cannot hold. But, as we noted last week, there would, at least, seem to be an end of the very low figures. Our trade were caught quite short. Barley and peas are firmer. Feed is still scarce and high. Little new hay has yet been received. Rather better prices rule. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.50 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.00; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3 80 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.15 to $2.20; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 35 to 38c.; hand-picked beans, $1.25 to $1.30; prime, $1.15 to $1.20; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Geo. E. Barbour is home from a well-earned holiday, and, while he did not get a moose, his friends are pleased to note what is more important, namely, that he is much improved in health.

Bowman & Angevine have received a shipment of Nicholson & Brock's mince meat.

THE GROCER was pleased to receive a call this week from Lawrence J. Levy, representing Boeckh Bros. & Company, of Toronto. Mr. Levy is not only after business, but bound to get it.

"Red Cross" granulated soap, manufactured by The St. Croix Soap Manufacturing Co., is one of the favorite washing powders here. The difficulty they find is to supply the demand. T. Collins & Co. have a shipment just to hand.

W. Frank Hatheway is offering some very nice New Orleans molasses in small packages, just received, to the trade.

J. C. Bowman, representing The Laing Packing and Provision Co., Limited, Montreal, is having a splendid trade in canned meats.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

STAPLE PRICES ABROAD.

The following are the index numbers of the prices of 45 commodities, the average of the eleven years 1867 77 being 100, as made up by A. Sauerbeck :

	Average.

May, 1899	66.6
June, 1899	66.9
July, 1899	67.6
August, 1899	68.3

Iron and tin did not maintain the high closing prices of the previous month, and mutton, sugar and coffee were somewhat lower ; but otherwise the general tendency of prices was firm or rather better, particularly for corn, cotton, flax, jute, wool, palm and linseed oils. The movements of all the above commodities, downward or upward, balanced each other, and the fresh rise in the average index number was entirely caused by the strong advance of two articles, butter and Manila hemp. The former rose about 15s. to 20s. per cwt., and the latter £10 per ton, from £33½ to 43½. Taking articles of food and materials separately, the index numbers compare thus :

	Feb., 1895.	July, 1896.	May, 1898.	Dec., 1898.	July, 1899	Aug. 1899.
Food	63 8	61.0	71.5	65.6	65.3	65.7
Materials	57.0	58.6	62.7	62.4	69.3	70.2

Articles of food stand about on a par with the end of last year, while materials are in the aggregate 12½ per cent. higher.

PRUNES ON THE COAST.

The California Fruit Grower, of September 23, reviews the prune situation on the Coast as follows : "The harvest is progressing satisfactorily under favorable weather conditions. The demand and movement are light. Prices continue low and in buyers' favor. Nominally this market is on a 2¾ to 3c. basis as to quality and locality. In the lower San Joaquin Valley growers are parting with large blocks of bulk prunes on a 2½c. basis, buyers grading and packing. Late advices received at these offices place the crop of the Visalia District at 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 lb. of cured fruit, the quality better than ever before and fruit running to large sizes. One firm of packer states that 50 per cent. of the crop of that district will run 40-50's and 50 60's. The crop in all parts of the State is running to large sizes and packers are not offering at this time any 90's to 100's, but name the four sizes as 60's to 90's. The very large sizes command but a slight premium. There is a fair export demand, but domestic buyers are only inclined to supply the present consumptive demand, which is light."

TORONTO FRUITMEN DINE.

The Toronto Retail Fruit Merchants' Association, which was organized this summer, held its first entertainment on Monday evening by having an oyster supper in their meeting-room in Temperance Hall. About 90 members of the association were present. The chairman of the evening was H. A. Brazel, president of the association. After the supper and some good speeches by several members, an excellent programme was given by the Queen City Quartette and Mr. Size.

The association has done good work in the past summer in keeping up the standard and in preventing dishonestly packed fruit being sent into Toronto. Its energies will be devoted now to the enforcement of existing laws regarding the sale of fruit in retail stores, at the market and from peddlers' waggons.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, have received this week a direct shipment of new season's Ceylon teas. This invoice is made up of Pekoes and Orange Pekoes, and shows teas of splendid style and good liquor.

The promoters of the proposed Brantford Pork-Packing Company say that it is an assured institution and that before long it will be carrying on an aggressive competition for a place in the British markets for its produce. Most of the stock of the new company has been subscribed.

TRADE CHAT.

DON'T employ relatives in your business is the advice of a shrewd business man, says The New England Grocer. You can't treat him with the same impartiality you do other employes. Select your employes and business associates because they are the best men to fill the positions, and not because of sentimental reasons.

The price of crude oil at Ontario wells was again advanced 3c. per bbl. last week.

P. L. Pearce, confectioner and tobacconist, Waterford, Ont., is enlarging his store.

The Montgomery & MacDonald Co., wholesale and retail grocers, etc., Nelson, B.C., have been incorporated.

John Smoke is opening a fruit store in the new brick block recently erected in Neepawa, Man., by J. Simpson & Co.

In one day recently, in 23 carloads, 437 cattle were shipped from Chesley, Ont. For them about $23,000 were paid. This is a good record for a town of 1,800.

Tank ships Nos. 52 and 72 took 170,152 and 165,846 gallons, respectively, of refined oil from Sarnia on Saturday for Montreal. This trip will complete the season for these boats.

The Petrolea, Ont., Advertiser, claims that as Petrolea is a good chicken town, in the centre of a good poultry district, the Dominion Government should establish one of the projected chicken fattening stations in that town.

Hopkins & McLean, general merchants, are moving into their new store, the finest and most up-to-date in Kamloops. Their stock is so large that it will take a day or two to get everything in order.—Kamloops, B.C., Standard.

Joseph M. Lavoie, tobacconist, and Marie L. A. Lavoie, his wife, Ottawa; A. Z. Trudel, grocer, Hull; Samuel Myers, agent, and Levis Rosenthal, tobacconist, Ottawa, are seeking incorporation under the style of The J. M. Lavoie Co., Limited, to manufacture and handle by wholesale, cigars, tobaccos, etc. The capital stock of the proposed company is $10,000, and its headquarters Ottawa.

Acting on the advice of N. H. Stevens, of Chatham, given in August, farmers in the bean raising counties held their beans for advancing prices and have realized $50,000 more than they otherwise would.—Listowel Banner.

The Brockville Recorder has been studying an old directory of the town, and finds that, of all the men who were in business there 48 years ago, only five are living, and not one is in active business.

Six hundred and fifty thousand pounds of tea, according to Answers, are consumed in Britain every day, which gives 5,200 gallons a minute, night and day, throughout the year. The tea drunk in Britain in a year would make a lake two and three-fifths miles long, one mile wide, and six feet deep.

The shipments of butter from Montreal continue unusually large. Last week 34,385 packages were exported, as compared with 19,385 packages the same week last year. The aggregate shipments from this port for the season now amount to 354,646 packages, compared with 156,304 packages last season.

Some time ago, a "Sunlight" acetylene gas machine was installed in T. Ivory & Son's general store in Omemee, Ont., and it gave first-class satisfaction until recently, when it exploded without apparent cause. The light had not been turned on, and no fire occurred. T. C. Ivory was knocked down by the force of the explosion.—Lindsay Post.

J. Griffin, of St. Thomas, Ont., a member of the firm of J. Y. Griffin & Co., Winnipeg, arrived at Edmonton one day last week. Mr. Griffin is just returning from a business trip to Vancouver, Victoria, Rossland and Nelson. As Edmonton is the most favorably situated producing point for the supply of these consuming centres, and as the demand is rapidly increasing, Mr. Griffin thought it well to visit Edmonton with a view to future business. The firm handle butter and eggs and other farm produce as well as pork, and will probably hereafter draw a portion of their supply for the Western trade from this point. — Edmonton Bulletin.

A correspondent writes: Many expressions of regret are heard over the departure of R. Geo. Whitton, who has successfully conducted a dry goods and grocery store at Fingal, Ont., for a number of years. We have too few such men as Mr. Whitton and his place as a business man and a citizen will be hard to fill. The best wishes of a large vicinity go with him to Rodney, Ont., where he has entered into a large mercantile business.

THE INDIAN TEA INDUSTRY.

The prospects of the Indian tea industry, the Calcutta correspondent of The Allahabad Pioneer reports, continue to brighten very considerably. With the dispute in London brought to a favorable termination, with values in Calcutta distinctly improving, a better demand from the outside markets and better weather in most of the districts, which will afford a chance of desirable quality being soon available, the hopes of those interested in tea are on a higher level than of late, when the outlook was decidedly gloomy. The weather in the tea districts has been generally favorable, except in North Assam, where it has been too cold.

ADVANCEMENT FOR W. MILLAR.

The many friends of Mr. W. Millar, who has been a representative of The Empire Tobacco Co. in Northern Ontario for a number of years, will be pleased to hear of his appointment as manager of their business in the Northwest Territories, with headquarters at Winnipeg. Mr. Millar will leave early in the present month to assume his new duties, and will carry with him the good wishes of all who know him.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

TWO further cargoes of new currants have been placed on the market during the week, and there is now a fair assortment of all grades, the most meagre supply being in the case of Provincial. The character of the crop, as indicated by the fruit brought by first steamers, is confirmed by these later arrivals, and the dearth of fine fruit of most grades would now seem to be placed beyond doubt. The produce of the various Vostizza estates, as shown by the size of the parcels of the well-known marks, is probably much smaller than usual. Some decline in prices has taken place, mainly on account of the small demand, and not, so far as can be seen, from any inherent weakness in the market. Towards the end of the week, however, there are prospects of business improving, and buyers appear to feel more confidence as regards the stability of the present range of prices. If the now generally accepted estimates of the small yield of the 1899 crop are to be realized, this confidence is probably well placed, and indications certainly point in this direction. The holders of Provincial in Greece, for instance, find a steady and widespread demand from the various consuming countries at prices which very nearly correspond to the lowest quotation at present existing in the English markets for this class of fruit, and do not show any disposition to ship their stocks here on consignment. On this account, it may very easily happen that, as soon as the heavy demand sets in, the supply of Provincial fruit in London may prove to be barely sufficient.—Produce Markets' Review, September 16.

A commission merchant, in speaking of the prune situation, said to-day that never in his experience had so few sales of futures been made up to this time of the year, and he looked for a very material improvement in this respect in the not remote future.—New York Journal of Commerce, September 29.

SULTANA RAISINS LOWER IN LONDON.

The market for Sultanas, which practically opened for the season on Monday, has provided an experience for the wholesale trade which will not easily be forgotten. The prices which the mechants demanded were outrageously high and out of all character compared with any other market. Owing to the scarcity of old and the lateness of the first arrival, combined with the fact that the country was ready to start purchasing, dealers were practically compelled to commence the distribution of the fruit, and a large proportion of the cargo changed hands early in the week at prices which, although cheaper than the old fruit, were yet shillings more than the position justified. As might naturally be expected, the necessity for a change soon became evident, and the values fell from 3s. to 5s. per cwt., leaving the dealers with "heel taps" of early purchases at far too high prices. Although the buyers have been in a measure victimized at the commencement of the season, yet there are not wanting signs of a much more prosperous state of things in this particular article later on. It is evident that this year's crop is of excellent quality in the main, although, perhaps, fine parcels are more scarce than usual. Prices, although not to be by any means compared with the cheapness of some recent years, are already established on a level far removed from the almost prohibitive rates of the past two seasons. The crop of 1899 is, so far as can be seen, sufficiently large to supply all requirements at a reasonable rate, but it must be borne in mind that some markets which usually consume a large quantity have so far, for one reason or another, held aloof from purchasing, and when the demand which must in all probability very soon come from continental and other buyers is experienced, it is not unlikely that some rise in values may take place.—Produce Markets' Review, London, September 23.

CANNED SALMON IN LIVERPOOL.

Tall salmon is the chief item of interest in this department at present, and there are rumors of large transactions having been negotiated during the last few days at prices previously unobtainable. The rapid reduction in spot stocks is attracting attention, and it is an open question whether visible supplies are sufficient to fill the trade's requirements till the new arrivals next spring. —Produce Markets' Review, September, 16.

CANNED GOODS IN THE UNITED STATES.

Now that we can write the packing season as closed for 1899 on nearly all articles, there is no longer any risk in saying that all the indications are for a considerably hardening market on what are known as the staples. We have called attention in the past to the fact that the canned goods business is annually becoming more and more a preservative process for the solid things of life. Meats, vegetables, fish and milk seem steadily to increase in the extent of this up-put, and, of course, in the demand for the same ; whilst fruits of all kinds are receiving less serious consideration from year to year than they have had in the past. It is an evolution worthy of consideration that the root plants of the great canning industry owed their existence primarily to the desire to preserve fruits. Corn, tomatoes, and all the list of vegetable dishes were rather late additions to the schedule, and yet these vegetables have grown into mighty masses of production in hermetically sealed tins ; whilst what fruits are being put up are annually going more into glass and becoming a specialty as preserves.—The Trade, Baltimore, September 29.

MESSINA FILBERT CROP.

A Messina firm, writing under date of September 12, say : "Only about 400 bags new crop filberts have arrived here and quality is satisfactory. Inquiry from Europe has been rather active, and there is also some inquiry from the United States. Owing to shorts covering, our market has suddenly advanced as speculation has set in, and as both Europe and the United States have probably still to buy the larger part of their fall requirements it is improbable prices will recede."

STOCKS OF CANNED SALMON IN ENGLAND.

The demand for salmon in flat and tall tins continues on a moderate scale, but prices are well maintained, there being no pressure to sell in any direction. Stocks, both in the merchants' and dealers' hands, are not unusually heavy, and it is anticipated that every case will be wanted before the new pack arrives. Half-pound tins have been eagerly inquired for, and there has been a larger business passing at full prices than for some time past.—Produce Markets' Review, London, Eng.

WHERE SAFETY LIES.

In the search for low-priced goods, which may enable merchants to meet the cuts of large buyers, the former sometimes take amazing risks, remarks New York Merchants' Review.

What profiteth a man if he maketh a sale only to drive away good custom ? That is a question some dealers may well ask themselves.

Not properly testing new goods that are offered them, and tempted by their low price, which relatively is high, they place them in stock and find trade dropping away from them afterwards, while only dimly suspecting the cause.

Quality, quality, always quality—these are the four words that grocers and other dealers in food products should always bear in mind. Mere cheapness never established a successful grocery business, and never will.

A rigid system of testing brands of food on their own tables will protect grocers from the evil consequences of the rivalry of mushroom manufacturers in underselling each other, and there is no safety in any other course.

TRIFLING PURCHASES.

Grocers who kick because customers sometimes want trifling purchases delivered, are blind to their own interests says N.Y. Grocers' Review. As long as the goods get paid for grocers have no cause for complaint; the trouble comes when people order liberally, and neglect to pay when the bill is presented.

COMBINATION BUYING.

AT a recent meeting of the Cardiff Grocers' and Provision Dealers' Association, the following paper on "Combination buying," was read by Mr. E. Molyneux :

The subject of buying and selling is one that must appeal to every member of our trade. It is what we are thinking of every day, and more or less every hour in the day. It is my intention to-night to make a few suggestions and remarks with regard to buying, and I trust that the time we spend discussing this important question may be of substantial pecuniary benefit to every member of the association. Keen buying has often proved the secret of a retail grocer's success, but no matter how smart a single-shop grocer is to-day, he finds too often that in many articles he cannot compete with "the hydra-headed wholesale-retail companies," and at the same time get a fair profit. These companies pay cash, and get "best terms" for the larger quantity of goods they purchase, showing often an advantage of 10 per cent. to them on, say, an order for £20, over the grocer who buys £3 worth of the same goods. Now, gentlemen, I have no intention to ask you to approve of or support a scheme of combination, buying on the lines of the cooperative stores, for what is anybody's business is nobody's, and a buying committee's task would not exactly be a labor of love. Nor am I going to ask you to start a buying syndicate, such as my friend Mr. Harry Ironmonger formed for the St. Albans' Association. Much could be said for the latter, which impressed me as a well-thought-out scheme of buying, and is, I am told, much appreciated by its members. My scheme is different to others, in that no deposit is asked for, no special meetings necessary, no bookings required, no difficult distribution of goods entailed. To come to the point, I should suggest that we form amongst ourselves a "Cash Buying and Selling Bureau," and the rules I should suggest would be: (1) That a list be kept where any member of our association can enter down any article or articles he may wish to dispose of, and the price of same; (2) that any member may buy that parcel of goods or any smaller quantity at the same rate or price as offered; (3) that the transaction be strictly for cash on or before delivery; (4) that we remunerate our secretary for his trouble in keeping the list, and for any loss of time that may be entailed, at the rate of 1¼ per cent. on the gross amount of the transaction, this to be borne equally by the buyer and seller, which would mean that if £1,000 worth of goods (a very low estimate) were bought and sold in the 12 months, the secretary would have received in commsision £12 10s. One or two observations on the practical working of the scheme, and I have done. With regard to such articles as cheese, butter, bacon, sugar, flour, canned goods, soap and candles, we sometimes find we have overcontracted. and wish to find a market for part before the price goes down. Well, what better means to release ourselves with a profit than this scheme affords? But it is chiefly in proprietary articles that we shall benefit under this arrangement. I have bought, together with two or three fellow members, for some time past, but taking the larger quantity we have found that, even when buying together, the stock has lasted us in some cases two or three months, when it should not be on hand more than a month. Again, by this scheme, even the smallest retailer who is a member of the association will be able to buy as well as any grocer or company in the town. The scheme, moreover, will engender a good feeling amongst us, and, I believe, be the means of inducing many intelligent grocers to join us, who now hold aloof because they cannot see (as we see) the practical good that our association is doing for the trade.

One of the members present said that he and two or three others worked on the lines of this scheme of Mr. Molyneux's for the last two or three years, and the benefits that they had received individually had been very very considerable. There were a good many articles in their trade, which, by purchasing in larger quantities, they could get 5 to 10 per cent. more profit on them. He admitted that most of the goods which were handled in this way were cut fine, but, as they were able to buy on the very best terms, they reaped a living profit.

TRIBUTE TO A LOCAL MERCHANT.

In the issue of The Dufferin Post, of September 28, a pleasing tribute is paid to E. J. Cobean, general merchant and postmaster, Camilla, Ont., and treasurer of the township of Mono, Dufferin county, Ont., who is removing to Toronto.

Mr. Cobean was born in Mono township in 1852, and received his educational and commercial training there and in Hastings, Ont., in which latter place he opened a general store in 1878. Eight years later he purchased the Camilla business which he has since conducted, and from which he is now retiring. In addition to his appointment as postmaster of Camilla and treasurer of Mono township, Mr. Cobean has been interested in many enterprises about Camilla. He has for many years been treasurer and salesman of the Camilla cheese factory, and, since their inception, has operated the telephone and telegraph offices in the village.

Being a good business man and having a kindly, genial temperament, Mr. Cobean's general business has always been large and remunerative, and it is generally believed he retires with a competence.

A GOOD BUSINESS BLOCK.

The new fine block erected by Mr. Hurley on Simpson street, Fort William, is now nearing completion, and is certainly a credit to the town. Every precaution has been taken in its erection, even in the minutest particular, from foundation to garret, to make it a substantial and up-to-date building. The ground floor is fitted up with all the conveniences for the grocery department and the office. They will be models in effect. The second floor will, for the present, be used as a storeroom. This latter apartment can, however, be easily remodeled, and is amply lighted for sewing or sales rooms. Connection between the two floors will be made easy by an elevator and a winding stair.—Fort William Journal.

Benson's Prepared Corn

There is no adulteration in Benson's Prepared Corn—there is no need to adulterate because it has sold entirely on its merits as an absolutely pure Prepared Corn for over forty years. The delicacy of its flavor is almost proverbial.

Comparisons are made with Benson's Prepared Corn as the standard—you hear this everywhere—"It's just as good as Benson's." You know what "just as good" means—an endeavor to sell an inferior article for a lower price. Benson's Prepared Corn is the standard—forty years have proved it so beyond a question.

MONSOON
INDO-CEYLON TEA.

Steady, Healthy Progress.

The sales of Monsoon have increased three times over in the city of Toronto in the past nine months.

It is liked best where it is known best. We have a card this morning ordering 100 lbs. of assorted, and the gentleman also states that "many of his customers prefer our 40c. line to any 50c. or 60c. tea of any other line which they ever had." There is no doubt about it Monsoon is the tea to please your customers.

"I Watch Things"

Too many cigar manufacturers depend too much upon their help. They do not watch things closely enough. They forget that an employee can not possibly care as much about the work as the man who owns the business.

A cigar factory is a place where carefullness counts and carelessness counts much faster. I superintend every detail of the making of my cigars myself. I have a large factory, but I have systematized my business so that "I can watch things." Not a single cigar goes out that isn't absolutely up to one certain standard. I have made my "Pharaoh" 10c. cigar and my "Pebble" 5c. cigar "leaders," because I earnestly believe that they are the best cigars in these two lines that were ever put out by anybody anywhere. ORIGIN OF CONDENSED MILK.

THE first attempts to get milk into a smaller compass were made about a hundred years ago by Appert. He reduced cows' milk by one-third by skimming, and then enclosed it in bottles, which were immediately plunged into boiling water for two hours. The process has only recently become extinct on the Continent. The milk naturally loses some of its water, but soon curdles, especially if moved about much. Mabru, in 1855, invented an improved process, which consists in connecting a number of bottles with the bottom of a tray, filling them with milk, and plunging them into a waterbath. The air escapes from the milk, and the expansion of the liquid by heat causes the appearance of some of it in the tray. After about an hour the hot water in the bath is replaced by cold. The milk contracts, what has overflowed into the tray returning into the bottles. These are then sealed up quite full of milk. Appert also heated milk till evaporation had reduced its volume to half. He then mixed it with yolk of egg, in the proportion of eight yolks to five gallons of concentrated milk. The preservation of milk with salicylic acid, borax, and other abominations, does not come within the scope of this article.

The first forecast of the modern process is seen in Malbec's method, patented in 1836. The milk, partially skimmed first, is, in this process, mixed with one-sixteenth of its weight of white sugar, and then with constant stirring with a wooden spatula, until a sample becomes hard and brittle when cold. The whole mass is then cooled, and is ready for putting up into tins. A little later, Braconnot and Nancy indicated another method. This consisted in heating the milk to a temperature of 40 to 45 deg. C. over a gentle fire, and then coagulating it by the addition of dilute hydrochloric acid. The acid curd is then removed from the whey and mixed with a little bicarbonate of soda and water and put back on the fire. On stirring, a sort of thick paste is got, which is then mixed with a third or more of its weight of finely powdered sugar. The compound is then finished. This process, as well as that of Malbec, was not, however, successful, and Martin de Lignac, in 1847, made the first great step towards the complete solution of the problem. This gentleman put milk, ascertained to be of good quality in all respects—the product, that is, of cows in perfect health—and without skimming it, into heated by a steam jacket to a temperature not exceeding 100 deg. C. Here the milk is mixed with about one-fifteenth of its weight of white sugar, and is constantly stirred for about two hours. By this time, the milk is reduced to one-sixth of its former volume, and is of the consistency of honey. It is then placed in tins, which are plunged into a bath boiling at 105 deg. C. for half-an hour, and are soldered up before being removed from the bath. The latter part of the process includes, as will be seen, a process of sterilization, and consists of three distinct cooperating principles. One is the elimination of water. The next is the addition of and the third is the use of a high temperature at the end of the process, to kill whatever germs or spores may happen to be still living in the liquid. It is not surprising, therefore, that Martin de Lignac's process gives excellent results. It is however, somewhat too expensive.

HUGE SHALLOW PANS

Two great advances have been made in the concentration of milk since De Lignac's day. One is to evaporate in a partial vacuum and the other is to dispense with the addition of sugar. A typical instance of the modern vacuum process is the method carried out at the Anglo Swiss Company's factory, at Cham, in the canton of Zug, in Switzerland, a town about seven miles from Lucerne. We are all familiar with their tins of condensed milk, and the following description of the process by which it is made will not be without interest :

The milk is cooled as quickly as possible as soon as drawn from the cow, and, having arrived at the factory, is passed through a silken sieve, and then through an automatic weighing meter, into a huge wooden vat lined with zinc. Hence samples are taken for ascertaining the quality of the milk. From the vat the milk passes into metal vessels and is boiled. It is next poured over about one-eighth of its weight of the finest white sugar, and the solution of the sugar in the milk is the vacuum being kept at such a point that the milk boils between 50 and 60 deg. C. When the concentration has reached the proper point, the stuff is run out into tins standing in cold water. In these, it is continually stirred until cold with a wooden spatula. The milk is then ready for canning, and when diluted with about five times its weight of water is of nearly the same composition, except for the sugar, as the original milk. The composition of the condensed product varies more than one would be disposed to expect, but the following may be given as a fair average :

Cane sugar	33	per cent.
Water	26	"
Milk sugar	13	"
Casein, albumen and salts	12	"
Fat	9	"
Inverted sugar	7	"

The specific gravity of the product is about 1.313, and it has the consistency of honey, a slightly alkaline reaction and the well-known pale yellow color. Most of the fat retains the exact state in which it existed in the original milk, and this is a thing of much importance, for the value of milk as a food is largely due to the fact that it contains butter-fat in a very finely divided state, in which it is extremely easy of assimilation by the human system. Nevertheless, in the

there is always a certain running together of the fat globules into masses 10, or even 20, times as large as any occurring in the original liquid. These larger masses, however, should be few in number as compared with the unaltered globules, or a sure indication is provided that the milk has been unskilfully condensed, and should be rejected—at all events, so far as its use by invalids or young children is concerned.

The advantage of working with a vacuum is twofold. The evaporation is more rapid than under atmospheric pressure, and it is unnecessary to expose the milk to high temperatures to effect the concentration. Both these things are circumstances which have a weighty influence on the preservation of the original qualities of the milk during evaporation and in making the finished product keep longer afterwards. In fact, it is found that by concentrated milk may be made without sugar which will keep perfectly well. Such milk is now made upon a large scale, and it goes without saying that it approaches more nearly, after proper dilution, to the composition of the original milk than it is possible for any condensed milk, to which a large addition of sugar has been made, to do.

Scherff's condensed and sterilized milk requires notice at our hands, as one of the very best preparations of the kind, although it is not heard much of in this country. Scherff heats the milk in flasks under pressure, after a preliminary condensation in vacuo. A pressure is used sufficiently great to allow of the temperature of the milk rising to 120 deg. C., at which it is kept for about two hours. Before the flasks are allowed to cool, the corks, previously driven well into the necks of the flasks, are covered with melted paraffin wax, and the mouth of the neck is covered with a cloth soaked in the same. Hence, the air that enters as the flask cools is thoroughly filtered, and the paraffined cork forms an airtight stopper and prevents germs from obtaining access to the sterilized milk. The process has given most excellent results.

It is, of course, possible to push the evaporation of milk to the extreme point and to obtain a solid residue from it, and milk in powder and in tablets can be bought, although it is not sold on any extensive scale. Grimaud and Gallais made long ago by exaporating milk with a current of warm air. The composition of the mixture evaporated to make tablets of milk is about as follows :

Cows' milk	1,000 lb.
Sugar	200 "
Bicarbonate of soda	3 "
Borax	2 "

Powdered milk was invented in England, by Grimwade, in 1856. The milk is evaporated to a paste with bicarbonate of soda and sugar, and the paste is made into strips by passing between stone rollers. These rollers also bring the strips into cantact with warm, dry air, driven by a fan. The strips soon pulverize very readily. The powder is heated in the cases which are to contain it sufficiently to sterilize it, and the cases are soldered up while still hot. The powder is converted into milk again by mixing it with eight times its weight of warm water. An experiment made with a sample four years old has shown that the liquid made from it had the same properties, neither more nor less, as ordinary cows milk. The powdered milk is partly sold as such, and partly compressed into lozenges of various sizes.—Grocers' Monthly, London.

MARRIAGE INDUCEMENTS.

"Whatever induced you to marry me, anyway, if I am so distasteful to you?" he asked fiercely.

"I think it was the advertisements," she said.

"The what?"

"The advertisements. The household bargains, you know. I thought it would be so lovely to go to the department stores and buy icepicks for 9c., real 8c. dippers for only 1c., and all that sort of thing. Of course I had no use for that sort of stuff when single."—Furniture Worker.

AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

Mr. John Brock, chairman of the United Alkali Co., Liverpool, Eng., passed through Montreal a few days ago, and reports a wonderful activity in all industries in England at the present time. He will visit Ottawa, Toronto, and other cities in Canada and the United States before returning home. This is his first visit to Montreal in 20 years, and he was much struck by the great improvements which have in the meantime taken place.

THE CONVICTION QUASHED.

The "Grand Mogul" tea case was up for hearing before Chief Justice Meredith the past week, and the conviction of Mr. Johnson, the Toronto retail grocer, was quashed, thus upholding the contention of T. B. Escott & Co. that there was no lottery in connection with the sale of the tea with letter coupons.

J. M. Douglas & Co., commission merchants, Montreal, have dissolved, and a new partnership has been registered, composed of Alfred G. Gardner and John F. Douglas.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Retiring From Business.

The Rossin House Grocery is to be closed up in the near future. The lease of the present manager, J. Reed, expires in a couple of weeks, and he is now advertising his stock, fixtures, etc., for sale. Mr. Reed intends continuing his liquor store, which is also situated in the Rossin House Block.

B. Panter Removing.

Ben. Panter, 82 Davenport road, is having a new store erected at the corner of King and Spencer streets, which he expects to have ready for occupation early in November. He intends discontinuing the Davenport road business as soon as he opens up in his new stand, where he expects to make the progressive Parkdale grocers look to their lurels. He intends offering his present business, stock, etc., for sale, either en bloc or as desired.

Flour and Breakfast Foods.

From now onward through the winter months there will be an increased demand for breakfast foods. This should be made the most of. And the best way to make the most of this growing demand is to push these goods. In some cases it will be found that people who are regular ustomers of a grocer go to an exclusively flour and feed dealer for their flour and breakfast foods. There is no reason why this should be so. The regular grocer should handle flour and foods, and should keep the fact that he not only handles them, but carries an extensive range of them, constantly before his customers. Window or counter displays of flour and breakfast foods help to do this, and should be very suitable just now.

THE RAMBLER.

TO STIMULATE SLOW SELLING STOCK.

Editor GROCER,—There are in the human body fourteen different elements: Oxygen, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorous, sulphur, sodium, chlorine, flourine, iron, potassium, magnesium and silicon. Each goes to make up different parts of our bodies. All of those will be found in a palatable form in the grocery department of any live wholesale or retail merchant. The principal of these are rolled wheat, a very important article in the preservation of health, rolled oats, cornmeal, barley, sugar, honey, cocoa, etc.

Along with other articles, such as boots and shoes, dry goods glassware, hardware, drugs and stationery, he has (unless a cool, sagacious and experienced buyer) to a certain extent in each line sometimes an overstock of goods, such as a side line of tea, too much monotony in crockery, a job line of shoes, and too quickly bought dry goods.

To such a man I would speak a word of advice, that if put into action would stimulate sales to a satisfactory point in these lines, and would also call the attention of the public to his first-class up-to-date and staple line of goods which they naturally would buy in their earnest search for bargains at his store.

After a general overlooking of your stock, select those articles you wish to offer, mark them down to selling figures and advertise the facts in your best local paper and get up and hustle.

GLASS CUTTING DIAMONDS.

Diamonds for cutting glass were not introduced till the reign of Elizabeth, at which period stained glass was declining; and before that era every piece of glass which went to form a window had to be cast in little clay molds and afterwards chipped with an iron instrument called a "grozing iron," so as to properly fit into its assigned place.—China, Glass and Lamps.

MEETINGS OF RETAIL GROCERY ASSOCIATIONS.

TORONTO ASSOCIATION.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in St. George's hall, Elm street, on Monday. The president, Frank W. Johnston, occupied the chair. The attendance was good.

Notice had been given by J. D. Kelly that he would introduce a motion to have the association incorporated under the Friendly Societies' Act. When the motion was introduced, it found general acceptance with the members. D. Bell seconded it, and, after a short discussion, it was carried without dissent, and the executive were empowered to employ the association's solicitor to make the necessary application.

The early closing committee reported progress. In pursuance with an Ontario law, which gives any municipality power to pass a by-law to close stores at any hour after 7 o'clock p.m., provided the municipality is petitioned by three-fourths of the storekeepers in the municipality, the committee engaged Secretary Hawes to canvass the grocers for signatures to a petition, which had been drawn up by the association's solicitor. As a result of his first week's canvassing, Mr. Hawes secured 107 signatures to the petitions on Queen west, Dundas, McCaul, and Yonge streets and Davenport road, out of a total of 139 grocers called on. The other 32 refused to sign it, so that 77 per cent. of those called on signed it, while 23 per cent. refused to.

The discussion following this report brought out the opinion that the butchers should also be canvassed, so a motion to that effect was moved by A. White and A. R. Williamson. The committee was empowered to proceed with the work, and to engage a canvasser to help Mr. Hawes.

A letter which had come into the possession of the secretary was read to the meeting. It was from the "Salada" Tea Company to one of the hotels in the city, stating that as competitors of this company were selling tea to the hotels, it had decided to do the same.

It was moved by A. R. Williamson, seconded by A. G. Booth, that the executive should be empowered to draw up a letter condemning the circular in question.

This aroused quite a discussion, but, with the exception of A. White, who considered the matter one which the association should not deal with, this motion expressed the sentiment of the meeting and it was accordingly passed. At the instance of B. Panter the executive were advised to secure more definite information regarding the action of the tea-packers in this regard.

MONTREAL ASSOCIATION.

On Thursday, October 5, the Retail Grocers' Association, of Montreal, met and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows :

President—V. Raby.
1st Vice-President—Ald. Turner.
2nd Vice-President—John P. Dixon.
Hon. Secretary—John Scanlan.
Treasurer—N. Lapointe.
Secretary—C. J. Dixon.
Directors—Messrs. H. Poirier, Pepin, M. de Repentigny, M. O'Brien, E. W. Farrell, A. D. Fraser, P. B. Menard, and A. O. Galarneau.

It was decided to petition the city council, asking for the appointment of an inspector, who would protect the grocers' interests against the encroachments of peddlers.

SALVATION ARMY TEA-SELLERS.

It appears that the Salvation Army are working up a very fair trade in Canada and Australia as dealers in Ceylon tea. In Australia they buy at the local auctions, and conduct the whole business on strictly commercial lines, except that they literally, as well as figuratively, sing the praises of Ceylon tea.—Planting Opinion, Madras.

CHEAP vs. CHEAP

There are two distinctly different meanings to the word "cheap." One is "good value," and the other, "low first cost, regardless of quality."

UPTON makes "cheap" preserves—that is, "no better value obtainable for the money," and in their manufacture quality is considered before anything else.

VISIT OF PROVISION MERCHANTS TO CANADA.

At the council meeting of the Bristol Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, a report was presented from the deputation which recently visited Canada on behalf of the Chamber. The deputation included members of the provision trade, and the report referred to their experience. It said: Your delegation felt that the best way of utilizing the time and opportunity was to visit the sections of Canada in which the different industries we were concerned in were carried on, and, accordingly, after a short stay in Montreal the members of the different sections parted company and went their respective ways. The cheese and butter sections of Quebec and Ontario were visited by the provision members, and every opportunity taken to show the advantage of developing and extending the trade to Bristol. In several instances fresh channels of business were opened up and definite results effected. The advantages of Bristol as a distributing port were explained at the different dairy centres, the members of your deputation receiving a good many invites to address the dairymen on the various points arising. Your delegation was very courteously received at Ottawa by the Minister of Agriculture and the Vice-Minister of Commerce, to whom we had letters of introduction through your Chamber. A number of points in connection with the trade were discussed, the claims of Bristol were duly advocated, and practical suggestions made for the development of the trade. —Grocers' Journal, Sept. 30.

HALF IN JEST.

"THAT'S a queer family next door." "Why do you say so?" "They own a $50 dog and borrow our flatirons."

Many a burning truth is told in jest. The little squib at the top of this paragraph proves that. It is only a joke, but it points a moral that fits the condition of a good many stores—the one with elegant, big plate-glass show-windows in which the ragged little display so awkwardly fixed appears ridiculous. Elegant appointments and a shabby stock. A bluff at a big store and a beggarly assortment to back it up won't go. Yet, it is the commonest bluff we meet nowadays. Sooner or later the bluff is called and goes to swell the total of so-called business failures.

Consistency in storekeeping is not the commonest virtue we have. It seems singular that merchants do not meet their immediate situation more comprehensively. Within 200 miles of New York there is a prosperous city of more than 100,000 population. It has several good stores and a number of commonplace ones. Nine-tenths of the population is comprised of the families of workingmen, mechanics and men who earn their bread by the sweat of their faces, whose needs are simple and common in character.

Not a store in that whole city caters directly to the trade of those laboring thousands. In all that city there isn't a rough-and-ready store that positively makes it a business to look out for the wants of the class they all depend on. The diffident wife of one of those mechanics or laborers grows shy at the tawdry elegance of those stores that, she argues, has to be paid for, and would, no doubt, much prefer to trade in a shop that puts on fewer airs and sold her the goods she wanted at a satisfactory price. When the right sort of a store hits that town some of those gingerbread aristocrats will find out the difference.

Extravagance is a sin against good storekeeping—extravagance of the kind that increases the cost without adding to the convenience of doing business. On a certain street in New York are several elegant stores and one sensible one. In that locality the great majority of the people are wage workers. That one store is consistently modest in its appointments—no rosewood, mahogany or polished quartered oak—is a busy beehive compared to the others.—The Buyer.

MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE.

GEO. E. CALKIN, secretary-treasurer of the Maritime Board of Trade, has issued the following circular letter:

Entering upon the sixth year of its existence, the Maritime Board of Trade has won its way to general approval and become an acknowledged factor in the material progress of these Provinces by the sea.

While the promoters of the scheme of union of the various Maritime boards may honestly congratulate themselves upon the measure of success so far attending their efforts, the fact must not be forgotten that much still remains to be done.

Many important business centres are yet without an organized board, while scarcely half of the local boards already organized, though doing good work in their own location, are not yet affiliated with the larger organization, and thus stand in the way of their greater usefulness.

No community, or individual in it, but is vitally interested in one or more of the half-dozen interests upon which we as a people depend. The farmer, fisherman, lumberman, miner, manufacturer and ship-owner, all stand to be benefited by united and intelligent efforts, whether these look to methods or Legislature enactments as relative to our home industries or foreign trade. Tourist travel and the encouragement of immigrants suitable for these Provinces are also subjects worthy of careful consideration.

Now, can we not during this year:

I. Promote the formation of boards in towns where such an organization would be beneficial both locally and in the wider field.

II. 'nduce all boards of the Maritime Provinces to come into line with the Maritime Board, i. e., affiliate and work.

III. So perfect our organization and carefully arrange our work, both administrative and deliberative, that the best results may be obtained, ever remembering that we are working for the material advancement of the Maritime Provinces, while at the same time we are not to forget the moral and uplifting tendencies which our efforts should have, our motto being "non sibi sed patriae."

In conclusion, let me ask at your earliest convenience:

1. To report the name of the member appointed by your board as member of the council of the Maritime Board.
2. Report membership of your board and its state of efficiency.
3. Remit any arrears of per capita tax due the M.B.T.

Mr. P. C. Larkin, of The "Salada" Tea Company, is away on a visit to the American branches of the business in Boston, Buffalo and Pittsburg.

MONTREAL AS A PRODUCE PORT.

THE manner in which Montreal is taking the lead from other Atlantic ports in the exportation of produce, especially butter and cheese, is as satisfactory as it is interesting.

A comparison of the shipments from this port and New York, the principal Atlantic port of the United States, is instructive.

The exports of cheese from Montreal to September 27, for the past three years were: 1897, 1,403,692 boxes; 1898, 1,263,286 boxes; 1899, 1,378,528 boxes. The figures for New York for the same period were: 1897, 450,141 boxes; 1898, 213,527 boxes; 1899, 215,363 boxes. Thus, while, as compared with 1897, the banner cheese year, the exports from Montreal have fallen but 25,164 boxes, or less than 2 per cent. the exports from New York have declined 234,778 boxes, or 52 per cent.

In the exportation of butter the growing supremacy of the Canadian port is even more pronounced. In 1897 there were exported from New York 164,013 packages, against 161,853 packages from Montreal up to the end of September. In 1897 the shipments from Montreal fell to 156,304 packages, a decline of 5,549 packages, or about 3½ per cent., while those from New York fell to 53,752, or a decline of 111,261 packages, or 68 per cent. This year both ports show an increase in their exports, the shipments from Montreal being 354,646 packages, against 98,749 packages from New York.

Thus, while in two years the exports of butter from Montreal have been more than doubled, the exports from New York have fallen more than a third.

Truly, this country of ours is growing.

ANOTHER DECLINE IN SUGAR.

THERE has been another decline in the price of granulated sugar at the Canadian refineries, this week's drop being 5c. per 100 lb., making a total decline of 10c. in the past fortnight.

The selling price of granulated, therefore, now stands at $4 55 per 100 lb. Montreal, and $4.65 Toronto, or 5c. lower than it has been at any time during the past summer.

The acute drop in the raw article abroad, under heavy realizing by the French syndicate that controlled a large quantity of beet, is mainly responsible for the heaviness.

A comparison of the prices ruling both on cane and beet at the end of May last, and those now prevailing, shows how sharp the decline has been.

Java, for instance, is 1s. 9d. below where it stood in May at 11s. 3d., while fair refining is 1s. 3d. lower, at 10s. 6d., than in May last.

The decline in beet has also been as marked. In May, prompt beet was quoted at 11s. 1½d., and futures 11s. 3d. To-day, both prompt and future is heavy at 9s. 2¼d. In the face of the easiness the regular distributive demand in Canada is active, and a good movement is noted.

During the last few days the European raw sugar market has been steadier, there having been some slight advances.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

The Special Fall Number of THE CANADIAN GROCER will be issued next week. This, together with the fact that Thanksgiving Day falls on Thursday next, will necessitate our going to press two days earlier than usual. All copy for advertisements and reading notices must reach this office not later than Saturday, October 14, in order to insure publication.

THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

EVER since 1621, when Thanksgiving Day was first recognized by the Puritans of New England as a general holiday, the turkey has been inseparably associated with the Thanksgiving dinner.

In the early days, the hardy pioneers sallied forth with matchlock and tinder to find the haunts of the wild turkey, which, at that time, abounded in the land. When it was brought home, it was roasted over an open fire with much rejoicing.

In modern times, the preparation of our roast turkey lacks the romance of former years, for, instead of hunting for it, we buy it, and, instead of the open fireplace and the rejoicings, the housewife or cook quietly roasts it in a modern stove or range.

The domesticated bird which we are acquainted with is said to be inferior to the wild birds which in earlier days made the woods of Eastern Canada and the United States their home.

Yet, we have nothing to complain of on that score, for the roast turkey of to-day is a dish for an epicure, and, with good reason, continues to reign supreme at the Thanksgiving dinner table.

The association of Thanksgiving Day with November in Canada and the United States seems about as old as the association of the turkey with Thanksgiving Day.

This has given the farmer good time to fatten up his turkeys and get them in to market in the best condition.

The Canadian Government has this year, at the request of business men and others, appointed October 19 as the day for national thanksgiving.

While in every other respect this is a more than satisfactory decision, the likelihood is that the demand for turkeys will not be equalled by the supply, for the reason that the farmers have not time to fatten them up. Therefore, as turkeys will likely be scarce and dear, many homes may find it necessary to forego their customary roast turkey this year.

It would be a kindness as well as a profitable investment, for all who can to send in well-fattened turkeys (also other poultry), to meet this demand.

THE FUTURE OF CANNED VEGETABLES.

ALTHOUGH, as far as can be learned, some factories are still putting up a few canned tomatoes, yet the season is practically over.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been making inquiries in different quarters in regard to the size of the tomato pack. As a result of these inquiries there does not seem any question but that it is a good-sized one compared with that of previous years.

At the same time, however, it is unquestionably smaller than expected.

The factories which are known to have packed more than last year have not put up as many, in some instances, by thousands of cases, as they had even a few weeks ago anticipated they would, while a number report that they have not more than enough to fill orders.

The explanation of the non-fulfilment of anticipations is the sudden and early closing of the season, due to the advent of the early frosts, while the fact that the pack is as large as it is is due to the steady way in which supplies came into the factory. Where last year, for example, factories were only able to run a day or two at a time, and sometimes only parts of days, they have been able to keep going, day in and day out, every week since the season opened.

The pack of corn does not seem to be as short as it was thought it would be. But, although some factories report that they have put up more than last year, it has been the result of special effort and special facilities, and is by no means general.

The syndicate which is reported to have cornered such a large proportion of the pack of corn will not, it is said, get more than about 60 per cent. of its orders filled. One packer informed THE CANADIAN GROCER that he had filled all his guaranteed orders with the syndicate, but intimated that he had not been able to do so with orders taken subject to pack.

Taken all around, the pack of tomatoes, corn, and peas may safely be accounted an average one. But, while this may be so, it must be remembered that the other conditions are not the same as they usually are.

For example, stocks of old pack, particularly in corn, are phenomenally small. Then, it must be remembered that the consumption is steadily increasing. Of course, corn has got to a figure which will certainly interfere with the consumption. But the same cannot be said of tomatoes. And even in regard to corn it should not be forgotten that a large number of orders were booked early in the season at a moderate figure which will go into consumption at a moderate price. Furthermore, the fact must not be overlooked that the jobbers in Manitoba and the Northwest have, so far this season, only purchased sparingly.

It must be remembered, aside altogether from the factors already noticed, that the agreement among the members of the Packers' Association is working harmoniously, and that those packers who, earlier in the packing season, were beginning to lose confidence in the future of the market, had a good portion of their pack purchased by their confreres who were not lacking in this quality.

As far as THE CANADIAN GROCER can see, the outlook is for at least steady prices. The net result of the changes that may take place is more likely to be higher than lower prices. But that may not mean materially higher prices.

THE WINTER APPLE TRADE.

The winter apple export trade is proving an unsatisfactory one to shippers and packers this year.

For the past two years exporters have made a good profit on their business. The result of this has been that a great many men, with little capital and less knowledge of the apple export trade, became early this season competitors of the regular exporters in buying up orchards.

This sent prices away up in some sections, as high as $2, and even $2.25 per bbl. being paid in the orchards. The regular dealers have been very cautious under these conditions, and have been holding off for a decline.

The majority of shipments to date have been made at a loss. This has frightened many contractors for orchards, and prices have fallen in some cases as much as 25c. per bbl.

Yet, the older dealers show no anxiety to buy, claiming that they will get in a few weeks sufficient supplies at as cheap, and likely cheaper prices, than they could be got now.

A DULL CHEESE MARKET.

Last week the exports of cheese from Montreal amounted to 40,255 boxes as compared with 110,698 boxes the same week last year.

The cause of this has been that prices in the Old Country have not followed the advances here sufficiently to put exportation on a proper basis, rather than any decrease in the production, for farmers are sending all the milk they can to the factories in the hope of getting all that is possible out of the unusual prices ruling.

The result has been a decline of ¼ to ½c. at country boards, where 11¼ to 11½c. is now being paid. It is, however, felt by holders that ultimately the British market will be forced to follow Canadian advances.

VALENCIA RAISINS STRONG.

THE Valencia raisin market, both at home and abroad, is rather interesting these days.

As far as the home market is concerned, it is as clean swept of stock as it could be, for there is practically not a box to be had, thanks to the wreck of the ss. Scotsman.

Although the direct shipment is close at hand, a few boxes have been wanted, but they could not, in some instances, be obtained. As high as 8c. per lb. has been paid within the last few days for selected, but it is a question whether one box could be found at that or any other figure.

In the primary market, there have been further advances during the week. A cable received on Monday morning read: "Do not sell any more at present; market advancing." A cable on Tuesday announced that another advance of 1s. per cwt. had taken place, making the total advance, in less than two weeks, 2s. per cwt.

As a result of this further advance, some of the wholesalers are this week marking their prices up ¼c. per lb.

ADVANCE IN WOODENWARE.

The manufacturers of woodenware are preparing a new price list, and have this week withdrawn the old list. In the meantime, however, prices have been advanced 10 per cent. on the old list.

A FACTOR IN SUCCESS.

IT is surprising how small a matter may help or hinder a man's progress. No matter where a man is, or whether it be during office hours or not, he is watched, and his actions may mean much to him one way or another.

The writer was in the office of a progressive commission merchant yesterday when an agent called. The merchant treated him in the ordinary business way, and gave him an order. The transaction seemed quite ordinary until after the man had gone out, then, the merchant turned to his partner and said: "I didn't particularly want to buy that ——, but I saw that man three or four times in places that I liked to see him, and felt when he came in that I should give him an order."

The incident is significant. The agent took his order and went out, little realizing that it was his actions out of business hours that were responsible for the sale. Possibly he never knew that he was seen at the places the merchant saw him.

There may be a touch of sentiment in this action, but, notwithstanding the remark attributed to a prominent politician, that "business is business," there is more or less sentiment in every business man.

From the standpoint of business principles alone, however, it is the best policy to always remember that one is judged, and that as success is due, to a considerable extent, to the opinion in which we are held by our fellows, our lives should at all times be such as to commend ourselves as trustworthy, able and energetic.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

As far as can be learned, the business men of Canada are gratified with the action of the Government in fixing Thanksgiving Day at an earlier date than usual. One of them is Mr. John T. James, general merchant, Bridgeburg, Ont., who has for some years taken an interest in the movement inaugurated by THE CANADIAN GROCER regarding an earlier Thanksgiving Day, and, under date of October 9, he writes as follows:

Allow me to congratulate you upon the success of your agitation for an earlier Thanksgiving Day. Be it said to the credit of the Government, that they have, in this instance, harkened to the voice of business men, and given us a great boon. I noticed, in last week's dailies, a complaint that turkeys will not be ready so early, and there will be a scarcity on the market, because farmers did not know of the change soon enough. Well, they know it now, and can get a hustle on, and they will be right glad to get their birds off earlier. We warned the turkeys last fall that they should attend to their mating business earlier this year. We have done our part, and secured the desideratum, now let the farmers and turkeys do their part.

CANADIAN TINNED MEATS AND THE BOER WAR.

ON Saturday last Lord Strathcona, the Canadian High Commissioner in London, cabled the Dominion Government that while the British authorities had contracted with a United States company for tinned meats for the troops in South Africa, they were prepared to consider offers from Canadian firms who could supply sound brands of tinned meats of recent packing and ready for early shipment.

There are in Canada three firms which make a specialty of tinned meats. They are: The Wm. Davies Company, Limited, Toronto; W. Clark, and The Laing Packing & Provision Co., Limited, Montreal.

With a view of ascertaining the possibility of supplying the demand for tinned meats for the British troops in South Africa, THE CANADIAN GROCER either wrote or waited upon the three firms named. Mr. J. W. Flavelle, managing-director of The Wm. Davies Co., Limited, wrote as follows:

At the moment our canning is of too unimportant a character in quantity to warrant us in offering any meats for consumption by the troops in South Africa. We have no knowledge of the quantity which is being put up by the Montreal houses, and, hence, cannot answer your question as to whether Canada is in a position to supply any important percentage of the requirements of the British troops in South Africa.

Both the Montreal firms stated they were not in a position to cater for large emergency orders, such as the South African war requirements. Chicago, they said, was the only place where such large quantities can be had at short notice. They further stated that they had, at any rate, all they could do to find raw material for supplying home wants. They believe, however, that Canada, ere long, will be in a position to compete for such trade. At present, they declare, she is not.

While it is to be regretted that Canada is not in a position to cater for the particular trade in question, it is some consolation to know that the manufacturers are of opinion that she will be able to do so ere long.

The tinned meat trade in Canada is making a healthy growth. And, as it now largely controls the home market, it is only a question of time before she will be in a position to cater for the export trade.

DIRECT DRIED FRUIT.

The first direct steamer, the Escalona, arrived in Montreal this week.

Her cargo consists of 65,000 boxes of Valencia raisins, 10,492 crates Spanish onions, and 1,000 tons currants.

More than 50 per cent. of this large quantity of fruit was sold to arrive in the West before the vessel had got quarter of the way across, and, of the remainder, a large quantity of the consigned stuff has already been absorbed.

In this connection also jobbers in the West have got in ahead of the Montreal traders, though the latter have been waking up lately.

NEW SEASON'S FIGS.

The first shipment of new season's figs is on the market. It came into the hands of the wholesale trade on Saturday, ex. ss. Vancouver. The quality is good, but prices are again pretty high.

The pound boxes are quoted to the retail trade at 12½ to 13c. for four-rowed. Fancy fruit in 56-lb. boxes run as high as 18c. per lb. The idea for naturals in bags is 5½c. per lb. There are other sizes on the market but prices have not been made up at the time of writing.

The first direct shipment of Eleme figs will be in the hands of the wholesalers some time next week.

WINNIPEG RETAIL CLERKS' UNION.

The retail clerks of Winnipeg have formed a union. At the first meeting, held two weeks ago, 50 members were initiated, and the following officers were appointed: President, L. H. Fournier; first vice-president, F. W. Hold; second vice-president, R. L. Chevrier; secretary, I. W. Greenleese; treasurer, G. T. Harrison; guide, P. Wilson.

On Monday of last week the union held another meeting, when they were addressed by Arthur Puttie, president of the Trades and Labor Council of Winnipeg.

At present most of the Winnipeg stores close at 7 o'clock, so the first effort of the union will be to secure the cooperation of the buying public to induce the merchants to close at 6 o'clock.

IT IS SO EXTENSIVELY ADVERTISED that every grocer is in the happy position of having customers brought to his very counter through this persistent public announcement.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

October 12, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade continues to be fairly active. The feature of the trade is a further reduction of 5c. in the price of granulated sugar. The position in regard to canned goods is much the same as a week ago, namely, strong, although the demand continues light. Coffees are in rather better demand with prices firmer. The market for Indian and Ceylon teas continues to advance in London, England. Reports are somewhat conflicting in regard to Japan teas. The demand for sugars keeps up well. New season's figs are on the market this week, and a further shipment of Sultana raisins is to hand. Valencia raisins on spot are cleaned up, and wholesalers are unable to fill orders. The price of Valencia raisins is advancing. Sicily filberts and Brazil nuts are both advised dearer. Californian loose muscatel raisins are ¼ to ½c. per lb. higher. The smaller sizes of Californian prunes have advanced ¼c. per lb. in the primary market.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been no material change in the position of the market during the past week. Packing is pretty well over, and, while the pack of vegetables is, on the whole, evidently a fairly good one, the market is as firm as ever. The ruling wholesale quotation for tomatoes is 85c, for peas 75c. up, and for corn 95c. For these three, all around, 85c. is quoted. Very few new orders are being placed, but shipments of new goods ordered some time ago are now being freely made. While wholesalers are not selling many canned fruits at the moment, they are, however, fairly liberal purchasers, showing that they have confidence in the future of the market. Advices from the Coast state that the run of cohoe salmon on the Fraser is light, while 22½ to 25c. per fish is being paid to the fishermen. We hear of nothing being offered at less than $3.50 per case f.o.b. the Coast, and, with fish costing 22½ to 25c., it is obvious nothing less can be expected. Canned meats are quiet and unchanged.

COFFEES.

The market is firmer on Brazil growths of coffee, and business locally in Rio coffee is rather better than it was, particularly on import account. The tone of the mild coffee market is steady.

SUGARS.

A further decline of 5c. per 100 lb. in granulated sugar took place on Monday at 1 p.m. The weakness of the outside markets and the competition of foreign granulated were the causes of the decline. At the time of writing the outside markets are a little steadier than they were, there having been some slight advances. Locally the demand keeps fairly brisk. Montreal granulated is now quoted at $4.65, and Acadia at $4.60 per 100 lb. Yellow sugars are unchanged.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade continues fairly good in both syrups and molasses. Prices remain much as before.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

NUTS.

Brazil nuts are ½c. per lb. dearer in the primary market. Sicily filberts are 3s. 6d. to 4s. dearer, on account of the shortness of the crop. Importers who placed their orders early are to be congratulated. Advices report that almonds and walnuts are unsatisfactory, both in regard to quality and quantity.

TEAS.

A cable received in Toronto on Monday quoted prices on Japan tea which are slightly lower than those quoted for several weeks on teas costing about 15c. per lb. It is thought, however, that the reaction is only temporary. Mail advices just received from Japan state that fine teas are scarce and show signs of giving out. There is not a great deal doing in Japan teas on the local market between shippers and jobbers, but retailers are buying a little. The market for Indian and Ceylon teas continues to gather strength, and prices in London, England, are about 1d. higher than they were three weeks ago. Common Pekoe Souchongs are costing 15½c. per lb. to lay down here.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The market is characterized by a little more firmness, on account of the increased freight rates. The first direct steamer has arrived, and the fruit may be expected in the hands of Western jobbers some time next week.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Another advance of 1s. per cwt. is announced by cable. This is the second advance of 1s. in less than two weeks. In consequence of this second advance some of the wholesale houses have advanced their quotations ¼c. per lb. The local market is completely bare of Valencia raisins, and as high as 8c. has been paid for selected fruit. Fruit by the first steamer is quoted at 5½ to 6c. for fine off-stalk; 6¼ to 6½c. for selects, and 7 to 7½c. for layers. The idea for fruit arriving by the second direct steamer is as follows: Fine off-stalk, 5½c. per lb.; selected, 6¼c., and layers, 6¾c. The first direct steamer is now at Montreal.

SULTANA RAISINS—Another shipment of Sultana raisins, ex ss. Vancouver, reached this market on Saturday. Before this arrived a box was not to be had in the city.

FIGS—The first shipment of figs this season arrived on Saturday ex ss. Vancouver. The fruit shows good quality. Ten-pound boxes, four rows, are quoted all the way from 10 to 15c. per lb., according to quality; 56-lb. boxes run as high as 18c. per lb. Mat figs in bags are quoted at 5½c. from stock and to arrive at 3½c. per lb. Twenty-pound boxes of the higher grades are quoted up to 15½c.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNES—The demand is fair. Importers are beginning to look for shipments, which advices from the Coast state will be made this week. Telegraphic advices announce an advance of ¼c. per lb. on the Coast on the smaller sizes, and that they are almost unobtainable.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS—Prices are higher, 3-crown having been advanced ¼c. per lb. and 4-crown ½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED PEACHES—Wholesalers are asking 9 to 10c. per lb. for Californian evaporated peaches in bags. There is not much doing.

GREEN FRUITS.

Jamaica oranges continue to arrive in sufficient quantity to meet the demand, which is moderate. Prices are well maintained at $7.50 to $8 per bbl. As the supplies on the way are limited, these prices are likely to be held to. The next variety of oranges to arrive will be Mexicans, which should come early in November. The receipts of lemons are steadily becoming larger. Maoris have declined 50c., and now sell at $6.50 to $7 per box. Malaga lemons are in at $8.50 to $9 for large half-chests. Palermos are offering at $3.50 to $5 per box. The demand is good. Bananas are in fair demand, with prices easy at a decline of 25c., which makes the price $1 to $1.25. The feeling regarding winter apples is easier. The majority of export shipments made to date have been at a loss to the shippers. The price at orchards, as a consequence, is fully 25c. per barrel cheaper, and a further decline is possible. The movement of native fruits has fallen to such an extent that the Scott street market has been closed, and all business is now done by jobbers in their own warehouses. Red peppers are about done, but the demand is so light that prices have been cut in two, the figures now being 20 to 30c. Peaches are also nearly done, and prices are maintained for what is offering. Winter pears are plentiful, and sell well at unchanged figures. Grapes are 5c. dearer, though supplies are liberal. Ten-pound baskets now sell at from 15 to 25c. There is a good sale of cranberries at $7.50, a decline of 50c. Sweet potatoes, too, show a fall of 25 to 50c. in value, as offerings are increasing.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The firmness noted last week still holds. As high as 17c. has been paid for strictly fresh stock, but the ruling quotation is 16c. Held eggs are worth 12½ to 14c. At country points 13 to 14c. is paid by dealers.

POTATOES—Receipts are so large that the feeling is easier. For car lots, 40 to 45c. is a fair quotation, and for sales out of store 60 to 65c. is charged.

BEANS — The market continues to strengthen. The old crop has been almost completely absorbed for export purposes, and, as the new crop is a light one, holders are chary about selling. An advance of 5 to 10c. is noted. We quote hand-picked at $1.25 to $1.35, and prime at $1.10. to $1.15.

HONEY — The market keeps steady at the high prices noted at the opening. We quote: Clover extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb., according to package; Clover comb No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The movement of evaporated apples is steadily increasing, though it is not yet brisk. Jobbing prices keep steady at 8 to 8½c. Dried apples are beginning to come in to the market, and are jobbing quietly at 4½ to 5c.

POULTRY—There is a small sale of turkeys and geese noted on the St. Lawrence, the demand being largely for restaurant and hotel purposes. A big demand is look for next week on account of Thanksgiving Day coming on October 20. Turkeys are selling on the market in a retail way at 12 to 13c. and geese at 7 to 8c. Produce dealers have not yet begun to receive supplies.

VEGETABLES — Cabbage is 10 to 25c. cheaper, while red cabbage is 25c. dearer. There is a good demand for all vegetables, especially celery and cabbage. We quote: Cabbage, 40 to 50c. per doz.; red cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 75c. to $1 per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 20 to 40c. per hundred; musk-melons, 30 to 50c. per doz.; native water-melons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; fall apples, $1.75 to $2 per bbl.; squash, 75c. to $1 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—There is little coming in, and as prices are above an export basis the movement is small. Tubs are ½c. lower in price. There is a steady local trade in creamery, but the export is light. Prices are unchanged. We quote choice dairy tubs at 17 to 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The feeling is easier. At country boards from 11¼ to 11½c. is the ruling price, as against 11¾c. last week. The export movement is dull. There is a steady local consumption. Early makes are about cleared out, and late makes are selling firmly at 12c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS AND PROVISIONS.

There is a moderate delivery of dressed hogs, which keep stready at $5.75 to $6 per cwt. It is stated by packers who have been well over Ontario that the production of hogs throughout the country is as large as ever this year. A good demand is expected to keep up prices well throughout the season. There is a good movement of provisions. Backs, rolls and Canadian short cut barrel pork have been reduced ½c. per lb. in order to clear out stocks. Other meats are steady at unchanged figures.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

Some Niagara whitefish are offering at 9c. per lb. Trout are offering freely at unchanged prices. We quote: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; Seattle salmon, 13 to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; fiinnan haddies, 7½ to 8c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; ciscoes, $1.25 per basket. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.35; selects, $1.75; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN — Wheat is firm at an advance of 1c., which brings the price of red and white to 69 to 70c. at outside points. There is a big movement on the local street market, where all prices are ruling firm. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 70 to 71c.; goose, 74½ to 75c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 32c.; barley, 44 to 46c.; rye, 54c.; No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat keeps firm at 78c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—There is no change. The movement is good. Prices are firm. We quote: Manitoba patents, $3.90; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.60; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Prices are unaltered. The movement is very large. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.40 in bags and $3.50 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The advance in cured hides noted last week has been followed by a rise of ¼c. in the price of green hides. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 8¾c.; No. 2, 7¾c.; No. 3, 6½c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9¼c.

SKINS—Dekins are 5c. dearer. Otherwise there is no change. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 9c. per lb.; No. 2, 7c.; dekins, from 35 to 40c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 70c.

WOOL—The feeling keeps firm. There is a good demand, but dealers are not anxious to sell at the advance of last week. We quote: Clothing wool, 17c.; combing fleece, 15c.; unwashed, 9 to 10c.

SEEDS.

Alsike continues in brisk demand, and, as buyers are anxious to secure supplies because of the shortage, another advance of 50c. is noted this week, buyers now paying $5.50 to $7 at outside points. Timothy continues easy at 75c. to $1 for choice to fancy lots, and $1.25 for extra fancy samples at outside points.

SALT.

There is no change. The demand keeps active. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

All green hides are ¼c. dearer.

Potatoes are easy at 40 to 45c. per bag.

New season's figs are on the market this week.

Niagara whitefish are offering at 9c. per lb.

Valencia raisins are cabled another 1s. dearer.

The price of woodenware has been advanced 10 per cent.

Granulated sugar has been reduced another 5c. per 100 lb.

Californian prunes of the smaller sizes are almost ¼c. per lb. higher on the Coast.

Indian and Ceylon teas of low grade are fully 1d. dearer than they were three weeks ago.

Californian loose muscatels are ¼c. per lb. higher on 3-crown and ½c. per lb. on 4-crown.

Alsike clover seed has advanced another 50c. Buyers are now paying $5.50 to $7 outside.

Smoked backs and rolls and Canadian short cut barrel pork are ½c. per lb. cheaper.

Cheese is ¼ to ½c. cheaper at country boards, where 11¼ to 11½c. is now the ruling figure.

Beans have again advanced 5 to 10c., the price now being $1.25 to $1.35 for hand-picked, and $1.10 to $1.15 for prime.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, October 12, 1899.

GROCERIES.

A STILL further decline of 5c. in the price of granulated sugar has been the most interesting fact of the week in grocery circles. This is a drop of 10c. inside of a fortnight, and is attributable to the steady decline in values on raw sugar abroad. Demand here for refined sugar has been moderately active and a fair movement is in progress. Syrups are steady, and there has been an advance of 2c. in the price of Barbadoes molasses. Dried fruits have exhibited considerable activity, the first direct steamer, the Escalona, having arrived in port. Canned vegetables continue very strong, and advices in regard to French sardines note advances in this delicacy. Rice is strong outside, and staple spices, as will be noted below, are quite firm.

SUGARS.

There has been a further decline in the price of granulated sugar this week, as a result of the continued easiness abroad on the raw article. Both the refineries are in agreement with regard to this latest change, which applies only to granulated, the base price being 5c. lower at $4.55. Yellows are unchanged at $3.75 to $4.40 per 100 lb. according to grade. Demand is fair for the season and a moderately active business has been transacted. Cables from London ately have reported a quiet market at the decline, cane being quoted at 11s. 3d. for Java, and 10s. 6d. for fair refining. Beet was quiet and unchanged, with prices unchanged, and October and November quoted at 9s. 2¼d. In New York raw has been unsettled and nominal fair refining 3¾c., and centrifugal, 96 test, 4¼c.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing new to report in this market. While stocks in refiners' hands are very light, the demand is exceedingly slow, and prices are unchanged at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality, at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There has been an advance of 2c. in the price of Barbadoes molasses, carlots now being held at 37c. and single puncheons at 38c. Little is doing in large quantities, but prices are firmly held, while the demand from the country is steady, and a fair jobbing trade is reported at the advance.

DRIED FRUITS.

The activity noted in Valencia raisins has continued, especially for stock near at hand ex Escalona, and a large portion of the stock on consignment on this first direct steamer, which is now in port, was sold to arrive at full prices. No further cables have been received in regard to values, which, importers state, indicates that the market is steady. Quotations are equal to 6¼c. for layers, 5¾c. for selected, 5c. for fine off-stalk and 4½c. for off-stalk, laid down here.

Cable advices on currants have been strong, and note an advancing tendency. There has been more inquiry from buyers here, and bids of 4c. for Provincials, 4½c. for Filiatras, 5c. for Amalias, and 5½c. for Patras, were turned down, being below the mark.

The feeling in all lines of canned vegetables is firm, and one very bullish estimate has it that not more than 60 per cent. of the contracts placed for all lines will be filled, on account of short crops. There is an improved demand here for stock from store. Tomatoes are selling at 75c; marrowfat peas, 72½c., and early Junes 77½c. Refugee beans are scarce at 77½c. Cables from Nantes state that the catch of sardines on the French coast has been very disappointing. Prices generally have advanced 4 francs per case of 100 quarters, and 6 francs per case of 100 halves sardines in oil. This advance is partly due to the great advance of the cost of tin and solder.

RICE.

Mail advices from Kobe state that apprehensions of a short crop in India and severe typhoons caused an upward tendency, but that it is likely that the damage to the fields has been overestimated. Cold and wet weather has retarded the growth of the plants, but, if the flowering season, about October 10, was passed without storms, an average crop was looked for. Locally, the market is firm, with Standard B at $3.40.

COFFEES.

There is nothing new to note in the coffee market. Demand is slow and prices quiet. In 25-bag lots, business has been noted in Maracaibo at 8 to 14c., Mocha at 18 to 19c. and Java at 17 to 20c. Rio and Santos were steady at 8 to 9½c.

SPICES.

There has been a good demand for spices, especially for nutmegs, of which some large sales have taken place at firm prices. Pimento has also been moving freely, and quite a few round lots of Jamaica ginger have changed hands. We quote: Jamaica ginger, 16½ to 17c.; nutmegs, 35 to 60c. per lb., as to size; mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality, and pimento, 8c.

TEAS.

The improved demand for tea already noted has been maintained, and an active business is noted, especially in blacks, for which buyers are slowly, but steadily, advancing their bids. Indians and Ceylons are scarce and firm, and it is this fact alone which has checked the movement in them. Low-grade Pingsueys are in demand, but the offerings of these, also, are limited. Sales have comprised 200 package lots of Congous at 15c. and 150 packages at 13c., while gunpowders have changed hands at 11 to 14c., and teas at this range are wanted. Cables from Colombo and Calcutta continued firm this week on Ceylon and Indian teas.

FISH.

The remarkable fact about this market is the scarcity of all descriptions, both pickled, smoked, prepared and fresh fish. The natural result is a firm market. Labrador herrings have sold at $5 per bbl., but the market is now bare of stock. In a jobbing way prices are: No. 1 new Nova Scotian herring, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; half-bbls., $2.50 to $2.75; No. 1 green cod, $5; No. 1 large, $5.50; No. 2, $4; No. 1 green haddock, $4; No. 1 green pollock, $4; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $14 to $14.50; British Columbian do., 14.50; and No. 1 Red Sea trout, $10 to $12.

In smoked and dried fish, prices are: Dried codfish, $5 per 112 lb.; large dressed do., $4.50 to $4.75 per case of 100 lb.; boneless codfish, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; smoked haddies, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; St. John bloaters, 90c. to $1 per box; Yarmouth do., 60c. to $1; smoked herrings, medium, 10c. per lb.; Lock Tyne do., $1 der keg; large do., $3.50 per half-bbl.; kippered herrings, $1.20 per box, and 65c. per half-box.

Fresh fish are: Haddock, 4 to 4½c.; whitefish, trout and dore, 7½c. per bbl.

Demand for oysters is good, and offerings are small: Ordinary malpeques, $3.50 per bbl.; hand-picked do., $4.50 to $5.50, and standard in bulk, $1.30 per gallon.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business in green fruits has been fair during the week, and prices generally are steady. In apples, however, the market here has been glutted with fall fruit, mostly windfalls and seconds, which have sold from $1 to $1.25 per bbl., and these undesirable goods are still uncleared. Good to choice fall stock range from $1.50 to $2.25, and winter fruit are quoted at $2.60 to $3.25 for finest and $1.75 to $2.25 for seconds. In other fruits, prices are as follows: Canadian peaches, 40 to 70c. per basket; pears, 25 to 60c. per basket and $3.50 to $9 per bbl. Grapes—Blue, 1½ to 2c. per lb.; Niagara, 1¾ to 3¼c.; Rogers, 2 to 2½c.; Delaware, 3 to 3½c. Bananas, 75c. to $1.40 per bunch, as to grade. Californian peaches, $1.35 to $1.50; pears, $2.75 to $3; plums, $1.75 to $2.50. Jamaica oranges, repacked, $8 per bbl.; in original packages, $7 to $7.50. Lemons, $4 to $4.50 per box. Sweet potatoes, $2.50 to $3 per bbl. Cranberries, $6.25 to $7 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The tone of the market continues firm, and prices if anything have an upward tendency. The demand is good and a fairly active trade is doing. We quote: Choice candled stock, 18½c.; straight lots, 16c.; No. 1, 12 to 13c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per dozen.

MAPLE PRODUCT — There was some inquiry for small lots of maple syrup at steady prices. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 60 to 65c., and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—A fair jobbing trade is reported in honey. While clover comb is scarce and wanted. White clover comb is quoted at 12c., and extracted at 9c.; and buckwheat at 8c per lb.

BEANS—The demand for beans was moderate and prices rule firm. Choice hand-picked are quoted at $1.05 to $1.15, and primes at 95c. to $1.

GAME—Receipts of partridge are still small, for which the demand is good, at 65c. to 70c. for firsts and at 35c. to 40c. for seconds per brace.

POTATOES—A fair trade was done in potatoes and prices are unchanged, at 40c. per bag in carlots, and at 50c. in a jobbing way.

ASHES—The demand for ashes is still slow, but the tone of the market is stronger, owing to the light offerings. We quote: First sorts, $3.90 to $3.95; seconds, $3.70 to $3.75, and pearls, $5.25 per 100 lb.

PROVISIONS.

There was no new feature in the situation to note. The demand is moderate and prices about steady. We quote: Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—A fairly active business was done in flour to-day, there being a good demand from both local and country buyers at steady prices. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.50 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.25 to $3.35; in bags, $1.55 to $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.90 to $4.20, and strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.70.

GRAIN—Business over the cable in grain of all kinds was again quiet, as bids were entirely out of line, owing principally to a further advance in ocean grain freights, which is due to the withdrawal of a number of vessels from this port, as they have been chartered by the English Government. There was very little doing in coarse grains on spot, but the tone of the market was firm. Buckwheat is commencing to move, and sales have been made at 53c. afloat. Barley is strong, and prices are steadily tending upward, No. 2 and feed having advanced 1c. per bushel to-day. Peas and oats are unchanged. Peas were quoted at 69 to 69½c.; rye at 62½c.; No. 1 barley at 51½c.; No. 2 ditto at 50½c.; feed ditto at 47c.; oats at 30 to 30½c., and buckwheat at 53c. afloat.

MEAL—In rolled oats, business was quiet at $3.50 per bbl., and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—There was no change in the feed market, the demand being good at firm prices. Manitoba bran is selling at $15 per ton, including bags. Ontario bran in bulk is quoted at $15 per ton, and shorts at $17 to $18.

BALED HAY—A fair trade was reported in baled hay at steady prices. Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50, and clover, at $5.50 to $6 per ton on track.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The steady feeling is maintained and factorymen are not free sellers. This in a nutshell is the position, the moment demand appears prices begin to climb, and business is checked. It becomes, therefore, simply a question of who is strongest, buyer or seller, and the latter certainly appears to have no fears regarding his property. On spot trading is confined almost solely to Eastern cheese at a range of 11¼ to 11⅝c., business being restricted by the high views of holders. Western cheese are nominal here. The cable is unchanged.

BUTTER—The market was dull and heavy in its tone. Trading in creamery in an export way is light, and prices range from 22½ to 23c., as to grade, while Western dairy is quoted from 17 to 17½c. In a local jobbing way business is light.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., October 12, 1899.

BUSINESS is good, and there is a general expression among the business men that the outlook has not been as bright in years. In this Province we have had good crops, and in lumber, which is our most important industry, the prospect is all that dealers can ask. The cut this winter will be a large one. Present prices are good. Next to lumber, shipping is a most important feature, and freights, both deep water and coastwise, are good. In almost all lines of goods firm prices rule, sugar being the one important exception. In many lines there has been a material advance, and, as a rule, our dealers have good stocks. This is particularly true in regard to canned goods. The chief exception is beans. They have been such a drug buyers were backward. Still there is a fair quantity here. In spice, pepper is of chief interest, tending higher. Other lines are firm. Tapioca keeps high. Cream of tartar shows a rather easier tendency. Hops are a very light sale.

OIL—While the advanced prices reported last week show no change, figures are very firmly held. Retail dealers are, however, still being supplied on contracts made earlier at the lower figures, so the strong position has not the effect it would have had if prices had been advanced earlier. In this line, as in many others, it is the cost rather than the present price that governs the dealer. Cod oil is received quite freely, but prices are still low. Paint and lubricating oils are firm.

SALT—The rather higher prices in Liverpool coarse still continue, and no change is expected for some time. Market is supplied via Boston, but, owing to freights, cost is high. There is a good, steady demand. Fine salt sells freely, this is the quiet season. We quote as follows : Liverpool coarse, 45 to 50c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—There is little new to report. This is a very firm line. New goods continue to arrive and are at once shipped out to the retail dealer. Those who bought early and freely are fortunate. The pack of corn in this Province was quite large, being better than was expected, but this is hardly a feature, as there are but two factories. Corn and tomatoes are the highest lines, though salmon, peaches and almost all others are very firm. In salmon some low prices on cohoes have been quoted. It is said there are some 1898 fish. This grade does not stand age as well as the sockeye fish. If dealers do not wish to hurt the demand for salmon they should see they sell all salmon for just what they are. Meats are rather higher and the outlook is for still higher figures.

GREEN FRUITS.—Apples have the attention of the trade. There are fair receipts, but auction sales are much lighter, and only resorted to where quality is poor. This shows there is a good demand at full figures. Ontario grapes and peaches are in fair receipts, but full prices are asked. Quality is good. In oranges and lemons there is but a small business reported. Bananas are quiet. Tokay and Malaga grapes have but light sale. Pears are about out of the market. Cranberries are plentiful and rule quite low. Sweet potatoes show a fair sale.

DRIED FRUITS—This line has particular attention. Malaga loose muscatels have been quite freely bought by the wholesale trade, as prices asked are killing the sale of Californians. The reports from Denia show advanced prices in Valencias, and a strong upward tendency. Prunes have but little attention. No French are offered, and Bosnia are much higher than Californian. Apricots are again very high. Peaches have but a limited sale. Figs are daily expected. Peels are all in. American citron is having quite a demand here. Evaporated apples are having considerable attention. The outlook favors higher prices. The high figures have caused dried to be picked up and market is about bare. There is a good demand for yellow onions, and prices are rather higher than last season.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs are rather higher for good stock ; receipts are not large. Retail dealers watch the quality closely. In butter, higher prices rule ; best stock is scarce, but poor quality finds no sale, except at a price. In cheese, values are moving up. Our trade have been bears, and find themselves short of stock. Lack of milk has much interfered with the output in this Province. There is a good chance here for considerable extension in this product.

SUGAR—The demand is good. Dealers are pushing sales owing to a rather weak market. There have been quite free receipts of American, both in granulated and yellows, and the quality is very much liked.

MOLASSES—There is a good business, and stocks are getting well cleaned up. Were it not for quite free receipts of New Orleans this market would be quite bare. All foreign goods are very firmly held, and there is no place to draw supplies from. The American market is in the same condition as our own. Higher prices on New Orleans are daily expected.

FISH—Supplies in all lines are still light and all prices are high. Pickled herring are very scarce and prices had been advanced this week. This is the season of active demand. Hake are very high for them, and as they yield a fair oil and the sounds are of considerable value, the fishermen are finding them particularly profitable. If smoked herring would only advance the fishermen would be happy. While there are but fair receipts, prices keep low. There is an improved demand for finnan haddies, but there are no fish. In fresh fish there were some halibut received, and a few smelt are coming in this week. We quote : Large and medium dry cod, $3.75 to $4 ; small, $2.50 ; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality ; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c. ; pollock, $2 to $2.10 per 100 ; pickled herring, $1.70 to $1.75 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PROVISIONS—With other lines there is an advance here, particularly in beef. Not only is there a good sale, but the very severe winters we have had for a few years in the West have interfered very much with the supply. Pork is also moving up. Our trade were fortunate, and bought quite freely at the lower figures. Lard is a good stock and very firm in price.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, rather higher prices rule. Manitoba, which in some cases were bought very low, are marked higher this week, and Ontarios are firmly held. Millers report very heavy demand at full prices. Oats and oatmeal are firm. Stocks are light. Beans are high, but, while market is very lightly supplied, buyers are very backward. Holders will make no concessions, however. Feed is very scarce. Cornmeal shows no change. Hay is quiet. We quote as follows : Manitoba flour, $4.50 to $4.70 ; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.00 ; medium, $3.60 to $3.75 ; oatmeal, $3.80 to $3.90 ; cornmeal, $2.15 to $2.20; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 35 to 38c.; hand-picked beans, $1.25 to $1.30 ; prime, $1.15 to $1.20; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2 ; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15 ; hay, $7 to $7.50 ; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Dearborn & Co. received a shipment of Singapore pineapples this week. Quality very fine.

Merritt Bros. & Co. have just landed the first car of evaporated apples to come to this market this season.

Jones & Schofield received another large shipment of choice New Orleans molasses in barrel this week.

The demand for canned soups, while not large, is showing quite a satisfactory increase. Bowman & Angevine, agents for Van Camp's, report sales much better than usual.

Owing to the high prices in all lines of dry fish, boneless fish is not only high, but the supply is light. John Sealy is finding it difficult, in spite of the prices, to keep up with his orders.

J. Hunter White, Canadian representatives for the shippers of "Mabel" brand of Valencia raisins, received the following cable this week. "Prices are higher owing to short supplies. Withdraw all offers. Can make no firm price owing to excitement."

W. A Brennan, of The Journal and Agriculturist, of Summerside, P.E.I., called on THE GROCER this week. He reported Prince Edward Island particularly prosperous, cheese bringing all but 12c. The dairy output this year will reach about $700,000.

E. J. Madden, representing Armour & Co., Chicago, called on the trade during the past week. He found business rather quiet, Eastern packers supplying the trade at lower prices than market values West. They expect shortly to be in a better position to supply this trade.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

October 12, 1899.

This list is corrected every Thursday, and the quotations herein given are for the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria. The prices are solicited for publication, and are of such quantities and qualities as are usually ordered by retail dealers on the usual terms of credit.

Goods in large lots and for prompt pay are generally obtainable at lower prices.

All quotations for staple products are under the direct control of the Editors who call daily upon all the leading houses in the principal centres.

This light, we claim, produces a steady incandescent light double the value of ordinary, and consumes less oil (Canadian preferred). Requires snuffing only once in two months—does not smoke—chimneys need no wiping. Positively without smell. Why? Because our automatic battery produces an electric current from the chemicals of the oil which carbonizes the wick, thus the above results. Less explosive. Will fit any lamp. Sells at sight.

HORSES LIKE DAVE HARUM'S.

"DAVE" HARUM says: "The golden rule in horse tradin' is to do unto others as others would do unto you, and to do it first," but there is sometimes a later reckoning.

Away back in the forties, Mr. Crosby, of the Elm Vale farm, in North Andover, had an extensive establishment there, with a large number of fine horses, and in the old days "Ben" Thurston, who lived in Lowell, used to come down and try speed with Mr. Crosby, who, at that time, owned fast horses, says a writer in The Springfield Republican. In the winter the track was transferred to the ice on the Merrimac river, and many is the race they had down as far as Haverhill and return.

One of the side speculations with Mr. Crosby was a large grocery store, which he had established south of what is now Lawrence. Mr. Crosby was quite a horse fancier and enjoyed a trade. Mr. Bean, a prominent liveryman of North Andover, also did something in the same line. Mr. Crosby and Mr. Bean had a horse trade one day in which Bean got terribly worsted, but he kept his peace and for three years regularly drove up to Mr. Crosby's store and purchased his groceries, never once mentioning his horse trade, and Crosby imagined that possibly he had traded off the horse without finding out his imperfections, and so it was apparently forgotten on both sides.

One day Mr. Bean drove up with his wife in a light wagon to Crosby's store for his weekly groceries. As he drove up Crosby was sitting out on the platform in front of his store. Bean passed into the store and gave his order for groceries. Crosby sat looking at Bean's horse and said:

"Bean, that horse of yours will match one that I have down on the farm; I'd like to buy him."

Bean said: "No, that's a horse I bought two or three years ago for my wife, and I don't propose to sell him. When I find anything that suits my wife I stop right there."

Crosby walked around the horse, and the more he looked at him the more he thought what an admirable match it would be for his horse down at the farm, so he kept bantering Bean for a trade.

"No," said Bean, "all I want is a heavy horse for a big team that I've got. If I could find just the right horse for that I might be induced to swap."

"Well," said Crosby, "I've got just the thing; the big bay stallion that Tilly drives in my store team is just the thing you want."

Bean allowed that that was about what he wanted, but he didn't know that his wife would be willing to have him trade his horse. His wife continued sitting in the wagon during the time, so that there was no opportunity to exercise the horse.

Finally, Crosby stumped Bean to name a price for the horse, and so Bean told his wife that if she would consent to let him trade the horse he would give her a fine sorrel one he had, and, after a time, she reluctantly consented.

"Well," said Bean, "if wife's willin', I'll swap for $50. I can get my wife another horse jest as good, and the big horse will suit me on my team.

Nothing had been said about the soundness of either horse. Finally, after more chaffing, Crosby offered to split the difference, making it $37.50, and Bean accepted the offer, and the writer set to work to change the horses.

As the big grey horse was hitched into Bean's wagon, the groceries had been put in, and Bean very quickly turned toward home. In fact, he turned so quickly that Crosby began to think he had been caught, and he said to the writer:

"Hitch that horse into the store wagon, drive him 'round the barn, and see what the matter is," which I did. When I came back to the store Crosby said:

"Well, what's the matter with him?"

"Well," I said, "the hind part don't seem to connect with the forward part—don't appear to be any backbone; the forward part goes ahead and the hind part swings around."

Crosby says: "Caught! The old trade is balanced now. Take the horse down to the farm if you can get him there, and bring up another horse to use at the store."

I hitched him to the light wagon and started for the North Andover farm. When I crossed the Shawsheen river I found the horse was liable to fall, and, walking alongside the horse, with one hand on his hip, I was able to keep him up until I got to the top of the hill. There was a three-cornered lot at the top of the hill which belonged to Crosby. I opened the bars and turned the horse in. He laid down on the grass and never got up.

I went over to the farm, picked up a new horse for the store, and got back to South Lawrence.

There never was a word mentioned by either party concerning the horse trade, but Bean didn't come up to Lawrence to buy any more groceries. The old account was settled.—N. E. Grocer.

CALIFORNIAN RAISIN CROP.

In 1872 California produced 50,000 lb. of raisins, says an exchange. Five years later the crop was 640,000 lb.; more than doubling two years later, and again doubling in 1883, when it reached 2,800,000 lb.; in 1885 it was over three times greater than two years before, or 9,400,000 lb., and by 1888 had again doubled, trebled in 1889, and was four times more in 1890 than five years previous. In another three years it more than doubled, and the next year—1894—reached its highest point, or 103,000,000 lb. The present crop is estimated at little over one-half the yield in 1894, and 14,000,000 lb. lighter than in 1898, when it reached 70,000,000 lb. The falling off in production is due to unfavorable crop conditions and not to reduced area.

MANHOOD BETTER THAN MONEY.

THE following, from a United States exchange, is about as applicable in this country as it seems to be across the border :

"The desire to get everything as cheap as possible is a characteristic of many of our countrymen. It is certainly wrong to be extravagant, and it is necessary to use due diligence to avoid being cheated. But to spend valuable time higgling over a penny, and to become biased in favor of an article merely by the element of cheapness, is evidence of great weakness. Not the poor only, but many rich people, have fallen into this error. We hear an unreasonable demand for cheap teachers, cheap preachers, cheap newspapers and cheap books from many quarters.

"To use due diligence to procure needful supplies at a fair price is a duty, but to forget that beyond a certain limit cheapness is to be discarded is not wise. The inconsistent spectacle is often witnessed of men, who demand fair prices for their own wares, seeking to procure what they need from others at ruinously low figures. The man who is loud in his demand for fair wages is often seen passing by the honest tailor who sells clothing at a fair price, and purchasing of a cheap tradesman who has come into the community to undersell regular business men.

"There are three ways in which one may undersell those who carry on an honest business. He may sell so low that he cannot live, wind up his establishment, and leave his creditors to carry his losses. This is dishonest. He may also oppress the toilers in his factory by giving them starvation wages, in order that he may sell at unreasonably low prices. This is worse than dishonest. There is a third way. He may palm off an inferior article on his customers and persuade them that it is genuine. This is the most common method. Such enterprises ought not to be patronized by honest men. He is a public benefactor who conducts an honest business, and considers integrity more valuable than wealth, and he is wise who cheerfully pays the full value of every purchase, knowing that manhood is worth more than money."

TRADE CHAT.

ON Friday last, W. H. Elliott's general store and the post office at New Sarum was entered by thieves. Ingress was effected by prying the front door open with a long rasp, and a large quantity of underwear and hardware was taken. The tills were also broken open, but contained nothing but coppers. A large watch-dog was left in the store by Mr. Elliott, but it was found tied and gagged.

One of the most gratifying signs of progress in the Canadian Northwest is the great increase in sales of land this year. One company reports its September sales double that for the same month last year, and the railway land sales, largely farming lands, show large increases over previous years. Most of the sales are to actual settlers, and every settler that goes into the Northwest means an increase in the demand for staple goods from the East.

Being caught short of supplies is about as bad as being caught short of money, says an exchange. Both conditions are decidedly unpleasant, yet can often be avoided by ordinary foresight and carefulness. Stocking up against a rainy day is a maxim that applies to goods as well as to dollars, while it also has a fitting reference to timely preparations for selling goods and receiving additional dollars.

SELF-CONTROL IS VALUABLE.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

THE 216 bbls. Malaga and Almeria grapes representing small lots brought by several recent steamers sold to-day at auction at $4.50 for the best down to $2.12½ for the poorest.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 6.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

A waiting market continued to be experienced. The volume of line business transacted was of only very moderate proportions, as both local and out-of-town buyers were slow in placing new orders, preferring to hold and await developments. Despite, however, the falling-off in the demand the past few days, the undertone held firm, as there has been no development in the general situation to discourage sellers, and they held firm for full-quoted prices. Advices from abroad continued to report firm markets. The market for invoices was quiet and unchanged.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 10.

CANNED GOODS IN THE UNITED STATES.

As we anticipated in the early part of the season, there is a greater interchange, so to call it, of packs in the canned goods market this year than we have ever before heard of. It is probable that even New York State packers will have to call largely on their Western brothers in the industry to supply the deficiency in corn. Just as Maryland is to-day supplying the deficiency of the West in tomatoes, as California is supplying the lack of peaches in Maryland, and as it would seem that Wisconsin is supplying the deficiencies of Baltimore in peas. * * * Although interest still concentrates on tomatoes, because of the pressing needs of Western packers to fill their quota of future contracts, this developing condition will direct attention to peas and corn to an extent that will somewhat divert attention from tomatoes, until possibly the close of the year. Tomatoes have, however, advanced about 2½ to 5c. above last week's quotation; all reasonable hopes of a continuation of the packing into October are abont dissipated, and although the weather is becoming warmer than in September, the vines are so seriously injured by the night frosts that they cannot be counted upon for even a small increase of the percentage of the packing; in fact, most of the tomatoes coming to market now are half green, and even at that prices are considerably advanced.—The Trade, Baltimore, M.D.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

The demand for salmon in flat and tall tins continues on a moderate scale, but prices are well maintained, there being no pressure to sell in any direction. Half-pound tins have been eagerly inquired for, and there has been a larger business passing at full prices than for some time past.—Grocers' Journal, September 30.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.

Speaking of new Californian raisins The Trade Journal, of San Francisco, says: "As is known, about 10 per cent. of the crop is on the outside. The packers recently obtained permission to buy these raisins and pool them. They found that they tied up too much money, as they would be paid in instalments, like growers. The association decided to pay the packers for raisins thus purchased as soon as they sell the goods. This is to relieve the market from the competition of these outside raisins at reduced prices."

KINGSTON GROCERS' PICNIC.

THE long-looked-for picnic of the retail grocers of Kingston came off at the fair grounds there on October 4, and was one of the most successful things of its kind ever held in that city, according to The Daily Times. Upwards of 2,000 people witnessed the sports, amid strains of music from the 14th and City bands. The rain kept off for nearly the whole of the performance, which was the most amusing entertainment one could wish for. There were some rather speedy heats in the running and open bicycle races, but the rest of the events were funny in the extreme. Following is a complete list of the events and prize-winners:

Baseball match, Grocers vs. Gardeners.—The Grocers won by 7 to 6.

Quarter-mile dash, open to grocers' employes, 18 years and under.—Moxley, H. Smith, G. Smith, N. McIver.

Half-mile bicycle race, open to grocers only, handicap if required.—H. Robertson, P. A. Haffner, T. R. Carnovsky, Dan Cooper.

Half-mile running race, open to grocers' employes.—R. Robinson, G. Singleton, Ernie McRae, J. Colback.

One hundred yards' dash, open to young ladies—each lady keeps the Jelly Powder she picks up.—Sarah Stansbury, Ida Shaw, Edith Salsbury, E. Fokes.

One mile trotting race, best two in three, open to horses driven regularly in the wagon for the last three months.—Corkey, Wilkinson, Crawford, Lemmon.

One mile bicycle race, open, handicap if necessary.—Robinson, Powell, Taylor.

Comfort Soap race, 8 prizes.—Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Spooner, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Connors, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Conling, Mrs. Lawlor.

Two-mile running horse race, open to horses driven regularly in the wagon for the last three months.—Corkey, Gilbert, Murphy, Crawford.

Half-mile bicycle race, open to policemen and firemen.—Shannon, Stratford, Sands, Burns.

Quarter-mile footrace, open to firemen, policemen and "A" Batterymen.—Shannon, Newman, Burns, Stratford.

One mile trotting race, second heat.—Corkey, Wilkinson, Keene, Lemmon.

One hundred yards' dash, open to all grocers.—Murphy, Corkey, McLean, Shaw.

Half-mile dash, open to all wholesale employes.—Singleton, Coldback, Davy, Godwin.

One mile trot, single heat, open to farmers, carters, cabmen, milkmen, butchers and gardeners, for green horses that have not won money.—Lyons, Sowards, W. Reid, M. Hughes.

Half-mile bicycle race, open to grocer's clerks.—O. Knott, R. Gage, J. Holland, R. Robinson.

One mile running race, single heat, open to all green horses.—Keene, Purdy, Joyce, Brannigan.

One hundred yards' dash, open to retail clerks.—Cooper, Roddy, R. Robinson, M. Porter.

High jump, open to grocers' delivery horses.—Carson, Corkey, Glover.

Hop, step and jump, open to grocers and employes—G. Cooper, H. Lee, R. Douglas, J. Davy.

Tug-of-war, for nine men, retail vs. wholesale.—Retail.

One mile trotting race, third heat. — Gilbert, Gould, Murphy, Crawford.

Officials' race, 100 yards—H. Robertson, Smith, D. H. McRae.

Best turnout—Henderson, P. Haffner, Starr & Sutcliffe.

Secretary Gilbert was ill and unable to attend the picnic. He was greatly missed by his fellow tradesmen.

WORRY NOT ABOUT SALARIES.

"What salaries are paid in different business callings is a question often asked by young men, and one which seems to enter into their deliberations as a qualifying factor as to whether they shall enter certain trades or professions," writes Edward Bok, in the September Ladies' Home Journal. "I never could quite see the point of this, nor the reason for it. What are the salaries which are paid to others, to you or to me? They signify nothing. If the highest salary paid to the foremost man in a certain profession is $10,000 a year, what does it prove or signify? There is no obstacle to someone else going into that same profession and earning $25,000. The first step in going into business is to find out not which special line is most profitable, but which line you are most interested in and are best fitted for. Then drive ahead, and the salary will take care of itself. When a young man thinks too much of his salary, it is pretty good proof that he is not of very superior make. Ability commands income. But you must start with ability, not with salary."

THE MAIL-ORDER BUSINESS.

It is estimated that one-tenth of the population, or seven millions of people, buy, more or less, through the mails. The amount of mail-order business in the country is simply astonishing. We believe we can name 50 concerns in Chicago that do a combined mail-order business of $1,000,000 a week, and Chicago is but one city.—Boyce's Hustler.

HOW TO PREVENT FROSTY WINDOWS.

THAT the show window is a valuable aid to the merchant is attested, not only by the costly character of its construction in modern stores, but also by the large expense regularly incurred for window-dressing, which has attained almost the dignity of a profession, and is undeniably an art. The display attracts popular attention and creates an interest in the minds of possible customers. Anything that obscures it in the least from the ready view of the public is, therefore, in the merchant's eye, an evil. One such evil is frequent in the winter season, when the best efforts of the window-dresser are brought to naught by the steaming or frosting of the show windows. Correspondents of this magazine, writing from many points, and especially those writing from northern sections, complain of the annoyance which they experience from this.

The cause of steam or frost gathering upon the glass in a window is extremely simple, and even in apartments warmed by presumably dry air the phenomenon may occur, if people, animals, plants, or any vapor-exhaling substances occupy it. Atoms of vapor multiply in the air in such a case, and are carried by its currents against the surface of the glass, the low temperature of which condenses them into infinitesimal drops of moisture; these being either congealed immediately, or coalescing flow downward over the glass, freezing gradually; in the latter case producing the effect so frequently to be seen, of the heaviest layer of frost on the lowest part of the window pane. Back of all this there exists a condition, which may be described by stating that the temperature inside the apartment is not sufficiently high to repel the pressure of the cold outside atmosphere upon the glass. In other words, if the penetrative power of the heat, inside, were greater than that of the cold, outside, the glass would become warm instead of cold, and would not act as a condenser for the vapor striking it.

It would thus appear that the solution of either one of two problems would obviate the evil of steam or frost on the window. One of these problems is how best to prevent vapor being carried against the glass. The other is how best to maintain such a temperature on the surface of the glass as to prevent it from becoming a condenser of vapor. In some of the large stores in Greater New York the practical solution of both problems has been undertaken by shutting off the show-windows completely by means of a casing, in some instances air-tight. The space thus shut out from the main store, besides being kept free from the vapor-carrying atmosphere of the place, is warmed by dry air to a degree sufficient to maintain between the atmosphere and the surface of the glass an equilibrium of temperature sufficient to leave undisturbed any particles of vapor present. This system has proven very successful. It might be modified by the construction of windows with double plates of glass, having an hermetically sealed space between them. This would make the use of heat unnecessary. The use of double windows on dwelling houses in winter is familiar, especially in the colder parts of the country, the extra windows being made in a single sash covering the window frame completely on the outside, and leaving a space of several inches between itself and the ordinary windows. These double windows are designed primarily to assist in keeping the house warm, but the plan serves also to keep the glass free from frosting.

Steam and frost are successfully kept off windows in some of the large New York stores by the radiation of heat from the sill of the casement. It might be an excellent idea to keep a forced current of dry heated air playing upward against the glass in sufficient volume to dissipate the atoms of vapor carried against the surface. This appears to be a more perfect way, and a surer one, in the case of windows exposed to all the effects of the inside atmosphere, then the method sometimes recommended, of coating the window with some transparent water-repelling substance, dissolved in alcohol, and left on the glass by evaporation of the spirit.

The entire subject is one well worthy the study of practical minded men in mercantile life, and with the hints here given it is possible that some simple and inexpensive method for curing the evil treated of may be devised. These columns are open for the publication of any good ideas or suggestions that may be made, and our correspondents may go into the whole subject of the proper construction of frost-proof windows, if they will.—Haberdasher.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, October 9, 1899.

THRESHING has been, and is being, pushed forward with great rapidity. The weather has been fine and almost warm enough for August. There have been a few prairie fires, but none of serious extent, the chief damage being to hay. The men who are through threshing are desiring rain for fall ploughing, but it is safe to say that the bulk of the farming community want fine weather for another week at least. The deliveries of wheat for the week have been much heavier than last, and many of the elevators are badly congested owing to a shortage of cars. The old story in that respect, as there never has been enough cars to move Manitoba's crop at the right moment. A great deal of the wheat has come into the elevators to be held for higher prices. The country market has been peculiar and erratic. While the general wheat market has declined at a number of points in Manitoba, the prices have been going up by leaps and bounds. Boissevain and Neepawa have been good instances of this. At the latter point 65c. was paid for wheat which was really only worth 54c. The millers are responsible for this state of things, and elevatormen are shy of buying where such figures obtain. The wheat market, as a whole, is weaker than it was last week. On Saturday the market stood as follows: 15c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 56c.; No. 2 hard, 53c.; No. 3 hard, 48c. 16 and 17c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 54c.; No. 2 hard, 51c.; No. 3 hard, 46c. 18 and 19c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 53c.; No. 2 hard, 50c.; No. 3 hard, 45c. 20 and 21c. rate of freight—No. 1 hard, 52c.; No. 2 hard, 49c.; No. 3 hard, 44c. Cash wheat afloat Fort William, 69¾c. The grade is being well maintained, and although No. 3 hard is quoted, very little has been seen this season. Up to date the bulk of the crop has gone No. 1 hard.

OATS—Rolled oats have again dropped 5c., and 80's are quoted at $1.70. The quality of the new meal is very fine.

BEANS—White beans are very scarce and prime mediums are now quoted at $1.45 to $1.50, and difficult to obtain at those figures.

FLOUR—The flour market has remained unchanged at last week's figures. Business is very active and prices are very firm. A further advance is anticipated.

FEED—The situation has remained practically the same. One large milling company quoting bran $10.50, and shorts $12.50, and the others $1 per ton advance on these figures.

BUTTER—The market is firm and fairly active. Creamery, September made, in large packages, is worth 22c. at factories, while 23 to 24c. is being paid for fresh creamery in small and fancy packages. Dairy butter is in good demand. That is, strictly fresh made sweet dairy carefully put up. This article is worth 16c. delivered at Winnipeg, when in prime condition. There is little or no market for inferior grades. Mining camps and lumber camps are beginning to get estimates on winter supplies and it is noticeable that in nearly every case the estimates call not for dairy butter but for "best creamery." The make in Manitoba at the present time is very limited.

CHEESE—The market is firm but there is not much doing; in fact there is little to buy. Several cars of Ontario cheese have been brought by Winnipeg houses for their Vancouver and Victoria branches, but so far no Ontario has appeared on this market. The present quotation is 11½ to 12c., but 12c. has been paid for practically all purchases this week.

EGGS—Eggs grow scarcer, and strictly fresh laid retail at 30c. This makes the housewife shudder when she thinks of January prices. The supply is small. Dealers are offering 16 and 17c. at Winnipeg. One car of Ontario eggs was being sold in Winnipeg on Saturday, and several cars have gone through to Coast branches of Winnipeg houses.

CANNED GOODS—Corn is now known to be all in the hands of Baker & Wright. The crop is hardly half a one, and there is no possibility of lower prices. Many Winnipeg houses are still quoting $2.25, but it would be practically impossible to lay it down here now and sell for that figure; $2.40 per case is the lowest that would pay handling. The Eastern houses who bought before the agreement was made, and who offered goods on this market at figures below what wholesalemen here could buy at, seem to have largely withdrawn. Tomatoes are firm, but not as high as was anticipated and the pack seems to be a fair one. From $2.20 to $2.25 appears to be the quotation here. Canned beans are not to be had. One wholesale man, just returned from the East, reports that he could not get factories to offer on even 10-case lots.

CANNED FRUITS—All the pack of strawberries is bought up, and this fruit will be searce and high. Prices now are firm at $3.25 per case. Practically the same may be said of raspberries, which are quoted at $3. Peaches are plentiful and of good quality. Quotations here are $3.75 to $4. Pears are also plentiful at $3.45 per case.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—The market on all lines of evaporated fruits continues firm with signs of advancement. Apricots, 16 to 16½c; red and yellow nectarines, 14c.; peeled peaches, 16c.; unpeeled, 12c.; red and yellow pitted plums, 14c.; silver prunes, 10c.; raspberries, 20c.; pitted cherries, 18c.; prunes. 5½ to 10c., according to size and quality.

RAISINS—Californian raisins are so high that the sale on this market will be small. They are fully 2c. in advance of Mediterranean fruit. Currants are 1c. per lb. higher than last year. Prices range from 5¾ to 6c. with 1c. extra for cleaned fruit.

SUGAR—Is firm, and though it has not advanced during the week the advance of raw sugar in New York will no doubt have its effect here almost immediately.

COFFEE—Market continues very dull and slow, with Rios at 9½ to 10c. The dullness is chiefly attributed to overproduction.

TEAS—Are very firm and show a tendency to advance.

JAMS—1899 jams are now offering freely at 60c. for 7-lb. pails in crates of six. The lines chiefly quoted are raspberry, apricot, plum, red currant, black currant, strawberry, gooseberry, and peach.

OYSTERS—There is quite a brisk demand for oysters. Standards are quoted at $1.90 per gal., and selects at $2.25.

COD FISH—Catch of 1899 in bricks, 7½c.

GREEN FRUITS—Plums, pears and peaches are practically out of the market, though a few lines are still shown at nominal figures. Grapes are very firm, and the supply is not equal to the requirements of the trade here. Concords, 30c.; Niagara, 35c.; Rogers, 40c. Winter apples are now arriving and the present quotation is $3.65. Late fall varieties are quoted at $3.25. The fall apples have not been very satisfactory from a keeping standpoint. Cape Cod cranberries $7.50 per bbl. with a good demand. Spanish onions are billed to arrive early in the week and will sell at $1.25 per crate. Sweet potatoes, $5 per bbl. Lemons and oranges are without change.

CRANBERRIES AND BOGS.

Cranberries in Halifax are selling at the wide margin of from $3 to $6 per barrel. The $3 berries were touched with the frost, and, while good enough for immediate use, will not keep. A. H. Riordan has a bonanza in a small cranberry bog near the mile board, Annapolis. The bog contains but ⅜ of an acre, and from it this year Mr. Riordan picked 43½ barrels, which he sold at $6 per barrel. William Duffus, of this city, recently sold a cranberry bog which he owned on the Margaret's Bay road to Geoffrey Morrow and Mr. Jones for $1,000. —Herald, Halifax.

The C.P.R. has 6,500 grain cars on its western division; 3,000 are for wheat traffic.

James Baker, of J. & W. Baker, fish dealers and general merchants, Cape Cove, Que., is dead.

"Edwardsburg"

The names "Edwardsburg," "Benson" and "good starch" have been so closely identified in the minds of all successful grocers for over forty years, that now one name suggests the other name naturally.

For a day—for a year it may be—a new thing may command some attention, but enduring success must be founded on intrinsic worth. Quality always counts—in the end. But you must maintain quality steadfastly year after year—you must compete in quality as well as in price, else you are lost.

"Edwardsburg" or "Benson" on a Package of Starch

guarantees highest quality always—and, too, it means that unusual skill and painstaking care and absolute purity have made its contents "best" by all the tests that go to prove it so.

Time tests all things—"time-tested and true" is the Edwardsburg motto. Not for a day—or for a year—but for all time, and thus far with Edwardsburg—for half a century. You are safe when you buy "Edwardsburg" is making wonderful progress in regard to sales. The demand increases every month. Every farmer's wife in Ontario has our recipe book, which has been mailed at the rate of 5,000 per week for some months past.

GROCERS:—Do not let your stock run out; every wholesale house carries all sizes of packages.

MONSOON
INDO-CEYLON TEA.

Package teas have practically made the selling of all black tea in bulk, a thing of the past.

There must be a reason for all this, and that reason is that the public are so much better served by the packet, and the grocer has finally seen that handling the packet pays him better: Because there is no loss in weight; he does not have to carry a large stock; there is no possibility of it going off like the bulk, and many other reasons.

At the same time there are packets and packets.

Monsoon is the one to please your customers, and enable you to hold your trade.

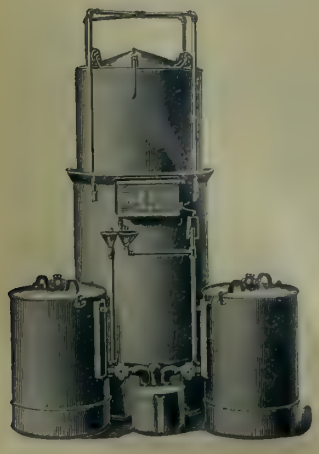
The Safety

ACETYLENE GAS MACHINE

WITH

CLIFF-WARDLAW GENERATORS.

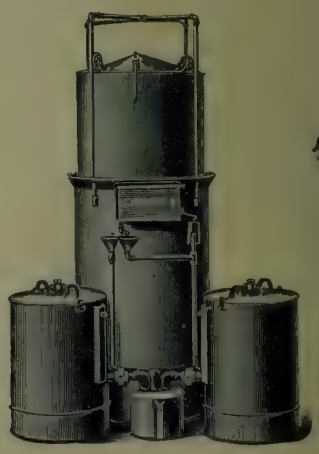
Acetylene Gas is not the "light of other days," it is the LIGHT of to-day and of the future.



THE "SAFETY" HAS THE FOLLOWING GOOD POINTS:

Safe. All joints are water-sealed and the seals are self-sustaining.

Simple. So easy to manage and operate that church sextons have no trouble with it. The machine can be cleaned and recharged in ten minutes—and there is no mess or bad odor.



Economical. The automatic means by which the ash is removed from the carbide, so that both are left dry, prevents over-generation, and the maximum quantity of gas is obtained from the carbide. It is made cool and twice washed.

205. An accident has never occurred to a "Safety," and there are 205 in successful operation in Canada.

CANADA FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

Glimpses of Scenery and Industrial Life

CANADA is a country full of surprises, its resources, its hidden riches, its fertility, its scenery and the actual extent of its realized wealth are imperfectly known even to its own people. This is not so strange as may appear at first. Both in Europe and in North America the attention of capital and the emigrating classes has been absorbed by the wonderful material advances of the United States. The republic had a long start ; it was better equipped for material development by this very fact ; so that people, even Canadians, who wanted the shortest cut to prosperity naturally went to the United States. This was inevitable. It could not, humanly speaking, have been prevented. In consequence, Canada has been, to some extent, overlooked. This may seem inexplicable, but the want, until recent years, of proper internal communication, by rail and water, prevented Canadians from exploiting their own possessions, and British capital had already—from 1850 onwards — thoroughly developed the United States and provided the openings which youth and vigor always seek when they start out in life.

There is the misapprehension of Canadian climate which must be patiently overcome. It is generally supposed that winter is our typical season. Yet, at any time during that period of the year, an area as large as England is bare of all snow. There are persons who honestly believe that you can cross the great lakes on the ice, although these bodies of water never freeze over. The most absurd mistakes and sometimes malicious humor are to be found in highly respectable authorities. Sir Francis Head, who wrote more than one book about Canada, and who was Governor of the Province of Ontario for a time, records in one place that as he sat writing in his library the ink froze on his pen ! The "Encyclopædia Britannica" gave the opening of navigation in Toronto harbor as June ! A United States general who outlined a military campaign against Canada counted upon bringing his troops across Lake Ontario on the ice ! And yet Baron Munchausen is dead. The Baron's story of the horse that was cut in two while drinking at the trough, but (being unaware that the rear portion of his body had fallen to the ground) went on drinking as if nothing had happened, is not distinguished by a more remarkable flight of fancy than some stories told of the Canadian climate. The photographic scenes of this country nearly always represent us during the comparatively brief period when the weather is cold and the snow abundant. There are few people who would believe that in Toronto sleighing for any length of time is a rarity, that ocean steamships are unloading their cargoes in the harbor of Montreal during the month of November, and that British Columbia has a milder climate than that of England.

As a matter of fact, the typical season in Canada is the long summer and autumn—truly the most delightful in the world.

A writer in The Canadian Magazine, of November, 1898, after comparing the geographical position of the Dominion with that of European countries says : "The position of much of Canada in the most favored latitudes of Europe might well create a presumption that, at least, its more southerly portions possess a comparatively genial climate. This presumption is well sustained by the examination of the records of both the western and eastern parts of the Dominion. Even allowing for the well-known fact that the eastern side of every continent or large island in the temperate zone is colder in winter than the western, the narrowness of America, compared with the eastern continent, and the existence of the great lakes as a check on the drift of cold from the interior, makes the St. Lawrence region generally much milder in winter than Chinese territory in the same latitudes. * * * Canada has climates which are as warm in summer as many parts of the south of France and summers as long as in the central department of that country."

It is difficult to imagine a trip more delightful than a leisurely tour from ocean to ocean through the Provinces of Canada. If a man starts, as he ought to do, with the Maritime Provinces on the Atlantic coast, through the central portions of Old Canada, and on to the prairie till the rich and mountainous Province of British Columbia is reached, he will find along the route enough of variety to absorb the attention of the least impressionable traveler. There is Nova Scotia first of all—with its great coal regions, which make this portion of the coast of so much strategic value to England; with its fine agricultural and grazing lands, its fruit regions producing apples famous the world over, and its iron and gold deposits.

Crossing to Prince Edward Island, this charming little Province with its fine cultivated areas and pretty scenery, the traveler finds that trade and industry go hand-in-hand with a quiet enjoyment of life. In New Brunswick, the farming and lumbering are striking features of a Province that contains some of the most contented and prosperous people in the world. Then, by Government railway, or, if you like, up the River St. Lawrence into the historic Province of Quebec, where Cartier and his successors

What visions these names call up of agricultural operations on a scale of magnitude that would have amazed our grandfathers! "I wish," said a man the other day who knows Western Canada well, "we could see the West 100 years hence, for its certain prospects, if outlined now, would sound like a fairy story. We are leaving to our grandchildren the richest heritage, I believe, to be found anywhere on the globe." Then, lastly, into British Columbia, where are stored every sort of wealth that men covet (its fisheries, its lumber, its minerals), and which for its scenery attracts admiring visitors from widely-separated continents.

One may be deemed guilty of overance. Suppose him to be merely a dilettante tourist, with a languid interest in historical plans and an artistic eye for natural scenery. When he has seen the mountains and lakes, the wooded valleys and quiet streams, when he has wandered to some of the points made famous in the pages of Parkman and Kingsford, he will not turn away from Canada with a weary and unsatisfied longing. Or, suppose he is a politician with an eye to the economic conditions that prevail and the relations between the laws and the welfare of the people, he will find plenty of interesting data. One central fact will impress him: That wealth in Canada is more generally diffused wealth than in other countries, for the rich are not, as a rule, too founded a new state for the old Kings of France and planted a thriving colony of French, now grown into a little nation of themselves, all loyal and industrious subjects of Queen Victoria. Quebec Province, with its extensive lumber trade and well-developed manufactories in cottons, iron, woollens, etc., forms a highly advanced portion of the Dominion. It contains the city of Montreal, with its large ocean-going trade, centralized capital and solid strength. Then, on into Ontario—the home of over 2,000,000 people not surpassed anywhere for the intelligence with which agriculture and manufactures are carried on, and the high standard of comfort which prevails amongst them. Manitoba and the Prairies!

Queen's Square, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

strained eulogy in describing Canada. In point of fact, it is a sober narrative of fact. Remember that we have here half a continent, stretching from ocean to ocean, with every variety of resources, with shipping interests on the Atlantic and Pacific, with direct railway connection from shore to shore, and possessing what is always a factor in the upbuilding of modern States—good laws and free government.

What sort of person would be uninterested and unimpressed by a visit to the Canadian Dominion? Suppose him to be a sportsman. Is his specialty salmon fishing, deer hunting, partridge or wild duck shooting, or the pursuit of big game? He will find all these and other sports to be had in abund-rich, or the poor very poor. And suppose he is a capitalist himself, or the confidential agent of capital, and desires to know something about investments. In this respect it will be found that Canada is only at the beginning of her career, and that it offers many safe openings for legitimate investment. Many a million has been diverted to other portions of the world by "fairy tales" from remote regions, and the owner of the money will never see it again.

In the pages of a commercial journal, it seems natural to devote more attention to those financial and trade considerations suggested by Canada's position than to other matters. Yet, one cannot overlook the fact that scenery, climate, proximity to the old countries of the world bear directly upon the development of a new region. Men and women, especially the latter, will never go as readily to a bare, remote and uninteresting place, far from all the associations of early life, as to a congenial and attractive country nearer home. Distant emigration has almost invariably been produced by "fairy tales." A large portion of the world's capital has been risked—and lost—on "fairy tales." In regard to Canada, however, the truth is easily known, and a rather curious feature about it is that in the history of the country the worst has always been known. This may be due to several reasons, some of which it would not be showing. An export trade of $165,000,000 in 1898, or $33 per head, indicates a thriving commerce.

It is also significant that the export trade does not depend on one department of production, and is not confined to three, or four, or six different staple articles. Canada is able to supply a demand for food products, raw materials, or certain specialties in manufactures. This gives to Canadian industrial life a variety that tends to attract various kinds of emigrants—some preferring mining, some farming, etc. The surplus products that are exported make up as miscellaneous a list as you will find anywhere—cheese and lumber, bicycles and butter, climate—the clear, dry, healthy atmosphere imparts a quality to grain and fruits that is appreciated abroad. The accident of nature has a share in the credit: the quality of the timber, the superiority of coal deposits to those in other regions, the attraction which northern waters have for the fish are also conditions which Canadians certainly did not create. But they have made practical use of them, and if the foreign capitalist were wise, he would get a larger share of the profits.

But Canadian industry has not been idle in turning natural advantages to account. The making of cheese has become a science, as witness the export last year of 200,000, civil to mention, such as the inaccuracies of chance visitors, the prejudices of disappointed politicians, or the agents of a powerful and envious neighbor.

"Canada from Ocean to Ocean."

At this particular time, it must be conceded, a rather favorable opinion of Canada obtains abroad, and it seems fitting to acknowledge the friendly feeling, and to show that it is well founded, as far as the Dominion's material stability is concerned. For example, there is what is familiarly called "foreign trade," the outward and visible sign of a community's commercial place among the nations. An aggregate foreign trade of $300,000,000 in 1898 (that is $60 per head of population) is not a bad ships and pork, gold and potatoes, wheat and coal, iron ores and homespuns, fruit and pulp, fish and copper. This means a wide diversity in commercial and industrial occupation. Capital is often needed to enlarge the industries already established, but the ear of the investor abroad once obtained, there is no reason to doubt the result. We have the labor, the resources, the climatic and other conditions necessary to insure success and it "must follow as the night the day" that it will come.

It has happily been proved that Canada is specially noted for the quality of its productions. For some of this reputation we are undoubtedly indebted to an excellent 000 lb., valued at about $18,000,000. Canadian whiskey is sold all over the world, owing to the skill with which it is made. Canadian agricultural implements go everywhere, being a proof at once of the advanced methods of agriculture in vogue here, and the great magnitude of the farming operations. Farms of 1,000 acres with one man as owner are only regarded as of very moderate dimensions on the grand Western prairies. Local demands have called into existence a number of industries that demand skill and intelligence, and wherever the capital invested in these has been adequate and well directed, they have succeeded.

"The Canadian fisheries—the largest in the world," that is the official statement. That means a great deal besides the money value of these resources, great as it is. It means a seafaring population, a hardy race of men. In Nova Scotia more than 25,000 men are engaged in this industry, for the in-shore fisheries are very rich, and the proximity of deep-sea fisheries, as well, encourages men to pursue this time-honored career. Throughout Canada about 75,000 men are employed in the fishing industry. The inland fisheries in the great lakes and rivers are practically inexhaustible, and their value has been preserved by regulations which make certain methods of taking fish illegal. There is hardly a stream or lake across the Canadian continent which does not teem with fish. The salmon fisheries at the Pacific Coast are very valuable, but are as yet only partly developed. The canned salmon industry has grown to a position of importance. Last year, more than 40,000,000 lb. of it were exported, while the home consumption is very large. The Canadian salmon goes (in cans) to every part of the world—to Great Britain, Australia, India, Chili, China, France, etc. When alive, he stays in Canadian waters. The whole fishing fleet of Canada numbers 35,000 vessels and boats.

In pictorial illustration—just as in history geography or other branches of knowledge—the unusual or the exceptional attracts attention most. The warmest fur garments, the wildest snowstorms, the strangest freaks of King Frost have often been selected to set forth the typical scenes of Canada. Consequently, persons abroad find it hard to realize that the Dominion is, essentially, a fruit country. The dry climate gives to some fruits, like apples, melons, grapes and small fruits, a taste that is only to be compared, in market value, to their keeping qualities. In Ontario, grapes and strawberries are field crops. The vineyards in that Province cover 6,000 acres. The Niagara district is noted for its peaches, grapes and all small fruits. In this region, unimproved fruit farming land sells for £100 per acre. Peach trees are planted in orchards just as apple trees are. The apple region in Nova Scotia, along the Annapolis Valley, is another of the "gardens of Canada." Its apples go to Europe, and are steadily securing a wider market there. Tomatoes in Canada ripen in the open air, as do melons, grapes and all vegetables and fruits that ripen best under a warm sky and in rich soil. Fruit is no luxury in the Dominion; it is within the reach of the poorest, and we are apt to forget this. The orchard, except in large cities, is a common enough possession of a small householder, while every farm has its fruit garden, even when the cultivation of the fruit is no special occupation of the landowner.

In Canada, the homes of those who in Europe would either be agricultural laborers, working for a low wage, or tenant farmers on a small scale, indicate a very comfortable style of living. In fact, country life in the Dominion has very many attractions. Agriculture is still the chief industry of the people, and, notwithstanding the movement of population to the larger centres of activity, a movement that has been felt in every country, farming will probably continue for a long time to occupy the first position. On the Western prairies, where farming is carried on on an extensive scale over immense areas, the opportunities for men with capital and experience are very great. The modern farm, with its comfortable, well-built house, its garden and orchard, its fine barn, its live stock, etc., gives a good idea of the lot of the agricultural community. One or two illustrations in this issue will indicate the comfort and prosperity which, in the case of any competent, energetic man, is the lot of the Canadian landowner. For those who like country life it is almost an ideal existence.

Many a fortune has been made in the lumber industry of Canada, and it continues still to be one of the most important investments in the country. The industry employs a great number of people, who are either engaged in cutting the trees in the woods, bringing them down the lakes, rivers and streams, or cutting them into logs, or partly manufactured lumber, in the mills. The group of mills situated on the Ottawa river just above the political Capital of the Dominion furnish a good illustration of the extent of the industry. New Brunswick's forests make the lumber trade a great factor in the commerce of that Province. The forests of Quebec are also extensive, and from the old city of Quebec the export of square timber to other continents is still an extensive trade. The immense trees of British Columbia and the vast areas of timber there point to an ever-increasing trade from the Pacific Coast ports of the Canadian continent. There are over $100,000,000 worth of capital invested in the lumber industry of Canada, and the value of the annual output is believed to be over $125,000,000. In 1898, the value of forest products exported by Canada was $27,000,000. Of this total, over $16,000,000 went to Great Britain and her colonies, while of the $9,000,000 credited with going to the United States, a portion, it is known, passes at once to other countries, being shipped from New York and other United States ports.

The much-prized pine timber was long regarded as the staple of our forest wealth, but the rapid growth of our pulp trade indicates that the spruce forests are going to promote a new industry which will greatly add to the wealth of the Dominion. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are rich in spruce. Pulp mills are building there fast, and in Quebec and Ontario, some extensive enterprises of this kind are under way. The great pulp mills at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario —of which an illustration is given in these pages—are but one example of the mechanical plants which will soon give Canada a leading place in supplying the pulp-needs of the world. The pulp and paper industry is, therefore, a natural industry in the Dominion, one for which Nature has specially fitted her.

In such avenues for the investment of capital, the enormous extent of the water-powers of Canada is a very noteworthy element. These, under modern conditions, can be used with vast results in the erection and distribution of electricity, so that the Dominion is favored not alone with resources of the richest kind, but with the power to develop them. The Niagara Falls, known to the world of sightseers as a natural wonder, are but one of many waterfalls that may be, and are being utilized. The flow over Niagara is estimated at 2,500,000 horse-power. The rapids along the River St. Lawrence, at various places between Brockville and Montreal, are capable of becoming great factors in every kind of manufacturing industry. The innumerable falls that are to be found all over the Canadian continent constitute a valuable asset to the Dominion.

Allied closely with agriculture is the live stock industry—another natural and national industry which once more illustrates the exceptional richness of Canadian resources. There is no Province in the Dominion not adapted to stockraising of some kind. Prince Edward Island is noted for horses, and cattle for dairy purposes are numerous. Nova Scotia possesses numerous areas for stockraising, and in certain parts sheep-grazing can be profitably developed. In New Brunswick, the hay-land valleys have contributed to the expansion of stockraising with excellent profits. Quebec and Ontario are rich in this respect, Ontario furnishing at present the largest amount of stock and animal products sold abroad by Canada. Manitoba, though essentially a wheat-growing Province, is equally adapted for stockraising. On the prairies, in Assiniboia and Alberta, are the great ranches of Canada. Before the white man ever saw this region, it was the chosen home of the buffalo and other wild cattle, and they passed the winters here, ho matter how far north or south they might roam at other seasons of the year. The bright sun, dry air and fine pasturage accounted for this. As you go towards the Rocky Mountains, the warm "Chinook" winds help to temper the cold of winter and provide a region specially marked out by Nature as the home of a stockraising industry of the most extensive sort.

The Niagara Peach and Grape District.

Statistics are often wearisome, and are only required when one—having described a country rich in flocks and herds—desires to show what part they play in the industrial and commercial life of the people. "Animals and their products" form a "fat" item in Canadian commerce. The home consumption is immense, since the poorest people live on a meat diet. The surplus goes abroad. Except some of the most distant countries of Asia and Africa, it would be hard to name a country which does not demand some one or more of the products of Canadian animals or the animals themselves. The total value of this class of exports in 1898 was $45,000,000. The Englishman eats many a pound of Canadian beef and mutton, although for local trading purposes it may be confidently labeled "prime English." The United Stateser finds nothing sweeter than Canadian lamb, although it pleases him to tax it, or rather himself, heavily before eating it. Canadian butter can be found in Great Britain, Germany, China, Belgium, the West Indies, South America and elsewhere, its improved quality, not its strength, taking it so far afield. Of Canadian cheese, what more need be said, except that when the North pole is discovered probably some Greenlander will be found perched on top relishing a morsel of "MacLaren's Imperial." Dairying in Canada has been a paying investment. It is the "manufacturing" side of agriculture, and, notwitstanding its present proportion, promises soon to become, from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, a still more extensive industry. Canadian bacon, like Canadian cheese, has won for itself a famous reputation. Last year, not less, but more, than 75,000,000 lb. of it were sold abroad, while the home consumption is even greater, for it happens to be one of the "prophets" who have honor in their own country.

But, perhaps, the export of food products might decrease in the next few years, and still Canada would go on growing rich beyond the dreams of avarice. How could that be? Why, by the multiplication within the Dominion of a population who always buy and never produce their own food—a mining population. After discoursing upon agriculture, the fisheries, the forests, the manufactures, the live stock and other industries of Canada, one finds still another, and that, possibly, the very richest of all to deal with—mines and minerals. This wealth the country always possessed, but only in very recent years have people begun to realize the extent of it. True, Nova Scotia and British Columbia have down to date produced in gold alone the tidy little sum of $75,000,000 as far as imperfect statistics tell us anything, and this is certainly a moderate estimate. But the half has not yet been told. Of wealth to be got out of the ground, Canada seems to possess, of almost every kind, an inexhaustible supply. The principal metals are gold, platinum, silver, lead, copper, nickel, iron, while the non-metalic minerals include coal, asbestos, mica, etc. Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia are perhaps the richest in these respects, although the coal deposits in the prairies are of great economic value owing to the fuel requirements of a region which must one day contain, as it can now support, a large population.

The gold discoveries in California, Australia and South Africa brought those regions before the world, as no other form of advertisement seems to be able to do. So with the Klondyke gold fields. The inaccessible nature of that far off part of Canada has, doubtless, confined the emigration to the most intrepid gold-seekers. The wealth of the region has, probably, not been over-stated. Millions of gold have already come out of the Klondyke, and unnumbered millions are still to come. But, as has been said, the emigration there will not be indiscriminate, but consist of picked men. However, the Klondyke has had this effect; it has drawn attention to the gold deposits in the nearby and easily accessible parts of the Dominion.

Take Nova Scotia for example. The Province is rich in gold. The gold fields there, the geologists tell us, are in quartzites and slates, and while the quartz is not high-grade it is plentiful. Gold mining can be carried on cheaply in Nova Scotia, and, in some instances, the mining and milling of the ore have not cost more than $1.65 per ton. It is estimated that during the last 30 years over $12,000,000 have been taken out. Of late years the lower grade ores have been successfully treated, so that Nova Scotian gold mining is both a practical and a paying industry. In Quebec Province gold has long been known to exist, and placer mining has, to a certain extent, been pushed. Interest in the districts known to contain gold is now reviving. In Ontario the gold is got by quartz mining. Only during the past four or five years have the fields been at all seriously worked, and the annual yield is now assuming respectable proportions. For men with capital there are, beyond question, fortunes to be made from gold mining in Old Canada.

For the moment, British Columbia is the cynosure of all eyes. The enterprising Yankee has dropped in, as he always does when he sees a good thing. The British investor has followed suit, and a great deal of Canadian money has gone into mining properties. The whole region is, of course, the continuation of the gold and silver belt which has already yielded so richly in the Western States. The great authority upon it is Dr. George M. Dawson, F.R.S., the head of the Canadian Geological Survey, whose writings are trustworthy and informing. Placer mining, especially in the Cariboo district, yielded large quantities as long ago as 1860. A few years ago, the rich quartz deposits began to be treated by means of hydraulic mining, and the result has been another revival in mining. The "camps" exist all over the Province, and the illustrations give an idea of the regions. Canada also possesses silver, copper, nickel, iron, and other deposits of great value. To develop these rich stores men and money from abroad are needed. During the past two years, immigration has increased through the vigor and ability of Hon. Clifford Sifton, the Cabinet Minister who has charge of this work. But Governments can't do everything. It is the duty of Canadian merchants and the Canadian press to bring the truth before people abroad. By means of letters, of articles, and of personal intercourse much may be done. The country is young and not well known abroad. If Canadians will try to promote national interest something may be accomplished.

GIVING AND TAKING RECEIPTS.

When receiving money from others on account, always give receipts. Insist on their taking and keeping them. These receipts may, bye and bye, be as valuable to you as to them. Blank receipts, bound with stubs, can be had at the stationers' at trifling cost. Stubs, when properly filled, are useful for reference.

It is equally as well to take a receipt when paying an account. It certainly does no harm, and may avoid the necessity of paying the same thing twice. You cannot, of course, get receipts for everything, but always take them whenever convenient. Never destroy receipts, but keep them where you can lay your hand on them, should occasion require. They may be found of value at a time when least expected, for it is the unexpected which sometimes happens in this as well as in other matters.—Small Talk About Business.

WHY YOUNG MEN FAIL.

By Robert C. Ogden, Manager of John Wanamaker's New York Branch.

LACK OF THOROUGHNESS.

FAILURE to achieve success in business, the falling short of great desires and high aims on the part of young men, is traceable to one primal cause—the absence of thoroughness. In the race for supremacy in all commercial undertakings, nine out of every ten men either fail absolutely or become nonentities, not because they lack ambition, not because the proper opportunities for advancement have not come to them, not because they have not received the best educational advantages or are handicapped by poor health, but because they have never been at the pains to master completely the thing that has been given them to do. The world is overcrowded with men, young and old, who remain stationary, filling minor positions and drawing meagre salaries, simply because they have never thought it worth while to achieve mastery in the pursuits they have chosen to follow. Mostly, this is so because the average young man fears hard work, and would rather drift with the tide of circumstances than pull against it.

Everywhere I see mentally near-sighted young men discontented because of their small incomes, and chafing under the burden of their humdrum duties, wondering all the while why others are advanced and they are left behind, but never for an instant opening their eyes to the real fact that they have taken hold of their business with but half a heart and no mind except for what is just beyond the hour's need.

THE YOUNG MAN WHO CAN DO ANYTHING.

The crying curse of our land at the present time is its vast army of incompetents, and its lack of workers who know their business from the ground up. For every thoroughly informed and competent salesman who has sought employment at my hands there have been a hundred who were of mediocre ability or downright incapacity. There are too many young men who are content to remain among the "hewers of wood and drawers of water," because they will not step beyond the beaten path to acquire thoroughness.

Almost every working day in the year I am called upon to receive some young man who comes to me highly recommended for a position in our establishment. The letters of introduction these applicants bring me are usually of a stereotyped form, in which some well-meaning pastor or person of influence is certain that "young Mr. Smith will prove a great acquisition to your business," or that "Mr. Brown, with his superior intellect and many accomplishments, will undoubtedly be a valuable aid in some one of the more responsible berths at your disposal." My questions to such applicants are somewhat in this vein:

"What can you do?"

"Oh, I can do anything, Mr. Ogden. I am an all-around man, and have filled many responsible positions."

"Can you take charge of our silk department and buy to advantage in the open market as well as sell in our store?"

"Well, no. I do not understand the details of buying silks."

"Can you go down in our shipping department and take charge of the general

"Perhaps you can assume the management of our interior decorations department and suggest to patrons harmonious color schemes for floor, walls and draperies?"

"I'm afraid I couldn't do that, sir. I can sell carpets and wall paper, but I don't understand interior decorating."

And it all ends in placing the name of the applicant on our waiting list as an ordinary salesman, if he is thought to be worth employing at all. They all know something about everything, but only once in many cases do I find a man who knows everything about some one thing. The man who is the square peg in the round hole is the rule; the thorough master of a trade or branch of business is the rare exception that proves the rule. Education, breeding, even a high order of intelligence, curiously enough, are no guarantee that their possessor will achieve success. Lacking the capacity for doing his best with a thoroughness beyond all criticism, the most gifted young man in the universe will fail and fall into the ranks of second-class plodders.

SAVING HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS BY PENMANSHIP.

In my experience, I have found that in so small a thing as penmanship the average young business man is astoundingly deficient. If I could get clerks who wrote a uniformly rapid and legible hand, I could, in the course of a year, save hundreds of dollars arising from blunders due to careless writing. It is easy to find men who write with a beautiful flourish, but the man who writes legibly under all conditions and at all times is as rare as hen's teeth.

Take the average stenographer: he is usually an expert in the transcription of phonetic signs, but he is more often a perfect ass in making grammatical, well-phrased, and correctly punctuated English of the necessarily hurried dictation of his busy employer. There is no department of human activity in business or the professions where failure is not due to lack of thoroughness.

There is one man in my employ to-day who began his business career at the time I launched out from school (and that, as one may read in my whitening hair, was many years ago) who has not stepped forward one inch on the road to success. This man has a fine brain, and keeps abreast of current events. He is sober, honest and courteous, but he has never earned a higher salary than $15 a week, and all because he is a Jack of all trades and master of none. He is shifted about from one department to another in a vain endeavor to find the one in which he will prove himself of greatest value. He has lived the life of a mere automaton and does things mechanically. Other men of one-third his number of years can tell him more about his own business in half an hour than he would care to listen to. An old man, he is still dissatisfied with his lot, but will not remedy it by acquiring a thorough knowledge of some one branch of the dry goods trade. It is pitiful, but not inexplicable. To the young man who would rise in the world I have but one word of caution—be thorough, if you do not want to be numbered among the world's failures.—Saturday Evening Post.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

Success in business is always the result of close attention and untiring industry, says an exchange; but it must not be forgotten that conditions have greatly changed in recent years and the process of evolution is still going on. It is only by keeping abreast of the times that success can be assured.

TOBACCO IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

BRITISH COLUMBIA has become famous the world over for its minerals, its lumber, and its salmon fisheries. Ere long, it promises to obtain no small reputation for its tobacco-producing qualities.

The particular district which promises to give the Province its reputation in this respect is Okanagan Valley. In 1894, a gentleman named Collins undertook the cultivation of tobacco, having associated with him a Mr. Holman, an expert in tobacco growing. The quality of the leaf was so good that Mr. Holman advised Mr. Collins to plant more extensively the following year. The result was better than anticipated, so he continued expending more capital; and, though no market presented itself, they did not lose hope of ultimate success.

To-day, the Kelowna Shippers' Union, of Kelowna, Okanagan Valley, has a factory adjoining its warehouse in which the locally-grown leaf is turned into cigars. The quality of these cigars would surprise a good many, and the manufacturers have reason to be encouraged.

The union, which is formed of farmers, is managed by Mr. C. S. Smith, a gentleman who has traveled the world over.

"Mr. Smith," writes a well known commercial man to THE GROCER, "tells me that they will grow immense quantities of tobacco next year, so in the course of two or three years they should pretty well control the trade of British Columbia, as the ground for growing such leaf is unlimited and nearly all irrigated, and they never have frost in the summer."

Kelowna is a town situated on the eastern shore of Okanagan Lake, about 40 miles south of Vernon, and is the shipping point for the Mission Valley, one of the finest farming districts in British Columbia. The climate is dry and bracing.

THE CAPACITY FOR WORK.

By Maurice Thompson.

THERE is nothing better recognized by business men than the value of capacity for work. Genius, they say, is all very well in its way ; but when it come to executing large plans, the men who can do the most and do it to order are in demand. The master of an extensive plant giving employment to a great many laborers, skilled and unskilled, has his eye on details; he is never deceived by the generalizer who makes a great show without bringing much to pass. Efficiency counts for more than knowledge when knowledge has clumsy fingers and a slow intelligence to carry it into operation. It is the bullet that hits, the hammer-stroke on the head of the nail, that must be reckoned with in every calculation, in war or in the workshop. And this accuracy of execution, although displayed by persons not scientifically trained, will command the highest respect and reward of practical employers.

Doubtless, the capacity for work is hereditary in many cases ; but breeding, even here, means more than ancestry. In a word, training from infancy in the details of industry can work wonders with most unpromising natures. "What can you do?" is a greater question than "What do you know?" Knowledge is theory ; work is practice. The professor of agriculture would drive a crooked furrow and gain the contempt of a real plowman guiltless of a single "scientific" thought: he was bred to capacity, this accurate plowman. Knowledge, truly is power when it has been digested and assimilated so as to be a part of the man, informing his faculties and vitalizing his capacities to a state of special efficiency. It does not have to beg for respect.

Nothing is more abused than education. On the threshold of school we are too often dazzled and misled by that will o'-the-wisp, a nebulous and elusive ambition dancing far off over the quagmires of imagination. Many a youth has dreamed through college with his eyes on the Presidency of the United States, and, when it was too late, found himself unfitted even for the office of Justice of the Peace. Now and then a rail-splitter or a canal-boat driver has picked up ample resources for doing the work of Lincoln or Garfield. "Know thyself" is a fine admonition ; but the capacity for work is the best self-knowledge ; it never misleads its possessor.

If we could but discover early in life our limitations, if we could apply the nutrition of school training and home training to such of our faculties as Nature has made capable of efficient development ; if we could but recognize the absolute and unavoidable law of fitness and be satisfied with the life we are fit for, there would soon be a great lessening of the heaviest and most galling strain of existence. The capacity for work ought to suggest to its possessor what particular work demands his activity. If I am eminently fitted to excel as a hedger and ditcher, my mental training should not be directed so as to destroy that fitness and lead me into the delusive dream of peddling lightning-rods.

"Canada from Ocean to Ocean." Unloading Salmon at a Pacific Coast Cannery.

This rule of native fitness, this criterion of capacity, is, perhaps, applied with less judgment in the field of literary work than in any other area of ambition. Every man and every woman who has reached any commanding eminence in letters has had to bear the greatest strain of sympathy and pity caused by constant contact with persons who have persisted in throwing their lives recklessly away trying to do the impossible—trying to find a way by which lack of capacity could be bridged over and success in literature attained despite the most obvious unfitness for literary work. It is a curious dream, ravenously indulged in by many excellent people, that the whole of literary success depends upon getting their writings printed. They assume that capacity exists ; they assert that there is favoritism at the publisher's counter ; that a friend at court can make matters all right with the editors. No amount of reasoning on business grounds, or from a basis of common sense, can drive them from this destructive delusion. They do not know themselves ; they mistake desire for capacity. Truly, the capacity for work must precede ambition.

THE SALMON CANNING INDUSTRY.

THERE may be industries in Canada which are more important than the salmon canning industry of British Columbia, but there is scarcely one that is more interesting, taking everything into consideration. And, even considered in its relation to dollars and cents, it is of no small importance to the Dominion, while to the Pacific Coast Province it is unquestionably of great importance.

Something like $6,000,000 are invested in it, and during the short period that the season lasts, $3,000,000 on an average are paid out to 6,000 men, or more, who are given employment, while the value of the canned salmon exported in 1898 was nearly $3,500,000.

It is about 27 years since the salmon canning industry was inaugurated in British Columbia. One of the men interested in the initial attempts was Mr. Alexander Ewan, of New Westminster. And he is still interested.

There are now in British Columbia 67 canneries. The most of them are on the Fraser river, but quite a few are on the Naas and Skeena rivers, Lowe Inlet, Rivers Inlet, and Clayoquot, Alert, and English Bays. According to The Province, Vancouver, four new canneries were built this year, namely: The Scottish-Canadian, owned by local and Scotch capital; the Albion, on Albion Island, owned principally by Nova Scotian capital; the Greenwood, at New Westminster, owned by local men, and the Acme, at Eburne, owned by Cassidy & Co. The Province states that the Scottish-Canadian is the largest cannery in the world, having a floor space, practically continuous, of one acre, and altogether under one roof.

THE SALMON RUN.

What is known as the salmon run, the term that is applied when the fish are heading for the rivers up which they go to spawn, begins about the middle of June. This run lasts about six weeks, and at times the rivers are full of fish hurrying to the headwaters. At such time the fish are plainly visible to the eye.

The salmon, coming so mysteriously as they do from a long sojourn in an unknown part of the ocean, are evidently impelled by strong instinct at the period of maturity to return to their parent river, there to deposit their spawn.

The old fish, after having run the gauntlet of fishermen, traps and nets, as well as the natural enemies which prey upon them in the waters of the sea, lose no time in ascending the river, and the Fraser has been known, in times previous to the establishment of so many canneries, to have been packed from bank to bank of its great width with myriads of salmon breasting its strong current and making their way hundreds of miles to the upper waters of the river and its tributaries, where instinct tells them to deposit their spawn. Over rocks, up rapids that would seem impassable, through shallows, between boulders, under fallen logs, they make their way with almost feverish haste and undaunted energy, until at last, worn and battered, their beauty gone, their flesh no longer firm, pink and plump, but skeletons of the beautiful fish which first arrived off the mouth of the river, with almost pathetic instinct they fulfil the payment of their tribute to Nature, and, dying, leave the seed of another generation of fish to follow the same unceasing, unvarying round. Of the vast numbers of salmon ascending the Fraser and its tributaries, it is decreed by inexorable Nature that the great majority of them shall not return. Their bodies lie putrid and decaying on the banks or are washed down the stream for weeks after. Late in the fall the young fry hatched from the spawn begin to make their way to the sea, and rough and unpleasant as is the last journey of the life of a salmon, the first few months are equally full of danger, for many enemies beset the path of the young fry on their way down the river and until they disappear in the ocean. What happens to the young salmon in the growing time, between his disappearance after he reaches the sea from the river and until he arrives at the mouth of the same river three and a half years later, a fully-matured fish, remains an inscrutable mystery, which gives rise to much interesting speculation.

NORTHERN LIMIT OF THE SALMON.

Prof. Prince, Dominion Commissioner of Fisheries, Ottawa, says that just as the lobster has its northern limit so the salmon appear to cease as the rivers of the Arctic Circle are approached. "There is," he says, "a common opinion even amongst fur-hunters and traders that salmon inhabit some of the rivers pouring into Hudson Bay, but long conversations with residents of Fort Churchhill, Chesterfield Inlet, etc., who have lived upon the various rivers in question, have shown rather that the large salmon-like fish captured for food have been enormous sea trout, or species of Salvelinus allied to the great lake trout and not the true salmon. The true salmon appears to cease north of Hamilton Inlet, and is probably not found in the rivers of the district of Ungava."

SOME VARIETIES OF SALMON.

In his "Notes on Life and History of Canadian Salmon," Prof. Prince remarks that the sockeyes ascend the British Columbian rivers in countless myriads during July and August, or even later, and they are followed by another small species, the humpback salmon. The two kinds often overlap so that nets fished for sockeyes take numbers of humpbacks towards the close of the season. The humpback is a shapely fish on entering the estuaries. Its weight is 2 lb. to 5 lb. and, like other species, the male becomes curiously malformed. The ridge along the back rises to a remarkable height, while the jaws lengthen enormously. It ascends a comparatively short distance, as a rule, and the change is more rapid and observable than it is in the case of the sockeye, the male of which becomes grotesquely humpbacked. The flesh is white, and the species has hitherto been little valued. The cohoe or silver salmon is an elegantly formed and, from an economic point of view, a superior fish, though the pink tint of its flesh is somewhat pale. Ten to 15 lb. is the usual weight, though they grow to 20 or 30 lb. They run very late, the early schools following close upon the last sockeye run, but the main run does not come in until October. Cohoe fishing on the Fraser began this year on September 25, two or three weeks later than usual.

The salmon is

A PROLIFIC BREEDER.

A 36 lb. salmon will deposit 30,000 eggs, and the latter grow so rapidly in the ovaries that, whereas in early spring the eggs are only 1 per cent. of the total weight of the parent, in November, when the eggs are nearly ripe and ready to be deposited, they exceed one-quarter the total weight of the female. The ripe eggs are deposited in batches, and in 150 days, under a temperature of 34 to 36 degrees, the young embryo has been developed and is ready to emerge. A considerable portion of parent salmon die on all the salmon rivers, and this is especially noticeable on Pacific rivers. Salmon cease to feed and their digestive organs become non-efficient after entering fresh water. Salmon spawn annually, though some spawn biennially, or in alternate years. There are runs of salmon which return without spawning, apparently omitting spawning for a year. The principal run is at night.

THE FISHING SEASON.

As the season for fishing approaches there is a great deal of activity around the canneries and among the fishermen getting everything in readiness. With the commencement of the season on the Fraser, the fishermen with their boats begin to congregate, the usual number of boats and nets being about 4,000. Among the fishermen are included many of those, principally Indians, who have been engaged at Northern British Columbian canneries during the season there, which is from three to five weeks earlier than on the Fraser. This year the season opened on the Fraser on July 4, somewhat earlier than usual.

THE PROCESS OF CANNING.

The fish are caught in the night, and delivered at the canneries in the morning. The delivery of the catch of fish each day at the canneries witnesses a scene of activity rarely surpassed in any industry. All is hurry and high-pressure work, without the least confusion. To one who has never visited the canneries and watched the various operations, from the delivery and counting of the fish from the fishermen's boats or from the tugs, until the finished article in tins, hermetically sealed, is packed in cases, it is hard to convey an idea of the activity and bustle which attends the work, while, at the same time, every operation in the process is carried on with clocklike precision, no confusion being made, as the business has been so systematized that every man knows just what to do, and sharp-eyed overseers in every department see that he does it—no shirking is possible, no lagging, and mistakes are so infrequent that it is cause for comment when the quick work necessary to handle the fish is taken into consideration.

The carrying out of an exact system is greatly aided by the

of each cannery. In no industry is machinery so specialized and perfected for labor-saving and expediting the process in which time is invaluable in order to handle the vast quantities of fish while still fresh and put them into the tins in good condition. Once the fish are cleaned, cut up and put in tins, the hand-work is practically over, as steam-cooking tanks, automatic toppers, wipers and soldering machines finish the process with lightning rapidity and accuracy that are marvelous. The cans simply travel through the various machines in an endless chain, dropping out when completed, to be finally tested, sorted, counted and packed in cases ready for shipment.

Most of the operators in the canneries are Japs, or Chinese, and of their cleanliness none could complain. It is interesting to follow the fish from their entrance at one end of the factory, a long low building something like a rope-walk, to the entrance to the storeroom at the other end, hermetically sealed in neat, small cans. Four expert operators receive the fish on the bench where they are thrown from the vessel at the wharf alongside the factory. With a rapid movement the knife is plunged into the neck, a circle is described below the eyes that suffices to cut off the head, the keen edged blade passes along the belly of the fish and to its tail, and while the latter is being served in the same way as the head, the operator is removing with the other hand the contents of the fish. So expert are these operators that four or five are able to keep a large factory going with the fish they prepare for the canners. The next stage is a thorough washing of the fish, and after that it is cut into steaks and placed in the tins. Next, the contents are pressed in by machinery, the tins are supplied with covers and passing through ingeniously constructed machines have the tops of the tins and covers trimmed and soldered in two operations. As the tins emerge in long rows on a miniature railway from these machines, little streams of water render them sufficiently cool for the trimmers to handle before they are passed on to be cooked.

It takes on an average a dozen salmon to form a case of four dozen 1-lb. tins.

A RECORD OF THE PACKS.

The first actual record of the pack of salmon in British Columbia was in 1876, when the total was only 10,000 cases. The year in which the largest quantity was packed was 1897, with a total of 1,105 477 cases. This year the pack was 679,600 cases, without taking into account the turn-out of cohoes. The following table gives the pack for each of the last seven years :

The exports for the fiscal year 1898 were of the fish of the phenomenal pack of 1897. It will be noticed from the above table that the exports for 1898 were the largest on record. What the exports were for the fiscal year ending June 30 cannot be stated, the trade returns not having been issued. As the pack last year, particularly on the Fraser, was light, it is most probable the figures, when they do appear, will show a marked falling off.

ORANGES AND LEMONS, THEIR ORIGIN AND HISTORY.

Written for THE CANADIAN GROCER by W. L. E.

OF all the foreign green fruits which come to our shores none have probably as many friends as the orange. Unlike the potato, it cannot with certainty be said to which continent it originally belonged. Some consider it was first grown in the Burmese Peninsula and in Southern China. But wherever the parent tree may have sprung up, the orange is to-day indigenous to sub-tropic countries.

The Romans, who devised good laws for posterity to develop, were also the pioneers in the cultivation of the orange, at least as far as Europe is concerned, and it was they who gave to the family to which it belongs its name of citrus.

While the orange has been known to the world for many centuries, yet it is by no means the most ancient of cultivated fruits. The fig is credited with being the oldest, while the vine is given second place. It was not till the fourth century that the Romans introduced the orange into Italy, and Reggio, in that country, is the place where its cultivation was first attempted.

GROWS TO A VENERABLE AGE.

Where the climatic conditions are favorable, and that means a climate where frosts are marked by their absence, the orange tree grows to a venerable age. In the court of the mosque of Cordova, Spain, are orange trees which have thrown their welcome shade upon the ground for more than three centuries. And their purpose is, probably, to remain there as long as the old nearby mosque remains one of the relics of Moorish glory in Spain.

From Italy the cultivation of the orange spread to other countries in Europe where the climate permitted, until in Spain, Portugal, Malta, Sicily, and many other places this fruit became of great commercial importance. A writer in a Quarterly Review of 1820 noted that "the orange bears abundantly in the open air at Toulon and Hieres."

The cultivation of the orange was introduced into England previously or during the reign of Henry VIII. And later, we have Lord Bacon writing: "As we have housed the exotics of hot countries, lemons, oranges, and myrtles, to preserve them, so we may house our natives to forward them." Of course, oranges or lemons were not cultivated in the open air in England then any more than they are now. And the same motive that induced Englishmen to grow flowers actuated them in cultivating orange and lemon trees, although fruit was sometimes gathered from the artificially-grown trees. But oranges and lemons have been grown under glass and in private dwellings in countries colder than England. In Canada, for instance, their cultivation in this way has not been without success, and three years ago a paragraph appeared in a Winnipeg paper in which it was pointed out with much enthusiasm that an orange tree in the dining-room of a Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, lady had brought forth ripe fruit.

But the orange tree grown in captivity is to be desired more as a curio than for its fruit, the little of it that is produced lacking that lusciousness which is so pronounced in the orange cultivated wholly in the open air under suitable conditions.

THE WORK OF THE SPANIARDS.

Just as the Romans are credited with introducing the orange into Spain, so to the Spaniards is accorded the honor of bringing it to this continent. And those who planted the cross—the Monks—are given the particular honor of planting the orange tree.

The first plants were placed in the soil in Florida, and the wild sour oranges which are to be found in that State are supposed to be the descendants of these plants.

Overhanging with creepers which enclose them as in a veil, the groves of wild orange trees with their yellow fruit make a pretty picture, as may well be imagined. But not all the groves of wild oranges are allowed to preserve their beauty, or persevere in their wildness, for here and there they are being thinned out, and, by the art of grafting, made to yield sweet instead of sour fruit.

CENTRES OF ORANGE CULTURE.

The centres of orange culture on the North American continent are in the Gulf States of the American Union and in California, but it is only in Louisiana, California and Florida that cultivation has assumed extensive proportions, and of these three States the two last named are the most favored in soil and climate for the development of the industry.

Orange culture in California had its inception over a century and a quarter ago, the Franciscan Monks disseminating the citrus seeds while scattering the seeds of the gospel. By 1792 there were growing at the different missions of this order about 5,000 trees of various fruits in which were included oranges, limes and lemons. The breaking out of the gold fever nearly 60 years later, gave a stimulus to the fruit industry. But the citrus fruit development was slow, and a recent writer asserts that 20 years ago there were very few in California who really knew much about citrus fruits of any kind. It is during the past couple of decades that the industry has assumed anything approaching important proportions.

The Agricultural Department at Washington has, to some extent, been a nursery for supplying varieties of oranges for the orchards of California. The first plants of the Washington navel variety, which is now so largely cultivated in California, and which is so common upon the Canadian market, were supplied by that Department. That was less than 30 years ago, and yet the fruit of this variety of orange is now as the sands upon the seashore for number.

The Washington navel once bore the name of Bahia, after a place in Brazil from whence a dozen plants were brought by a lady who was traveling in that country, and presented to the Agricultural Department at Washington, where they were propagated. The latter part of the name which this orange bears is derived from at one end. The navel orange is seedless and grows to a large size, but it contains less fruit than its appearance would indicate, on account of its enormously thick skin.

Southern California is the chief orange-growing section in the State. The yield during the past season is estimated at about 8,000 carloads, which, with that in Central and Northern California, will probably aggregate in the neighborhood of 9,000 carloads for the whole State, an increase of over 200 per cent. in eight years.

About five years ago the frost completely paralized the orange industry in Florida, and this is the first season since then that oranges from that State have been a factor upon the market. The present crop is the largest for a number of years. But the present situation is not without its clouds, for, while the bulk of the crop of 1898 has gone with consumption, frost is again doing some damage which may result in a diminution in the yield for the next few years.

Florida oranges possess a high reputation both for quality and productiveness. The yield from a single tree has been known to aggregate 30,000 oranges. But the orange orchard, as some one has remarked, "is very like a mine—an excellent thing when producing, but liable to pinching of the veins." The growers in Florida have realized during the past five years the force of that expression.

Since 1880 Louisiana has made material development in orange growing, prior to that year little effort having been made to cultivate this particular fruit in the Northern part of the State. Five years ago the orange crop of Lousiana was valued at $1,000,000.

In a very old book I came across a statement the other day to the effect that away back in 1747 nearly 300,000 oranges were exported from South Carolina, and 161,000 14 years later. "Hence," remarks this old book, which was printed shortly after the beginning of the present century, "it appears that this fruit is as much an established commodity for their export, as it is at Lisbon or Seville."

EVER FRUITFUL.

Under normal conditions, after they once begin to bear, the orange and lemon trees are ever fruitful as well as ever green. In the spring comes the flower, and it is not until the following year that the golden and yellow fruit they are the precursor of are gathered. So that on the orange and lemon trees, at a certain period, are to be seen at the same time the delicate blossoms, and the green and the golden fruit.

An orange orchard once seen, is not likely to be soon forgotten, especially in the spring, when the blossoms bestrew the ground and fill the air with their fragrance. The trees, with their smooth and neat trunks and well-proportioned, fruit-laden foliage, form indeed

Groves, whose rich fruit, burnished with golden rind,
Hung amiable, and of delicious taste.

The ingathering of the fruit is often accompanied with much jollification. In the orange orchards of Florida, where the laborers are the colored folk, plantation songs, plantation dances, and plantation humor abound. In Europe, where the children, and the lads and the lassies assist in harvesting the golden fruit, the same spirit characterizes the proceedings. And when oranges are being consumed in Canada and other countries, it also not infrequently manifests itself.

Citrus fruits, such as oranges and lemons, as may, from their character, be easily imagined, require a great deal of water, and in countries where the climate is favorable and rain sparse, people who essay to cultivate oranges are compelled to resort to artificial means in order that the desideratum may be supplied. California, and especially the southern part of the State and the famed San Joaquin Valley, is a striking example of this.

The padres of the old missions were the first to adopt irrigation. That was in the latter part of the last century, but it is only within the last 30 years that Americans have taken it up and brought it to its present high state of development.

Originally, the supplies of water for irrigation were derived from running streams that were diverted from their natural channels. Now, there are artesian wells which yield as much as 2,500,000 gallons daily; tunnels which are bored into the hills until they touch hidden springs; artificial lakes that have been impounded by dams within valleys, there to catch and treasure up the winter rains. Up to five years ago $13,000,000 had been spent in California on irrigation.

A writer some years ago, in referring to the irrigation system, remarked: "You touch the water button, and God and Nature do the rest—and do it gloriously." But before this can be done processes of distribution are necessary if the precious water is not to be wasted. In the early days of irrigation the water was turned upon the land and allowed to go wheresoever it listed. Then furrows were plowed. To-day, pipes and hydrants and canals and ditches, many of them paved with cement or concrete, have been called into requisition, carrying the life-giving water in some instances to pans at the roots of the fruit trees.

Were it not for this irrigation there are vast plains in Calitornia, which, instead of blooming and blossoming with citrus and other descriptions of fruit trees, would be arid wastes.

DO NOT LIKE FROST.

While orange and lemon trees have for water a decided attachment, for frost they have a decided aversion. A few degrees of frost will do much damage, so this aversion is quite natural. How frost in a few hours paralyzed the orange industry of Florida for four or five years is well known. Of the two descriptions of fruit trees, the lemon is even more susceptible to the frost than the orange.

Various methods are adopted to protect the orange and lemon trees against the depredations of Jack Frost. In some countries coverings of matting are held above the trees by long poles the winter through. In other places earth and refuse are piled around the roots and trunks of the trees when frost is threatened, while huge bonfires are sometimes lighted with a view to raising the temperature. In California, petroleum fuel has been use with advantage for the purpose. By the aid of these bonfires it is possible to raise the temperature of an orange or lemon orchard four or five degrees.

Canada's consumption of oranges and lemons is about $600,000 worth annually.

While in Canada we have oranges all the year round, yet there is a time when the season may be said to begin. That is when the first of the new fruit arrives—this is usually about the first week in November, and the oranges which inaugurate the season are from Jamaica. While the first to arrive on the market, the package which contains the Jamaica oranges is not up-to-date. It is a barrel, and the fruit being shaken about a great deal in this package is not well preserved. Consequently, a great deal of waste is entailed. As far as the orange itself is concerned, there is no need to say anything unfavorable. It is very sweet, and in color is slightly pale. The crop of Jamaica oranges last year was about 300,000 barrels, of which one-third had been marketed up to the end of 1898.

FLORIDA ORANGES.

Next in order to put in an appearance in Canada are the oranges of Florida growth. The season for these is from about the middle of November until early in February. Prior to last season, it is some years since we had Florida oranges of any quantity in Canada, on account of the frost damage, but the conditions are gradually becoming normal.

After the Florida comes the Valencia orange. This description of orange formerly came direct via New York, but this proved so unsatisfactory that it has been practically discontinued. The trouble was that the length of the voyage, four to six weeks, caused the fruit to arrive in a damaged condition, necessitating a great deal of repacking. As a rule, now, Valencia oranges are imported from Liverpool, where they are repacked before being shipped to this country. Liverpool, too, is only two weeks away from Canada, while the route is a more northerly one than that from Spain to New York.

SORTING VALENCIA ORANGES.

Until within the last six or seven years, no attempt was made in the country of production to sort Valencia oranges; they were all thrown together in one package. Now, they are packed in three different sizes or grades, namely, 420 ordinary, 420 large, and 714's. The quality of the Valencia orange is improving, and so is the attractiveness of the package in which it comes.

It appears to be an ill frost, as well as an ill wind, that does not benefit somebody or something. At any rate, the frost that damaged the Florida orange crop made easier the way for the advent of Californian navel oranges upon the Canadian market. One fault with the navel oranges is that they are shipped to this market a month or two sooner than they should be, many of them on arrival being green in color and tart in taste. California seedlings and blood oranges are also shipped to this market.

Next in order to make its advent is what is known as the late Valencia orange, small in size, but fine in flavor.

Then comes the Bahama orange. This orange is comparatively a stranger on this market, only having been introduced within the last few years. It is something after the character of the Jamaica orange, being very sweet, but it comes short in flavor, and importers are of the opinion that it will not be a permanent factor upon the Canadian market.

Oranges from the Mediterranean, known as Messinas and Catanias, follow. These come direct to Montreal with the opening of navigation, and the auction sales which are held there on the arrival of the steamers attract buyers from the United States as well as those in our own country. The Catania blood orange has the reputation of possessing the finest quality of any orange imported. Messina oranges are much similar to the Valencia orange, which is not surprising, seeing they come from approximately the same part of the world. They are, however, packed in boxes and half-boxes, instead of cases. Half-boxes are known as 64's, 80's, 100's, 120's and 150's. Boxes are known as 200's and 300's.

The last orange during the season to put in its appearance in Canada is the Rodi, pale in color, and of good reputation as to keeping quality.

Lemons we also have in Canada the year round. The first new lemons arrive about November. They are the Malaga description, and come by Liverpool. As far as quality is concerned, they are the poorest we get the season through, the juice being scanty, the seeds numerous and the flavor bitter.

Next in order of arrival are Messina lemons, and they begin to put in an appearance about the end of November or early in December. Messina lemons are consigned from the country of production to New York and Boston, where they are sold by auction, dealers from Canada being at the sales. The quality of these lemons is superior to that of the Malaga variety, having more juice, fewer seeds, thinner skin, and less bitterness.

For what are known as November cut Messina lemons, importers in Canada make their contracts in December. Great care is taken with these lemons. As they are gathered from the trees they are wrapped in paper and placed in boxes. These boxes are then put in structures somewhat similar to the root-houses to be found on the farms and market gardens in Canada. The purpose is not, however, to protect them from frost, but to cure them. They are left in these curing houses till March. Then they are taken out and repacked. These are the lemons which are used with so much acceptation in Canada during the hot summer months.

About August the Maori lemon comes upon the market. This lemon is large both in size and in price, as high as $15, wholesale, having been obtained on this market for what are termed wax Maoris.

Following comes the Verdelli lemon, small and not well flavored, for, like the Malaga variety, it is bitter.

About the same time as Californian navel oranges begin to put in an appearance upon the Canadian market, lemons grown in the same State are to be had, but the quantity imported into Canada is small. In quality they compare favorably with lemons produced on the shores of the Mediterranean, but in keeping properties they are decidedly deficient.

THE EXPORT FLOUR TRADE FOR FORTY YEARS.

Written for THE CANADIAN GROCER by W. L. E.

WHILE Canadian flour is probably, on the whole, equal to the product of any other country, one cannot scarce be but disappointed with the history of the export trade.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, the exportation of flour was the largest on record, being 1,254,864 barrels, valued at $5,446,016; but the conditions during that year were extraordinary. In the first place, the wheat crop in most of the exporting countries was short. India, for instance, practically sent no wheat to Great Britain, and, on account of the drought, Australia was an importer rather than an exporter, of both wheat and flour. In the next place,

WHEAT IN ONTARIO WAS RELATIVELY LOWER than it was in other markets, on account of the fact that the crop of 1897—which was the crop from which the flour exported during the fiscal year 1898 was made—was "sprouty" and consequently of less value than it would have been under ordinary conditions.

Thanks, however, to the excellent milling system in vogue in Canada, the mills were enabled to turn out a flour unaffected by the sprouted wheat. This was due to the fact that under the roller system the instead of being ground up with the flour, were merely flattened out between the rollers and carried away with the bye-products. Under the old stone system this would not have been possible.

In that year (1898) Great Britain took over 900,000 barrels, or nearly double the total exports in 1897 to all countries. Newfoundland also took the largest quantity on record, namely, 286,353 barrels. There was also a large gain on British West Indian account, no less than 15,000 barrels being shipped to those islands in 1898. The United States, too, were also a little more generous in their purchases.

Leaving out of consideration the extraordiary year of 1898, the average exports of flour for the past twenty years or more are very much smaller than they were 40 odd years ago. This will be gathered from a perusal of the following table:

EXPORTS FROM 1855 TO 1898.

	Bbls.	Value.
1855	643,936	$7,000,000
1860	854,773	4,766,122
1867	700,555	5,007,983
1868	310,144	2,190,099
1869	375,219	1,948,696
1870	382,177	2,302,149
1871	306,339	1,609,609

It will be noticed that in the above table several years are omitted. This is due to the fact that for these particular years we have no statistics at hand.

While, however, the average annual export trade in flour has been so much below that of 40 odd years ago, the cause is altogether on United States account.

It was in 1855 that the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States went into operation, and under that treaty flour was one of the products of Canada which had free entry into the latter country. At that time the figures covered the calendar year, so that in the returns for 1855 were included nine months under the Reciprocity Treaty. In that year, it will be noticed from the above table the total exports were valued at $7,000,000, but of this sum over $6,000,000, or, to quote the currency of that time, £1,255,798, was on United States account.

The treaty was only in operation a few years when, on account of the large increase in the exportation of Canadian wheat, Congress refused to allow flour ground in bond from United States wheat to come in free under the provisions of the treaty.

RESULT OF THE ABROGATION OF THE TREATY.

On March 16, 1866, the Reciprocity Treaty was abrogated. And by two years afterwards the exports of flour had fallen off over 63 per cent. compared with the figures of 1860. In 1898 less than 8,000 barrels went to the United States.

With these facts in mind the export trade in flour is not as unsatisfactory as at the first blush it appears to be. At the same time, however, the trade, considering the possibilities, is anything but what it might or should be.

Although the fiscal year 1899 ended June 30 last, the figures for that year are not yet obtainable. But it is estimated by those qualified to give an opinion that the exports will be much less than during 1898—probably one-third at least. One of the causes of this was the persistent way in which the farmers in Ontario

HELD ON TO THEIR WHEAT.

They felt that, as the wheat of the crop of 1898 was worth, on account of its superior sample, several cents per bushel more than that of the yield of 1897, instead of several cents less, as per the market value, they were warranted in retaining it until they could obtain the desired figure. And because they did not get what they contended they ought to get, a great deal of last year's wheat was held back. It is estimated that the quantity of Ontario wheat of 1898 crop still in the hands of the farmers is about one-third of the total yield.

With the crop of wheat in Manitoba and the Territories as large and of as excellent quality as it is, it is likely that the

during the fiscal year 1900 will materially exceed that of 1899. This, however, of course, remains to be seen.

FUTURE OF THE EXPORT TRADE.

As to the future of the export trade in flour much depends upon quality, suitability to foreign climates, ability to compete and enterprise of exporters.

As far as quality is concerned there is no question regarding Canadian flour, for the wheat from which it is made and the milling system which is employed are of the best. Beyond all peradventure the quality of Canadian flour is excellent.

In regard to its keeping qualities in foreign countries one of the best experts in the Dominion is authority for the statement that Canadian flour keeps better in Great Britain—its chief export market—than it does even at home. In the West Indies, however, the keeping quality of Canadian flour has not been as satisfactory. Flour to do well in that part of the world must, it seems, be made from

VERY DRY WHEAT.

And the reason that this cannot always be assured in Canada is no small obstacle in the way of the development of our flour trade with the West Indies. With very careful selection of the wheat the trade might be developed to more important proportions than it now is. But in the meantime the flour produced by the mills in St. Louis, Missouri, has the advantage in competing for the West India trade.

THE CHIEF MARKET

abroad for Canadian flour is, of course, Great Britain. And that market will take all the flour we can send—as long as we can send it at a price. It is therein that lies the chief question regarding our export trade, not only with Great Britain, but with all other importing countries. Can we compete as regards price? There is no question, as already asserted, in regard to quality.

A few years ago a well-known Canadian exporter of flour, while in Great Britain, called upon a large importer in that country and asked him if he could do business with him.

"Yes," replied the British importer, "you can sell me any quantity, for the quality of your flour is all right—as long as I can buy Canadian as cheap as I can that produced by any other competing country." That man summed up

THE WHOLE THING IN A NUTSHELL.

The worst competition we have to meet in the British market is that from France. And that competition is toward Canadian flour and flour from other countries much of the same character as the bounty fed sugars of Europe are toward the sugar of the non-bounty sugar-producing countries, namely, menacing.

Although not so named there is in France practically an EXPORT BOUNTY ON FLOUR.

It works, briefly stated, something after this fashion: There is an import duty on wheat, but on the hard wheat which is imported the French miller does not pay the duty. He merely gives a bond that he will. Then by-and-bye he comes along with a document showing that he has exported flour pro rata to the quantity of wheat he imported. Forthwith he is forgiven the duty on the latter, notwithstanding that the flour he exported was made from home-grown soft wheat and not from the imported article. The latter is used for home consumption. The flour exported goes largely to Great Britain, where it is sold at a relatively low price, to the detriment of Canadian and other flours.

These things are not pointed out with a view to discouraging Canadians in regard to the export flour trade, but merely to show what influences have to be contended with in promoting the export trade in flour.

POPULAR BRANDS OF FLOUR.

In a country where the competition of flour millers is as keen as it is in Ontario, the brand of flour that can be termed a "popular" brand can be depended on to be worthy of the title. Quance Bros., Delhi, Ont., makers of the "White Swan," "Maydew," "Moss Rose" and "Middleton" brands, have earned this title fairly, and are likely to maintain it, because of the consistent quality of their product. Their buckwheat, rye and graham flours have also made a name for themselves. It would be worth while getting quotations on the various lines made bp Quance Bros.

IRELAND'S NATIONAL FOODS.

There is good reason for the steady growth in the consumption of breakfast foods in Canada, especially in the fall and winter seasons. The nourishing and strengthening qualities of rolled wheat and oats, cornmeal, wheat germs, pot barley, split peas, graham and buckwheat flour, granulated wheat, etc., are such as to make these goods especially adapted to, and beneficial in, such a climate as that of Canada. The improvement in the manufacturing processes in recent years, and the care and skill now evidenced in their production, has also affected the consumption favorably.

The Ireland National Food Co., Limited, Toronto, long had a name as producers of breakfast foods, and now, in one of the largest and most complete breakfast food mills in the country, they make a full variety of the various foods which are now used so extensively in Canada.

FIVE RELIABLE BRANDS.

In buying flour the principal considerations are price and quality, and the greater difficulty is to secure flour that consistently grades up to the one standard. A firm that pro'uces a number of brands of tried quality is the Aylmer Roller Mills, Aylmer, Ont. This firm makes five brands, two for bakers and three for farmers. The best is made exclusively of No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat. As this firm has elevators in the Northwest, where its purchases are made by an expert buyer, their prices, as well as their quality, is kept right. This firm caters especially to the trade of flour dealers in western Ontario and the Maritime Provinces. They also offer car lots of No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat for sale to millers.

A WELL-EARNED FOOD BUSINESS.

The development of the business of Walter Thompson, manufacturer of breakfast foods, etc., Mitchell, Ont., shows that he has kept fully in touch with the growing consumption of breakfast foods. The demand for his "Maple Leaf" rolled oats, flake wheat, split peas, pot barley and cornmeal has been such in recent years that his mill at Mitchell and the mills that he has been compelled to erect at London and Seaforth are taxed to cope with it. This demand has been well-earned by the steady output of high-class foods.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF MONTREAL'S FLOUR TRADE.

Specially written for THE CANADIAN GROCER by W. A. R.

THE flour trade of Canada is one of its most important branches of commerce, for the obvious reason that its fundamental basis is our agricultural possibilities; and that Canada is first and foremost an agricultural country cannot be denied.

The Canadian flour trade first in the year 1852, when statistics show that 38,000 bbls. of flour, and 32,000 cwt. of biscuits were exported to Europe. At this a thing of the future; but in 1821 the first sod of the Lachine canal was turned, and this event marked a new and important era in the annals of the flour trade. The canal completed made available a water-power estimated at 4,500,000 horse-power. It did more; opening up communication with the West, and soon we find in Montreal millers bringing

BECAME COMPARATIVELY IMPORTANT

WHEAT DOWN FROM UPPER CANADA.

In 1846 the exports of flour to Great Britain had increased to 500,000 bbls. The

ALL THE DISPOSABLE CAPITAL

in Montreal was thus drawn to Western Canada, and invested in mills and mill sites, and a period of great prosperity appeared to have been inaugurated.

The abolition of the British corn laws, of course, made a radical alteration in this condition of affairs, and around 1847 Canadian merchants and flour dealers had a hard struggle. During the next few years matters improved, and in 1849 over 3,000,000 bushels of breadstuffs were exported from me the individual bakers were the great grain dealers. They bought direct from the farmers all over the country and had it milled themselves.

Mr. Robert Watson, of Montreal, was the LARGEST BAKER OF THAT DAY.

He bought wheat in the St. Hyacinthe district, at Longueuil, Boucherville, Varennes and elsewhere, and had it ground at the mills at Point St. Charles, Back River or Lachine.

Ontario wheat was still, to a large extent, duty upon Canadian flour imported into Britain was subsequently reduced to a nominal figure, and the aggregate duty of 4s., by way of Canada, being much lower than upon direct imports from the States, the wheat of the whole Lake Ontario basin intended for export to England was ground into flour in Canada, and exported from Montreal, the defenders of this system contending that flour ground in Canada was manufactured in Canada, no matter what its origin, and that it was, therefore, entitled to the benefit of the preferential tariff.

Montreal, as against 968,605 in 1848.

THE SHIPPING OF FLOUR AND GRAIN

from Ontario to Eastern Canada, and thence via Montreal to Europe, increased steadily meanwhile. In 1851, the first Ogilvie mill was built at Jacques Cartier, near Quebec, another being subsequently erected on the Lachine canal.

In 1862, the same firm built the Glenora mills on the same waterway, and commenced making strong flour on a large scale. Mr. Ira Gould also leased water-power on the same canal in the same year for his mills.

The wheat for these establishments was first brought from Morrisburg, Edwardsburg, and other places as far west as Kingston. After a time, supplies from this district in quality and quantity, and so fresh fields had to be sought. Western Ontario was tried with success, and the construction of the Buffalo and Lake Huron railway and the extension of the Grand Trunk opened up new stores of agricultural wealth.

BEGAN TO DETERIORATE

During the forties, the fertile valleys of the Richelieu had produced grain of the richest quality and quantity sufficient to meet the demand, but the soil got worn out in time, and the move was made westward, and ever westward, as everyone knows.

Meantime, Canadian flour had not in the Old Country markets. The Hungarian article was considered superior in quality, while it was lower in price.

SECURED A PROMINENT PLACE

With the enterprise for which he is justly famous, the Canadian flour king, W. W. Ogilvie, wanted to know the reason of this, and he took the best possible steps to find out by going on a personal tour of investigation himself to Hungary. He returned after a year's absence, prepared to utilize the experience he had acquired. An immediate result of his trip was that the was superseded, and the roller mills system, which was already in vogue at Minneapolis, generally introduced in Canada.

Thirty-five years ago, the flour market of Montreal was probably the largest market on the whole continent, with the exception of that of New York. The whole of the Eastern country, the Lower Provinces, Gaspe, and the Halifax and St. John districts were tributary to Montreal. Merchants came thence to the metropolis to make their purchases, and the amount of business done in this particular line was enormous.

The opening of the Intercolonial railway changed all this, and what Montreal flour merchants had fondly looked forward to as a means of enlarging and extending their trade actually proved the contrary. The system of granting through rates from milling points to destinations and it naturally became impracticable to bring Ontario flour there for reshipment with any prospect of realizing a profit.

Eastern buyers have as a consequence dealt with the mills direct ever since, and the Montreal flour trade has dwindled to a local business, except in cases where the Montreal merchant purchases for his customer and ships direct.

The year 1875 saw the most important move in the history of the Canadian flour trade. MR. W. W. OGILVIE was again a prominent character in this connection. He took a trip to Manitoba, and spent a long time traveling from place to place in that practically unsettled country. He saw then that Manitoba was bound to be a great wheat-producing region, and when the C.P.R. had been built the Ogilvies were the first to use Manitoba wheat, and at the present day they are the largest consumers of it, the other large concern being the Lake of the Woods Milling Company.

Hard Manitoba or No. 1 hard, beyond doubt makes the

and our system of milling is not surpassed in the world.

At the present time, Canada, in the person of W. W. Ogilvie, possessss the largest individual miller in the world, and his total output will shortly be increased, when the mill and elevator which he is erecting at Fort William is completed. This, the latest establishment under his control, will have a daily capacity of 2,000 bbls. of flour.

The opening of the Soulanges Canal this fall marks in the history of the Canadian grain and flour trade. It will give a continuous 14-foot channel from Montreal to Lake Superior, and, of course, will have an enormous influence on inland traffic, which is so closely related to the flour trade.

It is interesting in this connection to contrast the comparatively of to day with those of 20 or 30 years ago. The old rate of 6½c. per bushel on grain from Kingston to Montreal has been reduced to 2½c., and about 6½c. is the present rate from Duluth or Port Arthur. There is also a demand for improved facilities for handling grain and flour at Montreal. To handle this freight to the ocean vessel should be brought into direct communication with the warehouse, and it is expected that when the new harbor works are completed that this much-desired end will be attained. If storehouses for the reception of freight can be placed at the river side the considerable cost of floating it, now amounting to ¾c. per bushel on grain, could be avoided.

MODERATE FORWARDING RATES

ANCHOR BRAND FLOURS.

Manitoba wheat makes the best of flour, so there is good reason for the reputation that has been obtained and maintained by the "Anchor" brand flours, made by Leitch Bros., millers, Oak Lake, Man. Leitch Bros. have good reason for claiming their flour to be of the highest quality, and well deserve the export trade they have been enabled to reach. Their business is bound to develop as the reputation of flour made from Manitoba wheat grows in various parts of the globe. Leitch Bros. offer to quote their flour delivered in any part of any country.

STANDARD FLOUR AND CORN MEAL.

Every flour dealer should keep stocked, with grades of flour of the best quality for both fancy and general baking purposes. To do this he should keep in touch with a firm of millers that he can thoroughly depend on. Such a company is the Kingston Milling Co., manufacturers of Hungarian and fancy patents, strong bakers' and family flour, and fine bolted cornmeal. These are all made by the latest process, hence are of standard quality.

GOOD CANADIAN FLOURS.

Anyone might readily believe that the "Heather" and "Acadia" brands of flour, which are made at the Aberdeen mills in Glencoe, are Scotch brands, but they are not. The Glencoe they come from is in Ontario, and they are made of the best Manitoba and Ontario wheat, so they are even more Canadian than their name is Scotch. They are excellent flours, and are made especially for household purposes. Samples and prices can be had on application.

THE AYTON MILLS FLOUR.

A firm that is always worth writing to when orders for high-grade flour are being placed is N. Wenger & Bros., proprietors of the Ayton Mills, Ayton, Ont. This firm make two brands: "Edelweis," a high patent flour, and "May Blossom," a family flour, and are willing to send samples and prices to the trade at any time.

WHOLE WHEAT FLOUR.

The popularity to which whole wheat bread has attained in Canada makes it expedient that every grocer should carry a stock of first-class whole wheat flour. A specialty of this flour is made by The Oriental Flour Co., Limited, St. Thomas, Ont., which firm also makes "Oriental" corn flour, hominy grits and pearl meal. The "Oriental" corn flour is made expressly for bakers' and confectioners' use. Samples of any of these can be had on application.

THE ART OF WINDOW DRESSING.

Contributions by Experts and Critics.

Summer Window Displays. The oftener a grocery window display can be changed the better, particularly during the summer months, as flies and dust are so plentiful that frequent changing of the display is absolutely necessary if the window is to be kept inviting, and not allowed to become uninviting.

It also follows that the more frequently a window has to be changed the more necessary is it that it should be done with as much expedition as possible. It is, therefore, necessary that during the summer months the goods placed in the window shall be not only seasonable, but in character and quantity such as can be quickly removed.

Condiments, picnic supplies, bottles of fruit, syrups, etc., are all lines of a nature desirable for such purposes, and by the exercise of a little taste can be made into nice displays, particularly by the aid of a few neat price tickets and a seasonable picture or two.

"I do not," said a well-known grocer a few days ago, "take much trouble with my windows during the hot, summer months. That is, I do not spend much time over them. I keep them neat, attractive and supplied with seasonable goods. But I do not believe in having more goods in the window than a boy can remove in a few minutes."

Canned Goods. In the display of canned goods, either one of two objects must be aimed at—to create the impression of quality or of cheapness. If a transient trade is sought, a simple display is made by taking three, four or more cases of one kind of goods (salmon, for instance) and making a pile of them in the centre of the window space. In making such a pile, though, care should be taken not to bruise or dinge the cans. It is not necessary to have any design to follow. A pile that looks carelessly thrown together is just as striking as a neat, carefully arranged one. A card stating that these goods are "Our Special This Week; Only —c." would complete such a window. If, on the other hand, it is desired to impress one's regular patrons with the quality of one's goods, it would be well to follow another style of display. A good window could be dressed with the help of a stand with about four steps, each about a foot high. On the bottom step might be shown a line of the cheapest and poorest goods of the kind that could be had. On the second and third, ordinary brands might be placed. The top should be devoted entirely to the best brand that could be secured. The price of each brand should be shown. Accompanying the price card of the best goods should be placed a note such as "These goods are dearer than those below, but they are more than worth the difference. They are the best money can buy."

A Display of Provisions. There is scarcely any window display which can have greater attractiveness and utility combined than one made up of cured meats.

I came to this conclusion the other day when looking at a display in the window of a well-known pork and provision firm.

In the front of the window were three rows of canned goods. Each tin was laid end to end. Two of the rows were laid side by side, while the third was resting on the centre of the two. Back of these were similarly ranged three rows of smoked rolled bacon, resting on a bed of clean straw. Next in the rear came tins of canned meat, promiscuously scattered about, while the background was formed of nice, tempting breakfast bacon, standing on end and inclining slightly towards the store.

A Run on Sugar. Many grocers handle such an immense quantity of sugar about Christmas time that a telling display of this sweet could be made at that season. A table from 30 to 36 inches high, strong enough to hold a barrel full or half full of sugar might be arranged at the back of the window, with the barrel on top of it, very close to the bottom of one of the barrel staves, a hole could be bored large enough to let the sugar run. How large it should be would be determined by the business that is done in sugar. A small tin tube could be inserted in the hole so as to carry the run of sugar to a point over the centre of a large drawer or bin to hold it. The higher the fall of sugar the better. The bin should be made to reach from the window front to the back, and so wide that it would allow a large pile of sugar before the latter would run over. An offer might be made to sell all sugar running through the spout in a day, or an afternoon, or in several of them, at a pound or so more than usual for a dollar. This would increase sales, and would give customers an idea of one's sugar business. If the trade would take it, two barrels with the spouts meeting over the same pile would be more effective than one barrel. A display such as this would be useful at any season, but especially so about Christmas. It would then be advisable to decorate the barrels, the window sides, etc., with evergreens. The display might be varied by having the table, barrels, etc., hidden behind a black curtain, and having the funnel (painted black, if possible) protruding through the curtains about four inches. The sugar might run into a bin the width of the window and deep enough to hold it.

A Tea Window. An attractive method of displaying tea was not long since employed by a Toronto retailer. Out of canned goods he made three low-backed armchairs—one large one and two small ones. The two smaller ones were brought close to the plate glass window. The larger one was placed a foot or two to the rear. The seat of the chair was cushioned with a layer of tea. If I remember rightly, two of the "cushions" were black and the third green tea. At any rate, it would improve the attractiveness of the display to employ different colors of tea in making the "cushions." In the construction of a display of this kind, packages of tea, it seems to me, might be used for building the framework of the "chairs." But, of course, that is all a matter of taste. At any rate, a few packages of tea formed into a pyramid, tower, etc., would tend to improve the display, while one or two pictures of tea garden scenes placed in a good position in the window would add to its attractive properties. Price tickets, too, should not be forgotten.

Display Stands. There has been an improvement of late in the manner in which display stands are made use of both in grocery stores and in their windows. The introduction of patent display stands has undoubtedly helped to bring this about, as they have proved a great aid to the ingenuity of the window dresser. The uses to which the patent adjustable stand can be put are many. In a large window it can be used to a great advantage. For a smaller window a good stand can be cheaply built by any cabinet-maker. I saw an excellent one the other day. It stood about three feet high, and had six steps, each six inches higher than the one below it. The top step was about a foot long, and formed a quarter circle. The bottom step was of the same shape, but not more than three times as long. They were all about four inches deep. When this stand was covered with pink crepe tissue, and a display of pickles, chow-chows and jams made on it, the effect was striking. Two stands similar to this, or with the steps forming right angles, would make a good showing if placed at the two inside corners of a window open only at the front. A simple stand is made by arranging a big packing box at the back of the window, and by placing smaller sizes so as to form steps between it and the window. This, however, is a bulky stand, and care should be taken to relieve its bigness by some fancy covering such as crepe tissue.

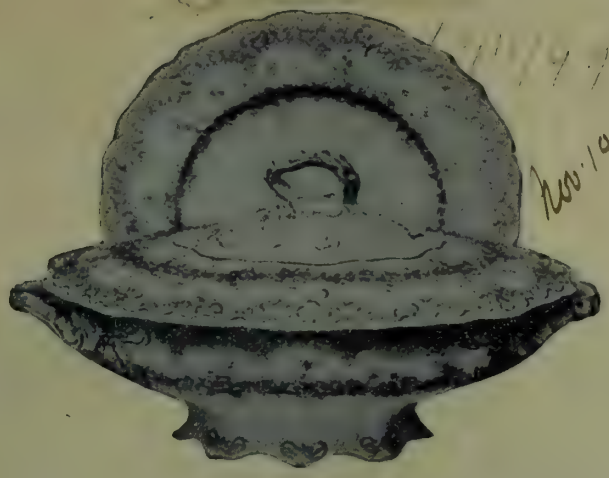
A Prize Window.

Some weeks ago, THE CANADIAN GROCER printed a cut purporting to show the window display with which M. Des Brisay & Co., Nelson, B.C., took the first prize on Dominion Day. It turns out that the photograph from which the cut was made only showed one of the firm's ordinary displays, and not the prize window. The accompanying cut shows the prize window. The window was decorated by T. J. McCammon, who, in reply to a letter from THE CANADIAN GROCER asking how the window was dressed, writes as follows:

"Our window is 18 feet long and 8 feet wide, with plate-glass front. In the background, as you will see from photo. sent, there are six pillars. These pillars are built with boxes of soda biscuits, nine in height, and draped between with fancy red, white and blue rope, each pillar entwined with same. (This made a very pretty background, the colors standing out so prominently, giving a nice effect.) The bottom of the window is covered with red, white and blue bunting. Three steps, as you will see, leading down from each pillar towards the glass in front, are entirely covered with small Union Jack flags, and trimmed with small fancy bottles and packages, confining them to one or two lines of goods. Between each and every pillar mounds of fancy goods are neatly arranged on cork dust. Along the entire front, close to the glass, the word "Welcome" is arranged in fancy letters made from oranges and framed entirely with lemons. This could easily be read from across the street, it stood out so prominently. Small, bright goods in bottles, cans and packages are neatly arranged flat on the bottom of the window, where space would allow, completed by draping with fancy rope from the two extreme pillars to the two small pillars close to the glass in front. The small pillars were entwined with fancy red, white and blue rope. The whole window presented a blazing mass of bright colors, together with goods artistically arranged, and attracted the attention of not only the passers-by, but also the judges, who awarded the firm first prize for the best decorated window."

A PRIZE GROCERY WINDOW.



Where the Skill Comes in.

It is not necessary to have the most startling window, to show the newest goods, or to have price-tickets showing better values than anyone else to draw attention to one's store through the window. To create the impression that a big stock is carried is to materially assist sales. Therefore, a big stock of flour bags piled in such a manner as to attract attention should prove a winner of custom. The skill comes in when the window-dresser goes to work to make the display one that will not be passed unnoticed. To pile them on top of each other in flat rows, filling most of the window, might attract some attention. How much more striking would it be, however, to stand them on their sides or ends so as to form a platform with steps leading to the back, or to put a barrel in the centre or in one corner, and pile the bags on end so as to lean against it, putting enough of them at the bottom to completely hide the barrel, and to make a pyramid by piling more of the bags on top of it.

Package goods, such as breakfast foods, or starches, or teas, make a common, unattractive display when placed in the window in a small pile or two on the floor. But these goods can be made into striking displays by a skilful trimmer. A display in a Toronto store which attracted considerable attention recently was made by forming an archway of breakfast food packages. There was no support to the archway that could be seen from the outside, but the space between the tops of the packages caused by the curve of the arch was filled with a smaller-sized package. This archway was placed about two feet from the back of the window. In front of it was a pyramidal pile of packages, at either side of which a hollow pillar fully four feet high was made by standing the packages on top of each other in a small circle. There is no end to the variety of displays that can be made out of package goods. And though it takes skill to make really good displays, such skill is well repaid by the results obtained by making up good windows.

A Boot and Shoe Display. One of the window dressing hits of the season was made by a shrewd boot and shoe dealer on Yonge street, Toronto. His window is a small one, not over three feet deep and four feet wide. The back of it is a mirror; the inside is finished with old gold felt. Plate glass gives a view from the other side and the front of the small display made within. On the floor of the window, covered with felt similar to that on the wall, were arranged seven pairs of boots. In the foreground, a pair of stout walking boots with rubber soles were so arranged to show the sole of one boot and the upper of its mate. Beside them, a card about 8 x 6 in. bore the statement: "These soles don't slip on the slippery banana peel." Instead of writing the word "banana," a space had been cut out of the cardboard of sufficient size to hang a banana by small ribbons. The same idea was carried out with the other six pairs of shoes. The cards were: "'Lettuce' show you these boots at $5"; "A 'pear' of these elegant shoes for $3.50"; "'Beet' these for $4—impossible!"; "A 'peach' of a shoe, $4 for two"; "No 'corns' where these boots are worn—$3.50"; "We'd like to 'cabbage' your order for these boots for $5." The cut showing this window is reproduced for the benefit of general merchants in the hope that they may get some ideas from it.

A BOOT AND SHOE DISPLAY.

Grocery Windows in A Small City. I had occasion the other day to visit a Western Ontario city that boasts over 10,000 inhabitants. After my business was over I had an hour or two to look around the business section of the town, so I started to have a look at the window displays shown in the various stores. The dry goods store windows were, I think, the most interesting. The stationery and hardware stores also made excellent displays. But, though I saw, and in most cases examined, every window devoted to groceries, I cannot say that, apart from a couple, there was a grocery window that might entice one within the store. Most of the displays were made up of staple articles, without any attempt at artistic effects. In most cases, the windows were of good shape for good displays, and, if as much, or half as much, time were taken with them as must have been taken with the dry goods windows, excellent results could have been obtained.

REMARKS ON SOME STORE WINDOWS.

I SAW a very pretty window the other day. Bay-leaves profusely scattered took the place of paper, oilcloth or other covering for the sill. Two large globes stood in the centre, one filled with nutmegs, the other with all-pickling spice; and around these were ranged smaller jars containing different kinds of spices. Long rolls of cinnamon and cassia, tastefully tied with colored ribbons, presented a striking appearance, hung, as they were, above jars of preserved fruits which lit up the whole window. There was a moderateness about the display which bespoke genuineness and good quality. The proprietor had not tried to exhibit all his goods at once, and thereby make his window look like a combination between an impromptu barricade and an old lady's kitchen pantry in house-cleaning time.

Another window that pleased me much was gotten up in a totally different style. What attracted my notice at a distance was the good glass of which the window itself was formed, and I walked across the street to view its contents more closely. Fresh fruit—peaches, pears and grapes—set out on half a dozen high glass dishes looked exceedingly tempting. Muskmelons filled one side, while boxes of candies with their bright yellow covers decorated the other. A richness was added to the general effect by a couple of metal trays full of the very best cream candies, which sparkled among the fruit. I wondered at first why it was that I liked that window better than some others of the same kind, and the thought struck me that it was because of the glass dishes. The floor of a window is presumably clean, nevertheless, I would prefer to eat fruit off a glass dish; and I did not feel afraid that what I saw constituted the entire stock.

Are you fond of good pictures? If not, you probably do not appreciate the value of them in setting out a window. One good engraving is far more attractive than several flaring advertisements for soap or tea companies. True, people can see these across the street, but the only thought that strikes one is "Grocery store," and there the matter ends. Quite otherwise when someone comes home and says: "I was just looking at that picture in Mr. Jones'. A striking one, isn't it? By the way, he has some very fine grapes there." I hold myself a patriotic citizen of the British Empire, but I must confess that my enthusiasm is not roused by a cheaply-framed likeness of Her Majesty, with a legend in one corner to the effect that such and such an article is patronized by all the world. A good picture is never out of place in a window, no matter what the line of goods to be displayed, and the majority of people will stop to look at one, which is all the more noticeable from the fact that it is not in an artist's gallery. But, remember, if you have one, have a good one!

In this connection, and at the risk of being considered a crank, I would like to offer one or two remarks by way of friendly criticism. "One line of goods at a time" is a safe motto, but, like every other motto, must not be abused, and a whole window full of soap packages does not always tempt one to enter the store in search of fruit. Unless the paper covering is exceedingly clean and the colors somewhat striking, there is apt to be a staleness about the display which discourages the would-be purchaser.

Again, boxes of broken biscuits don't look inviting, notwithstanding that the price be extraordinarily small, the mind immediately reverts to empty ginger ale bottles, can-openers, and other appurtenances of the homecoming picnic basket.

A window where peanuts form the principal part of the dressing material suggests that the Exhibition visitors had not patronized the "stand" very well, and that in consequence the merchant's stock had accumulated.

Nothing except absolute uncleanliness creates a worse impression than the sight of something fallen over and not replaced. The inference is not that you are too busy to attend to such matters, but——well, that it does not make much difference, anyway.

A mistake not so common as some others is to have a show-window looking bare and empty. The man who stuffs his too full has, at least, the satisfaction of having decorated it himself, instead of being under an obligation to the flies.

But I must stop my faultfinding and be more contented. A noticeable and, at the same time, an attractive material for decorative purposes is coffee. The effect of a display can be varied by presenting the article in many forms and stages. For instance, the floor may be strewn with the unground seed. Sacks of green coffee, as it was originally packed, are an interesting sight, and add a suggestion of plenty and reliability. Tins can always be arranged prettily, and one or two plants will brighten the general appearance.

Cereals also may be utilized to good advantage; and I have seen very satisfactory results along this line. Grains of various hues, neatly arranged either in dishes or jars, and supplemented with packages of breakfast food, or the like, make as nice a display as any.

It is admittedly open to question whether it is wise for a grocer to put forward an article like tobacco in place of other goods, and it is a subject which each much settle for himself; but there is no doubt that particularly pretty decorations are possible with tobacconist supplies of all kinds. CRITIC.

MAKE YOUR OWN SIGNS.

Most retail merchants do not realize how easy it is to acquire considerable skill in the art of making attractive card signs for placing on their counters and in their windows. With a proper outfit, which costs but a very little money, the average clerk can learn in an hour's time enough about this sort of work to render the services of a professional sign painter entirely unnecessary. That attractive little card signs, often changed and ingeniously placed, are most excellent advertisements, and add much to the prosperity of the merchant using them, is self-evident.

The instruments necessary for the making of these store guide posts are pens, brushes, inks and bristol board. But all these have to be of a special kind made purposely for this kind of work. Most general merchants do not know where to buy them, and even if they did they would have to send to many different places for them, and pay separately for them much more than that for which it is possible to sell them when all are collected into an outfit.

This work has been done by the Spatula Publishing Co., 6 Oliver street, Boston, whose object was to get together an outfit for this work that should contain everything necessary for the making of a large variety of store-card signs, and which should not cost the retailer, as a whole, including the faintly ruled bristol board, delivered anywhere in the United States, more than $2.50.

This is the only outfit of this kind that has been offered to the trade, and its usefulness will quickly be demonstrated to anyone who purchases it. The outfit is enumerated and illustrated in their advertisement.

The art of publicity involves a great variety of serious studies—the study of human nature, of local conditions, of types and "display," of mediums and methods. No one can master the art at a sitting, and yet advertisements are written while the press waits, and good money is paid out for the printing—and advertising is voted foolishness because the expenditure is not immediately returned with profit.—Keystone.

This is the age of the world when the shrewdest business intellects are being devoted to schemes for attracting the attention of the public, and the appearance is that the pinnacle of advertising ingenuity has been attained. But, while no one is competent to say positively whether such is or is not the case, we are inclined to believe that the full measure of advertising success has not yet been reached. In fact, we do not believe that the greatest success for the least expenditure will be achieved until intricate campaigns have given way to the utmost simplicity, and advertisers merely talk to the people, instead of trying to make as much noise as possible.

FROM CREDIT TO CASH.

A merchant who adopted the strictly cash system of retailing gives, according to an exchange, the following as the proper method of doing so:

Name the day on which you will make the change from credit to cash basis.

Advertise fully and frankly your reasons for so doing, showing in your ad. how it will benefit all your customers.

Acquaint your employes thoroughly with the merits of a cash business, so they can intelligently talk of it to your customers. Get your store people enthusiastic in its favor, because enthusiasm is contagious.

Be willing to have at first a smaller margin of profit than you expect to have later, until your customers are thoroughly acquainted with the new arrangement.

Put large tickets on the goods, showing "old credit price" and "new cash price."

Put a poker in your backbone, and stick to the cash arrangement. The best trade will always be attracted by the magnet of cheaper prices, and, though your customers may leave you for a time, eventually they will return, and your credit competitor will get the "slows," who have plenty of trade to give him, but no cash.

BUSINESS AND ITS MANAGEMENT.

STOREKEEPING ETHICS.

UNDER the title of "The Wanamaker System; Its Place in Applied Economics," John Wanamaker has published a booklet that is interesting both as a piece of advertising literature and as a discussion of the underlaying principles that have made the Wanamaker system of storekeeping the exemplar of the best storekeeping of the age. Merchants will be interested in these extracts.

Four years' experience in the retail clothing trade served to quicken the ambition, which the writer had felt still earlier in his boyhood days, to bring about less wasteful business methods. The result was the so new as to be ridiculed as visionary, and so radical as to be thought disturbing to general business interests—yet a system which instantly justified itself to the popular judgment, and which by the test of a generation has shown itself to rest on economic laws as immutable as the laws of gravitation; a system which has proved to be capable of widest application, and which in fact has left its impress on the business of the country, wholesale as well as retail.

Important innovations had been made earlier—the evolution had begun—and in 1865, after long and careful thought, the two cardinal principles were evolved:

One price and but one price for everybody.

Returnability of goods when desired.

From these root principles others have from time to time branched out: The

not a trap; the advertising must be carefully prepared news; visitors must be secure from importunity; employes must be trained in the new system, and in the law of courtesy; and mail orders must be filled by shoppers instructed to think only of the customer's wishes.

One price was a proclamation of the law of certainty in trade—a law of attraction as sure as that which impels the apple to the earth or the needle to the pole. As Pope had said earlier: "Certainty is the father of right and the mother of justice." But the saying had passed as a generality until the new system gave it specific application.

Returnability of goods was a revelation of a law of rhythm as unfailing as the swing of a pendulum—the pendulum must swing both ways to keep the hands in motion. Good-will had previously meant good-will towards the seller—it was part of the store, went together. Under the new law it was seen to be a reciprocal affair—the swing towards the store being merely the reaction of the store's swing toward the community.

GOOD-WILL AND FIXTURES

If a tuning fork be sounded in a room in which there are other tuning forks, only those which have the same pitch will respond. The clear and ringing response of the people to the new system showed that it had been accurately pitched, and also illustrated the fact that there is a law of rhythm in commerce as truly as in harmony, and that popular sentiment found itself instinctively in unison with the new keynote.

In pursuance of its policy of giving the

to those who turn to it for service, the system goes to primary sources for its supplies, and, by going there at times when the wheels of production would ordinarily be idle, it can keep them going, helping the manufacturer with what is practically an all-the-year-around market.

At the same time, it helps industry by the continuity of employment, which is as essential to the best results of human skill as it is to the best exercise of energy even in purely mechanical forms. Even a locomotive must be kept in training to do its best work.

By buying at least cost it can afford to buy largely, thus verifying the truth that "increased production stimulates industry, which, in its turn, reacts beneficially on production."

Again, the system, with its continuous display of novelties, not only educates the popular mind in the progress of invention, but fosters invention itself, giving it a market for its products and a field for their exhibition unrivalled since the days of the State Fair.

On the other hand, it diffuses the blessings of human skill among innumerable homes, to which they would otherwise be strangers.

Exchange of itself bestows no new absolute value on an article, but it does add to the market value. The system seeks to keep the exchangeable value as little above the intrinsic value (or cost of production plus cost of transportation) as will be equitable to producer and distributor.

BUYING IN BULK,

the system continues the process of economy by shipping in bulk. It was formerly taught that retail trade carries on exchanges between people of the same country only—as distinguished from international trade. The system has changed that—abolishing all boundaries but the ends of the earth.

THE SYSTEM HELPS CONSUMPTION

in the following ways:

1. By treating people courteously even before they reach the store, giving them helpful information in a form respectful to their reason.

2. By reducing prices without reducing qualities—a result not wholly due to large purchases at first hands. An important element of price is the cost of housing the goods till called for. The system minimizes this by quick distribution; by proximity to railway terminals, and by the low rental of an inexpensive building.

3. By the confidence created by the principle of returnability.

4. By cultivating the popular taste. It has popularized literature by its book-prices. It has popularized art by its book-prices. It has popularized music by putting music and musical instruments closer to the homes of the people,

5. By its club system of selling certain articles—bicycles, special publications, etc—which are thus made accessible to thousands who might not otherwise feel able to afford them.

The changes wrought by the system along intellectual, moral and material lines have been inestimable. Commercially, they permeate the whole business system of the country, and their effect is leavening. President Cannon, of the National Association of Credit Men, has declared; "The spirit which pervades the business world at the end of this nineteenth century is than ever before in the history of the country; and," he adds, "while the spirit of competition is keener to-day than ever before, I think there is less and less malice and harsh feeling between competitors in similar trades as time goes on."

It is fair to assume that the system has had something to do with this ameliorated feeling. Certainly there is no community large enough to sustain a printing press in which the influence of the system is not reflected day by day in the advertisements. Unworthy methods have been crowded out. Trade has become more pleasant, safe and chivalrous. Production and consumption have been brought closer together, and both have been the gainers.

It needs no argument to show that a system which increases both production and consumption must contribute to the welfare of both producer and consumer—in other words, of the entire community. As Ruskin says: "The prosperity of our neighbors in the end is our own."

If it be true to-day, as in the days of Poor Richard, that it is manifest that the total savings to consumers effected by the system are in effect additions to their earnings—contributions by just so much to the aggregate wealth of the community.

Socially the gain has been no less marked; and the changes wrought are such as could not have been effected by legislation. Every home has been put in closer touch with civilization. The word "commerce" primarily meant traffic; in its secondary meaning it stands for social intercourse, fellowship. As Emerson says: "The end of friendship is a commerce the most striking and homely that can be joined."

The system has made the excessive luxuries of 30 years ago the UNIVERSAL NECESSITIES OF TO-DAY.

In domestic life, it has been a vast labor-saver. It has largely emancipated woman from the drudgery of the needle, and it has relegated the quilting-frame to the garret along with a host of other obsolete ideas and devices.

In the matter of its announcements alone, the system has been an intellectual stimulus for the country. As Mr. Cannon has further said: "Articles, to be worth advertising to-day, must have merit, and advertising, to be remunerative, must be restricted to truthful statements."

The conclusion will be irresistible with all reasoning minds that a system which has steadily enlarged its usefulness to society throughout a generation, and proved its economic value to the commerce of the country only stands at the threshold of still larger service in the new century that lies so close at hand.

WHERE TO GET A BUSINESS TRAINING.

The young man who starts in any line of business with thorough training has at once a decided advantage over his fellows. Other things being equal, he is bound to come to the front. On this account, the advertisement of the Canada Business College is worth the consideration of the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER. Not only should grocers give their own sons a chance to get a thorough training in bookkeeping, etc., but they should look to a reliable institution like this business college when needing a bookkeeper or stenographer.

VINEGAR MAKING IN CANADA.

THIS is the age of centralization. In almost every line of business the past year or two has witnessed some consolidation of interests.

In the vinegar business, as our readers will remember, this development was represented by the union of six of the large vinegar makers of Ontario under the style of the Wilson, Lytle, Badgerow Co., Limited, Toronto.

The result of the amalgamation of these firms has been a reduction of operating expenses. Before the union each of the five companies had its factory, with the consequent expense of rent, office staff, inland revenue officials, etc., and their travelers were over-lapping and competing for orders. Since the new factory has been started but one office staff and one Government inspector is needed, and in many ways expenses are cut down, thereby enabling them to considerably improve the quality of their product without increasing the price. Its equipment is the best, including an improved system of manufacture of their own patent by the Superintendent of their works. After the goods are manufactured they are stored in the cellars of the company till they are properly matured, and are taken out in rotation, thus guaranteeing uniform maturity. The facilities for handling in the new factory are such that all orders are filled immediately on their receipt. An instance of this occurred a few weeks ago, when a telegraph order for three and letter orders for two cars were received. These five cars, in addition to the regular business, were shipped within twenty-four hours of the receipt of the first order. The traveling staffs of the five companies in the union have been retained, but instead of competing they cover more ground, and do it more thoroughly, Canada now being covered from ocean to ocean.

The result of these improved facilities for manufacturing, selling and handling their product has been that, notwithstanding the fact that the new concern has been in business but a few months, they are already, they report, doing as big a business as the aggregate of the six companies which united.

On page 6 of this issue will be found the announcement of Creelman Bros., manufacturers of knitting machines, typewriters, etc., Georgetown, Ont.

The firm began business in 1872, and by steady application and by keeping in mind quality have built up a nice business and a Dominion-wide reputation.

The knitting machines are hand and power, and range in price from $10 to $375. The writing machines they turn out are what are known as visible writing machines, which are among the latest and most improved on the market. Another specialty of this firm is a double wheelbarrow. It is termed double because it can be used to carry a load double the weight an ordinary wheelborrow can, and yet the tax upon the man using the barrow is even less than by using the latter. The explanation of this is that there is a second wheel beneath the legs of the barrow which works automatically.

INDIAN AND CEYLON TEA VS. OTHERS.

THE steady expansion in the consumption of Ceylon and Indian teas in Canada; in fact, on the entire North American continent, has been one of the most notable circumstances of the tea market during recent years.

The increase in the inquiry for these teas first became important in Canada in 1896, and since then the gain has been steady. In fact, not a few traders contend that in the near future British grown tea, that is, tea produced within the Empire, will take the premier position in Canada, to the detriment of Japans, which now hold the lead. As everyone in the trade knows, the latter drove China tea out of the average consumer's market, and now, if present indications are any criterion, it, in its turn, will have to succumb to new competitors.

Leading commission men assert that three years ago their turnover of Indian aud Ceylon tea was a trifle, but that since then they have quadrupled their sales, so that the business is assuming large dimensions.

Previous to 1898 the Canadian Customs Department did not classify the imports of tea, but last year they commenced to do so, and the figures of the year afford reliable data for the question under consideration.

From these figures it is ascertained that the Canadian importations during 1898 were almost equally divided between blacks and greens, 9,841,976 lb. of the latter and 9,494,587 lb. of the former being brought into the country, a difference of 347,389 lb. in favor of the former.

Ceylon and India's contribution in green tea was a trifling 120,128 lb., but in blacks the two dependencies held the leading position. India sent us 1,992,919 lb., of a value of $313,220, and Ceylon 3,349,376 lb., valued at $518,319, a total of 5,342,295 lb., representing $831,539.

Contrasted with these figures, China supplied 3,323,335 lb. or $427,895 worth, and Japan 828,957 lb. or $100,588 worth of black tea, making a total of 4,152,292 lb. or $528,483 worth.

Ceylon and India, therefore, sold us during 1898 1,190,000 lb. more black tea than the other two competing countries.

When green teas are turned to however, it is at once seen where Japan holds the advantage. During the last year Japan sent us 8,378,520 lb. of green tea, valued at $1,092,220, 3,035,225 lb. more than both India and Ceylon's contributions of black, the excess of value in favor of Japan being $260,681. China only sent us 1,343,328 lb. of green during 1898, valued at $150,000.

These figures show the standing last year, and, though no official date for the present year is yet to hand, well informed men in the trade contend that the importation of Indians and Ceylons this year will show an improvement over that of last year.

It is worthy of note also that the cost of the average Indian or Ceylon tea is 4c. per pound higher than the Japan, that is to say, the Indian or Ceylon tea in most general consumption here ranges from 17c. and 18c., as against 14c. and 15c. for Japan.

The flavor of the former, however, evidently pleases the popular palate, and as it is heavier, with more in it for less money, than the China black, it is ousting both the latter and Japan from the Canadian market.

EXPORTING CANNED TOMATOES.

Some of the Canadian canned goods packers are this season doing quite a nice little export trade with Great Britain in canned tomatoes.

It has been held that Canada was not able to compete in Great Britain with canned tomatoes from Baltimore, Md., and Italy. And, while this may be true in some years, it is not true in all. This year, at any rate, it does not apply. Of course, the ability in the future to export will depend on the packs in the respective competitive countries, just the same as it is in regard to all other products.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has always urged the packers to push more vigorously the export trade in canned goods than has been their wont, and it is pleased to learn that some of them are developing more enterprise along this line.

Of course, by far the greater portion of our canned salmon, canned lobster, and gallon apples are already exported.

The following table shows the exports of canned goods in 1898:

	Quantity.	Value.
Mackerel	1,527	$ 192
Lobsters	11,918,800	2,290,872
Salmon	41,646,995	3,430,645
Fruits		159,778
Corn		2,807
Other vegetables		7,230

VALENCIA RAISINS IN MONTREAL.

The consigned raisins ex ss. Escalona are rapidly going into consumption; in fact, they are nearly all absorbed, the basis at Montreal being 4½ to 4¾c. for off-stalk; 5c. for fine off-stalk; 5¼c. for selected, and 6 to 6¼c. for layers.

These figures have been ruling practically since the first forward sales were closed, the earliest purchases, as a rule, being made at an advance of ¼c. on the figures quoted above.

This week, however, cables from Denia advise importers not to be in a hurry about selling as the market is advancing.

In currants, sales of Filiatrias ex Escalona have been made at 4¾c., which is ¼c. under what was refused a week ago.

Cables from Patras state that the market shows signs of a tendency to recovery from the decline, and that improvement is expected. At Patras, however, prices are still ⅛ to 2·6c. below the figures ruling at the beginning of the season.

THE STATE OF TRADE IN CANADA.

TRADE conditions in Canada continue to improve. And at no period in the history of the country have they been as satisfactory.

Agriculture, the most important of our industries, is in a decidedly prosperous condition. The fact that Manitoba has a wheat yield of between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 bushels, and the bulk of it No. 1 hard, to say nothing of oats and barley and other cereals, is the keystone in the archway of promising conditions.

In Ontario, the wheat crop has not turned out as well as desired, but, taken all around, the grain harvest has been anything but poor.

Then, as to live stock, the demand exceeds the ability of the farmer to supply.

The dairying industry was never in such a thriving condition. Notwithstanding the multiplication of creameries throughout the Dominion, there is not enough good butter to supply both the home and foreign demand. So far this season, no less than 393,917 packages of butter have been shipped by the St. Lawrence route, compared with 189,644 packages the same period last year, an increase of about 108 per cent.

The exportation of cheese is also so far this season in excess of that of last year, the quantity shipped by the St. Lawrence route being 1,511,364 boxes, compared with 1,492,664 boxes last year.

But better still, perhaps, the price of both cheese and butter is several cents higher than for several years past.

The lumber industry was the slowest of the Canadian industries to recover from the comparatively recent depression which existed the world over. But it is now making up for it. From New Brunswick on the Atlantic to British Columbia on the the Pacific comes practically the same report, namely, a decided activity. When the Dingley tariff became law in the United States, the people trembled for the Canadian lumber industry, but to-day the demand from the United States for our lumber is extraordinary. Of the home market the same thing can be said. And stocks are rapidly going down while prices are rapidly going up.

Lumbering operations in the woods of Canada this winter will be conducted on an unusually extensive scale. One of the difficulties is to get men enough. This seems to be particularly true of the north shore of Lake Superior. Lumber operators in that part of the Dominion are at their wit's end in that respect, and some of them are paying the traveling expenses of men from as far east as Three Rivers, Que., in order to secure their services.

The gold, the silver, the coal, and other mining industries, are being worked as they were never worked before, and are producing as they never produced before.

The various manufacturing industries in the country are about as busy as they well could be, and not only are a great many of them unable to make prompt shipment, but they have sold away into next year. It is no exaggeration to say that never before in the history of this country were the various manufacturing industries so busily employed.

One of the best barometers of a country's commercial condition is the figures relating to the earnings of its railways. Turning to the earnings of the two great railway systems of Canada, we read there of continued increases over the previous year, notwithstanding that 1898 shows large gains over 1897.

The C.P.R. net earnings during the first six months of the present year were nearly $1,000,000 in excess of those of the same period of 1898. The net earnings of the Grand Trunk during the same period were also considerably in excess of those of last year. Since then the earnings of these two railways have continued to expand.

Another reliable trade barometer is the clearing house returns. These, for the nine months of the year, aggregated $1,121,940,789, against $1,014,245,062 for the same period last year, an increase of over 10 per cent. The monthly bank returns also contribute their share of evidence as to the commercial activity of the country.

The official returns show that the foreign, like the home trade of the country, is in a healthy condition. For the fiscal year ending June 30 last our aggregate foreign trade reached $306,104,708, the largest in the history of the country, and over 50 per cent. in excess of that of ten years ago. The returns for the first two months of the present fiscal year show a continuance of the favorable conditions in regard to the foreign trade of the country, there being an increase of over $5,600,000 compared with July and August of last year.

A FEATURE OF VALENCIA RAISINS.

SOME misunderstanding appears to obtain in regard to the price of new season's Valencia raisins.

After the wholesale houses had placed their orders for shipment by the first direct steamer, prices declined somewhat, thus allowing fruit to come by the second direct steamer to be purchased at a lower figure.

Now, in quoting raisins ex Escalona, which fruit is being delivered this week, the travelers naturally quote a little higher than they do on fruit arriving by the second direct steamer, while a good many retailers, not, perhaps, acquainted with the situation of the market, are of opinion that Valencia raisins by the first steamer should not cost them more than by the second steamer.

Then, another thing to be borne in mind is the fact that the fruit ex the first direct steamer is wholly composed of the better known brands, while that which is coming on the second steamer will contain brands not so well known, as well as the better known grades.

The ruling price for the Valencia raisins which arrived on spot this week is 5¾ to 6c. per lb., for fine off-stalk, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb. for selected, while that which is due to arrive on the second direct steamer will sell to the retail trade at about ½c. per lb. less for the better known brands, and ¾c. less for the brands not so well-known, than the prevailing quotations on the fruit now in stock.

UNIQUE CONDITION IN PRUNES.

On account of the shortage and consequent high prices ruling for prunes of European production, more attention than ever before will be given this season on the Canadian market to Californian prunes.

The crop in California is a remarkably good one. In fact, it has been almost too good, there being very few of the smaller sizes produced. Practically nothing below 70 to 80's are procurable, while last year 110 to 120's were plentiful.

IMPORTS OF GROCERIES FROM THE BRITISH EMPIRE AND THE UNITED STATES.

A COMPARISON of the imports from the British Empire and from the United States into Canada during the last quarter of a century of goods appertaining to the grocery trade is by no means uninteresting. Their uniqueness makes them so, for, while in nearly every other branch of trade the United States has made tremendous inroads into the Canadian trade at the expense of the British, yet in this particular branch the same is not, generally speaking, so strikingly apparent.

In the subjoined table we have not followed the usual course of making a comparison between the imports from Great Britain proper and those from the United States, but have taken the imports from the British Empire as a whole—the Mother Country and the colonies—and arranged them alongside those from the neighboring republic. We have selected the figures for 1898, 1896 and 1894 in order to show the trade in recent years, and those for 1885 and 1875 for the earlier periods.

The numerous blanks in the columns for 1885 and 1875 are due to the fact that the returns in those years were not given in detail to the extent they now are. Take currants, raisins and other foreign dried fruits, for example: In the returns for 1875 they, with nuts, are all placed under the one classification of "dried fruits."

Although the comparison is on the whole so favorable to the imports from the British Empire, a no small proportion of it has been at the expense of the Mother Country herself. This is particularly true of some of the chief staple lines. The explanation of this is that Canada of late years has been gradually developing a direct importation trade instead of buying in Great Britain. Tapioca, tea, spices, etc., are examples of this. Then there are foreign dried fruits: the great bulk of these now come direct from the countries of production.

But, while the development of this direct import trade has been at the cost of the Mother Country, yet the loss to her is not so great as it appears at the first glance to be, for no inconsiderable part of this direct trade, foreign as well as British, is transacted through British firms, while the merchandise concerned in these transactions is carried from the country of production to the Canadian market in British bottoms.

It might be noted, as far as tea is concerned, that quite an impetus has been given during the past year to the direct importation of Indian and Ceylon growth by the high prices ruling in the London, England, market.

It is significant that, notwithstanding the increased competition of the United States, and the efforts that are being made by the home manufacturers, British pickles and vinegar should be able to rather tighten than loosen their hold upon the Canadian market. One British vinegar firm, only a few days ago, wrote THE CANADIAN GROCER to the effect that its trade with Canada last year was the largest on record.

The increase in the importation of common or laundry soap is also significant: In 1875, the quantity imported was 336,830 lb.; in 1898 it was over 2,000,000 lb. The renewed efforts which are being made to introduce dry soap powders of British manufacture are also beginning to reflect themselves in the trade returns.

As will be noticed we have in the accompanying table put raw and refined sugar under one classification. We have been compelled to do this owing to the fact that in the trade returns of 1885 and 1875, the standards for duty were not the same as at present, making it, therefore, impossible to determine how much high-grade raw was tabulated with the refined article.

Of the total sugar imported in 1898 about 12,000,000 lb. were refined, of which

*All rice, cleaned and uncleaned, is grouped under one classification in 1875.

4,386,249 lb. came from Great Britain and over 90,000 lb. from the British West Indies. From the United States over 7,500,000 lb. were brought. In the same year the imports of raw sugar were 15,735,344 and 19,058,683 lb. respectively from the British Empire and the United States. In 1896 only 339,793 lb. of refined were imported from the British Empire and 130,883 lb. from the United States. For 1894 the figures were 189,789 and 304,571 lb. respectively. In 1896 32,185,122 lb. of raw sugar came from the British Empire and 11,337,440 from the United States; in 1894 the figures were 30,837,337 and 41,406,595 respectively. In 1894 the duty on refined sugar was 64-100c. per 100 lb. and raw was free. A year later the duty on the refined article was increased to $1.14 per 100 lb., and raw was placed on the dutiable list at 50c. per 100 lb.

When the present Government came into power the duty on refined was reduced to $1 per 100 lb., and raw was left as before, namely 50c. per 100 lb. In 1898 another change was made, the polariscopic test system being applied, the duty on sugar testing not more than 88 deg. being fixed at $1.08 per 100 lb.

The figures for the fiscal year 1899, when issued, will undoubtedly show a further increase in the importation of American refined sugars, on account of the fight between the Trust and the independent refineries across the border.

While exporters in Great Britain are not neglecting the Canadian market as they formerly did, they would find their trade develop better were more of them to make a personal visit to this country and learn its requirements and its peculiarities. And, then, in appointing resident agents they should be careful, first, as to the man they get, and, then, having secured good men, they should give them some latitude for the exercise of their own judgment. No representative can be successful if no course can be taken and no tack made, unless the principals at home have immediate charge of the tiller. It is just about as feasible as to expect the master of a vessel to steer and sail his craft only as the owner on shore instructs him.

There is nothing like price-cutting to hew your way to insolvency.

ENGAGED IN A GOOD CAUSE.

THE Canadian Pacific railway continue to do excellent work in advertising Canada as a resort for the sportsman and the tourist.

Some years ago a representative of this paper went to New York to see the Sportsman's Exhibition, which has always been a big success as far as attendance is concerned.

He observed that, while the leading resorts in the United States were strongly represented, Canada, with the greatest fishing and shooting grounds in the world, was unknown.

The importance of taking advantage of this splendid opportunity of bringing American money into Canada was referred to at the time in these columns.

The Canadian Pacific took the matter up energetically, and last year and this had fine displays at both New York and Boston. Just at the moment, according to the St. Louis papers, they are making thousands of people in that city and vicinity familiar with Canada. They have an immense picture of the great glacier in the Rockies, stuffed game animals in groups and singly, and numbers of large pictures showing that Canada has attractions hitherto unknown to the thousands of wealthy people of that city of many rich people.

Many of them have in the past gone to the Maine coast, but this advertisement cannot fail to draw a number to Canada.

Tourists, as has been frequently pointed out, leave large sums of money in a country. The State of Maine alone figures that it gets $50,000,000 a year from this source.

The great advantage is that it is practically all found money, because we are not required to expend capital to get this revenue. They use our established railways, hotels, etc., and employ our rural population at times when they would not be earning money otherwise. This money is distributed among many people, and nearly all of it finds its way into the hands of the merchants, chiefly grocers.

We need better hotel accommodation at nearly all our resorts. These visitors have money to spend, and they are quite willing to pay $3 to $10 a day for comfortable rooms with good food. This matter is of so great importance that the Provincial Governments and boards of trade should consider it.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only, not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

A. F. MacLAREN & CO., Toronto, expect their fall importation of Roquefort, Gorgonzola, Swiss, Stilton and other foreign brands of cheese to arrive about November 1.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

October 19, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade is still in a good position. The feature of the trade is the arrival of the fruit by the first direct steamer. This fruit is now being delivered to the retail customers who had previously placed their orders. The dried fruit market continues fairly steady. The wholesalers are also busy this week making delivery of canned tomatoes, canned fruits and canned salmon. The demand for canned goods at the moment is naturally not large. Prices are being well maintained. however, although some lower quotations are reported on second grade canned salmon. The coffee market is firmer, and business is still good. The sugar market is fairly active, but prices outside are rather easier. The tea market is still characterized by a great deal of firmness.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing remarkably new has taken place during the week in regard to the canned goods situation. As the various wholesalers are busy shipping canned vegetables, canned fruits, canned salmon, etc., there are naturally not many orders being placed at present. The situation is decidedly strong in regard to canned vegetables; some wholesalers will not quote less than $1 to $1.05 for canned corn, but the ruling quotation is 95c. to $1 per doz. Canned tomatoes are firm at 85c., and there was one transaction this week at 75c. f.o.b. factory, which was equal to 80c. delivered Toronto. There were 1,000 cases concerned in the transaction. Peas are quoted at 75 to 80c. as a rule. There have been some lower offers by about 15c. per case on second grade canned salmon f.o.b. the Coast. The better known brands are steady and unchanged. Wholesalers are quoting Fraser river canned salmon at $1.32½ to $1.35 for five and one-case lots respectively. Northern river fish are quoted at $1.25 to $1.30. Lobsters are scarce and high. Some wholesalers will not sell ½-lb. flats at less than $1.85 per doz. There are a good many complaints this season of the canned lobster on the market—fish being small, broken, and, in some instances, dark.

COFFEES.

The market continues to gather strength and some who have been hesitating to place orders for importation are likely to be out of pocket thereby. Prices of Brazil coffee in the primary markets are about 50 points higher than they were a week ago. The local demand for coffee continues good at unchanged prices.

SUGARS.

There has been no further change in the local market, although further declines have been experienced in the European beet sugar market. Locally, there has been quite a nice business done. One of the incentives to the wholesalers to purchase has been the advance of 4c. per 100 lb. in the freight rates by the railways. Steamers are, however, still running. Although some purchasers are figuring on bringing on their sugars by boats, the majority are ordering freely before the advance. Prices are unchanged at $4.65 for Montreal granulated, and $4.60 for Acadia. Yellows run from $3.85 up.

See pages 145 and 146 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The demand for syrups from the retail trade continues fair, but the Canadian refineries have little or none to offer. A good business was done in molasses for importation and prices have advanced about ¼c. per gallon on New Orleans molasses, with the prospect of still higher prices, according to the latest advices from the primary market.

TEAS.

Although there has been very little business done during the past week in Japan teas for importation or from first hands on spot the market keeps strong. One broker who attempted to repeat an order a few days ago could not get it filled except at an advance of 1c. per lb. Other advices, however, from Japan do not indicate an advance, although agreeing as to the firmness of the market. The tea in question, it might be stated, was a 15c. tea. There is some inquiry for Indian and Ceylon teas on spot at about 14 to 16c., but, as we noted in previous issues, these teas are still scarce. Further advices to hand this week indicate that no Pekoe Souchongs can be obtained which would cost under 15c. laid down here. There has been little doing during the week both in China blacks and China greens on spot. Prices for Indian and Ceylon teas are decidedly firm. The wholesale trade is, as a rule, experiencing a good demand for the various descriptions of teas.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The new season's fruit ex ss. Escalona was taken into the warehouses on Monday, and is now being delivered to the retail customers. The ruling prices for fruit by this steamer is 5 to 5½c. for Filiatras in cases and half-cases; 5½ to 6c. for Patras in cases and half-cases, and 6 to 7c. for Vostizzas, for 1 and 5-crown respectively. A cable received in Toronto on Monday quoted currants of the higher grade a trifle easier, with other grades being firmly maintained.

VALENCIA RAISINS—The market appears to be a little easier than it was. The feature of the trade, as far as the local market is concerned, is the arrival of the fruit by the first direct steamer. This fruit, which consists largely, if not altogether, of the better known brands, is quoted at 5¾ to 6c. for fine off-stalk, 6½ to 6¾c. for selected, and 7c. for layers.

MALAGA RAISINS—A cable received in Toronto on Monday reported an upper tendency in the price of Malaga raisins in the primary market. The ss. Jacona, the last direct steamer, is reported to have sailed.

SULTANA RAISINS—Advices state that the yield of Sultana raisins has proved somewhat better than was anticipated. Advices state that this fact, together with the speculative action of some shippers, who, for several seasons, have followed the practice of buying in September in large quantities and shipping them to London and Liverpool unsold, has caused prices to be somewhat easier. The result is said to have been most disastrous to those who consigned the fruit.

FIGS—A letter, under date of September 30, states that it is expected that in another fortnight the whole production of Eleme figs will have been taken up for export. Local wholesalers quote figs now on the market as follows: 1-lb. glove boxes 13c. per lb.; 10 lb. boxes, 12½ to 14c., according to quality; 20 and 28-lb. boxes, 14 to 18c., according to quality.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS—Advices received this week from Chicago state that, on account of damage by rain, the estimate of the crop has been reduced by 500 cars.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS — The feature of the trade is the entire clearing up of low-priced peaches in the primary market, with a consequent advance of about 1c. per lb. Higher grades remain much as before. Peaches are still cheap in comparison with the price of apricots.

GREEN FRUITS.

Jamaica oranges are now offering in liberal supply at 50c. per bbl. less than was noted last week. The demand is steadily improving, as a consequence of the decline in quotations. Barrels are now selling at $7 to $7.50. The demand for lemons is excellent. There is a good supply of Palermos at $3.25 to $3.75, a decline of 25c. A fair supply of Maoris are offered at steady prices. The consumption of cranberries has been much greater than usual at this season. Prices keep firm, with a good supply offering. Sweet potatoes have also been more largely consumed. The supply is sufficient for the demand at $2.25 to $2.50. Spanish onions are arriving in large quantities and are selling at 80c. to $1, a decline of 20 to 25c. from last week's figures. The feeling re winter apples continues weak. The exportation has been larger than anticipated, and, as a result, the British markets have not been as high as expected, so exporters continue to lose money. A stiffening is not looked for at present, as the stock which was left on Montreal wharves by the loss of the Scotsman has yet to arrive on the Liverpool market. As it may not be in the best condition, it is feared that it may have a bad influence on prices there. Prices at orchards are lower, the ruling figure now being $1.50, whereas earlier $1.75 to $2 was the general price. Grapes continue to come in freely at prices about 2½c. above last week, the price now being 17½ to 25c. per 10 lb. basket. Plums are done. The peaches offering are of inferior quality. Some good winter pears are still coming in at firm prices. Tomatoes are about done. Those which are offered sel readily at 20 to 30c., according to condition. Almeria grapes are expected next week. No quotations are obtainable, but prices are expected to rule about the same as last year.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS--The market continues to strengthen. For strictly fresh eggs 18c. is the general price, though eggs can be had all the way from 14c. for cold storage stock to 17c. for ordinary fresh gathered stock. At country points 14 to 14½c. is paid by dealers.

POTATOES—The indications point to an unusually large crop, and, as a consequence, low prices. The consumption is large. For carlots 40c. is the top figure this week, while small lots out of store sell at 45 to 55c.

BEANS — The export demand keeps brisk, and prices are well maintained at unchanged figures. We quote hand-picked at $1.25 to $1.35, and prime at $1.10 to $1.15. Late advices re Lima beans state that the crop is but a third what was anticipated. Prices will be high in consequence.

HONEY — Prices keep firm and high. The demand is good. We quote as follows: Clover extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb., according to package; Clover comb No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The feeling is firm, with good stock steady at 8 to 9c. in a jobbing way. The export demand is brisk at figures so near to this basis that it is likely to hold for some time. Dried apples are not offering as freely as buyers would like, so an advance of ½c. has been necessitated, the present jobbing quotation being 5 to 5½c.

POULTRY—There is a brisk demand for turkeys and geese for Thanksgiving, but the supply is very light. Geese are worth 6 to 6½c., and turkeys 10 to 12c. Chickens are offering more freely. They are in good demand at 30 to 40c. per pair. Ducks are coming in fairly well at 50 to 60c. per pair.

GAME—On account of the warm weather both demand and supply are light. Ducks are nominally worth from 25c. per pair for teal and other small breeds to 75c. per pair for large black ducks. Partridge are worth 50 to 60c. per brace.

VEGETABLES — Cauliflower is 25c. cheaper. Fall apples have advanced 25 to 50c. There is a good demand for all vegetables. We quote: Cabbage, 40 to 50c. per doz.; red cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 50c. to 75c. per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 20 to 40c. per hundred; muskmelons, 30 to 50c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; fall apples, $2 to $2.50 per bbl.; squash, 75c. to $1 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER — The brisk export demand, which has been the feature of the market this season continues to keep prices much above the figure that has ruled in recent years. The season shows a steady development in the production of creamery butter, while offerings in dairy butter now are light. There is a big local consumption of creamery butter; also a good demand for dairy. Prices are unchanged. We quote choice dairy tubs at 17 to 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The export demand is good, though buyers are endeavoring to reduce prices here. At country boards both in Eastern and Western Ontario from 11⅜ to 11½c. have been top bids, but in the majority of cases salesmen have refused to sell at these figures. It is generally believed that 11½ to 11¾c. is a possible figure at country boards, as stocks in Britain, as well as on this side of the Atlantic, are much lighter than ususal at this season of the year, and the export to date has been but 41,000 boxes more than to the same time a year ago, while the British make has been very much smaller than usual. All these conditions go to warrant holders in asking 11½ to 11¾c. at country boards, and 12 to 12¼c. in a local jobbing way.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

Standard and select oysters are 10c. cheaper. Otherwise there is no change. As next month will be close season for white-

This light, we claim, produces a steady incandescent light double the value of ordinary, and consumes less oil (Canadian preferred). Requires snuffing only once in two months—does not smoke—chimneys need no wiping. Positively without smell. Why? Because our automatic battery produces an electric current from the chemicals of the oil which carbonizes the wick, thus the above results. Less explosive. Will fit any lamp. Sells at sight.

fish and trout, the fish companies are freezing large quantities of these fish. The supply is likely to be equal to the demand at prices 1c. above those now ruling. We quote as follows: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; Seattle salmon, 13 to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; fiinnan haddies, 7½ to 8c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; boneless fish, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; boneless fish in 1-lb. blocks, 5½ to 6c.; ciscoes, $1.25 per basket. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.25; selects, $1.65; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Offerings of fall wheat at outside points continue liberal at 67c. There is a good demand at this price. On the local street market goose wheat and barley are the only grains offering. The demand for goose wheat absorbs all offerings at firm figures on account of the export demand from Italy, which has grown steadily this season, as in seasons past. Peas are 1 to 3c. dearer, but offerings are light. We quote the street market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 70 to 71c.; goose, 74½ to 75c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 32c.; barley, 44 to 46c.; rye, 54c. A brisk export demand for Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat has advanced prices 2½c., so that all offerings are readily taken at 80½c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—There is a good home demand, but the export demand is rather light, in consequence of large offerings abroad of lower-grade United States flour. Prices keep stiff, however, with an advance of 10c. in Manitoba grades. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—A good trade is being done. Prices are firm throughout, with an advance of 10c. in standard oatmeal and rolled oats. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.50 in bags and $3.60 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Another advance of ¼ to ½c. is noted in the price of green hides. The demand is brisk at the advance. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 8c.; No. 3, 7c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9¼c.

SKINS—Veal skins are 1c. per lb. dearer. Sheep and lambskins are 5c. dearer. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 35 to 40c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 75c.

WOOL—The feeling continues firm. The demand is good, but the movement moderate, as holders are looking for higher figures. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Clothing wool, 17c.; combing fleece, 15c.; unwashed, 9 to 10c.

SEEDS.

As the crop is well marketed, buyers short of their wants are keenly competing for supplies, and have forced prices up 50c. For finest qualities $7.50 per bush. is now offered. Bright, unhulled, flail-threshed timothy seed is in good demand, but, in the absence of any offerings, it is impossible to give quotations. Machine-threshed is steady at 75c. to $1 for prime to choice, and $1.25 for extra choice to fancy stock.

SALT.

There is a brisk demand. Prices are firm, but unchanged. We quote at Toronto: Canadian salt, carload lots, $1 per bbl., and 65c. per sack of 200 lb.; less than carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells, we quote f.o.b. barrels, 70c.; sacks of 200 lb., 45c. English coarse salt 47 to 49c. Toronto per sack of 154 lb.

MARKET NOTES.

Eggs are 1 to 2c. per doz. dearer.

The price of New Orleans molasses has been advanced ¼c. per lb.

The railways have advanced the freight rate on sugar 4c. per 100 lb.

The low-priced Californian evaporated peaches are 1c. per lb. dearer on the Coast.

Manitoba flour have advanced 10c. Standard oatmeal and rolled oats are also 10c. dearer.

Potatoes are 37 to 43c. in car lots, a decline of 2 to 7c., and are likely to be cheaper, as there is an oversupply.

Cranberries and Jamaica oranges have declined 50c. per bbl. Grapes are 2½c. per basket dearer. Plums are done.

Foreign dried fruits ex ss. Escalona, the first direct steamer, are, this week, in the hands of the various wholesale houses.

The business of The Home Cake Co., manufacturers of tea biscuits and snaps, Guelph, Ont., has grown to such large proportions that they are compelled to work night and day to keep up with their orders.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, October 19, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fairly active trade in the wholesale grocery market during the past week. No further change is noted in refined sugar, but raw still rules heavy, having declined still further. Molasses is firmly held at the recent advance, and the jobbing inquiry is good. A good inquiry is noted for Valencia raisins, and there has also been more doing in currants. Exceptional firmness is noted in canned vegetables, especially corn, which has sold up to $1 per doz. Tomatoes also are well inquired for. Foreign advices are very firm on rice, and the local market naturally reflects this strength, though there is no quotable change. Coffees are quiet, while spices rule steady. Tea is very firm all around in sympathy with the continued strength abroad, and business is fair for the season. Fish are scarce and firm all around, while country produce is quiet, cheese and butter being lower.

SUGARS.

The foreign market for raw sugar still continues weak, and is from ¾d. to 1½d. lower for beet at 9s. 0¾d. October and 9s. 1½d. for November. Cane was quiet and unchanged at 11s. 3d. for Java and 10s. 6d. for fair refining. The market for refined here has ruled easy, in sympathy with the outside situation, at the decline noted last week, and granulated is quoted at $4.55 and yellows $3.75 to $4.40 per 100 lb. Demand is about the average for the season, and trading in the aggregate is not extensive.

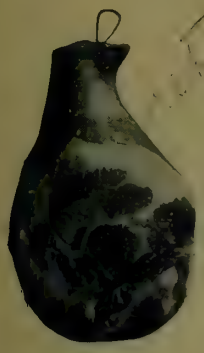
SYRUPS.

There has been no change in the syrup market. Business continues very quiet, and prices are nominally quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. as to quality at the factory.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market has been firm in tone at the recent advance in prices. There has been some inquiry for round lots, but holders of such are not sellers, at present. In a jobbing way, carlots of Barbadoes are selling at 37c. and smaller quantities at 38c., and it is unlikely that any round lots could be had under 36c. Porto Rico stock is also held very firm.

DRIED FRUITS.



There has been a good inquiry for Valencia raisins, an active business being noted, while cables from primary markets report a stronger tendency to values. We quote: Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5c.; selected, 5¾c., and layers; 6 to 6¼c. There has been more demand for currants here, and sales of Filiatras have taken place at 4½c. Cables from Patras state that the market there has a tendency towards improvement. Inquiry for Californian raisins up to the present has been quiet. Two crown layers are quoted at 5½c.; 3-crown do, 6c., and 4-crown, 6½c.

CANNED GOODS.

There is markedly stronger feeling on the market for canned vegetables, and prices generally have an upward tendency, due to the short pack. Demand for corn, both old and new, during the past few days has been good, and some large sales would have taken place had the goods been obtainable. We note sales of 600 cases, for which $1.50 per dozen was paid, an advance of 10c. Supplies of tomatoes are also becoming short, and no stock is now to be had under 75 to 77½c. f.o.b. factory. Peas are firm at 72½c. for marrowfats, and 77½c. for early Junes.

RICE.

Foreign advices report very firm markets abroad, with prices upward. It is reported that Indian requirements will absorb all the crop in the Rangoon district at advanced prices. Consequently, the local market is firm at $3.40 for standard B.

COFFEES.

Business in coffee continues quiet, and there is no new feature to note. Business has been done in Maracaibo at 8 to 14c., and we quote: Maracaibo, 8 to 14c.; Mocha, 18 to 19c.; Java, 16 to 20c.; Rio, 8 to 9½c.; and Santos, 8 to 9½c.

SPICES.

There has been a fairly active trade in spices and values are firm all around. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 60c. per lb., as to size; mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality, and pimento, 8c.

TEAS.

The market is firm, in sympathy with continued strength abroad. There has been considerable inquiry during the past few days but the amount of actual business transacted was light, as buyers and sellers are apart in their views. Demand for Congous is good and sales of some fair seized lots have taken place at 12½ to 14½c., while Young Hysons have changed hands at 16c., and odd lots of high-grade Japans at 19 and 20c. Ceylons are wanted but prices are so high that buyers are backward. These teas have advanced 10 per cent. within the month. In greens business is noted in Pingsuey tea leaf at 14 to 15c., but these teas are scarce.

FISH.

The chief feature of the fish trade is the scarcity of all lines, due to the poor fishing. As a result, the tone of the market is firm, and prospects at present are that this condition will continue for some little time. Demand for all lines is good, and an active trade is reported for the season. Labrador herrings have sold at $5 per bbl., but the market is now bare of stock. The following quotations are for jobbing lots: No. 1 new Nova Scotian herring, $5 to $5.25 per bbl.; $2.50 to $2.75 per half-bbl.; No. 1 green cod, $5 per bbl.; No. 1 large, $5.50; No. 2, $4; No. 1 green haddock, $4; No. 1 green pollock, $4; No. 2 Labrador salmon, $14 to $14.50; British Columbian do., $14.50; No. 1 Red Sea trout, $10 to $12, and pail do., $8 to $9. Dried codfish, $5 per 112 lb.; large dressed do., $4 50 to $4.75 per case of 100 lb.; boneless codfish, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; smoked haddies, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; St. John bloaters, 90c. to $1 per box; Yarmouth do., 60c. to $1; smoked herrings, medium, 10c. per lb.; Lock Fyne do., $1 per keg; large do., $3.50 per half-bbl.; kippered herrings, $1.20 per box, and 65c. per half-box.

Fresh fish are: Haddock, 4 to 4½c.; whitefish, trout and dore, 7½c. per lb.

Demand for oysters is good, of which the offerings are small: Ordinary malpeques, $3.50 per bbl.; hand-picked do., $4.50 to $5.50; standard in bulk, $1.30 per gallon; select do., $1.50.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been little change in the apple market this week. Fair to good fall apples sell at $1.50 to $2.25, and winter fruit are steady at $2.60 to $3.25, with seconds at $1.75 to $2.25. Prices in other lines are unchanged as a rule. We quote as follows: Canadian peaches, 40 to 70c. per basket; pears, 25 to 60c. per basket and $3.50 to $9 per bbl. Grapes—Blue, 1¼ to 2c. per lb.; Niagara, 1¾ to 3¼c.; Rogers, 2 to 2½c.; Delaware, 3 to 3½c. Bananas, 75c. to $1.40 per bunch, as to grade. Californian peaches, $1.35 to $1.50; pears, $2.75 to $3; plums, $1 75 to $2.50. Jamaica oranges, repacked, $8 per bbl.; in original packages, $7 to $7.50. Lemons, $4 to $4.50 per box. Sweet potatoes, $2.50 to $3 per bbl. Cranberries, $6.25 to $7 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Trade was quiet, but prices rule firm. We quote: Choice candled stock, 18½c.; straight lots, 16c.; No. 1, 12 to 13c., and culls, 10 to 11c. per dozen.

HONEY — There was nothing new in honey to note. White clover comb is quoted at 12c., and extracted at 9c.; and buckwheat at 8c per lb.

BEANS — Are firm and in fair demand. Choice hand-picked are quoted at $1.30, and primes at $1.20, on track.

ASHES—Continue dull and featureless. We quote: First sorts, $3.90 to $3.95; seconds, $3.70 to $3.75, and pearls, $5.25 per 100 lb.

DRIED APPLES—The market here is bare, and prices are nominal at 5½ to 6c. Evaporated are offered at 9c.

HOPS — The market is dull at 14 to 15c. for ordinary, and 16 to 17c. for fancy.

POTATOES — Quiet and steady at 40 to 42c. per bag, as to quality, in carlots.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the market. We quote as follows: Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

GRAIN—There is no improvement in the demand for grain on spot to-day, and business over the cable was also slow; in consequence, the market is quiet and without any new feature to note, prices being steady all around. Ontario spring wheat is offering at 75c. afloat, and red at 76c. Peas were quoted at 69½c.; rye at 62½c.; No. 1 barley at 52c.; No. 2 ditto at 51c.; feed ditto at 47c.; oats at 30½c., and buckwheat at 55½c.

FLOUR—The flour market was somewhat quieter, but the tone is steady. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.60 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.40 to $3.50; in bags, $1.65 to $1.70; Manitoba patents, $3.90 to $4.20, and strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.70.

OATMEAL—Demand for rolled oats was slow at $3.50 per bbl., and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—The feed market was steady, with a fair trade doing. Manitoba bran is selling at $15 per ton, including bags. Ontario bran in bulk is quoted at $15 per ton, and shorts at $17 to $18.

HAY—There was no change in the situation of the market for baled hay. Choice No. 1, $8 to $8.50; No. 2, $6 to $6.50; and clover, at $5.50 to $6 per ton on track.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The cheese market was quiet and steady on spot, business being light and chiefly confined to Eastern cheese at 11½ to 11⅝c., with colored held a fraction higher, as there is little to be had. Western cheese are nominal at 11¾ to 11⅞c. In the country factorymen have modified their views, as they accepted a decline of ⅛ to ¼c. per lb. on last week's level, the range being 11⅜ to 11⅝c. The cable is unchanged.

BUTTER—The market is dull and prices have a downward tendency; in fact, in an export way 22c. was an extreme price for creamery to-day, and as holders would not accept this figure for finest, in the majority of cases little trading resulted.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Butter has declined a full cent per pound on the week.

Molasses has ruled firm at the late advance in prices.

There has been no further change in the sugar market since the late drop.

The advance in Ceylon teas in the past month has been fully 10 per cent.

ST. JOHN, N.B., October 18, 1899.

BUSINESS continues active, and but for sugar there is not a weak point in the whole line. Sales are good and collections fair, though the fall has shown rather more than the average of business difficulties through the Province. The war, the yacht race and politics have all had a large share of the general attention during the week. The effect of the first is the more marked, as it is manifest in the increased values in many lines. Tea has had an active sale, but the larger dealers are inclined to stop buying for a time, owing to the sharp advance, particularly in Indians and Ceylons. Some dealers have large quantities afloat, particularly in China tea. Spice in all lines is firm. The demand for ground herbs in tins show an increase from year to year. Rice is standing higher. Fair shipments via Liverpool continue to arrive.

SALT—Liverpool coarse salt is a very light stock for the sason, and but for the light catch of herring market would be quite bare; as it is, demand is rather light. Prices are firm at a slight advance, and, owing to higher freight, higher prices are expected. In fine salt, Canadian is most active. Prices show no change. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 48 to 50c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS — Dealers have been much disappointed by delayed receipts, and particularly by the fact that, in corn, they are not getting their full purchase. It is thought some of the canners are interested in the syndicate that bought up the large part of the pack. High prices are asked. Tomatoes are also firmly held. Salmon are scarce, and the larger quantity to arrive is cohoe fish. Lobster are about out of the market. New gallon apples are to hand; price firm. Peaches are high, and receipts will be light. Blueberries are plentiful and quite low. In sardines, competition has kept prices below a fair mark, considering the advance in tin, etc. Packers are scarcer than last season. In haddies and kippered herring demand has exceeded the supply. Competition keeps the latter low. The quality of this line shows marked improvement. In clams there is improved demand. These are particularly nice goods.

GREEN FRUITS — Business is active. Apples hold their price, particularly Gravensteins. Soft fall stock is quite low. Very few are being sold by auction. Canadian grapes are lower, and are sold very close to cost. In oranges, Jamacias have the demand. The stock is nice. Lemons are dull. Malagas are to hand. They are in fair condition. Malaga grapes are low. In cranberries, native bag are scarce, and being full figures; quality is good. Cape cods are quite low, but firm. In bananas, season is about over. Sweet potatoes move freely at even figures. There are a few peaches and pears, but nothing to make a market. Californian Tokay grapes are sold only in a retail way.

DRIED FRUITS—Market is quite bare, but further arrivals of Valencias are daily expected. Prices will be held firm, both because of the tendency of this grade of fruit and the high price of Californians. The latter is a line that has completely surprised the trade. When prices opened so high it was thought they could not hold the price in their own market against foreign fruit, and, when a larger rebate to Canadian buyers was named than that of last year, this feeling grew, but it was to be disappointed, at least as yet. Three-crown fruit has been advanced, and one large shipper has withdrawn his price on 4-crown fruit About the only line selling in the city is some selected; these tend higher. Malagas have been quite freely bought. Should the quality of the fruit in the 50 lb. boxes prove satisfactory they will largely take the place of the Californian, as, even with the rebate, the high figures prevent the latter from keeping the hold they had on Canadian business. Peels are firm, full supplies are to hand. In currants, both in original packages and in cleaned, the market is being supplied from New York. Figs are daily expected. They will be almost as high as last year. In dates, new will come on a bare market. Evaporated apples show a range in price, but Western holders, as a rule, look for higher figures, and have refused to confirm further orders at earlier prices. Dried are scarce. Onions are quite freely received. Price is a little easier, but higher than last year. Nuts are higher. The arrival of chestnuts shows that Halloween is near.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs come to hand slowly, and hold their price. Best stock is in demand. Buyers are very careful, and it is said they need to be. Best butter finds a ready sale, but as yet the price keeps low. It is scarce and advanced values are looked for. Fair stocks of medium quality are held. Cheese are rather higher again. Stocks are light, and a further advance is expected. Stocks through the Province are well cleaned up.

SUGARS—The Acadia refinery would have the field to itself, but for the American, which continues to arrive freely. Prices are very low. There is a good sale.

MOLASSES—Market continues to gain strength. Quantity of West Indian goods here is very light and full prices are asked. New Orleans is being very freely sold. Prices are held firm. These goods, which before have been but fairly popular, are giving splendid satisfaction. There is no demand for syrup.

FISH—Dealers cannot fill orders. This is particularly true in pickled herring, and at this season the light arrivals interfere very much, as this is the time of demand. Prices are quoted higher. In dry cod and pollock full prices are asked, and the outlook is for no lower figures. In finnan haddies there is improved supply and demand. Price is firm. Boneless fish is active, and for pure cod full figures are asked. Old smoked herring are scarce, and while low in price are rather better than they have been. New fish come in slowly and quite full figures are obtained. In fresh fish there are better receipts this week, but there is little variety. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.85 to $4; small, $2.50; pickled shad, $3.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; halibut, 12 to 13c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.15 to $2.25 per 100; pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.90 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, the market is a very firm one. Millers are very busy and will not shade figures, as they look for higher values. Feed is still scarce and high. Oats show a fair sale at even figures, though market is quite firm. Oatmeal is rather higher. Beans have been again advanced, and the market still tends upward. Stock is light. Beans have changed hands in carlots among wholesale dealers here this week, showing a profit of $1.50 over the cost of a few weeks ago. Cornmeal is firmly held. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.50 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.00; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.80 to $4.00; cornmeal, $2.20 to $2.25; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.25 to $1.35; prime, $1.15 to $1.25; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

In spite of active competition Smith & Tilton, the Maritime agents for Windsor salt, report a good demand. Buyers hold that the demand for Windsor requires them to carry this grade in stock.

Dearborne & Co., the local agents for "Rising Sun" stove polish, are finding business good.

F. P. Reid & Co., Moncton, received a car of choice evaporated apples this week from W. B. Bayley & Co., Toronto.

Fred H. Tippet, of F. H. Tippet & Co., has placed quite a quantity of seeded raisins in cartons with the wholesale trade here.

S. S. Arnold, representing W. G. Dunn & Co., Hamilton, called on the trade this week, and, particularly for mustard, reports a good demand.

A. T. Randolph & Sons, Fredericton, received this week a car of choice evaporated apples from the well-known packer, R. J. Graham, Belleville.

A. I. Teed & Co., St. Stephen, have bought a car of Californian raisins. As far as THE GROCER can learn, this is the only straight car to one buyer coming to this market this season.

D. T. Williamson, representing The Brantford Starch Co., called on the trade this week, in company with the local agent, W. S. Hooper. This is Mr. Williamson's first visit to our city. He likes it very much.

New gallon apples are to hand. Nova Scotian packed fruit is growing in popularity. Many wholesale dealers are being supplied by J. G. Rood & Co., Waterville, N.S.

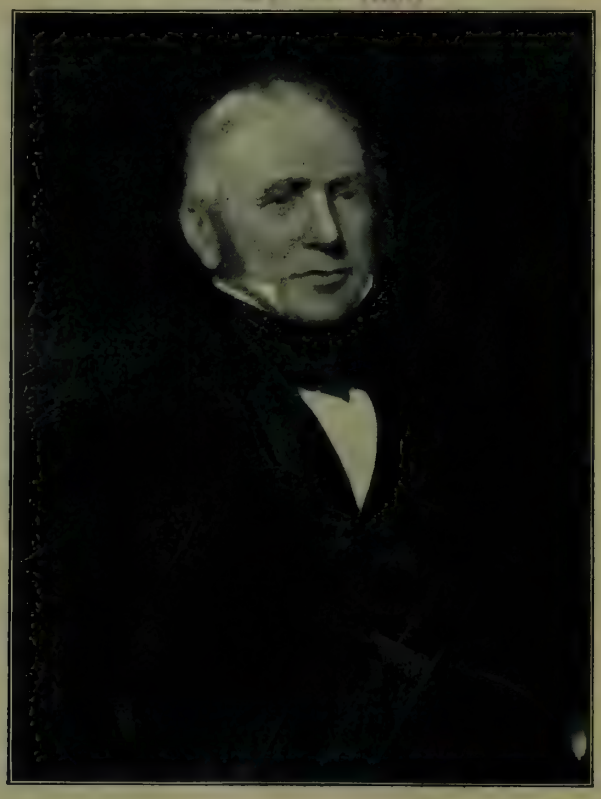
A TOUR OF COLMAN'S MUSTARD WORKS.

By "Pentagon," in Grocery, London, England.

I SAT down dazed. I had been to Colman's. I had seen a little of everything (life being too short to see the whole). Floor after floor, building after building, acre after acre, had been traversed by my weary feet. The impression, or rather the resultant of the numerous, almost endless, impressions left on my mind was that of immensity. The men, and boys, and girls by tens, and by hundreds, and by thousands, the machines without number, seemed to be continually passing before my eyes likes a moving photograph (without the flicker)—or rather they seemed to have become woven into a wonderful pattern such as Goethe's Earth Spirit might have passed through his loom—a pattern in golden yellow, and azure blue, and pearly white, of order and industry, ever repeating yet ever varied.

It is not an easy thing to get permission to visit the huge establishment of Messrs. J. & J. Colman, Limited, but put in possession of the magic Open Sesame—the one little word Grocery, to wit—I was received at Carrow with the greatest cordiality and kindness. Without putting my readers to the toil of accompanying me in the flesh on my two days' walking tour through the works, I will consider them (whether they like it or not) to be equipped as I was in walking boots, a knapsack, weighing about fifteen pounds and containing provisions for the way; and an open mind. I shall insist upon their following where my weary feet have trod, knowing that, although they may feel alarmed at the commencement, they will be amply rewarded before they get to the end. There is only one condition I wish to make, namely, that as I shall be followed in spirit round the works by many thousands of the readers of Grocery, I must ask them to be kind enough to keep their astral bodies from overcrowding the lifts or getting in the way of the machinery.

Before starting on my tour I paid a visit to the counting-house and had a pleasant chat with Mr. Stuart, M.P., one of the directors at Carrow; Mr. Chas. F. Burlingham, the manager and secretary, and Mr. Clowes, the manager of the art department. Mr. Stuart, after a genial invitation to lunch, handed me over to Mr. E. B. Southwell, the kind and thoughtful assistant manager, and we set out in real earnest.



To gain some idea of what was ahead, I studied an exact model of the works made to scale for the Victoria Era Exhibition. The model, which has a big room all to itself, occupies an area nearly large enough to build a cottage on, and contains nearly 7,000 windows! By the side is a model to the same scale of Stoke Mills, about four miles from Norwich, where the manufacture was commenced in 1811, and where it was situated when the Queen came to the throne. The contrast between the windmill with its outbuildings and the present thirty-two acres of well-appointed steam factories offer much food for reflection. It is interesting to note that the manufacture was commenced by a Jeremiah Colman at the date mentioned; Jeremiah, by the way, being a very usual prænomen in the Colman family, for during eight generations the name Jeremiah appears. Mr. Jeremiah of Stoke fame, whose portrait will be found printed on this page, being childless, took his three nephews into partnership, and it is their descendants who constitute the members of the present company. The late Mr. J. J. Colman was the son of one of the trio, and his father was one of the famous eleven of cricketing brothers who issued open challenge to any other team of eleven brothers in the kingdom, and contested innings on more than one occasion.

Leaving the model room, we make a move to the mustard mills, a gigantic building of I don't know what area or how many floors. On entering, the first thing one notices is a peculiar pungent aromatic smell, not by any means unpleasant, although it does rather bring up visions of mustard poultices. A lift takes us to the top of the building and we are brought face to face with the raw material, mustard seed, which, however, is far from being raw, as it has been carefully cleaned and dried for many hours on a kiln. Instead of there being only one mustard and Colman its profit, or rather the other way, we find that there are two mustards—white, and black or brown—which are quite distinct. As might be expected, it is the black seed which contains the devil, and which is therefore appreciated by beef-eating humanity. The white, however, is valued for a certain flavor and other properties, so that a mixture of white and black mustard is always employed in practice, especially as the black mustard alone would be too hot for most people's palates. The price of the black mustard seed is on the average higher than that of white, whilst the percentage of flour which it yields is smaller. The fact of mustard being genuine is no sufficient guarantee of quality and strength, for the cheaper flour of white seed might unduly preponderate. Further, it is possible to leave in the mustard a considerable percentage of the husk of white seed; and still the mustard is genuine mustard, though by no means the best. The moral of all this is that the name of the manufacturer upon the label is the only guarantee of quality which the grocer and the public can depend upon.

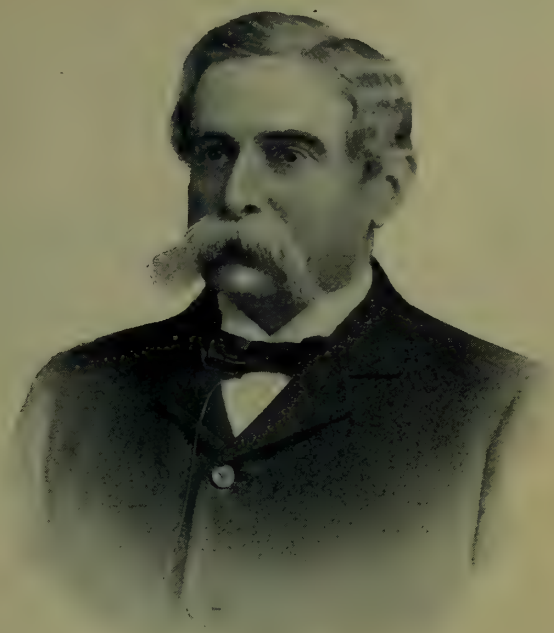
A Colman Motor Van.

At the top of the mustard mill the seed is put into a hopper, whence pipes radiate to the rollers, each pipe supplying two pairs of rollers with seed. The seed, by the way, is ground separately, the mixture of white and brown mustard taking place at the later stage.

I may remark here confidentially that before I left London the editor had impressed upon me the necessity of bringing back important facts as to the number of grains of mustard seed that would fill the dome of St. Paul's, the number of squares of blue that would go around the world if placed side by side, etc. He pointed out that these things were all the go now in fashionable literature, and that my interview would be worthless without them. Consequently, I was all prepared to make my calculations at a moment's notice. To my horror, before I could begin I was pushed into a lift and ejected on to another floor.

Here I saw the mustard meal that had just come from the rollers, and the massive pounders with which it is subsequently treated. Another quick change into the lift and out again, and I saw the meal from which all the coarser particles of bran had been separated by machinery. I was now in a large room, which must have been somewhere near the ground floor—I never was quite sure how many floors we were away from the ground in these immense buildings—and all around the sides underneath the windows were men with small sieves separating the finer particles of bran from the mustard flour. The sieves were made of very fine silk cloth, similar to the bolting cloth of the flour mills, having 174 strands to the inch, or 30,376 meshes to the square inch.

I thought this a good opportunity for renewing calculations, but my guide looked at me suspiciously and carried me off to another floor.



"Here, you see," said my guide, "we have got to the bottom of everything. This is where we treat the bran. To insure uniformity of color in the cake we mix the bran from the white and the brown seeds under these edge-runners. If we didn't do that the cake would be streaky and unsightly. Then the bran is placed in steam-jacketed cylinders, and afterwards put in bags and squeezed by hydraulic pressure to express the oil. Come and see!"

I followed him across the cement floor to where batteries of hydraulic presses were standing. Some half-dozen bags filled with bran were placed between two iron plates and then put in the press, and the hydraulic power was turned on. The plunger gave a little upward jerk and then began to rise slowly.

"What is the pressure?" I asked.

"A ton and a-half to the square inch," replied Mr. Southwell.

This meant a pressure of about 225 atmospheres, or as if the bran had a column of water twice the height of Snowdon lying on the top of it, and I watched with renewed interest. Presently out poured the greenish brown oil around the edges of the press, the power was cut off, the ram descends, the press released, and the cake, as hard as a dog biscuit, was taken out and handed to me.

On the way back to the lift we passed through stacks and stacks of cake, and in reply to my query as to what became of it, I was told that at present it was used for fertilizing vines and feeding wireworm, for this pest prefers the cake to the root, which it would, for want of more attractive food, attack. Probably it could be used as a cattle food if dealt with in a special manner. The oil itself is placed in tubs to allow the refuse matter or "foots" to deposit, after which it is, if required, refined. The building in which this work is carried on is fireproof and painted with asbestos paint.

Having seen the treatment of the seed we returned to the flour, and were shot out of the lift on to yet another floor, where I saw sack upon sack of mustard flour piled up at the sides and rows of tubs down the middle containing weighed quantities of the flour, brown and white, ready for mixing to form the different qualities required by the grocer.

From here I followed my guide into the laboratory, where I disburdened my mind of a question which had long been agitating it.

Mustard Oil Presses.

Fire Brigade at Work on the River.

"How much seed do you think you get through in the course of a week?" I asked. "Five hundred tons? A thousand tons? Because, supposing it is a thousand tons and a ton occupies thirty cubic feet, and a cubic foot contains six million nine hundred and twenty-four thousand two hundred and one mustard seeds, which must be the case as near as I can calculate, then the quantity of mustard seed used by Messrs. J. & J. Colman in the course of a week must be sufficient to reach from the earth to the moon, twice round the great nebula in Orion, and three hundred and forty-two million miles——"

Just as I was feeling really pleased with myself at having nearly accomplished a lightning calculation, which would astonish even the edifor of Harmsworth's, I felt myself seized from behind and something wet applied to the back of my neck. In a moment burning sensations radiated to all parts of my anatomy. I screamed for mercy, but nobody took any notice, and Mr. Southwell stood by with his watch in one hand and feeling my pulse with the other, his face wearing a look of solicitude. At last when I had tied myself into several knots in my agony and the perspiration streamed from my nose, the heat suddenly ceased and my guide asked kindly, "Do you feel better now?"

I murmured my thanks and he went on, "That was one of our sinapisms. They are very useful in cases of emergency, because they act at once. Perhaps you noticed it?"

"I did, I did," groaned I in reply.

"You cannot bear them on the back of the neck for more than a minute. That one was only left on for fifty seconds, but if you would like to try another?"

I fell on my knees on the stone floor, and my guide relented.

"We supply a great many of these to the Navy," continued Mr. Southwell. "Our sinapisms have a linen protection so that only the oil acts on the skin through the linen. The essential oil of mustard itself is very powerful, and will raise a blister on the skin almost immediately. The ordinary or fixed oil of mustard is employed as a cure for rheumatism, and at one time we used to give it away to suffering applicants; but the fact was published in Truth, and we were so inundated with inquiries that we had to desist, and we now sell a specially prepared oil to the grocer and druggist.

Box Nailing Machines.

"Now, in regard to the flour. You know that the brown flour contains a substance called myronate of potash and a ferment known as myrosin. This myrosin converts the myronate into volatile mustard oil. To check the tendency to ferment before it is required for use, we add a small quantity of wheaten flour, though our friends can buy the genuine article should they choose to do so. Another thing I would ask you to make a note of is that the better the quality of the mustard, the more likely is it to ferment, so that when a mustard quickly assumes a brown color on the top, it is the sure sign of a high quality mustard instead of the reverse."

As we were passing on our way to the tin workshop I could not help noticing again and again the wonderful cleanliness preserved everywhere. I consider these works the cleanest and tidiest I have ever visited.

There was another thing that I noticed; and had occasion subsequently to notice once or twice in other departments. Although the tour constituted a connected and thoroughly intelligible course of instruction in the art of mustard making, I did not see all, and I left the mustard mill with a shrewd suspicion that had certain doors been opened I should have learnt more—and perhaps too much—of the secret of Messrs. Colman's inimitable manufacture, a suspicion confirmed by the answering smile of my conductor when I ventured a look of inquiry.

Weighing out Self-rising Flour.

So far everything had been quiet and comparatively noiseless; but now we entered into what seemed to be a select corner of Pandemonium. Here in the tin shop were boys by the hundred and machines as many, all in furious motion. Here strips of tin were converted in a second into the bottoms, lids, and bodies of tin boxes, each machine, of course, only doing one part. Then, like a conjuring trick, other machines put the parts together. I did not know which to admire most—the ingenuity of the machinery or the rate at which the boys worked it. In another part of the room I saw the handsomely decorated tins put together. These require more care, and the machines were worked by men. The whole thing; in fact the whole works, reminded me much of Woolwich Arsenal.

Card-board Box-making.

Packing Mustard in Decorated Tins.

The next section of the tour consisted in a visit to the packing-rooms, and on the way my guide informed me that the first shipment of mustard (Colman's, of course!) to Dawson City, Klondike, took place early last autumn. Thereby hangs a tale, or, rather, a remarkable poster, which everybody knows and has smiled over.

In the packing-rooms was an army of such nice little boys in squads of three—dear little souls—like the singing boys in the Jackdaw of Rheims. Each set of three had a chest of mustard, a pair of scales, a scoop and a rammer. One little lad scooped up the mustard and filled the scale, the second emptied it into a tin, and the third pressed it home with his rammer. All these lads had a curious rhythmical swing, which, Mr. Southwell told me, always characterized the mustard boys. The square tin with the yellow label filled the room. The best mustard is always packed in square tins, the round or oval tins being only used for lower qualities.

From here we marched on to another large room where winsome lassies were weighing the mustard and putting it into tins in the same way as the boys. Here we were dealing with the well-known penny tins, and I was moved to ask if the penny tin really pays.

"Yes," replied my guide, "the penny tin pays—everybody. The penny pays the farmer who grows the seed, the railway company, the cost of manufacture, making the tin, printing the label, weighing, filling, despatching, the wholesaler's profit, the grocer's profit, and everybody is satisfied—including the consumer, who gets a supply of excellent mustard for his humble penny."

It was curious to notice that the girls at their work had just the same rhythmical swing as the boys. As we passed to the next department I asked how long it generally took to execute orders.

"As a rule," was the reply, "they are executed the same day that they are received."

Next in order I was shown the air and water-tight tanks holding four hundred gallons each, in which the mustard is exported. Just fancy four hundred gallons of mustard at a time! Some were labeled with the names of places in Africa and others for Australia, whilst one I particularly noticed was for California. From China to Peru indeed! These tanks, I learnt, when they got to their destinations and were emptied of their contents, were frequently used for storing water, so that, as they carried Colman's name, they continued to be both useful and beautiful, being an excellent advertisement for the company all over the world.

Such strange uses these empty tins and packing cases are put to in some parts of the globe! The casual sight, for instance, of a case with some stencilled words upon it, as we passed through one of the departments, brought a smile of amused recollection to Mr. Southwell's face, and led to a hearty laugh on my own part when he repeated this capital little yarn. It appeared that a missionary recently lecturing in the Provinces upon his work among the natives in South Africa, stated that on one occasion he officiated at the funeral of a white settler. In a country where wood was scarce the sorrowing relatives had utilized the discarded boards of packing cases wherewith to make the coffin. The reverend lecturer said he found it hard to do justice to the solemnity of the occasion, seeing that the coffin-lid had been made of one of Colman's mustard cases and bore these words: "This side up. Stow away from boiler." It is, perhaps, needless to say that these special instructions were printed upon the cases at Carrow Works solely for the benefit of the shipper and to insure the mustard reaching its destination in good condition.

The Engineers' Shop.

Wherries unloading Timber.

Colman's mustard is supplied in huge quantity to the Royal Navy. Report has it that during the recent mobilization the Admiralty would not risk sending the ships to sea without their supply of Colman's. It is even rumored (and nobody at the works denied it, so it must be true) that the ordnance department began to fill the shells with Colman's mustard, and the knowledge of this fact abroad contributed largely to the peaceful settlement of the Fashoda difficulty. Whether this thing be true or no, certain it is that Colman's mustard was sent up in quantity to the Malakand Field Force, and no doubt contributed largely to the fiery valor of the attack on the Dargai Heights. It is also interesting to note that the United States army use the same delectable

By the way, the very finest grade of Yarmouth bloaters—real Yarmouth bloaters—reserved exclusively for the use of crowned heads and Members of the Privy Council, are cured with these identical shavings.

"This," said Mr. Southwell, "is the Blue Mill."

Scarcely had he spoken, when, from some nook or cranny or trap-door, appeared a fearsome man with beard of blue, and in his hand a lethal weapon, too.

"Bluebeard himself!" I muttered, and turned to flee to the solitary policeman I had seen guarding the entrance gate. But my commodity regularly, and the lines of march are always strewn with empty tins.

It is a curious circumstance, when one comes to think of it, that so many of the public appear to think that the uses of mustard in gastronomy are confined to beef, with an occasional dash of it, perhaps, in the salad. But, as a matter of fact, mutton and other meats are distinctly improved by guide took me gently by the arm, and soothing me gently, said: "Fear nothing. Fatima and Sister Anne are safe upstairs with the other girls, and the police take care that there are no skeletons in the cupboards."

I breathed again, and accompanied him into the office. Taking down several samples from the shelves over his desk, Mr. Southwell went on to explain that the a flavoring of mustard, so is cheese; and, what is perhaps hardly known to anybody, herrings become a new fish by its friendly aid. But I am digressing again.

There was yet another wonder to be seen in connection with the mustard department, namely, the steam cooperage, where they turn rough staves into casks while you wait.

limelight, please, and turn on the blue—not the pale blue where the heroine meets her lover by moonlight alone, but the deep blue of the wizard's cavern, the blue of gnomeland, where the wicked fairies in the pantomime arrange to send the princess to sleep for 100 years—and ring the curtain up on the Second Act.

original "Laundry Blue" was indigo; that this had, during the past 25 years, been eclipsed by ultramarine. Indigo is a definite vegetable substance, and is, in many respects, the best material for laundry purposes. It is soluble, and that goes for much. Ultramarine, on the other hand, is an artificial mineral coloring matter, and its value for laundry purposes depends almost entirely upon two factors—shade of color and fineness of the particles. Unless fineness exists, the blue rapidly deposits, causing the spotting or flecking of linen so objectionable to the laundress. As in mustard, the word "pure" conveys no guarantee of quality, for you may have one ultramarine worth four or five times as much as another, yet both are genuine. I was shown samples of pure ultramarine ranging from £18 to as much as £80 per ton. Again, the name of the manufacturer is the only guarantee that it is safe to accept. Colman's No. 1 Azure Blue (ultramatine) is used in in Her Majesty's laundry.

The process of manufacture is as follows: The Indigo, or Thumb Blue, is weighed out and moulded into the well-known shape by girls, with their fingers. It is allowed to dry in cool rooms, after which it is polished and is ready for the market. In the manufacture of light blue, the ultramarine, after being ground very fine by edge-runners, or what the uninitiated would call a mortar mill, is handed over to boys, who work in gangs similar to the mustard boys. One boy weighs out the blue, a second scrapes it into molds on a revolving iron table, where it is subjected during part of the revolution to hydraulic pressure, which makes the squares or cubes. From here, the blue is taken to the drying-room, and then wrapped by girls or fed into a most ingenious wrapping machine. It is only necessary to feed the machine with blue and with wrappers, and the squares come out at the other end all neatly encased in the paper wrapping. The wrapped squares are then done up into 1-lb., ½-lb. and ¼-lb. packets, and labeled. Colman's, by the way, were the first to use machinery for wrapping the blue. There is often a good deal of "rush" work in this department, and, as the Factory Act renders the employment of girls on overtime out of the question, it has been found necessary to introduce machinery upon which to rely in times of need.

"You see the words on this label," casually remarked Mr. Southwell, pointing to one with the familiar legend that the blue was intended for the use of both laundresses and families. "Well an order from the Gold Coast addressed to 'Messrs. Laundresses and Families, Cannon street, London,' found us!"

The effect of the blue mills or the "blue-chamber" is most curious, especially after a morning spent in mustard land. The color seems to come out and hit you wherever you look, and you begin to understand what a very painful disease "the blues" must be. It is not recorded, however, that the workers are particularly anxious to drown their sorrows in the flowing bowl.

From the blue mill a sudden change of scene brought me into the kitchen, where I saw enough Norfolk dumplings, and beef and plum pudding, and other good things to feed an army corps. Everything was spotlessly clean and so nice and wholesome, and the samples I tasted were so particularly excellent that I felt that I had gone far enough, and could now come to an anchor. And then the prices! I wish some nice kind people like Messrs. J. & J. Colman would settle in my neighborhood and supply such provender at even double the prices. The following bill of fare will show you how the thing is done at Carrow, and, needless to say, the hands avail themselves of the privilege in great numbers, and the kitchen is run at a loss:

Monday. Stew, with dumpling and vegetables, 2d.; or dumpling and gravy, 1d.

Tuesday. Fried fish, 2d.

Wednesday. ¼ lb. roast meat, with dumpling, gravy and vegetables, 4d.; slice of plum pudding, 1d.

Thursday. Stew, with dumpling and vegetables, 2d.; or dumpling and gravy, 1d.

Friday. Pint of soup, 1d.

Every day. Slice of cold beef, 1d.; coffee, tea and cocoa, ½d. a half pint.

Ring up the curtain again please. Away with the gloom of the blue hobgoblin land. Turn on the limelight pure, brilliant silvery white, for we are among the good fairies now. Hundreds of pretty girls running to and fro in bright, many-colored head-dresses, whilst the fine dust of the rice starch clouds the air and falls lightly on everything. This is the starch-packing department. Bright eyes, rosy cheeks, merry faces flitting here and there and everywhere.

"What kind of starch do you pack here?" I asked.

"Rice, pure rice," was the answer. "I am sorry indisposition confines Mr. Joshua Womersley, our starch manufacturer, to his home, otherwise you would have had an opportunity of obtaining from him all information relating to the introduction of rice starch into England, as he was the patentee of the process under which the manufacture of rice starch has been, and now is, carried on at these works.* Some foreign makers mix maize with their starch, and even adulterate with barytes, but we use nothing but rice."

"What strikes me most about this department," I observed, as we reached the other end of the room (if you can call it a room, for it seemed as large as a concert hall), "is the wonderfully healthy look of these girls. I never saw such fresh-looking girls. Where do you get them all from?"

"Oh, there is no secret about it. The very air is nourishing. The most anæmic girl gets plump and rosy after she has been here a month or two," replied my conductor.

I reflected that starch would be quite harmless in the mouth, as it would dissolve very readily, and, acted upon by the acids of the mouth, would be converted, as every chemist knows, straight into sugar.

From the starch floor, where the crystals were being packed into 1-lb., ½-lb., ¼-lb. and penny-boxes by the million, we entered another huge room where there were girls again by the score, all making cardboard boxes. It was really wonderful to see how neatly and deftly the thing was done. The boxes were strong ones too, for they were made with a thick piece of cardboard as a framework, so that the top and bottom were the same size and met exactly. Consequently the boxes pack excellently, and the contents do not leak out. The boxes are fixed together with a special kind of paste or glue manufactured on the premises and sold by its manufacturers under the name of "Vego" glue.

Everywhere in the box-floor and in adjacent rooms were boxes by millions. I hardly realized it until Mr. Southwell showed me that in a space which I should have estimated to hold 10,000 at the outside there were no less than 150,000.

In another moment I saw more packing, more girls as busy as the bees in a hive, filling the boxes I had just seen in process of manuacture.

"These boxes are a new line, are they not?" I inquired.

"Comparatively," replied my conductor. "The boxes are replacing the paper packages of loose starch. It costs us a good deal more to send it out in these boxes than in 4-lb. papers, and our profit is smaller, though we charge a somewhat higher price, but then we are sure people get our starch when they ask for it, of which we could not be always certain when the starch was sent out in 4-lb. papers and retailed in small parcels."

Having reached the ground-level again, we meet a hale and hearty old man coming towards us.

The Kindergarten Class.

"Ah, Mr. Dye," exclaimed my conductor, "tell this gentleman when you came into the works."

"Well," said the old fellow, thoughtfully, "I can't tell you exactly what year it was, but I came in when I was fourteen, and that was at Stoke Mills, before Carrow was built, and I am 85 next birthday. But I wasn't in the works quite all the time, because I had fever once and then was away traveling for a bit, but I know it was July, '48, when I came back."

I found out by inquiry that if there is one thing Messrs. Colman do not do, it is to grind all they can out of their hands when they are young and then let them drift into the workhouse in premature old age. There is even an old boy still acting as foreman of the starch house, who has seen longer service than Mr. Dye, and actually counts his period of continuous work for the firm at sixty-seven years! A photograph taken last year of the old Stoke hands showed that nearly seventy preferred continued work to retirement, whose service ranged from sixty seven years to not less than forty-five. The united service of these old veterans to their employers was over 3,400 years. Men do not grow prematurely old at the Carrow Works.

Then I was taken to see the packing-cases made, the wood being all cut up, planed, and sawn by machinery, printed, nailed together by ingenious machines into boxes. Each nailing machine had a boy at the top to feed in the nails, and a boy at the bottom to feed in the wood, and the material traveled through the shop almost as fast as I could walk, going in wood at one end and coming out as printed boxes at the other.

Passing through what had once been a forest of trees and was now a forest of boxes, I came to a block of boilers which were fed largely by the waste from the wood shops, conveyed down to them automatically. This was getting towards perpetual motion with a vengeance.

Then I went through stores and stores and stores of iron, nails, coal, tin, twine, timber yards by the acre, more stores, more buildings, to the printing department, where the labels, posters, billheads, lithographic and printing work is done. Not only that, but where many of the designs are made and transferred to the stone.

By the way, in one of the oldest books ever printed, a Gutenberg bible, sold the other day for £2,950, every page has a water-mark of the bull's head. Was this prophetic? The bull's head is known all over the world from pole to pole, and together with the company's numerous popular labels, is protected in every discovered country. One of the most recent was Japan. Spurious "Colman's" was once found in Corea.

Then I saw more buildings and more machinery, and more piles and piles of goods until my brain whirled and my reason was reft from me, and I was handed over limp and helpless to the custody of Mr. Durndall, the head of the works' fire brigade and police force and the ambulance, who, when I was a little revived, told me many interesting things.

"The Fire Brigade," said Mr. Durndall, "was started soon after the fire we had here in '81, when half a million tins were destroyed. The brigade now consists of four paid firemen and six policemen, who are trained as firemen, and act as such if occasion arises. There are twenty-three fire-alarms in different parts of the works, two manuals, a steam engine capable of throwing six hundred gallons a minute, a 40 ft. extension ladder, and no less than 7,330 ft. of hose altogether in different parts of the works. We can have the men out in one and a-half to two minutes for a fire inside the works, and in four to five minutes for a fire outside the works, all ready to start with a horse manual. We keep the steamer on the other side of the river close to a float propelled by hydraulic power, and we can take the engine out of the station and put it on the river for a fire on the front in less than three minutes." I was subsequently informed that the annual cost of the fire and police service, irrespective of fire insurance, was over £2,000.

This ended the day's work, and free from the fear of surreptitious sinapisms I lay awake at night working out the most stupendous calculations. Given the total area of the floors at Carrow Works, and assuming the floors to be ten feet high, what, I asked myself, would be the cubic contents of the buildings, and the answers were :—1,082,144 square feet area of floors; 10,082,144 cubic feet contents of buildings. There being over one million square feet of floors and over ten millions of cubic feet contained in the buildings, it was easy to convert these figures into 10,000 bachelors' dwelling-rooms of hygienic dimensions, or into 1,667 six-roomed suburban residences suitable for families. These residences would cover an area of nine acres, with a proper provision according to the spirit of the times of about sixteen acres of open spaces for the health and recreation of the inhabitants. The aspect of rest suggested by the last computation is, however, singularly absent at the present time, and the repairing and extending of the works constantly finds employment for nearly two hundred workers in the building trades.

In the morning I was up betimes, ran the gauntlets of the police, and arrived at the works in heavy marching order. Mr. Southwell again took possession of me and walked me off to see the cornflour, which, instead of being made from maize, is produced from rice. This may not mean much to the average reader, but to the invalid it does. The starch granule of rice is much smaller than that of maize and can be more readily digested in consequence. There were the same industry and movement and bewildering buildings and tons of material and the same absolute cleanliness that I had seen the day before.

Then I was initiated into the mysteries of "Self Rising Flour." This again contains no maize—nothing but pure wheat flour and the pure chemicals necessary to produce the carbonic acid gas which raises the dough. Several authorities, notably the Birmingham Town Council, are devoting their attention to the subject of the wicked adulteration of self-rising flour with maize flour, and it is useful to know of a brand that can really be depended upon, and that cannot bring the grocer within the clutches of the law. Colman's Self-rising Flour is beyond suspicion—it is the very best which can be manufactured.

Then the steam fire engine was got on to the float for my benefit and I began to realize what a highly important person the representative of Grocery must be to set all these mail clad firemen in motion. The effect of the steamer on the float throwing its 600 gallons a minute on to the buildings and a certain proportion on to the representative of Grocery, who photographed the scene, was really very fine.

After this I was shown all the ingenious telegraphic and telephonic communications for alarming the fire stations and recording the visits of the watchmen to the different floors.

The ambulance department is attached to the fire brigade and whilst I was there a boy was brought in whose eye had been damaged. The eye was dressed scientifically and the boy sent off to the hospital.

In addition to the ambulance, there is a well-arranged dispensary, at which each morning the medical officer is in attendance. This dispensary is made up of two rooms, one for men and one for women, a consulting-room and a dispensing-room. Here any of the workpeople requiring medical aid or assistance are free to go. The whole of the expense, together with the medical officer's and the dispenser's salary, are defrayed by the company. Leaving the dispensary, I passed through the fine stables, filled with sturdy shire horses; and on to the paper mill, where all the waste of the huge works is turned to fresh account, and where two machines are kept going mainly to supply the wants of the Carrow establishment. Next I went over the machine-shops, where no less than eighty men are employed repairing the machinery in the works and making new machines. The fire brigade with its alarms and hundreds of feet of hose, and this machine-shop, with so many skilled men —which was quite a works in itself — impressed on my imagination perhaps more than anything else the immensity of the whole affair and the enormous scale on which Messrs. J. & J. Colman work.

Even the three-quarters of a mile of the firm's river frontage—lined all the way with huge buildings, and illustrated in our unique plate—failed to impress me so much, perhaps because it was impossible to see all at once.

Two years ago the old firm, for family reasons, was converted into a limited company, but its shares were not offered for public subscription.

The farmers, by the way, place such trust in Messrs. Colman that many send their seed, which is mostly grown in the East Coast districts, direct to Carrow, leaving it to the Company to put their own price upon it—a remarkable evidence of the confidence felt in their integrity; and I may mention here that I was once told that such was the confidence of a certain South American Government in the probity of Messrs. Colman that their packages were accepted without the usual Customs examination. Such facts speak volumes.

Of the schools, not only for children, but for men and for women, and the technical classes, and the clubs and the savings bank, and the lending libraries and reading-rooms, and all the social organizations of the firm for the benefit of the employes, and of the splendid trust of £2,000 a year left by the late Mr. J. J. Colman for the benefit of the workers who had helped to make the fortunes of his house, with the express stipulation that it was in no way to relieve the Company of its responsibilities to the staff, I could write pages, but space is denied me. Suffice it to say that all the time I was in Norwich, and I had chats with people of all class of society, the mention of the name of Colman always elicited kind words and appreciative references. I never heard a grumble.

As I left the works the hands were just leaving too. Out they poured in hundreds and thousands—yes, literally thousands, for there are getting on for three thousand at Carrow—like smoke from a factory chimney, choking the wide gateway and filling the wide street in long vistas twenty abreast. My wonder and bewilderment were complete.

TILLSON'S

"Yes Marm Quality Counts"

The grocer who depends on quality to build up business seldom fails in the undertaking. A low price will often effect a single sale, but good-bye to a second purchase unless the quality suits to a dot.

No one has ever questioned the high quality of Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats (their cleanliness, flavor, freedom from hulls), but that has not prevented us from trying to improve even upon our best efforts of the past.

We have had the "courage of our convictions"—we've installed new, unique machinery, the like of which cannot be found in another Oat Mill in all Canada. If there is a grocer anywhere who does not earnestly believe that "quality counts" in the rich, nutty flavor, the freedom from hulls, the absolute cleanliness and the uniformity of the grade of Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats we would like to send that grocer samples for comparison. The grocer who depends on quality builds business on a strong foundation. He wins trade and keeps it when he sells

WALL PAPER FOR GROCERS.

ON another page you will read the advertisement of M. Staunton & Co., manufacturers of wall paper, and also are shown in this issue a couple of the most popular designs in the next season's line. This firm have brought the manufacture of domestic wall papers to a high point in the development of artistic designs and beautiful color effects, and with it all they have not forgotten practicability and salability in a single sample shown. Everything is in the best of taste, made with the idea of being a popular, quick seller at a low profit to the trade. This firm ask you to see this line, and offer to send a complete set of samples to you, or, if you would prefer placing your order with a representative of this house direct, go so far as to offer to send a traveler to you. Readers of THE GROCER will be only consulting their own interests in getting into communication with M. Staunton & Co., Toronto, if wall papers are under consideration at all.

UNIQUE CROCKERY BUSINESS.

The crockery business carried on by E. W. Klotz, 24 and 26 Wellington street west, Toronto, is unique in Canada. Besides doing a large importing agency business in German and Austrian crockery, he acts as representative of English and American houses.

Thus, without keeping further stocks than a full line of samples he is enabled to do a large business in almost every class of crockery and glassware. The expense saved by not carrying stocks, Mr. Klotz, claims, makes his method of taking orders much more economical than the regular way. To those in a position to anticipate their wants, and whose business requirements are such that they can place import orders, this method of dealing is especially advantageous.

The English house Mr. Klotz represents caters particularly to Canadian and United States trade. The quality of both table and toilet ware made by this house is of the highest. It possesses a perfect finish, so is entirely free from liability to craze. For high-class trade Mr. Klotz has a special line of French fireproof china cooking utensils, coffee and teapots, etc., which should have a good sale, notwithstanding its high price, for they are decidedly valuable.

Though Mr. Klotz visits the trade every spring he carries samples, and is in a position to fill orders at any time of the year.

MAKE GOOD TIN CANS.

Manufacturers, wholesale or retail dealers, or others using tin cans should make a note of the fact that excellent tin cans, for fruit, syrup, honey, baking powder, lard, oil, fish, lobsters, etc., are made by The Standard Manufacturing Co., 100 Front street east, Toronto. It would be worth while writing for this firm's prices, etc.

MAKING IMPROVEMENTS.

To be thoroughly abreast with the times, all manufacturers have to be on the lookout for the latest improvements in manufacturing processes. O'Neail & Davidson, Paris, in recognition of this fact, are installing in their factory a complete rotary sieve system. This firm does a large domestic and export trade. They invite correspondence regarding prices and samples.

A HEALTH-FOOD DRINK.

ONE of the latest health-food preparations to be put on the Canadian market is "Rokco," a drink made from Canadian-grown grain, blended and roasted by a new process by The "Rokco" Mfg. Co. This is prepared to take the place of tea and coffee, and its makers claim it to be a delicious, wholesome and nourishing drink, and to be a cure for dyspepsia.

It is put up in 10 and 15c. packages, or is sold 2 lb. for 25c. A 10c. package will make 75 cups of the beverage. "Rokco" is prepared at 154 Queen street east, Toronto, by The "Rokco" Mfg. Co.

PAN-DRIED ROLLED OATS.

The making of what are known as pan-dried rolled oats is an interesting process. The oats, if the mill is an up-to-date one, are first put through a variety of cleaning and other machines, until at last they are conveyed by chutes into iron pans, each one big enough to fry an ox cut into slices. Revolving round and round the bottom of these pans are two iron fins which keep the oats from burning, and thus allow to be imparted to them that peculiar subtle and delicious flavor which is characteristic of pan-dried oats.

In this country there are no pan-dried oats which have a better reputation than those turned out from the mill of The Tillson Co., Limited, Tilsonburg, Ont. The mills of this company are thoroughly up-to-date, and their product finds a sale upon the foreign as well as upon the home market.

ENGLISH MALT VINEGAR IN CANADA.

A good article that is wisely and well pushed seldom fails to achieve success. Purnell, Webb & Co., the malt vinegar manufacturers, of Bristol, England, have for years had a high reputation in Great Britain for their products. And now they are building a similar reputation in Canada. The reason is that the firm pays special attention to the export trade in plain and spiced vinegars for pickling and table use. During the past season its exports to Canada were the largest on record, while agents are now established in every part of the Dominion.

A USEFUL FOOD PREPARATION.

The nutritive value of the fresh egg has long been universally acknowledged. But the difficulty of keeping this food fresh is so great that in many districts, especially in a wide-reaching country like Canada, it has been impossible to keep or carry them. Many attemps have been made to preserve eggs in one form or another. As a rule, these attempts have not been a success, because of the use of injurious preservatives. A process of preservation has been discovered, however, the result of which is a dessicated or dried egg, that when left in water for 10 or 15 minutes becomes soluble and has all the valuable, nutritive properties of the fresh egg. This is called "Ovo," and is made by The Mecredy Manufacturing Syndicate, Limited, London, Eng., in this firm's works at Stratford, Ont., and Winnipeg, Man.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has given this food a trial, and found it to be as valuable as its makers claim it to be.

The manufacturers of "Ovo" also issue a neat little cookery book containing 150 selected recipes.

GYRATOR SYSTEM FLOUR.

Millers who have installed in their works the new process of manufacturing flour, known as the Gyrator system, have good reason for calling the attention of the trade to that fact. The improvement in quality made possible by this system is well worthy of attention. The Valley City Flour Mills, Dundas, Ont., have installed this process in the manufacture of their "Pride of the Valley," "Red Seal," "White Fawn" and "White Rose" brands. James H. Wilson, proprietor of these mills, offers all kinds of feed for sale, and buys extensively coarse grains for chopping.

Wall Papers

Staunton Line. Spring Trade . . . of 1900.

Many grocers have found wall papers a profitable and almost indispensable side line to carry.

In making your selection for the new season's trade, remember this—the "Staunton" line is the largest—the designs and colorings most advanced—every sample has proved a popular one—they're bound to be quick sellers and at a good profit. Don't fail to see the line.

We will send samples or a salesman on request. The earlier you order the better the selection.

All purchases will be dated from Spring.

OFFICE OF
CARROLL WHITAKER,
Attorney.

SAUGERTIES, N.Y., July 31, 1896.

DEAR MADAM:

In my innocence I purchased in New York (100 miles from here) a jar of your

"Pin-Money Pickles"

It brought me great trouble, and one of three things must occur:

1. You must stop making them; or
2. I must get them at less expense; or
3. I'm a ruined man.

Since my first venture I've had many "jars." My family from early morn cry "Pickles"; neighbors ring the door-bell and shout "Pickles"; relatives visit me in expectation of "Pickles." Your Pickles are my Nemesis. Please, Dear Madam, quote them by the Keg, Barrel, Hogshead, Ton or Shipload, and "preserve" me.

Yours, very truly,
CARROLL WHITAKER.

30 Years of Purity, Strength, Richness.

The true test of quality is the test of time. Jonas' Flavoring Extracts have stood that test for 30 years--and they have won on their absolute purity, unequalled strength, and delicate richness.

The Fruit, Flower, and Spice Flavors that they represent are absolutely true to Nature. If they should vary one iota from the high standard that has made them famous, we could not expect to hold the trade of the most particular buyers in all Canada.

Jonas' Flavoring Extracts.

Large Profits Easily Made.

The grocer who sells "Side Lines" can easily pay a large part of the running expenses of his store from the profit he makes, provided the "Side Lines" are right.

Jonas' Military Dressing is right. There is nothing quite like it or quite so good for a quick, lasting, waterproof dressing for boots and shoes. It preserves the leather, too, and keeps a customer good-natured with the money he (or she) saves. Few Army or Navy people are ever without it, but it is for all classes of people---men, women, children. Better yet, there are large profits in it for the grocer who sells it.

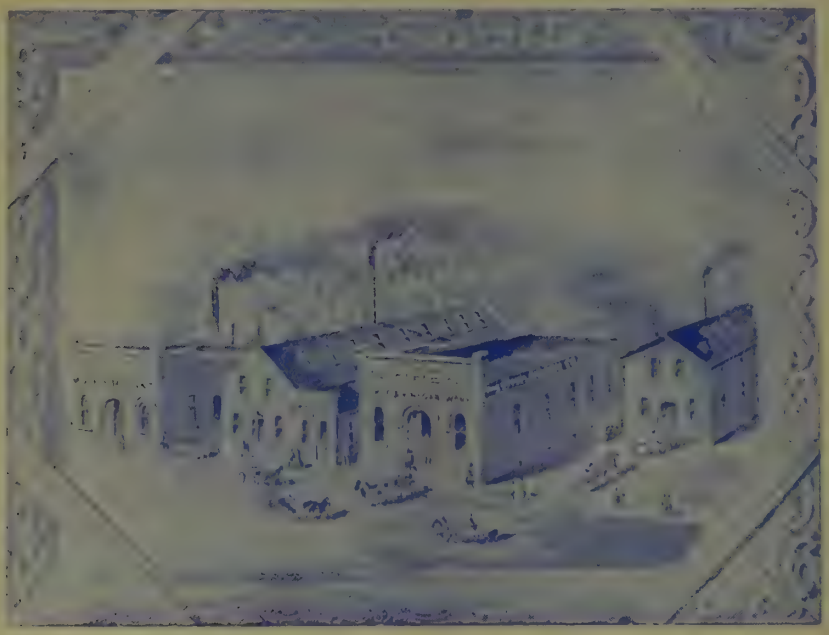
WILSON'S COMPUTING SCALES.



THE demand for fine scales in the grocery store is on the increase. The old styles are either discarded altogether or given as part payment on new scales. By actual tests the grocer has been the loser every time a parcel was weighed on his scales. The trouble with cheap scales is that it takes too much to turn them. Some merchants conclude that because their scales are balanced they must be correct, but it often is the case that, while two scales on the counter may be balanced, one will weigh one pound while the other may weigh over sixteen ounces. This feature of scales has been carefully looked into by C. Wilson & Son, of the Toronto Scale Works, who have been in the scale business for 50 years, and make a specialty of fine grocer scales. They are now making a new computing scale that shows the weight, price and value all at the same time. The bearings are partly "diamond" steel and agate, and they have also ball bearings, which is a recent invention. The sale for the Wilson scales is spreading from one country to the other, and the firm is forced to work overtime to keep up with orders. A complete catalogue will be mailed free to any grocer wanting up-to-date scales.

"STERLING" £ BRAND TEAS.

It is interesting to follow the growing tendency among wholesalers to sell goods under special brands. The success of this system of selling seems to be manifesting itself steadily. The cause of this seems to be that the using of a brand guarantees the maintenance of a high standard of quality, which establishes confidence in the goods that makes their sale an assured fact. J. F. Smythe & Co., tea importers and wholesale grocers, Windsor, Ont., make a specialty of Japan, Ceylon and Young Hyson teas, which they sell under the the "Sterling" £ brand, and the popularity of this brand speaks well for the standard of quality which is maintained in these goods.

"WHITE STAR" GOODS.

If there is any industry upon the success of which quality is the determining factor, it is the pickle industry. Under the "White Star" label The Dyson-Gibson Co., Winnipeg, Man., state in their advertisement, published on page 5, that their aim has been first-grade quality. Their aim has also been the same in regard to spices, extracts, coffees, baking powder, jams and jellies. All their goods are put up under the label "White Star." The firm's catalogue gives the prices on their various goods, and the same will be sent to the trade on application. The accompanying cut gives a birdseye view of the Dyson-Gibson Co.'s different buildings.

Works of The Dyson-Gibson Co., Winnipeg.

HANDLE HIGH STANDARD FLOUR.

Some of the most progressive grocers have secured and are maintaining a large family flour trade by having the flour sold under their own names. They use printed bags of various sizes, which they get either lithographed in the city or printed at home. Those who have been most successful in keeping this class of trade have made it a point that the flour they handle should always be up to the highest standard. To do this the retailer should deal with thoroughly reliable millers, such as A. A. McFall, Bolton, Ont.

BUSINESS STATIONERY.

Good stationery in business is sure to create good impressions, wisely remarks a contemporary. It is sure to make the man that receives it think that the man who sent it is about the right thing. Elegance in stationery means influence in business. Half the world would have confidence in the man without a cent of capital upon which to conduct business if his correspondence was done on the right kind of letterheads. The other half of the world, if they lacked confidence, would, nevertheless, think that there was something behind the man using such stationery.

CANADIAN BEANS FOR PORTO RICO.

Moore & Stevens, bean and seed merchants, Chatham, Ont., have shipped some 20,000 bushels of beans to Porto Rico. The purchaser was the United States Government, who wanted the beans for distribution among the natives who had lost their crops and homes during the severe storms of a short time ago.

In writing to THE CANADIAN GROCER, Moore & Stevens say: "Beans, after being for three years a drug in the market, are at last beginning to show signs of life."

BAYLE'S HORSERADISH MUSTARD.

A novel condiment is offered to the Canadian trade by Geo. A. Bayle, St. Louis, U.S.A. It is horseradish mustard, made from the purest English mustard and selected horse radish, and the best Tarrogon vinegar.

It is put up in glass-stoppered jars, which permit of easy opening and closing, yet retain the full strength of the mustard.

As Bayle's horseradish mustard is protected by an envelope of pure olive oil, it is impervious to gases, so there is no deterioration by the influence of air. It is thus kept permanently pure and palatable.

45 YEARS IN THE MILLING TRADE.

Over a large portion of Ontario the name of John Mackay, Bowmanville, Ont., has long been associated with the flour and feed business. For 45 years Mr. Mackay has manufactured flour, pot barley, split peas, etc., and in this time has established a reputation for progressive manufacturing and honorable dealing that makes his products ready sellers where they are known. While, however, the demand for these goods has grown considerably of late, new customers always receive prompt attention. Chops of all kinds are offered by Mr. Mackay for sale in car lots.

ADVANTAGES OF THE DETAIL OVER THE TOTAL-ADDER:

"The advantages of the Detail-Adder over the Total-Adder are many and important. In the first place, the keys can be arranged to suit any particular kind of business; also to keep separate records of the sales of goods in different departments, such as soda water and drugs, cigars and liquors, etc. If you make a specialty of any particular article, a key for that article alone can be put on the Register. By the use of the color keys, a record is also kept of Credit Sales, Money Received on Account, Money Paid Out, Change, Goods Sent C.O.D., Produce, etc. Other special keys can be added to show Goods Just Out, Goods Returned, Goods Sent on Approval, Telephone Receipts, Postage, etc.

"The Detail-Adder gives you a practical division of your various sales. You can see how many five-cent sales you have made, how many ten-dollar sales, and so on. This gives you a general idea of what class of goods are selling most freely. But, above all, this machine enables you to trace your sales and see that they are all registered, in a way that cannot be done with the Total-Adder.

"If you have any reason to suppose that a sale of a certain amount has not been registered, you can look at the wheels corresponding to that amount, and see if the registration has been made.

"If you have any reason to doubt the accuracy or honesty of anyone in your employ, you can, by watching the wheels, invariably discover whether your suspicions are correct.

"(Here the salesman will tell of the various instances of which he has heard, where the Detail-Adder was proved to be superior to a Total-Adder.)"

Now, it does not make any difference to us which of these two Registers we sell, but we honestly believe that the advantages of the Detail-Adder are so great that there is no comparsion in the utility of the two machines. A man can well afford to spend two minutes more each day, and have all the safeguards and checks upon his business, that the Detail-Adder gives him.

A short time ago representatives of the National Cash Register Company stated to the manager of the Hamilton Cash Register Company that the National Cash Register Company's was a monopoly which controlled the world in the Cash Register business, and they proposed to drive all opposition of Cash Register Manufacturers out of business, no matter what the cost would be.

After reading the above, what is your opinion of a firm that would do business as above stated?

They have now crushed and driven out of business about two hundred companies who have started to manufacture Cash Registers, but we are pleased to state that Canadian merchants prefer to buy a Canadian-made machine in preference to the Yankee makes, as the money remains in Canada and the Canadian merchants get the benefit.

We now have over three thousand Cash Registers in use.

UNWISE SALESMEN.

HE cannot be accounted a good salesman, who, when a customer asks to see a certain high-priced article in the store, replies in effect, "Yes, we have, but it is expensive."

Yet, there are such; and they are met with more than once in a year in every branch of trade.

The other day a manufacturer of a certain article, which he had not long since placed upon the market, was asked for a quotation on a round lot. The inquiry called for a quantity larger than the manufacturer in question had been accustomed to entertain. But before giving the quotation he began to talk about the amount of expense such a quantity would run the purchaser into.

If that man is ever to be successful he should attend to the manufacturing of his goods and leave the selling thereof to someone else better qualified for the purpose than he is.

Still another case in point: A young man entered a store and asked for a certain article. "Yes, we have it," said a clerk behind the counter, "but the price is pretty high."

Such methods as these are anything but businesslike.

As to whether the price of an article is high or not should be left for the customer to determine after the figure has been named.

Tell a customer that the article he desires to buy is dear, and, ten chances to one he will believe it, and either purchase something lower-priced and less profitable, or go to some other store with a view to seeing what he can do.

The office of a salesman is to remove obstacles to purchasing, not to create them. When a man discredits the price instead of dilates upon the quality of the goods, it is obvious he was never designed by Nature for a salesman.

GOOD COFFEES AND SPICES.

During the next few weeks a steady increase in the demand for coffee may be expected throughout Canada. It should be, on this account, an excellent article for using as a leader.

Two excellent blends for this purpose are offered to the trade by the Hamilton Coffee and Spice Co., Limited, 25 and 27 Macnab street, Hamilton. For a high-grade coffee trade, an excellent leader would be the Java and Mocha blend put up by this firm, while for ordinary trade their "400 blend," a medium grade at 20c., should prove a trade-winner.

The "Ocean Wave" baking powder, McLaren's "Invincible" lemon, vanilla and other extracts, which this firm are manufacturers of, continue to grow in favor, a good proof of the high standard that is maintained in their manufacture.

This firm carry a full range of pure spices of all kinds, which they state they can sell at a price which would make it advisable for those using such spices to correspond with them.

BUTTER-SCOTCH AND LEMONADE.

Since the issue of the last special number of THE CANADIAN GROCER, C. E. Colson & Son have secured two more English agencies, viz., Slade's butter-scotch and Foster, Clarke & Co.'s "Eiffel Tower" lemonade.

Slade's butter-scotch was on the market last fall for a few months and proved a free seller, more than 10 tons being sold, proving to all that it was an article well suited to Canadian trade. They have made preparations to supply the demand this season, and already several shipments have been received, all of which have gone off freely.

The agency for "Eiffel Tower" lemonade was secured too late for last season's trade, but Foster, Clarke & Co. have written them that next season they are to spare no expense in pushing these goods, as they are thoroughly convinced that once the people became acquainted with them they will become popular articles.

Mr. C. E. Colson intends visiting England this Christmas with the object of discussing business, past and future, with his firms, with a view to still further extending his business.

STONEWARE FOR GROCERS.

A new industry in Toronto which has recently been established will interest grocers and general merchants. It is the Toronto Pottery Co., 75 Cottingham st., manufacturers and jobbers of stoneware, rockingham and yellow ware, comprising jugs, butter pots, flower pots, churns, meat jars, teapots; in fact, everything in the line of stoneware and common clay goods. Their line was recently exhibited at the London Fair, and it was awarded first prize, which speaks for the quality of their ware. THE CANADIAN GROCER has examined their line and prices and think it will be to the trade's advantage to get their prices before again ordering elsewhere. A postal is all that is required to get them. Mr. G. C. Goebel, of Brantford, is representing them in Western Ontario, and Mr. C. W. Marshall has charge of their business in Toronto. It seems safe to bespeak success for The Toronto Pottery Co.

A RAT AND MOUSE CATCHER.

There are few creatures which are more difficult to capture than the rodents, which are the plague of so many houses and stores. The trap which is really a success in entrapping either rats or mice is a boon. Such a one is made by The Mirror Trap Co., Windsor, Ont. This is so constructed that the rat or mouse, in approaching it, sees neither trigger, works, nor springs, but, instead, a mirror, which, reflecting itself, makes it hurry to secure the bait before the rat it sees does so.

THE GAME AND FISHING LAWS.

ONTARIO has long been recognized as a Province possessing great attractions for the sportsman.

The enthusiasm with which devotees of the rod and gun seek the many varieties of fish and game which abound in our waters and woods is such that frequent changes in the game and fishing laws are necessary, that the succeeding generation may have the same opportunities for shooting and fishing that is the share of the present.

The frequency of these changes is so great that a layman cannot well follow them. Therefore, the digest of the whole law, Provincial and Dominion, affecting the birds, animals and fish of Ontario, which A. H. O'Brien, M.A., editor of The Canada Law Journal, has prepared in past years has found ready acceptance throughout the Province.

Mr. O'Brien has issued his fourth edition, corrected to September, 1899. It is better printed and bound than previous issues, and is just as concise and comprehensive as they were. This work is issued under the authority of the Ontario Fish and Game Department. The book is offered for sale in a neat pocket edition in paper covers for 25c., by A. H. O'Brien, 18 Toronto street, Toronto.

EXPORTERS OF DRIED FRUITS.

O. E. Robinson & Co., Ingersoll, whose advertisement appears on page 131, are among the largest exporters of dried fruits in the Dominion, and their connections are people who handle the best goods packed. They are also exporters of green fruits and poultry, and solicit correspondence from anyone interested in the above.

A NEW WAREHOUSE.

L. M. Schenck & Co., St. Catharines, have just added another commodious warehouse to their canning factory, the dimensions being 40 x 125 ft. From a very small beginning this firm has been steadily growing, and, by packing only the choicest grades of fruits and vegetables, have gained a reputation second to none in the country. Their specialties are tomatoes and peaches.

ROBERT DALGLISH & CO.

The business carried on for so many years in Montreal by the late Robert Dalglish has been taken over by Mr. Frank Brown, and is now being conducted under the name of Robert Dalglish & Co. Mr. Brown has succeeded in retaining all the agencies held by the late firm, and reports business exceedingly good. They now represent some of the largest and best known wine and spirit manufacturers in the world, and can supply the trade with almost any kind of liquor needed. They are agents for Hill, Thomson & Co.'s Scotch whiskies, an old and thoroughly reliable make, which has long had a high reputation among connoisseurs.

Besides their numerous liquor agencies, they also carry a stock of A. & M. Smith's kippered herring in tomato sauce, and are well pleased with the sale of these goods.

PRODUCTION OF TEA IN JAPAN.

A return recently published by The Bureau of Statistics at Washington, compiled from official reports of the Japanese Government, gives the production of tea in Japan for the six years ending 1897:

Year.	Number of households engaged.	Tea.	"Bancha" tea	Total.

MEDICINE FOR A SCRATCHY PEN.

"All pens are alike to me," said the clever young woman, "and all pens would be alike to you if you only knew how to break them in. Don't moisten your new pen between your lips before you begin to write. Don't say charms over it or squander your substance in gold pens. Take your cheap steel pen, dip it into the ink, then hold it in the flame of a match for a few seconds, wipe it carefully, dip it into the ink and you have a pen that will make glad the heart within you. It is a process I have never known to fail."—Washington Post.

PURCHASING AGENTS WANTED.

The European Wine Company, of Montreal, are in want of purchasing agents throughout the Northwest, British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces. This firm are the Canadian agents for the "Royal Lochnagar" whisky, which, they claim, is as cheap as ordinary whisky, and, at the same time, gives better satisfaction.

A THRIVING WESTERN FIRM.

The growth of The Glasgow House, Regina.

MR. R. H. WILLIAMS, the founder of the Glasgow House, Regina, N.W.T., is an old timer in the Territorial capital, from his boots upwards. He was not only one of the first residents and merchants in the town, but Mrs. Williams is said to have been the very first of the gentler sex to make Regina her home.

Mr. Williams started as a general merchant early in the 80's on South Railway street, the principal thoroughfare of the town, and in 1888 took into partnership Mr. A. Sheppard. The business rapidly increased, and when, in 1889, Mr. Sheppard went to try his fortune in fresh fields and pastures new, Mr. Williams became sole proprietor. Under his able management and skilful organization, the business progressed by leaps and bounds, and the rented store near the Lansdowne soon proved quite inadequate for the amount of trade done, so that the proprietor had to look around for a more commodious site.

A fire soon gave an opportunity, and Mr. Williams purchased land on the same street, and built thereon the present Glasgow House, to which he added the adjoining property last year, increasing the floor space to 54 x 85 feet. His store is now one of the largest and best in the West, and comprises many departments, including dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes, hosiery, clothing, and men's furnishings.

At the beginning of the present year, Mr. Williams took his son, Mr. J. K. R. Williams, into partnership, who, as a manager of a branch store, had already shown himself a chip off the old block as regarded business tact, ability and discretion. The Glasgow House staff is one of first-class rank, and they are seen surrounding the proprietors in our illustration just as actually as they may be seen on anniversaries and festive occasions at Mr. Williams' residence, for the most amicable relations exist between the Glasgow House proprietors and the Glasgow House staff.

In addition to the Glasgow House, Mr. Williams is the proprietor of a large lumber business. It is thus seen that Mr. Williams is a worthy citizen of Regina. He has seen the town grow, and has helped its growth. It is not surprising, therefore, that he has been mayor of the town, president of the board of trade and has always been to the front in every movement having for its object the welfare and prosperity of the town and surrounding district.

It is hoped that the steamer service with Prince Edward Island will enable produce to be shipped during the whole season.

VINEGAR

BUY

Concentrated Grape Vinegar

This is an absolutely Pure Fruit Vinegar, made from the highly cultivated grapes of the celebrated Rhine district of Germany.

Why Pay Freight on Water and Heavy Barrels?

Hundreds of customers throughout Canada are now using it and repeating their orders.

Send for sample and convince yourself.

TORONTO, ONT.

Read What the Dominion Analyst Says:

This is to certify that on analysis of above vinegar I found it a purely "CONCENTRATED WINE VINEGAR," made from the grape fruit. Free from mineral acids, metallic substance, and alcohol. After dilution with pure water will prove a wholesome and palatable commodity either for table use or pickling purposes. A very important thing not to be lost sight of in using this article is that cleanliness is insured by procuring this vinegar in the concentrated form.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY? WE WANT TO FIND OUT.

To do so we will make the following magnificent offer to every Grocer who writes for and sends P.O. Order with order: We will present him with one case of five-cent Jersey Cream, not to give away, but to place on his counter and sell (this is part of contract) as we believe, if he sells the five dozen, customers who buy them will want the rest.

								This shows your profit.

Something about Baking Powder

Most of the grocers are working for the manufacturers and the newspapers; especially baking powder manufacturers. Big advertising, big demand, prices cut, department stores make it worse; bye-and-bye, no profit for the man who buys in small or medium lots, but big profits for the manufacturers and the newspapers. Must grocers continue to be penny-in-the-slot men and work for nothing, or can they sell their own brands and be independent? We are helping lots of them to be independent. Maybe we can help you. If you are interested, write us for particulars. We are baking powder manufacturers to the trade. You can have your own label with name, address and advertisement on it.

Current Market Quotations for Proprietary Articles

Oct. 19, 1899.

Quotations for proprietary articles, brands, etc., are supplied by the manufacturers agents, who alone are responsible for their accuracy. The editors do not supervise them. If a change is made, either an advance or decline, it is referred to in the market reports as a matter of news, whether manufacturers request it or not.

"Edwardsburg"

The names "Edwardsburg," "Benson" and "good starch" have been so closely identified in the minds of all successful grocers for over forty years, that now one name suggests the other name naturally.

For a day—for a year it may be—a new thing may command some attention, but enduring success must be founded on intrinsic worth. Quality always counts—in the end. But you must maintain quality steadfastly year after year—you must compete in quality as well as in price, else you are lost.

"Edwardsburg" or "Benson" on a Package of Starch

guarantees highest quality always—and, too, it means that unusual skill and painstaking care and absolute purity have made its contents "best" by all the tests that go to prove it so.

Time tests all things—"time-tested and true" is the Edwardsburg motto. Not for a day—or for a year—but for all time, and thus far with Edwardsburg—for half a century. You are safe when you buy "Edwardsburg"

Dinner Biscuits

Instead of Bread at dinner, many people may prefer using our special "Dinner" Biscuits, and our customers will do well to notice this line.

They are very suitable for use with soup, being always crisp and tasty, and they also adapt themselves to such a variety of uses that they may well become popular in hotels and with housekeepers generally.

Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats

If uniformity in the grade of a cereal food counts with a grocer's trade as much as nine grocers out of ten say it does, then Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats, as now prepared (by new machinery and improved methods), are of greater value to the grocer than ever before.

There is absolutely no deviation from the highest standard of quality that it is possible to produce—cleanliness, freedom from hulls, rich, delicate, nutty flavor. We ask for a careful comparison. Test them in any way you like. Prove our statements true or else we shall not deserve your orders for them.

"Uniformity in the grade counts," you say—will you prove it now in earnest by ordering samples of Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats?

SOME MANITOBA INDUSTRIES.

IT has been frequently said that Winnipeg has no manufactories. Still, year by year, one industry and then another is started, until now (although the average citizen seems scarcely aware of the fact), there are something like 50 different manufactories in Winnipeg, all of them seemingly doing well and increasing. Some of these have already received notice in the columns of THE GROCER, particularly The Blue Ribbon Coffee and Spice Works, others remain to be spoken about, and of these none can be more interesting than the great roller oatmeal mills of The Ogilvie Milling Company.

For many years this mill was owned and operated by Mr. Stephen Nairn, who placed on the market a first-class article, but in somewhat limited quantities. About two years ago he sold out to the Ogilvies and for a number of months the mill stood idle. Then it was overhauled, enlarged and refitted with the very latest improved machinery for the manufacture of rolled oats, granulated and standard oatmeal.

The mill is situated on Higgins avenue, just across the way from the company's great flour mills, and has excellent connection with the C.P.R. main line and the transfer tracks; indeed, there is an archway between the mill proper and the store and packing-rooms, into which the cars run to deliver their loads. The oats are all shoveled from the cars into the basement, where they pass directly on to a large scale, and, as they are weighed up, elevated to the store-bins on the top of mill. In the basement also is situated all the gearing for the five runs of stones on the ground floor used for shelling. On the second floor are the cleaners, and one of the great dust-gatherers. This is a comparatively new machine, that not only saves the space of a room into which to blow the dust, but renders the atmosphere of the whole building remarkably free from the dust so noticeable in most mills. On the third floor are the machines for granulated oatmeal, and on the fourth the hulling machines and rolls.

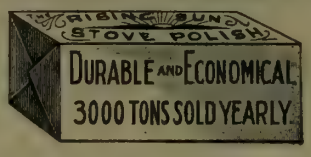
On each floor is a perfect network of wooden tubes, or chutes, and you are not surprised to learn that every individual oat makes the circut of the building, from basement to top storey, six times before it passes into the store room a completed article ready for consumption. The roasting kiln is new and of special design, and is capable of roasting 1,000 bushels at once. In the front of the kiln are five iron doors, one above another, and when one of them is opened, there appears a perfect whirlwind of oats rushing madly around and around. The principle of the whole thing seems to be a stream, which, like Tennyson's immortal brook, goes on for ever. From the time the oats are unloaded in the basement until the finished product is securely sewed in a sack they never stop moving.

The hulls are used for fuel for the kiln. The motive power is a fine 100 horse-power Corliss engine, with two boilers of equal capacity, so that, should anything happen one, the other can be immediately requisitioned for service.

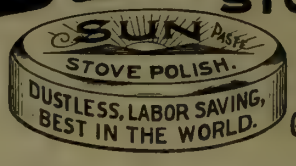
The meal returns from the fourth to the second floor, where it passes along a wide belt into the packing-room. It is warm, fragrant, and altogether delicious. In the packing-room three men are employed.

The sacks put up are 8, 20, 40, and 80 lb. They are white, with the label printed in white letters on a scarlet ground, with the weight of each on the bottom. The 8-lb. sack is a very popular package, and retails at 25c. A handsome 2-lb. carton is also put up, but the demand for these has lessened since the introduction of the 8 lb. sack.

Chatting with the head miller, Stephen Horn, who has been in the business 18 years, your correspondent learned that oatmeal is as sensitive to bad odors and taints as butter. "For this reason," said Mr. Horn, "you can see how careful we are in the handling of it, and it is rather exasperating, after taking so much pains, to see the careless manner in which the average grocer handles it."



In reply to a query about oats, Mr. Horn said the oats then passing through the mill had been grown from the seed imported by the company last spring, and were very satisfactory. Taking a handful of the kernels just as they were going on the rolls, he spread them out, and they were almost all of one size, and perfectly free from any foreign matter.



The mill has a capacity of 400 barrels in 24 hours, and finds a ready market for every pound produced. A fine dynamo supplies a complete system of electric lights.

THE DYSON GIBSON CO.

A manufactory of an entirely different character is that of The Dyson-Gibson Co. The odor of their premises suggests "sugar and spice and all things nice." The brand under which this firm issue goods is "White Star," and the coffees, baking powder, spices, pickles, sauces, jams and vinegars of this brand enjoy an enviable reputation from Winnipeg to the Coast. The buildings are large and conveniently arranged. Within the last year they have added jam-making to their other industries. It will, no doubt, seem a little odd to outsiders to make jam in a country where all fruit has to be imported, but by actual experiment it has been proved that it is more profitable to import fruit in the pulp stage and finish the jam here than to import the jam.

In putting in this plant the company have secured the latest and most approved appliances for the work, and their boilers are the best aluminum, one having a capacity of 100 gallons and the other 40. About a ton of jam is turned out daily. This jam is put up in 1 to 10-lb. packages, and just here is noticeable a well-established rule of the house, and that is, to put all their products in such receptacles as will be useful to the housewife after they are empty. For this reason their jams are put in pail-shaped pottery jars with handles of wire and wood, and covers of the same material as the jar. The pound packages are put up in convenient glass jars.

Though baking powder is put up in many styles, the pint self-sealer is the most sought after.

The company do a very large business in pickling, and it is quite a sight to see the loads of vegetables coming in. Wagons piled mountains high with cauliflower as white as snow, cucumbers and onions galore, as many as five loads of the latter being received in one morning. The pickling is all done in the basement, and there the vegetables pass by elevator to the top floor, where a long, light, well-ventilated room is used for packing. On either side of the long tables are rows of women deftly arranging the pickles in bottles of octagon shape. In this room is a machine for putting on the "Pheonix" cap. There is only one other factory in Canada that uses these machines.

Among the lines put up by the company are "Piccalili," and "Sweet Piccalili," white onions, ordinary mixed pickles, sweet mixed and chow chow. All these pickles are of excellent quality and artistically arranged. The company employ about 30 hands, most of them women. They receive fair wages, and their interests seem to be well looked after. Recently the company have received a fresh impetus, owing to a large amount of its stock being bought by a man with plenty of capital. Mr. Dyson, managing-director, has been an active member of the city council for some years.

DREWRY'S.

The Redwood Brewing Company are now making a special feature of the manufacture of chutney and kindred sauces, which are artistically put up, and appear to meet with a ready sale.

THE CODVILLE CO.

Some weeks ago the readers of THE GROCER were promised a description of The Codville Co.'s new warehouse. This company's advent dates back to the early eighties, when the style was Thompson, Codville & Co. After the death of the senior partner, Mr. Thompson, it was formed into a joint stock company under its present style, The Codville Co. The warehouse was for many years on McDermott avenue west, but during the past summer they had built for them on Bannatyne avenue east a solid brick and stone warehouse, 50 x 135 feet, four storeys high, with basement. In the rear is a platform 20x50 feet, extending to the transfer track. The area below the platform is utilized for the storage of salt and commodities not affected by frost. The basement proper is well lighted, has high ceilings and cement floor. Here is situated the furnace for the one-pipe steam system by which the building is warmed. The balance of the basement is devoted to carefully arranged storage for perishable goods, such as vinegars, pickles, fruits in syrup, sauces and cheese. On the ground floor is the entrance door, opening into a large square vestibule; this again opens into the general office and sample-room. Off the general office are three handsome private offices. All the offices and the sample-room are furnished in British Columbian whitewood, shellaced and varnished, with partitions of crystaline glass. The ceilings are metal, painted white, with delicate salmon borders. The whole effect is one of cheerfulness and light. Each private office and the general office has complete telephone communication with each office, as well as the shippers' office and the general telephone system. The balance of the ground floor is devoted to the shipping-room and shipping-office. There are three doors for receiving and three for despatching goods.

The second floor is devoted to all classes of canned goods, and here is situated a large and convenient room for the sorting and packing of broken lots. On the third floor are the excise and bonded rooms, the stock of teas and coffees and a large tea-room where a number of women are employed in putting up the firm's special brand of "Gold Standard" teas. On the fourth floor are found the light goods, woodenware, pails, brooms, tubs, baskets and matches, and a very modern and complete fruit-cleaning apparatus run by electricity and capable of cleaning from 8 to 10 tons of fruit per day.

An 8-ton capacity, electric elevator carries the goods to the various floors. It is controlled by a system of electric bells on each flat and has automatic doors. The ware-rooms are lighted by electric lights, and the offices with Auer lights. The whole establishment is thoroughly well equipped and up-to-date.

THE MACPHERSON FRUIT CO.

The Macpherson Fruit Co. are finding their new building none too large for their steadily increasing trade. They have been among the largest and most successful importers this season.

Grain Exchange building. They control the cured meat products of Gordon, Ironside & Fares, and also have charge of their cold storage warehouses at Winnipeg, Rat Portage and Fort William. The company do an extensive business in butter, eggs and cheese, and handle enormous quantities of Canadian apples as well as other fruits. The fact that they have placed 100 cars of apples already this season, and have received from one line of railway alone 8,000 cases of eggs, will give some idea of the immense business done by this progressive firm.

THE MANITOBA DAIRY COMPANY, LIMITED.

This young industry, which is now only in its second year of operation, has won for itself an enviable reputation among the older brands of condensed milk, and "Jubilee" brand can now hold up its head with the best of them. Strange as it may seem, the only serious difficulty encountered by the company was the extreme richness of the fresh milk. The experts, accustomed to the average grade of milk in other Provinces and districts, were completely puzzled when first attempting to handle it. Their "Jubilee" grade of butter in small tins for export maintains the standard that enabled them to carry off the gold medal at Jamaica.

THE FRENCH SUGAR SYNDICATE.

The sugar "corner" attempted by a French sydicate, which at one time appeared fairly successfull has ended in collapse, and sugar there, as a result, has fallen 10s. a ton. Some speculators have lost very heavily, one Paris financier being, it is said, £40,000 out of pocket, in consequence of his participation in the attempt to monopolize the market. We are told that the failure of the gigantic scheme has been effected by the belief that the coming European beet crop will be a record one. The official "estimates" will be issued in a few days' time. It is believed that the crop will exceed 5,000,000 tons. With the failure of the "corner" and overproduction, consumers need not fear that sugar will become dearer for some time to come.—Grocers' Journal, September 30.

THE COFFEE REVOLUTION.

The following remarks by a well-known firm are, says Planting Opinion, worth noting, especially the concluding sentence: "Another two years of low prices, and then * * * seems to be the verdict of some—others, more sanguine, look for a nearer swing of the pendulum. Overproduction, it is certain, cannot go on for ever, and must work its own cure, but a much larger production may continue, and, as far as we can see, must continue to be the order of the day especially in the districts supplying Santos coffee, where the total cost of production is lower than in any other part of the world. All the world, however, will not drink pure Brazil coffee, when anything finer and more choice in quality is to be had, specially when these qualities have fallen at least 50 per cent. in price without any increase in supplies; at the same time medium qualities with no great intrinsic merit of flavor and only a merit of appearance will have to take rank with Santos coffee, however painful may be the process to the producers of such kinds; thus a complete revolution in relative values is slowly and surely being accomplished, such as we long ago pointed out would happen; nothing can prevent or retard it, and ultimately every description will have to stand on its merits in relation to Santos coffee as the standard of value."

A young man entered J. Butcher's grocery store, Queen and Soho streets, Toronto, and, while making a pretence of using the telephone, took $35 from the till. The thief evidently only noticed the compartment which held the bills of small denomination and overlooked about $200 which was in the adjoining compartment of the cash drawer.

THERE WAS AN EXCEPTION.

On a sleeper on a Texas railroad train recently, according to an exchange, a traveling man noticed an old white-bearded gentleman trying to get on a linen duster. The young and spry traveler rushed to his assistance, and in helping him with his garment he noticed a good sized bottle of whiskey protruding from one of the inside pockets of his coat. Being of a waggish nature he appropriated the bottle, got the coat on the stranger and then pulling out the flask said :

"Will you take a drink, sir?"

The old man did not recognize the bottle, and drawing himself up, remarked rather severely : "No, sir ; I never drink !"

"It won't hurt you," insisted the wag ; "it's the best."

"Young man," said the old gentleman, in a tone intended for the whole car, "if you insist on drinking whisky you will be a ruined man at 40. It is the curse of the land. When I was a boy my mother died, and the last thing that sainted mother did was to call me to her dying bedside and say : 'John, swear to me that you will never touch a drop of liquor.'"

Here the old man clapped his hand to his pocket and found it empty, and recognizing the bottle in the hands of the traveler, he continued :

"'Except, my dear boy, an occasional snifter while traveling,'" and reaching for the flask he pressed it to his lips amid a howl of laughter which shook the car.

RUSSIAN TEA.

The Madras Mail remarks : Indian tea-planters may be interested to hear that the Chakvin estate, in the Caucasus, yielded 72,000 lb. of tea this year. This is said to be a very considerable advance on last year's harvest. Hitherto, tea planting in the Caucasus has only been carried on in a small way ; but, if the industry proves a financial success, there seems a probability of a considerable increase in the area under tea before long.

A GOOD SIGN.

It is a good sign when factory premises become so small that enlargement is necessary. This is the happy position of Taylor & Pringle, manufacturers of vinegars, pickles, and table delicacies, Owen Sound. They recently enlarged both their factory and warehouse, and yet, notwithstanding, they are already again beginning to feel a little circumscribed.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

CANNED GOODS SCARCE IN NEW YORK.

IN canned goods, as in dried fruits, there is a great scarcity of spot goods of nearly all descriptions. In fact it is asserted that about everything put into cans, fruits, vegetables and fish, is short, tomatoes being about the only notable exception, and the supply of these is not thought to much exceed the probable requirements of consumption between now and the time when the next pack will be available. The combination of short supplies and an exceptionally good and increasing demand is causing a very strong feeling all along the line, and prices are advancing on most of the staple vegetables and on about all of the fruits, Southern as well as Californian packed.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, Oct. 23.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

A London, England, paper, of October 14, says: "Business in salmon continues restricted, very few transactions being reported. The absence of any disposition on the part of holders to force sales is rather a strong feature at the present time, as at this season of the year it is usual to find importers in a quiet market anxious to dispose of their remaining stocks, rather than incur rent and loss of interest."

THE CURRANT SITUATION.

The usual season's demand is now being experienced for currants. The quality of later shipments is an agreeable surprise, showing, as it does, in several grades a distinct and important improvement on earlier arrivals, This is especially noticeable in the better growths of Provincial, and, on the hand, in higher grades of Vostizza. The market is now provided with full assortment at a most useful range in prices, beginning a a figure which enables the grocer, if he desires it, to frunish his customers with sound useful fruit at 2d. per lb. and so on through all grades, with specialites in size, flavor, and color to suit the fancies and requirements of all purchasers, up to the article de luxe, for which the retailer can obtain almost any price he likes to ask from his more fastidious clients. This growing improvement in quality as shipments proceed is somewhat unusual and not easy to account for, as the general experience is that the first arrivals are the best, and that a regular deterioration is seen as the season advances; but, whatever may be the cause, the fact is one for general congratulation.—Produce Markets' Review, Oct. 14.

OREGON CURED PRUNES.

The Oregon Agriculturist says that from such information as is now available it seems quite certain that the crop of cured prumes in Oregon this year will exceed 5,000,000 pounds, about half of which will come from Douglas county. The total output of the State will be 40 per cent. of last year's crop and more than 25 per cent. of what might be considered a full crop. The bulk of the crop is made up of Petites.

THE FIG SITUATION.

Cables from Smyrna report an advance of 20 per cent. in the cost of figs. A similar advance, it is reported, has occurred in London. This market has not responded. Next week there will be two auction sales here. On Tuesday 150 cases will be presented, and on Friday the offerings will consist of 500 cases and 3,000 bags.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 21.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

Immediately following our last review sales were made of about 9,000 packages old crop Formosa tea, and as near as could be learned, the price paid was in the neighborhood of 13c. in bond. The market has shown a good undertone, particularly for the lower grades. Both dealers and brokers have reported a steadily broadening demand from the interior trade for tea price, and for the week a fairly large volume of business has been transacted at full value.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, Oct. 21.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS

Talk of a Boycott.

The boycott of a grocery store is a decidedly rare thing in Canada, yet such a thing is talked of in Toronto. Benj. Panter, a member of the executive of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, and a progressive grocer withal, who has for some years carried on a good business on Davenport road, decided this summer to start a grocery store in Parkdale. A good lot on the corner of King street and Spencer avenue was procured, and the erection of a first-class brick and stone store and residence was started. As there is no store nearer than Queen street, and, as this is in the centre of the Parkdale residential district, some of the property owners in the neighborhood protested strongly against the erection of a store in their midst. They even went, it is said, so far as to try to get an injunction against its erection. That failing, they now threaten to revenge themselves on Mr. Panter by boycotting his store. I don't think they are acquainted with the spirit of the man they will have to deal with if they think he is likely to be much influenced by such threats.

THE RAMBLER.

Frank Y. Benton, cheese buyer, Belleville, Ont., and Miss Lena Jenkins, of Rochester, N.Y., were married a few days ago.

The crop of apples in the Annapolis valley, Nova Scotia, is exceeding the anticipation of the growers. There are several orchards in Kings county which will produce 2,000 barrels. Good prices are ruling. It is reported that $3 per barrel has been paid by some parties for a few special lots.

BE SURE YOU'RE RIGHT.

THERE is an old saying that "the longest way round is the shortest way there." What is really meant by this is, that the man who tries to "cut corners" often has to retrace his steps, whereas, the man who doesn't act on the impulse of the moment is the one who first reaches the goal. "Be sure you're right, then go ahead." Many grocers lose sight of the fact that to get a good article one has to pay a good price. The temptation to "cut corners," so to speak, and to save a little money at the expense of quality often leads a grocer into difficulties from which there is no escape excepting that he retrace his steps and begin all over again. It is not for us to tell a grocer how hard it is to regain business that he has once lost—too many grocers are familiar enough with the disaster which always eventually arrives when quality is sacrificed for price. The temptation is strong, we know, but what does the few cents extra profit amount to compared with the hundreds of dollars that are lost in the end ?

A grocer who tries to beat down the price of an article of known merit—a staple price below which the manufacturer cannot possibly go without lowering the standard of his goods—injures himself and his own trade, too. He deliberately asks the manufacturer to lower the quality of goods that his trade have become familiar with. Sooner or later, the customers of that grocer find this out, and three persons suffer in the deal : the manufacturer, the grocer, and the grocer's customer all lose.

Many grocers who are not familiar with cigar-making in all its different branches fail to realize that there is a point below which it is not possible for the manufacturer to venture without lowering a standard of quality which has established his reputation on a certain brand. When a grocer ventures to remonstrate with such a manufacturer and tries to beat him down on the price he is treading on dangerous ground. Because the grocer can sell a cigar for 5c. and make a good profit thereon (larger probably than on nine-tenths of every other article that he carries in stock), there is no reason why he should attempt to "cut corners" for the purpose of making a little extra profit himself at the expense of the manufacturer's name and of his own business.

Frankly, we will say that there are a few obscure brands of 5c. cigars which a grocer can buy for less than the price that a manufacturer would have to charge who has established a reputation for quality and for uniformity of quality, but it is easy for the grocer to decide as to the wisdom of laying in a cheap stock—"cheap" from every point of view.

If you are a grocer yourself it is better for you to turn this question over in your mind carefully and look at it from all sides and then, when you have decided with us (as we are sure you will), then we say, write to some reliable manufacturer and do not try to beat down his prices. After you have thought the matter all over, in all its phases, we are sure that you will agree that it is better to "be sure you're right, then go ahead," than to try to "cut corners."

Difficulty is being experienced in squeezing some of the large manufacturers into the corset trust. They evidently haven't a woman at the job.

INITIATING AND IMITATING.

HE who would win in business must mind his own business. There is no other alternative.

While the Shamrock and the Columbia were sailing their series of international races the one did not port or starboard its helm because the other did. Neither did the one tack, or hoist or lower a certain sail because the other did.

The skipper of each boat knew that it was only possible to win by doing the very best he could. When he thought it best to order a tack he did so, and when he was of opinion that the hoisting of a certain sail would capture a favorable breeze that sail was forthwith hoisted.

He wanted to keep or get ahead of the other yacht ; that was all he was concerned about.

Had the winning yacht made no move or hoisted no sail until after its competitor had done so it would have lost and not won.

Business men who hesitate to act because they fear competitors will follow, or who only imitate when competitors initiate, never get anything better than second place.

Do not, when a man is outfeating you in business, sit down and swear, but get up and get after him.

VALENCIA RAISINS STRONG.

Not for a long time has the position of the Valencia raisin market been as strong and as promising as it now is.

The irregularity which was so marked a few weeks ago has given place to a firmness which is even more marked.

Cables received this week report a further advance in quotations in the primary market.

At the prices ruling to-day in Spain, it would cost 6½c. to lay down selected raisins upon this market.

Although local wholesalers have advanced their prices during the past week ¼ to ½c. per lb., it is obvious, in view of the conditions obtaining abroad, that there must be further appreciations in values.

One significant feature of the situation, as far as Canada is concerned, is that not only has the second direct steamer no consigned raisins on board, but that stocks at present in this country are only about one-half what they usually are at this season.

CANADIAN CANALS—HOW THEY ARE VIEWED IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE chief import in the recent opening of the Soulanges canal on the St. Lawrence river was not in the mere opening of the canal itself, important and all as that was.

Its chief import lay in the fact that, by the opening of this canal, the last obstacle which prevented a vessel drawing 14 feet of water from sailing from Port Arthur to the sea had been removed.

From Port Arthur, at the head of Lake Superior to Father Point, at the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, a distance of over 1,600 miles, a 14-foot channel is now guaranteed ; or, to put it another way, a vessel drawing 14 feet of water can leave Port Arthur, at the head of fresh water navigation, and sail direct to Liverpool, a distance of 4,494 miles.

The first canal on the downward journey is the Sault Ste. Marie, with a depth of over 20 feet, and the last is at Montreal, the Lachine, with a depth of 14 feet.

Between the first and the last-named canal there is a distance of a little over 1,000 miles, of which 70⅝ miles is canal.

The placing of this great inland waterway in the position it is to-day has not been accomplished without the expenditure of a good deal of money. Up to June 30, 1898, there were expended, chargeable to capital alone, over $57,100,000 on the Lachine, Beauharnois, Soulanges, Williamsburg, Cornwall, Welland, and Sault Ste. Marie canals, while the total expenditure of all kinds upon all the canals of the country was over $87,500,000.

Large as the amount of money is that has been expended on the canal system of Canada, we have a most valuable asset to show for it, even granting that some of the expenditure has been injudicious.

The importance to the country of the great inland waterway to the sea can scarcely be overestimated. We, perhaps, may begin to gather some conception how handicapped we would be in developing the wheat areas of the great Northwest were we without it, or were its original unnavigable stretches unspanned by canals.

Without her inland waterways to the sea Canada could not bring her grain from the "Golden West" and compete in the European market with that which was the product of other exporting countries.

Water transportation is the cheapest transportation. Before a committee of the Dominion Senate early in 1898, it was stated that the cost of deep-water transportation was only about one-tenth the average cost of rail transportation. It was also shown that what was done for $1 on the great lakes, in the way of carrying freight, costs the best situated railway in the United States $27 to do. It is obvious, therefore, aside altogether from its own inherent qualities, that the canal is a by no means unimportant factor in the regulation of railway freight rates. Even the somewhat opprobiously termed Lake Erie ditch, with its few feet of water, has compelled the railways to carry grain from Buffalo to New York at an extremely low rate. During the past season wheat has been carried by the railroads from the former to the lattter point at 3½c. per bushel, a distance of 420 miles, and that included elevator charges at Buffalo and lighterage at New York.

It is obvious Canada cannot too jealously look after her inland waterways and canals. What is wanted is neither an extravagant nor a parsimonious policy in their management, but a liberal businesslike one. And one which will not only keep them in good condition, but that will induce more of the shippers of grain from the Canadian Northwest to use the Canadian instead of the United States route to the sea, to say nothing of United States grain that may be attracted thereto.

At present, only about one out of every five bushels of Canadian Northwest wheat exported travels to the seacoast via the St. Lawrence route. The other four bushels are shipped by United States ports.

The people of New York and Buffalo recognize the vast possibilities Canada has in her St. Lawrence route to the sea, and the improvements which have lately been made in that route have quite alarmed them, and an energetic campaign in favor of the improvement of the canal system of New York State has been inaugurated, in order that business may not be diverted from United States to Canadian routes. "That the Canadian canals have diverted American business," remarks the New York Journal of Commerce in a recent issue, "is certain, and that with the enlargement now completed they will divert more of it is highly probable."

Clearly, Canada cannot afford to go to sleep in the saddle.

COHOE CANNED SALMON.

THE position in regard to canned cohoe salmon is gathering strength. It is generally conceded that the pack is a light one, and the high price, 20 to 22c., which the canneries have been compelled to pay for fish, to say nothing of other increases, has made the cost of packing high.

There have been one or two transactions during the past week at a little less than $3.50 f.o.b. the Coast. But, as a rule, packers are firm at $3.50, while with some the idea is $3.75. At these prices there is not much disposition to buy. Neither is there much disposition to sell, for even at these figures there is little or no profit for the cannery.

The price at which orders were taken earlier in the sason was $3.25 f.o.b. the Coast, or $3.85 here. Even those were pretty high figures for cohoes.

It takes a level-headed man to succeed in business, and yet a flat-headed man always proves a failure.

THE POTATO CROP OF 1899.

According to the estimate of The American Agriculturist of the 21st inst., the potato crop of the United States is a large one, aggregating 242,000,000 bushels against 204,000,000 bushels last year, and 107,000,000 bushels in 1897. The crop in the New England States is exceptionally large; that of the Middle States liberal. In the Western States, especially the Northwestern, it was not so good.

The same paper estimates the European crop to be nearly an average one, the reports from the different countries being irregular.

As the Canadian crop is greatly over the average, and there is likely to be little demand for supplying the large cities in the Eastern United States, it is evident that no advance from the low prices now prevailing here can be expected for some time.

THE SITUATION IN SUGAR.

SUGAR has been somewhat erratic in Canada during the past week or 10 days.

Shortly after we went to press last week, the Canadian refiners reduced their prices 5c. per 100 lb. As, however, the freight rates advanced 3c. per 100 lb., the net reduction in Toronto was but 2c. per 100 lb.

The decline, however, was only temporary, for, on Monday last, prices advanced 5 cents per 100 lb., making the f.o.b. quotation, Montreal, the same as before the recent advance, and the figures in Toronto 3 cents per 100 lb. higher.

The course which the market has taken was in sympathy with the outside markets. They had been easy for some time, but towards the close of last week took a turn for the better. In Europe, beet sugar advanced about 2¼ d. in two days, and in the United States some of the refineries advanced their prices 1-16 c. per lb.

On Tuesday, however, the European beet sugar market again took an easier turn, losing what it had gained the previous day or two.

In Canada there has been no further change in values.

The chief influence in imparting the increased strength to the market early in the week appears to be Licht's estimate of the beet crop. True, his estimate showed a larger yield by some 450,000 tons than last year, but the increase was smaller than anticipated, hence the imparting of strength and not weakness to the market, temporary though it perhaps might be.

The fact that the weather is favorable to the crop may possibly have caused the advance in Europe to be only of a temporary character. However, it must be remembered that stocks have been increasing lately, while the largest buyer in the United States has been out of the market.

Although the beet sugar market in Europe is some pence lower than a year ago, there is obviously more or less uncertainty as to the future of the market.

EXPECTING TOO MUCH.

It is quite possible to expect too much of a window display. The purpose of all advertising—and a window display is but an advertisement—is to attract attention to the virtues of the article advertised. It can never give virtue.

Great skill in advertising may enhance the virtue of an article. Lying may lead a buyer to believe it has virtue. But, after the goods are bought, the lie is discovered, and the buyer is henceforth suspicious of the honesty of the advertiser. So, then, the window display must not be expected to sell goods. It will draw attention to them.

If the attraction of attention to them does not increase sales, what can? Assuredly, not leaving them on a back shelf, and concluding that time and expense devoted to advertising, either in the local press or by means of window displays, will not pay.

It is quite common for a business to roll over and crush those who have not the energy to push it.

THE SLUMP IN CHEESE.

THE sudden slump lately in the price of cheese bears all the earmarks of a manipulative move on the part of exporters who were afraid prices would go too high.

Values compared with a week ago are ½ to ¾c. per lb. lower at Montreal for export business, and the result has been to drive all the Western cheese off the market for the time being. These goods having cost at the very least 11½ to 12c. laid down Montreal, are withdrawn, and the current daily business centres in Eastern goods, which are obtainable at 10¾ to 11c.

Curiously enough, also, the very operators who are talking blue ruin and murder are well known to be large holders of dear cheese, making the two facts hard to reconcile, and creating the impression that there is a dark gentleman on a woodpile somewhere.

It is not our intention to convey the idea that 12c. first is healthy, but, at the same time, it does not follow that, because it is not, prices on fine, well-kept fall cheese should slump all the way from ½c. to 1c. per lb.

One factor that the bears are using is the large stock in Montreal, which is estimated to be 250,000 boxes.

Deducting the exports to date from the receipts, there should be no such stock, even after making a pretty wide allowance for the fact that the receipts daily posted on 'Change do not correctly represent the quantity received each day. According to the receipts posted on 'Change, and including the offerings each week at the wharf, which are not included, there have been received in Montreal since May 1, 1,642,730 boxes of cheese. Allowing, in addition, that there have been 4,000 cheese per week unaccounted for, for the 24 weeks since the season opened, there would only have been 1,738,730 boxes received. Against this there have been exports of 1,646,568 boxes. Possibly 40,000 of these were old cheese shipped after the opening of navigation, so that there would be 1,606,568 boxes of new cheese sent forward this year. Deducting this quantity from the above figures would only leave 132,162 boxes, so that it is difficult to understand where the 250,000 cheese are, unless they are breeders. The home consumption in Montreal may be dismissed as a factor having any appreciable influence on these figures.

LOSSES IN WINTER APPLES.

Recent cables bear out the prophecy made in these columns that the present season is likely to be a losing one for exporters of Ontario winter apples.

H. W. Dawson, of the Dawson Com. Co., Limited, who has steadily maintained that the prices paid at orchards this season have been excessive, estimates that the losses to date on Ontario apples sent to Great Britain have averaged fully $1 per barrel. The prices of the past week have been even worse than were paid on preceding weeks.

Prices in the British market will probably improve somewhat, but it is hardly possible that any turn of events can make the season a profitable one for those who contracted for apples at the high prices ruling at the opening of the season.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

October 26, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE condition of the wholesale grocery trade is decidedly healthy. The volume of business is good, but the most striking and satisfactory feature is the all round strength of prices: Canned goods, teas, foreign dried fruits, sugar, are all strong, with an upward tendency. Shortly after we went to press last week sugar receded a little, but a recovery has taken place this week, in sympathy with the outside markets. The demand for sugar is good. For this time of the year a fair trade is being done in canned goods. Business is fair in coffees, although the outside markets are a little easier again. Teas are in good demand. A nice trade is to be noted in both molasses and syrups.

CANNED GOODS.

The position of canned goods appears to be increasing in strength. In regard to canned tomatoes ideas are certainly getting higher as to price. The opinion that the pack did not come up to expectations is becoming more pronounced, for it is well known that several packers have not put up sufficient to fill their orders, while some are trying to induce their customers to take other brands than those ordered in order to complete quantities. Very few tomatoes are in consequence offering from first hands. The wholesalers are getting their ideas up as to price, and the lowest quotation to the retail trade is 85c. with the range up to 90c. Ideas are also getting higher as to corn, and some houses will not quote less than $1 per dozen, with $1.05 for fancy brands. There are, however, still a few houses which quote 95c. per dozen, but they are in the minority. At these prices quite a few sales are being made, as retailers appear to realize that there is no prospect of lower figures ruling. Packers report that they would have no difficulty in getting 90c. from the wholesalers for carlots. Peas are steady at 75c. up, and beans are firm at 85c.

In regard to canned salmon, the interest at the moment centres around cohoes, which are a light pack. The idea as to price for carlots is $3.50 f.o.b. the Coast, while some are asking as high as $3.75. During the past week there have, however, been orders both accepted and rejected at rather less than $3.50. One offer at $3.35 for three carloads was turned down, the seller refusing to accept less than $3.50 per case. The ruling price to the retailer is $1 to $1.05 per dozen, and at this quotation the price is firm, with an upward tendency. More inquiries have been received on the Coast from Liverpool for sockeye salmon.

Canned fruits in first hands are getting scarce, and fancy prices are looked for. Offers for apples at good prices have been turned down, the packers desiring to fill orders already on hand before assuming fresh obligations.

COFFEES.

The Rio market has taken a slightly easier turn, and importers are in consequence holding off. Business on retail account is still fairly brisk.

See pages 27 and 28 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SUGARS.

Shortly after we went to press last week there was a slight reduction in prices all around. On account of an advance of 3c. per 100 lb. in freights the net reduction in the price of sugar at Toronto was 2c. per 100 lb., leaving the price of granulated at $4 63 for Montreal refined and $4.58 for Acadia refined. On Monday, however, of this week, in sympathy with the outside markets, there was an advance of 5c. per 100 lb. all around, making the price in Toronto $4.68 for Montreal granulated and $4.63 for Acadia. Yellows range from $3 88 to $4.55. The demand for sugar is brisk this week, the advance, as usual, having quickened sales.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

On account of the strength of the market for New Orleans molasses, importers have, during the past week, entered the market more freely. There is also a fair trade doing on retail account. Wholesalers report a good trade in both sugar and corn syrups.

TEAS.

An all-round firmness is to be noted in the tea market. Brokers report that all useful teas of Indian and Ceylon growth below 20c. are still scarce and wanted with prices firm. In London, England, prices continue firm on the lowest grade of useful teas, and for strictly fine teas full prices are being obtained, but medium grades are about ¼d. easier. There has been a great deal of buying on the local market recently for importation, but it has largely been confined to the packet tea men, who are taking advantage of the improved quality of Ceylons now on the market.

Advices from Japan report that fine teas are very scarce and high in price, with mediums firm. There is a plentiful supply of low-grade tea there, but as very little is suitable for the Canadian and United States market, very little of it has been bought. For the first time in two or three seasons, fourth crop tea is being picked in Japan this season.

As the China black tea season is nearly over, and as the Indian crop will not exceed that of last year, buyers in London are heavy purchasers at the moment.

China green teas are also scarce and dear.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The demand is good and the market firm. Quotations are much the same as a week ago.

VALENCIA RAISINS—There is a decidedly stronger feeling. A Toronto broker received a cable this week announcing an advance of 1s., and instructing him not to offer more than a certain quantity. Local wholesalers are quoting ¼ to ½c. per lb. higher than they were a week ago. The ruling prices to the retail trade are now as follows: Fine off-stalk, 5¾ to 6c.; selected, 6¼, 6½, 7c.; layers, 7 to 7½c.

MALAGA RAISINS—Are, in sympathy with other raisins, advancing, and, owing to the high price of Californian raisins, there has been a good deal of buying lately. Watt & Scott report that they had one order for 2,000 boxes refused, except at an advance of 9d. per cwt. on the prices ruling at the time of previous advices.

FIGS — The market is now closed in Smyrna, but there was a sharp advance towards the end on sound fruit. It appears that the natives have been persisting in bringing mixed (sound and rain-damaged) to the market.

vices report that there have been a number of rainstorms in California, which have injured the raisin crop, which is now being cured in the trays. It is expected. however, that there will be enough good fruit secured to fill orders, although the packing-houses are at present bare of stock.

PRUNES—A small shipment of new season's Californian prunes was received on the Toronto market this week. They were 80 90's, and are quoted to the retail trade at 6¼ to 6½c. per lb. This is the first shipment this season. Orders which had been placed for 100's have been cancelled by the shippers. The first regular shipments of new season's Californian prunes are expected to arrive on this market in a week or two. Holders of Californian prunes of last season's growth have advanced their prices ¼c. per lb.

EVAPORATED PEACHES—A good many Californian evaporated peaches have been sold for this market.

GREEN FRUITS.

Another decline of $1 in the price of Jamaica oranges brings the price this week to $6 to $6.50. This reduction has greatly increased the demand, so a brisk movement is now reported. Some excellent Palermo oranges arrived on the market since last writing, and are selling well at $3.50 per box. A few boxes of Maori lemons are yet on the market, though no new supplies have been received lately. Cranberries are in but moderate demand. Prices are steady. Bananas are moving steadily at unchanged figures. Canadian peaches are practically done. Pears are still selling in fair quantities, and in various qualities. The range of quality is well shown by the prices, which run from 20 to 50c. per basket. Grapes are in steady demand at unaltered prices. Sweet potatoes are selling well at firm prices. The supply is liberal. The feeling re winter apples shows no sign of improvemeut. In fact, the cables show that exporters are still losing heavily, and are likely to do so, unless prices are reduced here. There is a fair local jobbing trade a $2.50 to $3 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Receipts are dropping off steadily, and, as a fair export and a good local demand is experienced, prices keep firm. Strictly fresh eggs are worth 18c., though ordinary fresh-gathered stock can be had at 17c., and 14c. for cold stored supplies. At outside points prices are firm at 14 to 14½c.

POTATOES — The market keeps weak. From 37½ to 40c. is the general price paid for carload lots this week, while small lots out of store sell at 45 to 50c. per bag.

BEANS—The market keeps active. A firm tendency is manifested, and several jobbing sales have been made this week at from $1.30 to $1.35 for hand-picked stock. Prime beans are also moving well at $1.10 to $1.15. These prices show an advance of 30 to 35c. in less than six weeks.

HONEY—There is a brisk demand. Prices keep firm. We quote: Clover extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb., according to package; Clover comb No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $1.50 per. doz.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES — Offerings of evaporated apples are liberal. The demand is fair at 8 to 8½c., a decline of ½c. At these prices a decidedly firm feeling is noted. The supplies of dried apples are not equal to the demand, and it is difficult to buy for less than 6c., an advance of ½ to 1c.

POULTRY — The supply of turkeys for Thanksgiving was limited, and prices were advanced on Wednesday afternoon to 12 to 14c. Naturally these figures reduced the demand, and some dealers had to carry a few birds over. The demand now is light at 10 to 12c. Geese are in fair request at 6 to 6½c. Chickens and ducks are in better demand, the former at 30 to 50c., and the latter at 60 to 75c, per pair.

GAME—There is a fair demand for wild ducks at from 25c. per pair for teal and other small varieties, to 75c. per pair for large black ducks. Partridges are in good demand at 40 to 50c., a decline of 10c. per brace.

VEGETABLES — Cucumbers and muskmelons are 20c. dearer. We quote: Cabbage,

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The export demand has quieted down, but a good local consumption is noted. As the supply has been reduced considerably the home trade is sufficient to keep prices of all good butter at firm figures. A good deal of inferior stuff is offered. The prices ruling for this are easy at 2 to 4c. less than what is paid for choice stock. We quote choice dairy tubs at 17 to 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—A decline is noted on the export market, but, as local holders are not heavily stocked, and are confident that prices for good September makes cannot be forced down, they are firm in asking 12 to 12¼c. for late makes. Little trade has been done on Ontario country cheese boards this week as holders refuse to accept 11 3-16 to 11¼c., the top prices buyers are offering. On the whole, a dull feeling is manifested throughout Ontario.

PROVISIONS.

Live hogs are 50c. cheaper than they were three weeks ago, the present price now being about $5.50. As a consequence, provisions are likely to decline after the present rush is over. There is great activity shown in all packing houses, which are having difficulty in filling orders placed for delivery before the winter freight rates come in force. Lard is scarce and firm.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

The warm weather is restraining the demand. An improvement is expected as soon as the days get colder. Whitefish and finnan haddie are cheaper. We quote as follows: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; Niagara whitefish, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; Seattle salmon, 13 to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½ to 7c.; cod in 1-lb. blocks, 6½ to 7c. per lb.;

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Fall wheat is steady at outside points at 67c. Deliveries have been liberal. On the local street market an active delivery of goose wheat, peas, and barley continues. We quote the street market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 70 to 71c. ; goose, 74½ to 75c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 32c.; barley, 44 to 46c.; rye, 54c. A brisk export demand for Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat keeps prices firm at at 80½c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—A steady feeling is manifested. A good demand is noted for home consumption. Prices keep stiff. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4 ; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70 ; Ontario patents, $3.70 ; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change. A good trade continues at firm prices. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.50 in bags and $3.60 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50 ; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

SEEDS.

There is a good demand for red clover seed at $4.50 to $5 aboard at outside points. The values of timothy and alsike are unchanged. The alsike market is quiet, as foreign buyers are reluctant in following the advance on this side, but as it is estimated fully nine tenths of the total available of the crop of the present and former seasons has already been sold, there is no loosening of the firmness that has characterized the market for some time, and prices are likely to be maintained at $7.50 per bush. for finest qualities. A fair movement of timothy is reported at $1.25 for extra choice to fancy and 75c. to $1 for choice to fancy stock.

MARKET NOTES.

Valencia raisins, both at home and abroad, are higher.

Holders of old Californian prunes have advanced their prices ¼c. per lb.

Dressed hogs have declined 50c. per cwt., the present price being $5.50.

Cheese is ¼c. lower at country boards. Few sales are being made at the decline.

Refined sugar, which declined 5c. last week, advanced by a similar sum on Monday.

A small shipment of Californian prunes, the first this season, reached this market this week.

Jamaica oranges have declined $1 per barrel, and are now quoted $6 to $6.50. Peaches are done.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, October 26, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has been quite active during the week, and buyers, owing to the fact that railway freights advance on November 1, are pushing jobbers here for all they are worth this week to get forward supplies. Prices generally are steady. Refined sugar, which declined last week, has recovered the 5c. per lb. that it lost. Molasses is firmly held. Valencia raisins are higher than they were, and currants have met more inquiry. Bosnia prunes, to arrive, have supplied some business, also dates. First arrivals of either will not be here for some time. Sultana raisins are cabled firmer, and both Marbot and Grenoble walnuts are strong. The stiffness in canned vegetables continues pronounced, while advices on rice and spices from abroad are strong in tone. Coffee and tea have not supplied anything striking. Green fruits generally are brisk, and in produce the feature has been the sharp slump in the price both of butter and cheese.

SUGARS.

There has been considerable fluctuation in refined sugar since last report. Last week, after this paper went to press, there was a decline of 5c. in granulated and yellow surgars. Since then prices have recovered the 5c. they lost and now stand precisely the same as they were quoted in our market report last week: $4.55 for granulated and $3.75 to $4.40 for yellows per 100 lb., as to grade. The swing in prices was due to the slump and recovery of beet in London, which was cabled yesterday at 9s. 3d. October, and 9s. 3¾d. November. To-day, however, the cable again reports the feeling easier, as a result of the estimate of the beet yield, which is placed at 450,000 to 600,000 tons greater than last year.

SYRUPS.

The market for syrups is without any new feature, business being dull and prices nominally quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c., as to grade, at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There has been no further change to note in molasses, prices ruling firm with an upward tendency. Business in round lots is small, because the quantity in first hands is light and holders are not pressing sales, and nominally 36c. is quoted, but it is doubtful if holders would accept this figure. In a jobbing way there is a fair trade doing, and prices are steady at 37c. in car lots and 38c. in single puncheons. Letters from primary markets state: "The weather is exceedingly hot and sultry. The Island has experienced a prolonged drouth, which has been most damaging to vegetation. A shower or two has fallen here and there in widely scattered districts since our last advices, but unless some very general and heavy rains occur very soon we are afraid that a very large acreage of the canes for next year's sugar crop will be affected beyond remedy."

DRIED FRUITS.

Since last report, cables on Valencia raisins have been strong, noting an advance of 1s. all around. Demand here for spot goods is firm, and holders of stock ex first steamer now feel more satisfied, while those who have goods on the second boat are in an even better position. Some sellers ask ¼ to ½c. more money this week, viz.: Off-stalk, 4¾ to 5¼c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5¼c.; selected, 5¾ to 6c., and layers, 6¼ to 6½c.

There has been an active trade in currants on spot, and sales of a good quantity have been made at 4¾, 5, and 5¼c. per lb., as to quality. Cables from Patras report the market in a good position, and repeat previous prices.

Bosnia prunes to arrive are offering at 5¾c., and they are near at hand.

The first shipments of dates will not be made from London before November 7. They are offered at 5½c. to arrive.

Malaga loose muscatels are steady, and prices are 6½c. on 2-crown; 7c. on 3-crown, and 8c. on 4-crown fruit.

Considerable trading has been done in Californian seeded muscatel fruits at 10½ to 11½c., as to grade.

Advices on Sultana raisins are firmer, and prices are quoted at 9 to 10c., as to grade.

NUTS.

New Grenoble walnuts will be on this market about November 21, and are offered at 12½ to 13c. Marbots will not arrive so early, the first receipts being expected about December 3 or 4. Prices on them range from 9 to 10c. Shelled walnuts are expected the first half of December, and are offering, to arrive, at 16½ to 17c.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods market continues to be the strong feeling in corn, and prices on spot are now quoted at $1 to $1.05 per dozen. There has been some demand for tomatoes, and it is reported that Ontario packers have sold out at 75c. per dozen, f.o.b., from point of shipment, Sales of marrowfat peas have been made at 70c. per dozen, f.o.b., factory. There is a fair demand for strawberries, which are not to be had from packers, and prices on spot are quoted at $1.50 to $1.55 per dozen, which figures show an advance of 15c. to 20c. per dozen since the beginning of the new crop season.

RICE.

Cable advices on rice have been very strong, and note a rise equivalent to ¼ to ½c. on all high grades. Demand has increased for the staple, and buyers are trying to get supplies forward freely before railway freights advance.

SPICES.

There has been a steady demand for spices and values show no change. Advices from the East state that pepper is firm, quoting Singapore black strong for November and December shipment. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 60c. per lb., as to size; mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality, and pimento, 8c.

COFFEES.

The market has ruled quiet during the past week with only a few lots of Maracaibo changing hands at 8½ to 12c., as to grade. Santos are offered at 7½ to 9c. and Rios at the same range.

TEAS.

While business between dealers is restricted as regards volume, the feeling is very firm for all descriptions, and it seems useless to look for any lower prices in the near future. In Japans, sales have been reported of 400 to 500 packages at 14 to 16c., while high grades are held firmly at 17 to 18c. In blacks, we hear of sales of Congou at 14c. Ceylons are scarce and firm, and there is little change in greens to report, Pingsuey being wanted at 13 to 14c.

FISH.

There has been no important change in the situation of the fish trade during the past week. Stocks of most lines are small; in consequence, prices have been maintained all around with the exception of salmon, which have declined 50c. per bbl., while N.S. herrings are much firmer. Some seven or eight carloads of half-barrel herrings and No. 1 green cod have arrived, and dealers state the same could not easily be replaced. There are no Labrador herrings on the market. The following quotations are for jobbing lots: No. 1 new Nova Scotian herring, $5.25 per bbl.; $2.50 to $2.75 per half-bbl.; N.B. do, $2.40 to $3.50; No. 1 green cod, $5 per bbl.; No. 1 large, $5.50; No. 2, $4; No. 1 green haddock, $4; No. 1 green pollock, $4; No. 2 Labrador salmon, $13.50 to $14; British Columbian salmon, $14 to $14.50; No. 1 Red Sea trout, $10 to $12, and pail do., $8 to $9. No. 2 mackerel, $15.50 per barrel; Dried codfish, $5 per 112 lb.; large dressed do., $4.50 to $4.75 per case of 100 lb.; boneless codfish, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; smoked haddies, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; St. John bloaters, $1 per box; Yarmouth do., $1; smoked herrings, medium, 10c.; Lock Fyne do., $1 per keg; large do., $3.50 per half-bbl.; kippered herrings, $1.25 per box and 65c. per half-box.

Fresh fish are: Haddock, 4c. per lb.; whitefish, trout and dore, 7½c. per lb.

Demand for oysters is good. Ordinary malpeques, $3.50 per bbl.; hand-picked do., $4.50 to $5; standard, in bulk, $1.30 per gallon; select do., $1.50.

GREEN FRUITS.

The week has been a quiet one in the green fruit trade. The apple market shows a better feeling, but as it is overflowed with seconds and windfalls the demand for superior qualities is restricted. These low grades are selling at $1.25 to $1.75 per bbl., but for No. 1 fall apples $2 to $2.75 per bbl. is asked, while winter varieties run up as high as $3 to $3.50 per bbl. Canadian peaches are almost over, ranging from 25 to 45c. per basket. Pears are in good demand and scarce, at $3.50 to $6 per bbl., and 35 to 60c. per basket. Supplies of grapes are exceedingly heavy and prices range from 1¼ to 1½c. for blue; 1½ to 2c. for red, and 2½ to 3c. for Delaware. Bananas move very slowly indeed, and prices are heavy at 50c. to $1 per bunch. Jamaica oranges are now coming in freely, and sell at $5.50 to $6 50 per bbl., and sweet potatoes are in good demand at $2.50 per bbl. There is only a limited demand for cranberries at $6 to $7 per bbl. Spanish onions are offering at 65 to 75c. per crate. So far few Almeria grapes are offering and they command $5 to $6 per keg.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A fair demand has been experienced from foreign buyers for limed stock, and several fair-sized sales are reported at prices ranging from 6s. 9d. to 7s. per long 100. The local demand is good and the market rules active and firm. We quote: Choice candled stock, 18½c.; straight lots, 16c.; No. 1, 12c. to 13c., and culls, 10c. to 11c. per doz.

MAPLE PRODUCT—Business in maple product continues quiet and prices show no change. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 60 to 65c.; and sugar, 7¾c. to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—There is little doing in honey, and the market is quiet at steady prices. White clover comb is quoted at 12c. and extracted at 9c., and buckwheat at 8c. per lb.

BEANS—The demand for choice hand-picked beans is fair, which are scarce on spot. Choice hand-picked are quoted at $1.30 and primes at $1.20 on track.

GAME—Receipts of partridge continue liberal, for which the demand is only fair, as buyers are well supplied. In consequence, the feeling is easy, at 40 to 45c. for firsts and at 25 to 30c. for seconds per brace.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes is fair, and sales of round lots were made at 40 to 45c. per bag.

ASHES—There was no change in ashes to note. We quote: First sorts, $4.10; seconds, $3.85, and pearls, $5.15 per 100 lb.

PROVISIONS.

There was no important change in the market to note, prices being fairly steady for all lines. The demand is about the average, and a fair trade is reported. We quote as follows: Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12¼c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—A fairly active business was reported in all grades of flour, there being a good demand from local and country buyers at firm prices. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.60 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.40 to $3.50; in bags, $1.65 to $1.70; Manitoba patents, $3.90 to $4.20, and strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.70.

GRAIN—There was no change in the situation of the local grain market to-day. The demand for all lines was very slow; in consequence, business was dull and the tone easy, but prices show no actual change. Peas were quoted at 67½c.; rye at 61½c.; No. 1 barley at 52c.; No. 2 ditto at 51c.; feed ditto at 47c.; oats at 30½c., and buckwheat at 57c.

OATMEAL—In rolled oats a small jobbing trade was transacted and prices rule about steady at $3.50 per bbl. and at $1.70 per bag.

FEED—The demand for feed continues good and the market is active and firm. Manitoba bran is selling at $15 per ton, including bags; Ontario bran in bulk is quoted at $15 to $15.50 per ton, and shorts at $17 to $18.

HAY—There was an inquiry in this market to-day for freight for 2,000 tons of hay for shipment to Cape Town, South Africa. A fairly active trade was done, but the tone of the market is not so firm. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8.50 to $9; No. 2, $7 to $7.50; and clover, $6.50 to $7 per ton in carload lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—There has been a radical decline in the cheese market since last report, and prices on Eastern goods have fallen ½ to ¾c. per lb., the range now being 10¾ to 11c. here. Western cheese, having cost all the way from 11½ to 11⅞c., and even 12c., are not offered at all at present.

BUTTER—Prices on butter have had a sharp decline of 1 to 1½c. per lb. The range for export for creamery now is 20½ to 21c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Reports from France to agents here say the pack of mushrooms has been small, and several packers are already sold out. Cherries, too, are scarce.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., October 26, 1899.

BUSINESS here is brisk; in fact, the past week being one of the busiest of season. Markets are firm with an upward tendency in everything except sugar. The fact that almost every sale shows a much better profit than usual, makes the dealers satisfied to do even the extra work required by the very active demand. Spices are firmer. Cream of tartar shows a stronger tendency. In hops, a new competitor is in the field, and he, by a cut in prices of about 30 per cent., has found an active demand.

OIL—There is but little to say. Burning oil is the one active line. Prices are held very firm at the advance, and sales are large. Paint oils are very high though they have not yet reached prices that have ruled. Lubricating oils are quiet, but firm. There are but light arrivals of cod oil, but prices as yet have not moved up.

SALT—Stocks of Liverpool coarse are very light and prices are higher. The is little prospect of any receipts for some time, as even via Boston steamers will not take salt at all, and so even here the war effects trade. It is said that in the Boston trade alone some eight steamers have been taken over by the Government. Demand is light, so the condition is not so bad. The market is well supplied with Liverpool fine salt. There are also free receipts of Canadian. In the latter prices are firmer, and 10 and 20 lb. wood boxes show a slight advance, the first change in price in quite a long time. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 50 to 55c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 13c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—The market is a very firm one. Stocks, particularly of corn, are very light, as some canners and those who sold most largely did not deliver their full sales. Tomatoes are only second to corn in firmness of tone. Peaches are also strong and tend higher. Receipts were not large. There are quite full stocks of gallon apples held here, and dealers look for active sale. Oysters are scarce, buyers waiting for prices on new goods. Salmon are quoted rather higher on the Coast. There are some to hand this week. The stocks held are light, and are principally cohoe fish. In meats, there is a firmer tendency. There are now four Canadian packers in quite active competition for the trade. In kippered herring, haddies, sardines and clams there is active demand. Haddies are firm.

GREEN FRUITS — Business is very good. Apples are finding a very ready sale. Owing to large shipments from Nova Scotia to outside points, this market is in a much better condition than formerly. Good prices for best stock rule, and dealers find it quite difficult to fill orders. In oranges there is improved sale. Jamaicas have the demand. Lemons are in light supply and sell briskly in a small way. Bananas are quiet. Large quantities of Ontario grapes are being received, prices are easy, but rather higher than usual. Malagas have but fair sale while the others are on the market. Cape Cod cranberries are easy in price, but the native stock is scarce and brings about the same price as the imported. Quinces and sweet potatoes have a limited sale.

DRIED FRUITS—Dealers had still another surprise this week in regard to Californian fruit when word was received that the rebate to Canadian buyers had been withdrawn, except in regard to seeded stock. There are practically no Californians to come here. As far as St. John is concerned, there has been one car seeded sold and, we think, nothing else. Both Denia and Malaga fruit are higher, so that the raisin market is a firm one. Currants are in light supply. Reports from Greece show a rather easier feeling. Figs are to hand. The quality is good. Prices are high. Dates and prunes are scarce. In evaporated apples, while the news from the West, in most cases, points to higher figures, sales have been made here as low as any time this fall. Dried apples are scarce. In peanuts, prices on new goods have been received, and are much lower than the old have been for some time. Onions are firm, and moving freely.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs are scarce and rather higher prices rule. There is a good demand, and the tendency is upward. In butter, stock is slow in coming forward, holders in the country looking for higher figures. The market works up slowly, but for really good stock there is an improvement in price. Cheese is firm, but a light business is reported.

SUGAR — The feeling is, if anything, rather easier. The stock of American, particularly in yellows, is, perhaps, larger than ever before, and, while it is all supposed to be the same grade, or largely so, there is quite a range in color. There is good steady demand.

MOLASSES—In foreign goods stocks are very light and prices tend upward. No holders of New Orleans molasses have more than a very light stock, and higher prices in this line are looked for. The market has not been as bare at this season in many years. Syrups begin to have some attention, but sale here is very limited.

FISH—Stocks are still light. While there have been fair receipts of pickled herring, they came on a bare market, and prices show no change. There is an active demand. There are no herring offering except bay, and prices are much higher than usual at this season. In dry cod, full figures rule. Pollock are high with fair sale. Smoked are bringing fair prices. New fish are more freely received. Pickled shad have but a limited sale. In finnan haddies the cooler weather brings a brisk business at full figures. Kippered herring move more freely. Boneless fish are firm. Bloaters are rather quiet. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.85 to $4; small, $2.50 to $2.75; pickled shad, $4.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; halibut, 12 to 13c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.10 to $2.25 per 100; pickled herring, $1.90 to $2 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PROVISIONS—All lines, but particularly barreled beef, are higher. There is a good general demand. Smoked meats and lard follow the heavier lines. Lard shows quite a change in price.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour, contrary to the previous ideas of many, is rather higher. Millers report very large sales. Shipments are slow coming forward, as it is difficult to get cars. Oatmeal and oats are somewhat firmer. Feed is still scarce and high. Cornmeal shows no change. Sales are large. Beans have again advanced, and now show 50 per cent. higher prices than two months ago. Our dealers were not largely stocked before the rise. Hay is still low, but the war is expected to effect prices and tendency is already upward. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.50 to $4.70; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.00; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.80 to $4.00; cornmeal, $2.20 to $2.25; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.25 to $1.35; prime, $1.15 to $1.25; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Mr. Alex. Jardine, President of The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. is expected here this week. He is now in Prince Edward Island.

Owing to an American syndicate having bought the Canadian condensed milk factories, higher prices are looked for in the near future.

Puddington & Merritt are always to the front. They are offering in both cream cheese, and package mince meat, the new "Rosemary" brand.

T. Collins & Co. have been fortunate in receiving a shipment of West Indian molasses from an outside point and their customers have the benefit.

Robt. Jardine representing E. L. Clark, Montreal, has placed quite a quantity of "Crown" brand pressed hops with the trade here. These are new goods on this market.

J. Hunter White, representing J. K. Ormsby & Co., received a telegram this week saying that the Californian Raisin Association had withdrawn rebate on all lines exported except seeded.

The change in the time of having Thanksgiving Day was appreciated throughout this Province. The day proved to be one of the finest during the fall, being as warm as summer. The only lack was the turkey.

Wm. White, representing Lawry & Co., is having splendid success in putting several new lines on this market, including canned meats. These are put up very attractively. Thos. Gorman has a shipment of the corned beef to hand.

EZE (EASY) REGISTERED TRADE MARK WASHING COMPOUND

THERE IS ONLY ONE

perfect washing compound made which is absolutely for washing clothes without any rubbing whatever or the slightest injury to them, and that is EZE—it is pronounced "easy," and is most appropriately named, as it is easy in every particular.

The best evidence of its selling qualities is in the repeat orders we have received from the very best grocers.

Send us your name, we will mail you a sample package, you can then try it yourself and prove our statements to your own satisfaction.

Retails in 5 and 10 cent packages.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, October 23, 1899.

THERE has been nothing specially new during the week. Thanksgiving Day passed off very quietly. The weather was ideally perfect, but, coming so early in the season, very few could afford to take a holiday. All the building trades and many others worked all day. The general absence of real holiday-making, of course, reduced the purchases from retail houses, and, so far as turkeys were concerned, the supply was by no means equal to even the limited demand made upon it.

WHEAT—The market is much weaker than last week, owing to the fall in outside markets. At almost all country points the market is now strictly on an export basis. The deliveries throughout the week have been very light, owing principally to the very bad roads and also to the fact that the elevators are full at many points. The service of cars still continues wholly inadequate to the moving of the crop. Markets closed at 1 o'clock on Saturday, as follows: Fort William—Spot wheat, 68c.; 1st half of November deliveries, 67½c. Country points—15c. rate of freight, 54c. for No. 1 hard, 51c. for No. 2 hard and 46c. for No. 3 hard; 16 and 17c. rate of freight, 53c. for No. 1 hard, 50c. for No. 2 hard and 45c. for No. 3 hard. 20 and 21c. rate of freight, 51c. for No. 1 hard, 48c. for No. 2 hard and 43c. for No. 3 hard.

FLOUR— This market is very active, and some of the milling companies are already oversold. There has been a sharp advance during the week of 10c. on some lines of flour and 5c. on others. Patent is now $1.90; Glenora and strong bakers', $1.70; Medora and Manitoba, $1.50; XXXX, $1.25; Imperial, $1.15. The mills are in several instances oversold.

CEREALS — Owing to bad roads delaying delivery of oats, rolled oats have advanced to $1.80 per sack of 80 lb. This is expected to be only a temporary advance until such time as a supply of oats can come in. Beans have again advanced sharply and are quoted at $1.65 to $1.70. Flax is selling well at $1 to $1.05 per bushel.

FEED —Bran is in very active demand at $10 per ton, and shorts at $14.

CURED MEATS — The fall of last week in hams continues; in fact, prices in all lines of cured meats have remained unchanged throughout the entire week.

BUTTER — There is not much change in this commodity. Each week sees the closing of factories, and the present make is very small; 22c. for creamery is still quoted and paid in spite of the lower Montreal market. Dairy butter is in limited supply. September dairy is worth 17c., while summer-made ranges from 11 to 14c.

EGGS—The supply is short, and dealers are paying from 17 to 18c. for fresh gathered, subject to candling. Large quantities are being shipped from Ontario to Coast branches of Winnipeg houses, but so far only one car of Ontario eggs has been sold here.

CHEESE—A few factories are open and making a limited amount, but the cheese season is practically over; 12c. at the factories is being paid for the late make, but owing to the drop in the Montreal market trade is very dull.

GREEN FRUITS—New lemons are offering freely. Quotatiions are $5.25 to $5.50. New Mexican oranges are quoted to arrive next week. The chief activity centres around winter apples and Ontario grapes. Of grapes, the receipts have been larger than was anticipated, and this market is now liberally supplied with Concords and Niagaras at 28 to 30c. per basket and Rogers at 35c. Malaga grapes are quoted to arrive Wednesday, and will sell at $7.50 per barrel. Large shipments of Spanish onions are in, and sell at $1.25 per crate. Winter apples are arriving in enormous quantities, and are selling at from $3.50 to $3.65 per barrel, according to quality and variety. An exceptionally large trade is being done in winter apples this season.

GROCERIES—Business in all lines is good and collections fairly satisfactory. Some slight changes in prices have occurred.

DRIED FRUITS — Raisins are very firm and the advance of 2s. per cwt. in the primary market will affect prices here to the extent of about ½c. per lb. The advance in Californians on the Coast amounting practically to 2c. per lb. will greatly reduce the consumption here. No direct shipments have as yet been received and Valencias are still quoted at $1.90 to $2.00 per box. Currants, which have been too low in this market for some time, have now advanced to figures in accord with outside markets, and are quoted at 5¾ to 6c. Californian evaporated fruits are very firm. There has been no further advance during the week, but on the other hand there is no hint of decline. Last week's figures are quoted in all lines.

COFFEE — Green Rios are firmer and slightly higher, although there seems little, if anything, to justify this advance.

FISH—All lines of cured fish are now well represented with the exception of haddies, which arrive in limited numbers by express, and will continue to do so until the weather is colder.

WOODENWARE — Has advanced 10 per cent. all around, and new lists will be out next week.

NEW STORES STARTING.

W. G. Ross is opening a general store in Edna, N.W.T.

James G. Rayner is opening a grocery store in Hamilton.

W. S. Herron has started a grocery store in Haileybury, Ont.

George C. Cook is commencing as commission dealer in fruits and produce in Halifax.

W. A. Broddy, general merchant, Uxbridge, Ont., is opening a branch in Sunderland, Ont.

Christina Patton and Henry F. Langton have registered as proprietors of The B.C. Cold Storage and Ice Works, Victoria.

Keep on the Right Side!

The grocer who keeps on the right side of the cook may be pretty sure that the cook will say a good word for his business.

It is not so much the price as the quality of an article that helps to build up business. A few cents worth of an inferior Flavoring Extract will easily spoil a dollar's worth of cake—beware of a woman's tongue when this happens! You can't stop a woman from talking.

Jonas' Flavoring Extracts

have been proven absolutely pure by the strongest test that science knows. Their largely increased sales from year to year prove their great strength and delicate richness. They are as true as steel to each different flavor of the fruit, flower or spice which they so faithfully represent. A grocer will keep on the right side of all women (as well as the cook) if he sells Jonas' Flavoring Extracts.

DON'T MAKE NOVEMBER CHEESE.

THE following is a copy of a circular which the Montreal Butter and Cheese Association have decided to send to the cheese manufacturers throughout Canada advising the discontinuance of the manufacture of cheese at the end of October :

In previous years, the Montreal Butter and Cheese Association have issued circulars to the dairymen of Canada strongly advising them, in their own interests, as well as of the cheese trade generally, to discontinue the manufacture of fodder cheese, knowing that the manufacture of this cheese tended to lower in a serious manner the price, as well as the high standard, of the Canadian product in the British markets. The result of factorymen following the advice then given has unquestionably proved beneficial, and resulted in factorymen obtaining better prices for their fall make.

The association again desire to call the attention of the Canadian cheese manufacturers to the desirability of discontinuing the manufacture of cheese at the end of October. Should any large quantity of November and December cheese be made it would react in an equally unfavorable manner on the market, as that produced by the manufacturers of April or fodder cheese. The members of the association believe that it is strongly to the interest of the producers to only make cheese during these months most suitable to the production of the highest grade, and have no doubt that the net returns will be larger, and the character of our goods stand higher, if the advice of the association is followed in this matter, and are confident that the factorymen will thereby obtain much higher prices for their product next season if this recommendation is adopted.

The association notes with pleasure the large increase in the exports of butter, the result of improvement in quality and means of transportation, and would urge our factorymen wherever practicable to make creamery butter during November, and the balance of the season, packing it into boxes, which is now the favorite package for export, or in tubs if intended for local use. There is also a fair demand for 70-lb. tubs for export.

FUNCTION OF THE "AD."

The true function of an advertisement is not to attract attention, although it should do that. It is not to display the writer's ready knowledge of English, though it should be bright, interesting and well written. The true function of an ad. is to sell goods, and to this end it must be sensible and sincere.

Many who can put arguments intelligently and forcibly to customers in talking with them, are all at sea when it comes to writing an advertisement. A desire to be funny throws him out of his course, and he makes statements at utter variance with each other.

The following advice from The Mississippi Valley Lumberman is just as applicable to any other line of business as to lumber :

"It is not difficult to make an ad. attract attention—a catchy cut will do that. The thing about an ad. which takes thought and study is that subtle quality which convinces men that they are buying lumber at the wrong place, unless they are buying it from the advertiser. This is the thought you should have in mind when you write an ad. * * * The kind of ad. which convinces people is straightforward, strong, nervy, pithy, pointed argument, driven home with sledgehammer blows. There is an everlasting difference between the ad. with life and strength in it, and the ad. which merely attracts attention. The one has snap and vigor, is forceful and logical. The other has a few fancy phrases, which catch the eye for a moment, cause a smile, perhaps, and are forgotten."

TO PRESERVE LAMP CHIMNEYS.

To prevent lamp chimneys from cracking, the following plan is recommended by a contemporary : "Place the lamp chimney in a pot filled with cold water and add a little cooking salt ; allow it to boil well, then cool slowly. Chimneys become very durable by this process, which may be extended to crockery, stoneware, porcelain, china, etc. The process is simply one of annealing, and the slower the process, especially of cooling, the more effectual will be the work. If the glass chimney of a lamp be cut with a diamond on the convex side it will never crack, as the incision affords room for the expansion afforded by the heat."

TESTED HIS PROFANITY.

He was a most obliging grocer in the suburbs—always ready with a bright smile, always eager to confer favors on his customers. He would smile, wash his hands in invisible water, and say : "And what's for you, madam ?" in such a tone as evoked the envy of all rivals.

In came a little, lisping girl, carrying a huge ex-corned-beef tin. The grocer smiled as ever ; he was too broad-minded to make distinctions for age.

"And what's for you, dear ?" he asked.

"Pleathe, thir, a pound of tweacle, pleathe."

"Certainly, dear."

Then he weighed the tin. It was a work of difficulty, for it was cumbrous of shape and awkward to weigh. The grocer's temper was tried, in spite of his normal equanimity, and somewhat hastily he filled the tin with syrup.

"Now," he said, "there's a good pound —over-weight, dear. Where's the threepence ?"

"Pleathe, sir, it's in the tin !"

FARMERS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The increasing importance of the agricultural interests of this country and especially of the lower mainland and Fraser valley have frequently been referred to, but it is not very often that it is noticed how valuable a factor they are becoming in the circulation of money in the Province. It goes without saying that every farmer spends his money within the Province where he lives. Consequently, should there be much money spent by farmers the addition to local cash circulation would be at once noticeable. This year the farmers and ranchers not only of the Fraser valley and lower mainland, but on the island and in the upper country valleys, are receiving more dollars than ever before. Cattle are higher than the highest record of other years. There has been a wonderful increase in dairy produce ; and in fruit and vegetables the Province is now practically supplying the large and increasing home consumption with home products. The oats, wheat and hay, of which large crops are grown, are commanding good cash prices. As a gentleman who has just returned from the country remarked at the board of trade on Tuesday evening : "The farmers are revelling in dollars this year. They have Klondike at home."—Province, Vancouver.

A WINNIPEG WAREHOUSE.

THE illustration shown herewith is the new warehouse of E. Nicholson, commission merchant and manufacturers' agent, Winnipeg. This handsome structure, now in course of construction, forms one of the many fine buildings which are being erected in Winnipeg this year. The new warehouse is located on Bannatyne street east. The site is a particularly valuable one for a warehouse of this nature, owing to the excellent shipping facilities here obtained. The transfer track, which connects with all the railway lines reaching the city, runs past the rear door of the building, affording convenient facilities for unloading or loading direct from cars, to or from the warehouse. Facilities for unloading or loading two cars at the same time will be arranged for at the new warehouse. In a business like Mr. Nicholson's, where considerable quantities of heavy commodities are handled, such excellent shipping facilities will prove a matter of great value and convenience.

Nicholson's Warehouse, Winnipeg.

The size of the building is 66 feet frontage by 72 feet deep, height three storeys and basement, giving in all four large floors. The material used is stone and brick, and the building will be substantial and modern, containing electric hoist and all up-to-date conveniences.

Mr. Nicholson, who will occupy this building about November 15, is quite an old-timer in Winnipeg, and he has long been known among the merchants of the city as an enterprising and pushing business men. His long experience here has furthermore been connected entirely with the same business, and he may be said to have grown up with the commission trade of the city. He came here in 1882, accepting a position with Henderson & Bull, commission merchants. When this firm was dissolved, the business being continued by W. F. Henderson & Co., Mr. Nicholson remained with the new firm. On the death of Mr. Henderson, in 1896, he succeeded to the entire business, since which date he has carried it on with energy and marked success. His attention is given mainly to grocery lines, including dried fruits, canned goods, cured and canned meats, cereal products, etc. He also represents The Canada Jute Co., manufacturers of bags of all kinds. The fine new warehouse which he will shortly occupy will enable him to handle this growing trade to better advantage than ever before.

GROCERS IN BRIDGEWATER, N. S.

Bridgewater, N. S., is rapidly rebuilding since the fire, which took place the early part of this year, burning the whole business section. The main street, running along the river, will only be built on the upper side. This will give the town a much cleaner appearance to one coming in by the train. Before, the first sight one met was the backs of the stores and buildings, Bridgewater being a pretty town on the banks of the La Have river.

Mr. J. W. Hebb has got into his new fine large grocery store, which contains a complete stock of high-class goods. The goods are well displayed and give the store a pretty effect.

Freeman Bros'. new grocery store will be completed very shortly. It will be a fine large one and suitable for the growing business. The ceiling is of panelled wood.

THE RETIRING MERCHANT.

THIS is a thoroughly brazen age, all classes of society seemingly craving for notoriety and a chance to thrust their personal history and portrait upon the public, through the medium of the newspaper or the magazine. Some simple souls, remarks New York Merchants' Review, despairing of a better opportunity, are content to get their share of fame (?) as the subjects of experiments with patent medicines, but is the vanity of these beneficiaries of the miraculous cures of the quack doctors less ridiculous than the love of notoriety of society queens and would-be queens? Some of the latter seemingly never tire of seeing their features reproduced in so-called "galaxies of beauty," the beauty being often extremely difficult to discover, but second and third-rate politicians are fully as vain as the favorites of society, and have much less excuse.

There is one class of people, however, and not a small one either, which persists in shrinking from public notice as much as possible, notwithstanding that publicity to them spells "dollars." We refer, of course, to the modest retail grocers and country storekeepers, who almost blush at the sight of their own names in the newspapers, and who would pretty near have a fit if their portraits appeared in the same place.

"This is magnificent, but it is not war." Modesty of that sort is a real detriment to the business man, and the sooner he shakes himself loose from it, the better for his chances of making money.

We would recommend every ambitious retailer to procure two sets of cuts or illustrations—one set showing his own portrait and the other set showing a view of his place of business. The local papers should each be furnished with a brace of these cuts, and on every occasion when they could be used with advantage the dealer should give a strong hint to that effect to the local journals.

Occasions when a personal "notice" is proper are continually occurring, and if to the letter-press the portrait be appended, the advertisement will be made much more effective.

Put thy modesty by, oh dealer; divest thyself of the habit of seclusion, and step forth into the full glare of publicity. It's a good cause—the future of thy business—and the rewards will well repay thy early blushes.

THE ONE-PRICE WAY.

The records of the two-pricers and hundred-percenters are written on the tombstones of thousands of mercantile graves—a fatal error. This is a new age—a new era of retailing. The buying public is educated up to the one-price basis. They like it. It's a success.—Prosperity.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS WANTED.

THE following are among the inquiries relating to the Canadian trade lately received at the High Commissioner's London office :

An important firm of salesmen and Government contractors ask for the names of reliable shippers of timothy and mixture hay for delivery over the next three to six months.

Inquiry has come to hand from a Swansea house who desire to import cheese and butter direct. They point out incidentally the desirability of cheese being marked with correct date of make.

A Bradford firm are wanting to import direct from Canada cattle hides and other animal products, and request to be placed in communication with suitable firms.

White birch caps for mucilage bottles and brush handles for same, with rattle-shellac finish, are required in considerable quantities by a firm in London, who wish to correspond with a Canadian house manufacturing turnery which can supply demand promptly.

An inquiry has been received from Ireland for the names of a few shippers of Canadian barley.

The Antwerp agent of the Canadian Government has been requested by a Belgian house to furnish the names of some exporters of eggs from the Dominion.

THE CANADIAN GROCER will be pleased to forward to destination information that any of its readers can supply regarding the above.

Inquiry has again been received from Ireland for the names of a few good shippers of barley from Canada.

A firm of agents have requested to be placed in communication with a Canadian wall paper manufacturer who may desire to be represented in England.

The names of manufacturers of calcium carbide in Canada are again asked for.

A Midland firm inquire for the names of Canadian exporters of maize oil.

Exporters of doors, sashes, mouldings, etc., have been inquired for.

A BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

John Lovell & Son have just issued their "Classified Business Directory of Montreal for 1899 – 1900." It is complete and is handily arranged, and, containing as it does, much valuable miscellaneous information, it should meet with the approval of business men. The price is $1.50. The directory has met with such success heretofore that the publishers have decided to issue it yearly.

Current Market Quotations for Proprietary Articles

Oct. 26, 1899.

Quotations for proprietary articles, brands, etc., are supplied by the manufacturers or agents, who alone are responsible for their accuracy. The editors do not supervise them. If a change is made, either an advance or decline, it is referred to in the market reports as a matter of news, whether manufacturers request it or not.

Benson's Prepared Corn

There is no adulteration in Benson's Prepared Corn—there is no need to adulterate because it has sold entirely on its merits as an absolutely pure Prepared Corn for over forty years. The delicacy of its flavor is almost proverbial.

Comparisons are made with Benson's Prepared Corn as the standard—you hear this everywhere—"It's just as good as Benson's." You know what "just as good" means—an endeavor to sell an inferior article for a lower price. Benson's Prepared Corn is the standard—forty years have proved it so beyond a question.

MONSOON
INDO-CEYLON TEA.

DON'T BE FOOLISH

Don't sacrifice your future for prejudice. "Package teas have come to stay." It matters nothing how much you may know about tea, the public are so much better served by the package tea than loose, that they are sure to retain their hold and keep gaining. Your profit in bulk is only imaginary anyway; with the packet there is no string, bag, waste in weighing, tea getting stale, flat and unpalatable, when you often lose trade, not only for tea, but other goods as well. Handle the best.

The First Man!

There are still a few grocers in Canada who are not selling Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats. There is a town here and there in which there is no grocer selling "Pan-Dried" to-day, but such cases are rare.

It is exactly one of those "rare" cases that we are after. The first grocer in such a place who sells will have a very large handicap over every other grocer in the town. He is the man who believes that it is better to be a leader than a follower—the leader always gets the cream of everything. Some one grocer is going to answer this advertisement, and reap all the benefits of being the first in the field with those clean, rich, nutty-flavored Pan-Dried Rolled Oats. We are going to help him, too, in many other ways—are you going to be "the first man?"

Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats

They All Come Back!

If proof were needed that my "Pebble" 5c. cigar was the best 5c. cigar that can possibly be made and sold for that price; if proof were needed, I say, then I could produce such proof quick as a wink, because I have a big pile of letters here from grocers for other brands that I make and can sell for a trifle less than what I get for my "Pebble." Without exception, every one of these grocers all came back eventually to the "Pebble"—thousands of them.

I certainly advise the "Pebble" for a 5c. line, but I am going to fill orders, of course, promptly on all the other lines that I make. The fact remains though, that "they all come back" for the "Pebble." Let me send you samples and prices.

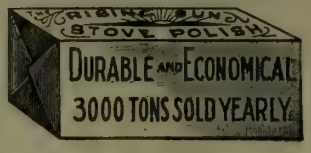
AN INTERNATIONAL TRADE CONGRESS.

CANADIAN DELEGATES AT PHILADELPHIA—A VIGOROUS SPEECH BY MR. JAMES D. ALLAN—RECIPROCITY IN COASTING TRADE AND NATURAL PRODUCTS ENDORSED.

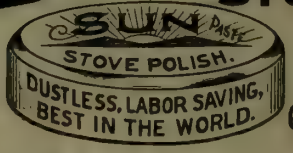
Reported for THE CANADIAN GROCER.

THE International Commercial Congress, which met at Philadelphia last month, opening on the 10th, was a very important affair. It was summoned to discuss matters affecting the world's trade: practical subjects that interest all the principal civilized nations, and none of them more than Canada. What subjects, for example, have a more direct concern for Canada than these: Reciprocity and Export Trade, International Arbitration from a Commercial Standpoint, Railways and Exports, International Canals, Future of the British West Indies, United States Trade with Australia, etc.? Representatives from all countries were there. Australasia was represented by three of the agents-general from London: Hon. W. P. Reeves, of New Zealand; Sir Andrew Clarke, of Victoria; Sir Horace Tozer, of Queensland, and other prominent gentlemen, 20 in all.

Although Canada was not officially mentioned in the programme, the Dominion was not unrepresented by able men. Among the Canadian delegates sent by boards of trade were: George Mitchell, E. de Wolfe and M. Dwyer, Halifax; James Paton, R. B. Norton, Charlottetown; A. Desjardins, Joseph Haynes, C. F. Smith, J. K. Ward, John Macfarlane, and Henry Miles, Montreal; James D. Allan, W. F. Cockshutt, S. F. Wilson, Edgar A. Wills and George Anderson, Toronto; G. D. Brymner, Vancouver; J. F. Hume, Victoria; D. W. Bole, Winnipeg; Hon. R. R. Dobell, J. F. Langlois, M. Joseph and B. Rattray, Quebec; J. H. Preston, Brantford; John McLaren, J. M. Gill and R. A. McLelland, Brockville; E. J. B. Pense, Francis King, John Gaskin and Allan Chadwick, Kingston; John Pringle and J. A. Relles, London; J. E. Hening, Napanee; W. J. Ferguson, Wm. Preston, E. K. Barnsdale, W. S. Thornton and George McLagan, Stratford, and others. Hon. R. R. Dobell was present not as a member of the Dominion Government, but simply as a delegate from the Quebec Board of Trade. While the aim of the Congress was to discuss the prospective growth of trade between the United States and such countries as Australia, South America, China, the West Indies, etc., the obvious wisdom of cultivating closer commercial relations with Canada was not considered. And this somewhat extraordinary omission, seeing that statistics laid before the Congress showed Canada to be the third best customer of the United States, was remarked upon by one of the delegates from another country. As no place in the programme was assigned to them, the Canadian delegates held a short informal meeting of their own, and passed a resolution favoring the revival of the Dominion Board of Trade, in order that some body might be in existence in Canada to take advantage of such opportunities as this to increase Canada's trade and emphasize her commercial position.



The commercial Museum in connection with the Congress and Exhibition was a great building of five storeys filled with exhibits and arranged so as to give the commercial men present information as to the chief products for international exchange. The members of this exchange or mart pay an annual fee which entitles them to all the reports issued in connection with it. It enables them, as a combination of individuals, to get information regarding openings for foreign trade, etc, which, as single individuals, would cost them too much. Prof. Wilson, formerly of Yale, the director, is a man of many energies and accomplishments. The Canadian delegates, notwithstanding that the Dominion had no distinct place in the Congress, did well. They were able to show, mainly through the speeches made by two of their number, that Canada has a place in international commerce, and is a country of many resources and excellent prospects.



MR. JAMES D. ALLAN ON INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

It happened that on Saturday, October 14, the subject of transportation as it influences trade, especially between two contiguous countries like Canada and the United States, was discussed, and, on Monday, October 16, some further debate took place upon it. Director Wilson, therefore, called upon a Canadian delegate, Mr. James D. Allan, Toronto, to make some remarks, and the vigorous and earnest eloquence of that gentleman's speech as it is found in the official record, must have greatly impressed the listeners, for it brought forward prominently the direct interest the Western States have in our water routes, and also most happily alluded to some of Canada's rich resources.

Mr. Allan began by a reference to the lake and river route for freight. "These waterways," he said, "are largely—almost entirely, I may say—within Canadian territory. Obstructions do exist, but these have been overcome by the enormous expenditure of money by the Canadian Government * * * and, if you will trace these waterways through the interior of the country, you will see that the western part of the United States is just as much interested as Canada can be in the perfecting of the system of cheap communication. * * * We in Canada have adopted a very liberal principle, partly of our own free will and partly as a result of the treaty meeting in 1871 with the United States Government, by which we have given the free use of our canals to the Americans." The speaker then proceeded to point out the significance of the Parry Sound Railway, and its effect opon the carriage of western grain to the seaboard; the enormous development of lake tonnage, exceeding the wildest dreams of men who considered the subject years ago; the opening up of the western agricultural lands, and especially the vast Canadian wheat land containing 1,600,000 square miles of magnificent agricultual soil; and showed that the products of the region must get to the seaboard, and that it behooved them, as shrewd commercial men, to look to the future, for the resultant trade was the heritage of both countries, for the people of Canada were their brothers and cousins, part of the same stock. (Loud applause.) Tnrning again to the question of international traffic, Mr. Allan, with much courtesy, but with admirable point and force, alluded to the one-sided coasting laws of the United States and to their refusal of the use of the New York canals to Canadian vessels. His concluding words have the right ring, and are quoted entire:

You all ask what we are doing. We are only asking to take a part in liberality with you in trade matters, and in that matter we appeal to your good sense. Our mineral discoveries and developments up there read almost like a fairy tale. We have the greatest nickel deposits in the world. According to Congressional reports furnished your American Congress, we have one district, lying 200 miles north of Toronto, 300 miles long and 75 miles broad, consisting of 650,000,000 tons of nickle. What possibilities there are in this for manufacturers of the United States and Europe it is not necessary for me to state. You can estimate the vast possibilities of this. You are all business men. We have made rich discoveries in copper, and, with the rise in the price of copper during this last year, it seems to us a very opportune time to have made the discovery. We have opened up corundum mines, which are very wonderful. We invite you to come in and develop them. We have no alien labor law in force; we are willing to make all these things as free as possible. We ask the attention of the world to us as a country to be developed, and we do not fear. You will find in us children of the same parent stock which wrested from King John the rights of Magna Charta and made the Anglo-Saxon race throughout the world synonymous with justice and fair play and of benefit to civilization generally.

Mr. Allan then moved, seconded by Mr. Bole, of Winnipeg, a resolution of reciprocity on equal terms to both countries in respect of navigation in the inland waters and canal systems. The resolution was unanimously carried by a standing vote.

MR. COCKSHUTT'S RESOLUTION.

Another important motion was presented in a resolution by Mr. W. Foster Cockshutt, Toronto, in a resolution which embodied this sentiment: "That the world's commerce would be benefited by the United States extending to other countries the same freedom of trade as those countries extend to the United States." Mr. Cockshutt said it was simply reciprocity, and that if their American friends could pass the resolution the work will not be put back. The motion was endorsed and passed by the commercial delegates present. Mr. Mitchell, of Halifax, presented another motion that a joint commission be appointed to arrange free trade in natural products between Canada and the United States. This, too, passed. Later on, Mr. Reeves, representing New Zealand, delivered a clever and eloquent address, in which he put some kindly, but pointed, criticism of the policy of the United States towards other countries. "We are always glad to see you," he said, "but if you pursue the policy of doing the selling without doing any buying, you will find that the countries on the other side of the ocean can play the same game." (Hear, hear.) "So far this great republic has not thought it worth while to make any special exertion to get our trade, but there is another country on the north of you that has had the far-sightedness to look a little in our direction—(hear, hear)—and I take the opportunity to welcome, on the part of New Zealand, that great country (Canada) on the north that is endeavoring to meet us half way."

The Congress was, therefore, not without its practical results and good influences.

WASHING STORE WINDOWS.

Strange as it may seem, there is a right and wrong way to wash windows; and as this operation is usually dreaded, the following method given by an exchange, will doubtless be appreciated, as it saves time and labor. Choose a dull day, or at least a time when the sun is not shining on the window; for when the sun shines on the window it causes it to be dry streaked, no matter how much it is rubbed. Take a painter's brush and dust them inside and out, washing all the woodwork inside before touching the glass. The latter must be washed simply in warm water diluted with ammonia. Do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners; wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth. Do not use linen, as it makes the glass linty when dry. Polish with tissue paper or old newspaper. You will find this can be done in half the time taken where soap is used, and the result will be brighter windows.

THE LARGEST ADVERTISERS.

The largest advertisers in the world, says an exchange, are patent medicine men. Some of them invest even as much as 75 per cent. of their yearly revenues in advertising. One of the largest advertisers, whose wares are advertised all over the globe, is Beecham. In his advertising empire the sun never sets. His yearly appropriation for advertising is stated to be £250,000 or $1,250,000. He does not use large space, but large territory. His ad. can be seen in nearly all papers published in English-speaking countries. He is also advertising in Sweden and Norway, Denmark, France and Roumania.

The largest general advertiser in the United States is the Centaur Co. with about $500,000 a year, Sarsaparilla Hood with about the same amount. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo with about $300,000, Lydia Pinkham about $250,000, Sarsaparilla Ayer with $250,000, Brent Good (Carter's Little Liver Pills) about $200,000, Scott & Bowne with $250,000. There are about 150 advertisers using up a yearly appropriation of $100,000 to $150,000, among them the Sterling Remedy Co., Postum Cereal Co., Frank Stuart (Dyspepsia Tablets), California Fig Syrup, Warner's Safe Remedies, Pyle's Pearline, Cuticura Pond's Extract Co., Sapolio. There are at least 500 advertisers spending from $25,000 to $50,000 a year to secure business from every part of the country. That these concerns are prospering and have become so by advertising, does certainly not show that advertising does not pay.

LIKE SHEEP.

The Dayton Computing Scale Co., Dayton, O., write as follows: "We have noticed and perhaps the public have noticed that certain so-called, "computing" scale concerns have copied our efforts whenever they could, regardless of infringement and encroachment upon our rights. They have borrowed (or simply taken without asking), the form of our scale, making their scales so near the appearance of our own that they have often been palmed off on the public as the genuine. When we painted our scales a maroon color, our ever-ready followers, like chameleons, would change their color; when we changed to an olive green, our chameleon mimics would change to an olive green. It is certainly a compliment unconsciously bestowed and very "sheep-like" in its nature. But someone must invent, some one must lead, and as acknowledged leaders (even by our competitors), we ask for full recognition by the public and users of system scales. We have asked the assistance of the courts to suppress this unfair competition and infringement of trade mark rights, and have recently had an important decision, the United States court enjoining W. B. Hoyt from using our name. We are pressing our trade mark rights in the courts and hope soon to enjoin others from equally flagrant violations of our trade mark rights. If you want a genuine computing scale, one that will do what it is represented it will do, buy a computing scale of The Computing Scale Co., Dayton, Ohio."

FOOD FAIR HYPOCRISY.

Merchants' Review, New York, says: "What sickening hypocrisy has characterized the pure food movement generally! Farmers, dairymen, wholesale grocers, and manufacturers have from time to time, taken an active part in the movement for their own ends solely, but always have claimed to act in the interests of the public, and, worst of all, the retail grocers have been often 'roped in' to endorse proposed legislation for the benefit of other classes, notwithstanding that they, the grocers, always bear the onus. Oh, Pure Food, what atrocious hypocrisy and sickening humbug have been exhibited in thy name!"

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

The Early-Closing Movement.

The early-closing movement instituted by the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association is progressing satisfactorily. The canvassers are still at work securing the signatures of grocers and butchers to the petition which is to be presented to the city council. The committee who have the matter in hand expect final reports from the canvassers in a week or so, and, from the way signatures have been secured, they are confident that the report will show that many more than the necessary three-fourths of the butchers and grocers have been secured. All merchants of these classes, whether large or small, are being visited, and the array of signatures is a big one.

Dried Fruits In Demand.

Most grocers having an extensive trade with boarding-houses, and many having a good family trade, report that the demand for dried fruits is opening out considerably earlier than is usually the case. It is not easy to state definitely the cause for this, though it may be due, to some extent, to the comparative scarcity and high price of fresh strawberries, raspberries, etc., during the summer. A good demand for figs and prunes is generally noted, and some grocers have had frequent inquiries for Californian dried peaches, etc. The demand for raisins and currants is, of course, always good at this season, but this year the city grocers are selling them more readily than usual.

Is it Worth Having?

There is a grocer on Yonge street who is as noted for his candor as he is for shrewd business ability. A few days ago he was present when a few grocers were discussing the necessity of an early-closing by-law and the difficulty of closing at 7, or even 8 o'clock, when one's competitors do not and will not. He was silent until each had expressed his opinion, then he exclaimed: "It's easy for you to lay the blame for keeping open on your competitors, but they are not to blame any more than you are. You keep open, and by so doing gain a little trade. The trade you get that way is not worth having. I would not be bothered with it. If you let such trade go where it wanted to, and you just served your regular customers the best way you could, you'd not lose much." This gets down to the root of the whole matter. Is transient trade worth the attention of the average grocer? To many of the grocers situated on the principal promenade streets, like Yonge and Queen, transient trade is unquestionably an important item. But is it to the majority of the grocers in the city? I don't believe it is. It may mean quick returns, but generally the profits are small, very small. It has been the prop that has given way and caused the collapse of more than one business in Toronto. On the other hand, I suspect that Swan Bros., Michie & Co., R. Barron, P. Macdonald and others that have made money in the grocery business put very little dependence in their transient trade. Like the man who built his house upon a rock, they have sought that which might be depended on to last.

CARDS FOR GROCERY STORES.

A GROCERY store is one of the few wherein a customer must wait a little while being served. It, therefore, affords a good opportunity for the profitable display of attractive advertising cards that will call the attention of the customer to other articles that he or she may forget if not put in mind of them. The grocer, indeed, should have his store liberally hung with advertising announcements of the goods he carries in stock. These might be varied according to season; in fact, they ought to be changed at least once a month, and oftener if possible, as otherwise they will grow familiar to the eye of the regular customer, and we all know that "familiarity breeds contempt."

Appended are a few ideas for cards that may be useful to the enterprising grocer who carries an up-to-date stock :

Are you a judge of butter? Those who are considered the best judges proclaim ours to be super-excellent. Suppose you try it, and pass judgment on their judgment?

With our superior brands of teas

We generally "aim to please,"
And always "hit the mark."

While you're here, please use your nose as well as your eyes. Nothing smells stale, does it? We won't keep anything here that is not fresh and sweet.

You don't need to pay extravagant prices for good groceries. There are no better goods in the market than we sell, and no prices more reasonable.

Fruits and vegetables from the garden disect. We have the options on the choicest growings. You can share it with us.

Eggs fresh from the hen. "A new lay every day."

If you bake your own bread let us sell you some of our "Unexcelled" Household Flour. There will never be any purer on the market. Cost is slight considering the quality.

Everything fresh here except the salesmen.

A QUEER DRINK.

A popular drink in Paris is made from dried apples, raisins and water, with a little sugar, which is warranted not to intoxicate. It is called piquette. In 1898 about 50,000,000 gallons were consumed, and the consumption is on the increase. The bourgeois prefer it to wine because it is cheaper. Piquette drinkers generally make the excuse that wine is adulterated with harmful substances. However this may be, the wine consumption has fallen off greatly. At first cider began to take its place, and in 1895 10,000,000 gallons were consumed. Then there were poor apple crops for two years, and as a very high duty prevented the importation of American cider the scheme for using dried apples, which are largely imported, was invented.

A CIRCULATION OF 8,256.

One of the recent notable increases in circulation of the daily newspapers of Canada is that of The London Advertiser. This journal has been published for nearly 40 years, and has an unrivalled patronage of advertisers. It has now the largest sworn circulation in Canada, excepting the cities of Toronto and Montreal. The last sworn statement to hand, for the month of September, being 8,256. In The Advertiser's columns can be noted many of the prominent advertisers of Canada and the United States.

A STRIKING ADVERTISEMENT.

The Regina, N.W.T., Leader contains a unique yet effective full-page advertisement of The Regina Trading Co., Limited, one of the few departmentals of "the Great West." The strong features of this advertisement are the use of 13 cuts illustrating the several departments of the store, and the brief, pithy manner in which the writer says what he has to say. And he does not say too much, as is frequently done when full-page advertisements are written. The printers have helped the good effect created by displaying the "ad." well.

VENISON WILL BE PLENTIFUL.

It is likely venison will be plentiful and cheap in Toronto this season. Among the sportsmen that have gone a-hunting are: Messrs. Luttrell, Sykes, Panter and D. Bell, grocers, and C. H. Wilson, traveler for Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. These famous shots declare that there will be a slump in the price of venison when they return. They also advise grocers not to stock up heavily with partridges, as prices are likely to fall when they get home.

COST OF A LOAF OF BREAD.

An interesting contribution to a series of publications being issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, embracing investigations into the food and nutrition of man, has been made by Professor Harry Snyder, of the Minnesota Agricultural College. The paper contributed by Professor Snyder relates to experiments made at the Minnesota University in bread-making. The average "pound load" of fresh bread as sold by bakers, says the professor, weighed on an average about one pound one ounce. A pound loaf of bread can be made from about three-quarters of a pound of flour, about 25 per cent. of water being added to the flour during the process of bread-making. With some flours 5 to 10 per cent. more water can be absorbed, making a greater weight of bread from a given weight of flour. This additional weight is water and not nutrients.

At 2 cents a pound for flour, it is estimated by Professor Snyder that a pound loaf of bread can be made, not counting fuel and labor, for about 2c., a half cent being allowed for shortening and yeast. The loss of dry matter in bread-making is usually considered as amounting to about 2 per cent. of the flour used. In exceptional cases, as in prolonged fermentation, under favorable conditions the losses may amount to 8 per cent. or more.

HE HAD A SLEIGH RIDE.

A merchant who had just returned from the Northwest told a member of the Toronto staff of THE CANADIAN GROCER on Wednesday last that a few days previous he had a sleigh drive in a Manitoba town. While it is cold enough for snow in that section of the far-stretching domains of our Dominion, the residents of Toronto have been having almost summer weather; in fact, weather rather warmer than desired.

A CIVIL SERVANT AND HIS DEBTS.

A DECISION has been given by Chancellor Boyd which is of more than usual interest to business men.

As every business man knows, several attempts have of late years been made to secure such amendments to the law as would deprive civil servants of the peculiar privileges whereby their salaries are exempt from garnishment. But all these attempts have, so far, been abortive.

By an interpretation, however, which Chancellor Boyd has put upon the law it does not, unless his interpretation should be upset by a higher court, much matter whether or not legislation is obtained to remove the peculiar privileges which civil servants now enjoy in regard to the non-garnishing of their salaries.

Under an order of a division court judge, a Dominion civil servant was ordered to be brought up on a judgment summons to pay monthly installments. Against this order an appeal was entered, the ground being taken that to bring the appellant up on such an order would be contrary to public policy, inasmuch as it would take him from his duties as a public officer.

The learned chancellor before whom the appeal was heard, did not, however, see eye to eye with him, for he very wisely overruled the objection.

It is better that the public service should suffer than that a dishonest civil servant should, in the law, find a place of refuge from whence he can defy his creditors. But the argument is only a specious one; public business will not suffer to the extent of one farthing because a civil servant is made to pay his debts.

A STORAGE PLACE FOR BREAD.

IT is a mistake for grocers or general merchants to keep their stock of bread upon their counter exposed to dust and flies. There are a good many who do not do so, but there are some who do. Others, again, keep it in uncovered boxes, open-mouthed to catch dirt and droppings of various kinds from the counter.

A simple method, and one which can be highly recommended, is to have constructed one or more boxes which shall rest on the floor and fit under one of the shelves, either inside or outside the counter, and so placed that it can be easily tilted over when it is necessary to remove a loaf for a customer. The outside of the box should be stained or painted to match the shelves, and a neat little handle or knob should be fastened near the top to facilitate the manipulation of the box. A catch is not necessary as the weight of the box should be inward.

CANNED BLUEBERRIES FOR CHICAGO.

Our St. John, N.B., correspondent advises us that quite a nice shipment of canned blueberries was shipped a few days ago to Chicago. There were no less than seven carloads in the shipment. The freight and duty, which were paid in advance, amounted to $6,000.

It is to be hoped there will be a further development of this export trade.

OVER $5,000,000 INCREASE.

The bank note circulation in Canada in September last was $46,682,028.

This was an increase of nearly $5,250,000 for the month, the largest increase in any previous September on record.

Another good evidence of the commercial activity obtaining in the Dominion.

GETTING A GRIP ON THE MARKET.

THE remarkable growth in our export butter trade to Great Britain is well understood by all Canadians, but the reason for this development has not been so well realized.

There have been those who argued it was merely a case of supply and demand; that the make in Britain was short, and that it was but natural to expect that country to import more butter than usual.

But the reason lies deeper than this. True, the Mother Country has needed a great deal more butter than usual this year, but a comparison of the imports into that country for the nine months of the present and of last year, and of the exports from Canada up to September 27 in 1898 and 1899, show that Canada's trade has grown out of all proportion to the development of that of other countries.

The shipments of butter from Montreal up to September 27, this year, were 354,646 packages, as compared with 156,304 packages to the same date in 1898, showing an increase of 198,342 packages, or about 127 per cent. As nearly all packages sent from here are 56 lb. in weight, this increase may approximately be placed at 99,160 cwt.

According to the latest reports from the British Board of Trade returns the imports of butter into the United Kingdom up to September 30 this year were 2,604,326 cwt., as compared with 2,425,870 cwt. in the same period last year, showing an aggregate increase from all countries of 178,456 cwt.

When the gain in Canada's shipments, 99,160 cwt., be taken from the total gain, 178,456 cwt., the increase from all other countries but Canada is shown to be but 79,296 cwt., so that the development of Canada's export trade to Britain has been much greater than all other countries combined.

It is but fair to draw from these figures the inference that our butter is getting a grip on the British market; and the inference is well sustained by a comment in the Grocers' Journal, of London, one of the most reliable of the British trade papers. In its issue of October 21 it says: "Buyers here are finding out that the Dominion dairies can turn out quite as good stuff as can be found anywhere on the continent, and this year a scarcity has given the exporter good advertisement."

WILL PUT UP BUSINESS MEN FOR PARLIAMENT.

IN two counties in the Province of Quebec the business men and farmers have reached an understanding whereby, at the next general election, men of business experience shall be brought out for Parliamentary honors.

Since THE CANADIAN GROCER, some years ago, inaugurated an agitation for the election of business men to Parliament, the idea has been gradually gathering force in the country.

There is still a far too small representation of the business element in the different legislative bodies, parliamentary and municipal, but there is much satisfaction in the fact that many members of the independent press are now champions of the same principle, while Governments, Federal and Provincial, consider it something to boast of if they have an odd business man or so in their composition. And if they can by any stretch of the imagination term themselves a business man's government, they do not hesitate to do so.

It is evident, therefore, that no small advance has been made in this movement for government on business principles and by business men. At the same time no thoughtful man, no man who is free enough from party to have his perspective destroyed, can fail to realize that we are yet a great distance from the ideal.

Most men have and always will have their party predilections. And there is nothing to be said against this. But there is against a blind adherence to party, for it is the root and branch of all bad government.

With blindness of this kind obtaining, the elector will not stop to consider whether the candidate of his party is qualified or not. If he considers anything it is merely as to his soundness in the faith. As to his business common sense, that is as far from his thoughts as is the north pole from the south pole.

Just as the source is so will the stream be; just as the elector is so will the representative be in Parliamentary or municipal hall.

The business men of this country are—or should be—more interested in the question of good government than any other class, for they probably suffer more than any other class from the effects of bad government.

There are altogether too many who are quite unconcerned in regard to such matters. But it is certain he who is unconcerned about the government of the State cannot be accounted a good citizen. And it is equally certain that without good citizens it is impossible to get good government. You cannot gather figs from thistles, or grapes from thorns.

We are time and again told that the representative system of government is upon its trial. We are more inclined to think that it is the people who have the exercise of the franchise that are upon trial.

If there is any question at all in regard to the matter, it is not, is the principle of representative government a good one? but have the people a sufficient sense of the propriety of things to properly run the machinery of representative government?

For an answer it is only necessary to refer to the quality of altogether too many of the men who sit in Parliament, and to the exposes during the recent election trials.

These certainly do not tend to convince one that the people have a sufficient sense of the propriety of things as far as their duty as electors are concerned.

What is wanted is a thorough awakening of the business men of the country. Then Parliamentary candidates of both shades of politics will be selected, not because of their party fealty, but because of their business common sense and records for honesty.

LOWER SUGAR.

A rather unexpected decline of 5c. per 100 lb. took place on Tuesday in the price of refined sugars, of all grades.

The European markets have been somewhat irregular during the past week, but, on the day the price was reduced in Canada, beet sugar appreciated slightly abroad.

It is the general opinion that competition had more to do with the reduction than the condition of the sugar market generally, there being, it is believed, a good deal of foreign sugar coming into the market again.

Our St. John, N.B., correspondent states in his correspondence this week, that some British refined sugars are arriving at that port.

The fight between the refiners in the United States appears to be as brisk as ever, and the refineries in Canada are evidently feeling its effect as keenly as ever.

COURSE OF BUTTER VALUES.

THE butter market has again commenced to show some improvement. The late collapse on the market was due to the heavy supplies of Canadian and United States butter received in England, which drove the Danish quotation down from 132s. in September to 119s. per cwt. on October 20, as against 125s. 6d. same time in 1898.

This is about the sharpest tumble that butter prices ever have had since the fall of 1895, when prices on Danish butter fell during one week of November from 140s. to 126s., the next week again declining to 110s., a slump in a single fortnight of 30s. per cwt.

As a consequence of large supplies of Canadian butter, Manchester firms practically withdrew from the Danish trade, and the decline of 12 to 14s. per cwt. in Danish was an effort of the latter to regain the market in the northern English markets from their Canadian competitors.

Of course, Canadian and Australian butter had to meet the Danish cut, and the fact was reflected in the slump in Canada from 24½c., the top price, down to 20c.

The action of the market lately leads some observers to believe that there will be a rebound again this fall similar to that of the fall of 1895. The reason for this belief is that the price of Danish, which rules the market in Britain, is now 7s. 6d. below where it was last year at this time, while, on the other hand, supplies are lighter all around.

From now on the exports of Canadian butter must steadily decrease, so that, with dimunition in the exceptionally heavy supplies from this side of the Atlantic, steadier markets are looked for, as the above shortage in the exports from the Baltic countries demonstrates that the summer's drought had severe consequences on their productive capacity.

A STRONG OUTLOOK FOR CANNED GOODS.

CANNED corn and tomatoes continue to gather strength. All the evidence points to this.

There is not a great deal of corn offering, but the little that is, apparently, cannot be obtained except at prices which are simply fabulous.

In Montreal, for example, round lots have been purchased at $1, but some of those who sold at that figure are now asking as high as $1.05 to $1.10 for round lots. The highest price asked in Toronto, as far as can be ascertained, is $1, and sales are reported at 90 to 95c. per dozen. One wholesale house in Toronto during the past week tried to buy corn from some of its confreres, offering 95c. per dozen for 100 cases, but we do not hear that it succeeded in purchasing the goods.

The price at which a great deal of the corn was sold was decidedly moderate in comparison with that which is now demanded. Consequently, for some little time we may expect to see the retail price of corn even below the figures asked for that in first hands.

There is a retailer here and there in Toronto to-day who is pricing canned corn at 7c. per tin, but the figure which appears to be most common is 9c., or three tins for 25c. This latter price is what some of the departmental stores have been advertising corn at the past few days.

The experience of the retail trade is that when three tins of corn cannot be sold for 25c. consumers will turn their attention to something else. Hence, when it comes that the retailers will be compelled to replenish their stocks at the high figures now ruling there is certain to be a curtailment of the consumption. Anomalous as it may seem, it is the experience of retailers that they can get even better prices from wholesalers than from consumers when prices get high.

But it must at the same time be remembered that there will not be the same inducement to turn to other lines of canned vegetables, as all other lines are more or less firm. Tomatoes, for instance, are scarcely any less strong than corn. The lowest price at which they can be bought in quantities at first hands is from 75 to 80c. per dozen f.o.b. the factory, and the wholesalers are little by little working their prices up. Beans, too, are scarce and high, while the same can be said of practically all lines of canned fruits.

One does not require to be much of a prophet to predict that the canned goods season of 1899-1900 will be the strongest for some years.

QUALITY OF CANNED TOMATOES.

Although the pack of tomatoes in Canada does not appear to be up to expectations, as far as quantity is concerned, as far as the quality of that now arriving on the market is concerned there is not much left to be desired.

Those who are qualified to judge, declare that the quality is more than usually good. The explanation advanced by some for this is, that as the season was brought to a sharp and sudden termination, there was not the same opportunity for careless packers to put up the poor quality tomatoes which are the dregs of the season.

Satisfactory and all as the quality is that is now arriving upon the market, THE CANADIAN GROCER has been notified that a packer here and there is putting up tomatoes which have been frost-damaged which may be expected to come upon the market later.

A SHORT MOLASSES CROP.

Indications point to a strong market for New Orleans molasses.

Advices received in Toronto this week state that in a good many sections of Louisiana the planters have not cane enough to justify operating their sugar houses, and will save their cane for seed for next year's crop. Other planters are combining with their neighbors and operating one where, under ordinary conditions, they would be operating several houses.

It is estimated that the crop generally will be 50 per cent. of the average, while of open kettle molasses only about one-third the usual quantity is expected.

CONSUMPTION OF TEA IN BRITAIN.

The consumption of tea in the United Kingdom continues to increase. According to the British Customs house returns, the duty payments from Jan. 1st to Sept. 30 this year were made on 178,562,356 lb. of tea, as compared with 173,402,395 lb. last year and 173,522,891 lb. the year previous.

The importation also shows an increase, the figures being 187,022,199 lb. in 1899 and 178,134,434 lb. in 1898. On the other hand, exports have declined, only 23,172,557 lb. being exported, as compared with 26,754,143 lb. in 1898. This decrease was almost altogether of China teas, the exports of which fell from 11,875,913 lb. to 8,565,590 lb. in the year.

The stock of all tea in the United Kingdom on September 30 was estimated to be 84,128,000 lb. in 1899; 77,160,000 lb. in 1898, and 78,934,000 in 1897.

BOOKKEEPING FOR MERCHANTS.

THE more expeditious a system of bookkeeping is commensurate with exactness the better it is for the retailer or any other kind of merchant. In an effort to secure the desideratum men without number have spent years of their lives. One of the best, simplest and most exact that have been evolved from this concentration of energy is what is known as the "Mechanical ledger."

This system does away with day book and ledger, and yet the device furnishes day book and ledger in one.

Briefly outlined, the system works as follows: There are two classes of pass books. One is employed where the customer keeps his own pass book, the other where he does not. When the customer who carries his pass book orders goods, the merchant enters the order in the pass-book, and, in adding the several items up, he also takes in the amount that was previously owed, so that the last row of figures always shows the total indebtedness. By the aid of carbon paper every entry is duplicated. This duplicated paper is then torn off, and, if the merchant is at the time busy, is placed in a box prepared for the purpose. At the merchant's leisure these slips are taken out, neatly folded and placed under their own number in the mechanical ledger. This ledger is made up of a series of tills with a spring at the bottom, and the slip of paper is so placed that a merchant can at a glance, without turning over any leaves—for there are none—see what every customer owes him. With the pass book, which the merchant, and not the customer keeps, the procedure is practically the same, only the pass book is kept in a cabinet prepared for the purpose. Under this system a disputed account is a possibility, while an error is scarcely possible. The Beverley McDonald Co., Picton, Ont., are the manufacturers, to whom merchants or others can write for particulars.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

November 2, 1899.

GROCERIES.

As far as prices are concerned, the principal feature is a reduction of 5c. per 100 lb. in all refined sugars, caused chiefly by the competition of the United States. The demand for sugar still keeps up well. Outside sugar, the general tendency of prices is upward. Foreign dried fruits are decidedly firm, and there is a continual gathering of strength in canned goods. Tapioca shows a further appreciation in the outside markets. Syrups and molasses are meeting with a fair demand. Coffees are in good request and firmer in the primary markets. The tea market has lost none of its strength. On the contrary, it has gained more. Generally speaking, the wholesale grocery trade is active and healthy.

CANNED GOODS.

The position in regard to both corn and tomatoes appears to be still gathering strength. All sorts of figures are heard as to the prices being asked by the few packers who have any corn to offer. Some are said to be asking $1, and sales between wholesalers are reported at 90 to 95c. per dozen. One wholesaler on the street tried to buy 100 cases the past week from his confreres, offering 95c., but, as far as can be learned, did not succeed. Most of the houses are now quoting $1 per dozen to the retail trade, but there are some who are still willing to accept 95c.

A continued firmness is to be noted in canned tomatoes. Some brands have, during the past week, been advanced to 90c. per dozen to the retail trade. The general range of prices is from 85 to 90c. There is not much business being done, the orders that are coming in being small, as a rule. This is of course to be expected, seeing that the new pack is only being delivered to the retail trade.

Canned fruits are quiet, but in light supply and firm in price.

Advice from the Coast corroborate what has already been said in regard to the smallness of the cohoe salmon pack. There are not many offering, and firms selling are asking $3 40 to $3.50 per case f.o.b. the Coast. A good deal of canned salmon is still being delivered by the wholesale to the retail trade, and quite a few new orders are being received.

COFFEES.

The market for Rio coffee is firm, and in New York prices are about 1c. per lb. above the lowest point of a month ago. A good business is being done on retail account, and some orders are being placed for importation.

SUGAR.

The feature of the local sugar market is a decline of 5c. per 100 lb. in all refined sugars. The outside markets have been a little irregular, but at the time of writing they have taken a slightly firmer turn, and the decline in Canada appears to be more due to the competition of United States sugar than anything else. The Guild price in Toronto is now $4.63 for Montreal granulated and $4.58 for Acadia granulated. The change went into effect at 2 p.m. on Tuesday. The demand for sugar is good, and rather unusually so for this time of the year.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

A good business is being done in corn syrups, and a fairly active demand is being experienced for molasses. Advices from New Orleans, in regard to molasses, report the market decidedly firm, on account of the shortness of the crop.

TAPIOCA AND SAGO.

The tapioca market is firmer, prices for November and December shipment being 15c. per cwt. higher than for September and October. Sago is also firmer, rather better prices than a month ago having been obtained for brown sago. Wholesalers are quoting as high as 5c. per lb. for tapioca.

TEAS.

Private advices to hand this week from Colombo, under date of September 28, state that both Ceylon and India are expected to export about the same quantity of tea as last year, instead of more, as anticipated a short time ago. "With only the same amount to deal with," add the advices in question, "the position is an exceptionally strong one, and we think prices are pretty certain to keep up." At the auction in London, Eng., this week, both Indian and Ceylon teas sold at slightly higher prices. On the local market flavory Indian and Ceylon teas are still scarce in first hands, and teas of these descriptions which were a short time ago held at 16 or 17c. can now easily be sold at an advance of 3 to 4c. Japan teas are still firm, but importers are pretty well supplied at the moment.

NUTS.

A cable to hand this week from Bordeaux reports the stock of Marbot walnuts exhausted. Grenoble walnuts are also reported high, and will cost about 1c. per lb. more than last year.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS —The market in Greece is reported to be slightly easier, but it has not made any difference in the price here. The demand keeps fairly good. Filiatras are quoted at 5 to 5½c. per lb., and Patras at 5½ to 6c.

VALENCIA RAISINS —The market abroad is so high that there is little or nothing doing on importation account. Selected would still cost about 6½c. per lb. to import in quantities. Stocks of Valencia raisins on the local market are still light and prices firm. Fine off-stalk is quoted at 5¾ to 6c.; selected at 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

SULTANA RAISINS—Further supplies are expected to arrive in about a week or 10 days.

MALAGA RAISINS—The usual shipments by direct steamer are due to arrive in about 10 days.

FIGS—There is a little business being done both in tapnets and in boxes.

GREEN FRUITS.

The only change of any importance in prices is in Palermo lemons, which are 25c. cheaper than a week ago. There is now a good supply, and a steady demand at $3.25 to $3.50 per box. The supply of oranges is sufficient for the good demand noted, and prices are steady. The supply of bananas is limited, and a shortage is expected unless arrivals, which are looked for late this week, are ripe or turning. Prices are firm. Some of the better qualities of stock are being sold as high as $1.75. Malaga grapes are in fair supply. The demand has not yet started. The quality of stock received here so far has been better than usual, but the general report of the crop is that it is not of good-keeping quality. They are selling here at $5.50 to $7.50 per barrel. There is a fair supply of native grapes which are in excellent demand at 17 to 25c. The demand for sweet potatoes is moderate. The low prices of cranberries, $1 less than a year ago, have caused the demand to keep decidedly active. Canadian peaches are done. Pears are still selling moderately at 20 to 50c. The prices ruling for Ontario winter apples in Great Britain are even lower than a week ago, and the weak feeling is more pronounced than ever.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Receips are light. The demand is fair and prices are firm. Some dealers quote an advance of 1c. in strictly fresh stock, which is now quoted at 18 to 19c. per doz., though ordinary fresh-gathered stock can be still had at 17c., while 14c. is the price of cold stored supplies. At outside points prices are firm at 15 to 16c.

POTATOES—The market is in a worse state than ever. On Tuesday this week twenty-seven cars of potatoes were on the track at once, and some of them were not sold, though offered at 33c. per bag. Small lots are selling at 40c to 45c., out of store.

BEANS—The market keeps firm. The jobbing price keeps steady at $1.30 to $1.35 for hand-picked, and prime at $1.15 to $1.20. The consumption is large.

HONEY—The demand is brisk. Prices are firm. We quote: Clover extracted, 9 to 10c. per lb., according to package; Clover comb No. 1, $2 per doz.; No. 2, $1.65 per doz.; No. 3, $$.50 per doz.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—A good movement of evaporated apples is noted, with prices steady at 8 to 8½c. Dried apples are offering more liberally, and are in fair demand at 5½ to 6c. per lb., in a jobbing way.

POULTRY—The offerings of turkeys are increasing, and though the demand is improving prices have been forced down 1c., the price now being 10 to 11c. per lb. Geese are selling better than last week, at 5½ to 6c., a decline of ½c. Chickens are in good demand at 25 to 50c, and ducks at 50 to 75c.

GAME—The warm weather continues to limit both the supply and demand for wild ducks, though rather more business is now being done than was reported a week ago. Prices are steady at from 25c. per pair for teal and other small varieties, to 75c per pair for large black ducks. Partridge are in better demand, and prices are up 5 to 10c., the figure now being 50 to 55c. per brace.

VEGETABLES—There is a good demand for nearly all lines. Cauliflowers are 10 to 15c. per doz. cheaper, while squashes have advanced 25 to 50c. We quote: Cabbage, 40 to 50c. per doz.; red cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 40c. to 60c. per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 40 to 60c. per hundred; muskmelons, 50 to 70c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; fall apples, $2 to $2.50 per bbl.; squash, $1 to $1.25 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The receipts of all dairy butter but large rolls are light. The demand is excellent, and little, if any, exporting is possible. The same conditions apply to creamery. The home demand absorbs the supply, Prices are firm throughout. We quote as follows: Choice dairy large rolls at 18½ to 19c.; tubs at 17 to 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The decline in Montreal has affected Ontario factorymen to some extent, and some sales are reported on country boards at 11 to 11⅛c., a decline of ⅛ to ¼c. The majority of factorymen are selling. A fair jobbing trade is reported at 12 to 12¼c. for September makes.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

The Hallowe'en demand for oysters was very good, more, in fact, than could be supplied. The oysters now arriving are better in quality than has been the case, and the trade is taking more in proportion as the quality improves. Dried fish are starting to come in. They are not as plentiful as last year, and prices are rather higher. Finnan haddies are easier, but the prices are as yet unchanged. We quote as follows: Trout, 7 to 7½c.; Niagara whitefish, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; Seattle salmon, 13 to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½ to 7c.; boneless fish, 5c.; quail-on-toast, 6c.; steak cod, 6½c.; ciscoes, $1.25 per basket. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.25; selects, $1.65; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The feature of the wheat market is the deline of 3 to 4c. in goose wheat, caused by a falling off in the demand from Italy for this grade of wheat. Fall wheat is firm at 67c., with deliveries active. On the local street market farmers are bringing in principally goose wheat, barley and oats. Barley has advanced 1 to 2c. per bushel. We quote the street market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 70 to 71c.; goose, 71 to 71½c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 32c.; barley, 45 to 48c.; rye, 54c. A brisk export demand for Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat keeps prices firm at at 80½c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—Prices are steady and unchanged. The home demand keeps large. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Prices are steady. A good business is reported. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.50 in bags and $3.60 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—Cured hides have advanced ½c. In consequence, another rise of ¼c. is noted in the price of green hides. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 9¼c.; No. 2, 8¼c.; No. 3, 7¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9¾c.

SKINS—Sheep and lambskins are 5c. dearer, otherwise prices are unaltered. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 35 to 40c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 80c.

G.F.& J.GALT PACKERS OF THE BLUE RIBBON TEAS
42 SCOTT St TORONTO. CELEBRATED

WOOL—The feeling continues to improve. The demand is good, but holders are waiting for higher prices, which are expected soon. We quote: Clothing wool, 17c.; combing fleece, 15c.; unwashed, 9 to 10c.

SEEDS.

The red clover market keeps firm with buyers paying $4.50 to $5 at outside points. The alsike market is easier, if anything, this week, but prices are unchanged at $7.50 per bushel for finest qualities. A fair movement of timothy is reported at $1.25 for extra choice to fancy, and 75c. to $1 for choice to fancy stock.

MARKET NOTES.

Refined sugar is 5c. per 100 lb. lower.

Cured hides have advanced ½c., and green hides are ¼c. dearer.

Indian and Ceylon tea is cabled slightly dearer from London, England.

Goose wheat is 2 to 3c. per bushel cheaper. Barley has advanced 1 to 2c.

Cheese is ⅛ to ¼c. cheaper at country boards. Strictly fresh eggs are 1c. dearer.

The "Blue Ribbon" Tea Co. is removing its Toronto office from 42 Scott street to 12 Front street.

Boneless fish at 5c.; quail-on-toast at 6c., and steak cod at 6½c., have been received on the market.

Tapioca for November and December shipment is 15c. per cwt. higher than for September and October shipment.

Palermo lemons are 25c. per box cheaper. Malaga grapes are offering at $5.50 to $7.50. Canadian peaches are done.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, November 2, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has shown a steady volume of business, and there have been both advances and decline in values to report. In the latter respect, the most prominent feature of the week has been the continued unsettled feeling in refined sugar, the Montreal refiners on Tuesday again marking down prices 5c. per 100 lb. all round. This is due to competition from refined stock from across the line, and the weakness in raw beet. Syrups were quiet, while molasses have an upward tendency under light stocks. Valencia raisins have advanced quite sharply in sympathy with primary markets, and canned corn and tomatoes are on a much higher level of value than last week.

SUGARS.

The sugar market has continued unsettled, owing to the competition from refined across the line and further weakness in raw beet. The circumstances have led to a decline of 5c. all around in refined here, granulated selling at $4.50 and yellows at $3.70 to $4.35, according to grade. In London, beet was cabled ¼d. lower: October, 9s. 1½d., and November, 9s. 2¼d. Cane was reported firm; Java, 11s. 3d., and fair refining, 10s. 6d.

SYRUPS.

Business in syrups continues very quiet, and the market is featureless, prices being unchanged at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., as to quality.

MOLASSES.

The tone of the molasses market continues very firm, but there is nothing new in the situation to mention. A fair amount of business is reported in a jobbing way, and Barbadoes in carlots is selling at 37c., and, in smaller quantities, 38c. Some sales of Porto Rico in round lots are reported at 33c.

DRIED FRUITS.

A much stronger feeling prevails in Valencia raisins, as cable advices from Denia note further strength, prices being 1s. higher all around. In sympathy with this news and the continued good demand from local buyers, coupled with small offerings, values have been marked up ¼ to ¾c. per lb.; with sales of off-stalk at 5c.; fine off-stalk at 5½c.; selected 6½c., and layers 6½ to 7c.

Currants continue firm also, with a good trade doing at 4¾, 5, and 5¼c., as to quality.

Bosnia prunes to arrive remain at 5¾c.

Dates for future delivery are unchanged at 5½c.

Loose Malaga muscatel raisins are unchanged at 6½c. on 2-crown; 7c. on 3-crown, and 8c. on 4-crown fruit.

Sultana raisins continue firm in tone at 9 to 10c., as to grade.

NUTS.

Business in this line is quiet. New Grenoble, to arrive, are steady at 12½ to 13c., and Marbots at 9 to 10c. Shelled walnuts for December delivery are quoted 16½ to 17c.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned vegetable situation seems to increase in strength, and prices show a steadily advancing tendency. An active demand for corn is the chief feature, and late sales have been on the basis of $1 per doz., but now holders ask $1.05 to $1.10. Canners, according to agents here, are completely sold out, and, as a result, many jobbing houses are said to be oversold on this staple. Tomatoes also are stronger, and 5c. per doz. higher, with sales reported at 80c. f.o.b. factory, and sellers operate very sparingly at the advance.

RICE.

There is nothing new in rice to report. Demand is still good, and the market firm, in sympathy with the strength outside.

SPICES.

A fair trade is noted in spices and values generally are firm. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 60c. per lb., as to size; mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality, and pimento, 8c.

COFFEES.

A better feeling is reported in coffee, owing to the stronger markets reported from the outside. Maracaibo has sold at 8 to 9c. and Santos and Rio at 7 to 9c. in 50-bag lots.

TEAS.

A fairly active business has been done in teas, there being a good demand for most grades, while values generally are firm. There are no pea leaf gunpowders to be had under 17 to 20c., and all other grades are very strong. Sales of new crop Japans have been made at 13 to 16c. In blacks, several lines of packlings have changed hands at 17 to 18c. All reports from both China and Japan indicate higher prices, and shipments cannot be duplicated at present prices.

FISH.

A fairly active trade continues to be done in all lines of fish, and, in spite of the recent larger arrivals of some lines of pickled, prices have been well maintained. There is a steady demand from both local and country buyers; in consequence, stocks do not accumulate much, and as soon as the colder weather sets in a more active demand is anticipated. The following quotations are for jobbing lots: No. 1 new Nova Scotian herring, $5.25 per bbl.; $2.50 to $2.75 per half-bbl.; N.B. do, $2.50 to $2.75; No. 1 green cod, $4.75 to $5 per bbl.; No. 1 large

$5.50; No. 2, $4 to $4.25; No. 1 green haddock, $4; No. 1 green pollock, $4; No. 2 Labrador salmon, $13.50 to $14; British Columbian salmon, $14 to $14.50; No. 1 Red Sea trout, $10 to $12, and pail do., $8 to $9; No. 2 mackerel, $15.50 per bbl.; Dried codfish, $5 per 112 lb.; large dressed do., $4.50 to $4.75 per case of 100 lb.; boneless codfish, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; smoked haddies, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; St. John bloaters, $1 per box; Yarmouth do., $1; smoked herrings, medium, 12c.; Lock Fyne do., $1 per keg; large do., $3.50 per half-bbl.; kippered herrings, $1.25 per box and 65c. per half-box.

Fresh fish are: Haddock, 4c. per lb.; whitefish, trout and dore, 7½c. per lb.

Demand for oysters is good. Ordinary malpeques, $3.50 per bbl.; hand-picked do., $4.50 to $5; standard, in bulk, $1.30 per gallon; select do., $1.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The tone is firm, with a good demand for choice stock. Strictly new laid are selling at 21 to 22c.; candled stock at 19½ to 20c., and No. 2 at 12 to 12½c.

MAPLE PRODUCT—Business in maple product was slow, and prices were nominally unchanged. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 60 to 65c.; and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—The demand for honey continues quiet, but prices rule steady. White clover comb is quoted at 12c., extracted at 9c., and buckwheat at 8c. per lb.

BEANS—The demand for beans is fair, and sales of carlots were made to-day at the advance. Choice hand-picked are quoted at $1.45 to $1.50, and primes at $1.37½ to $1.40.

GAME—There was a firmer feeling in the market for partridge, owing to smaller receipts, and sales were made at 50 to 55c. for firsts, and at 30 to 35c. for seconds, per brace.

POTATOES—A fair trade was done in potatoes, and the market is moderately active, but steady, at 40 to 45c. per bag in round lots.

ASHES—There was no change in the market for ashes. We quote: First sorts, $4.10; seconds, $3.85, and pearls, $5.15 per 100 lb.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change to note in the market. The demand for small lots was fair. We quote as follows: Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50; and heavy long cut mess $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR—A fairly active trade was done in flour, and the market is without any new feature of note. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.60 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.40; in bags, $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.90 to $4.20, and strong bakers', $3.60 to $3.70.

GRAIN—There was a good demand over the cable to-day for oats, and, as bids were somewhat higher, a fair business was transacted. On spot, the market was inclined to be firmer, and 30c. afloat was bid freely, but in some cases holders demanded more money. In peas and buckwheat the feeling was weaker, as private cable advices from abroad were very discouraging on the same; in consequence, prices here were marked down ½ to 1c. per bushel. There was some demand from shippers for Manitoba wheat in the Winnipeg market, and several fair-sized lots were purchased at 68½c. for No. 1 hard afloat, Fort William. Peas were quoted at 67c.; rye, 61c.; No. 1 barley, 51½ to 52c.; No. 2 ditto at 51c.; feed ditto at 48c.; oats, 30c., and buckwheat, 56c.

OATS—There was a fair demand for small lots of rolled oats, and sales were made at $3.55 to $3.60 per barrel, but prices for carload lots are unchanged at $3.50 per barrel, and $1.70 per bag.

FEED—The demand for feed was good and the market is active and firm. Manitoba bran is selling at $15; shorts at $17 per ton, including bags; Ontario bran at $15 and $15.50; shorts at $17 to $18, and mouillie at $20 to $24 per ton, in bulk.

HAY—A fair trade was done in hay, and, as supplies are not large, prices rule steady. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8.50 to $9; No. 2, $7 to $7.50; and clover, $6.50 to $7 per ton in carload lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE — The week has witnessed an improved feeling in cheese, the available stock here having been cleaned up at the recent decline, and now, with continued demand, an advance has been established. In fact, Eastern cheese have sold freely at 11c. and over, and no figure is obtainable on Western at all.

BUTTER — The market is firmer in tone, and bids of 21c. were made quite freely to-day for creamery, but we quote 20½ to 21c. to cover all opinions. Export orders are numerous now, on the basis of 20 to 20½c., but it is difficult to get right quality at this range.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Prices have stiffened both on butter and cheese this week.

Stocks of Barbadoes molasses here are remarkably light.

There has been another decline of 5c. in the price of all refined sugar.

Sellers are asking an advance of 5 to 10c. here for canned corn, and 5c. for canned tomatoes.

Prices for Valencia raisins here have been advanced all around owing to the further rise at primary markets.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., November 2, 1899.

OCTOBER, which has just closed, has been a particularly busy month with the wholesale grocery trade, and has shown a splendid profit on nearly all sales. In fact, dealers never felt more satisfied than with the conditions of business during the present fall. Sugar is still low, but there is a firmer tendency. Beans are a matter of interest, and prices have further advanced, and there seems no chance of any lower figures this season. The leaving of the soldiers for the war was the feature during the week. They left the city about 6 p.m. on October 25. At 5 o'clock nearly all the stores in the city were closed and everyone was on the street. The route traversed by the contingent was handsomely decorated, and the boys where everywhere greeted with cheers. The crowd at the station was one of the largest ever seen in the city. Our citizens have subscribed with great liberally to a fund to augment the regular pay of the soldiers.

OIL—Dealers are very active. They do not find that the late advance has in any way affected the sale. Market is firmer. Paint oils are high, with further upward tendency. Trade at this season is light. Lubricatings are also quiet, but are held at full figures. Supply of cod oil is not large, but that arriving finds quick sale at even figures.

SALT—If the demand was at all active this would be a fair market, as stocks are very low; that is, in Liverpool coarse, which has the demand from the fishermen, and there seems no chance for further supplies, as at present no tonnage is offering. When there is a chance to bring some, the freight charged is likely to be much higher than usual, which will cause an advance in price. In Liverpool factory-filled and in Canadian there are ample stocks. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 48 to 55c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Supplies continue to come to hand, but in every line stocks are light. Perhaps, gallon apples are the one exception. Even these rule higher than last season. Corn, tomatoes, and peaches continue to be the lines of chief interest. Prices are firm and supplies very much below the average. Dealers feel that in corn some packers have hardly treated them right, while others have filled their orders. String beans, while not very large sellers, are short in stock, and are firmly held. Salmon are slow in coming forward. Prices are rather firmer. In local canned fish, such as haddies, bloaters, and sardines, the fact that there are a number of small canners, and that they cannot agree among themselves, has rather tended to easier figures, though in haddies, supply being short, they are not likely to be much affected.

GREEN FRUITS—Business is active; large quantities of Ontario grapes continue to arrive, and prices are quite firmly held. Malagas show better demand. In apples, while the crop in Nova Scotia is large, full figures are maintained, and quantity offering here is not large. In gravensteins the quality is very fine. They are a lovely fruit. No winter stock is yet offering. Jamaica orange find a fair sale. They are about the only grade offered. Lemons have fair sale at even figures. There are practically no native cranberries, but Cape Cod stock of extra quality continue quite low. In pears and peaches there is nothing but retail trade. There is a fair demand for sweet potatoes.

DRIED FRUITS—Dealers are anxiously awaiting arrivals of Valencia raisins. These should show a good margin as the market has advanced from 1 to 2s. since they were bought. In Malaga loose, in which quite a number are bought for here, prices have already advanced about 1s. for a 50 lb. box. Except in seeded, practically no Californians are expected. This will be a new feature, as in late years they have played a very important part. They would now cost about double what we were accustomed to pay for them. In prunes, Californians are likely to have the market to themselves. While prices keep quite low they are looked on as extra good stock. Small sizes are scarce this season. Figs to hand are of good quality, and move freely at full figures. Peels have a steady demand; the cut and assorted peels in small packages did not prove a seller here. Evaporated apples keep firm. There have been fair receipts. Dried apples come to hand slowly. In nuts, sales have been active, except in peanuts ; prices are firm. In these, new goods are now quoted at much lower figures than have ruled. Stock is said not to be as good as last year.

DAIRY PRODUCE—In eggs firm prices rule. Stock is coming to hand slowly. Quality shows an improvenent. Rather higher figures are expected. Butter has a good steady sale, and, while prices move up but slowly, there is a demand for extra quality at rather higher figures. It is quite hard to get. Cheese are in light supply, both in the local market, and throughout the Province. There is a fair demand.

SUGAR—The tendency is to rather higher figures, but prices are still very low. A large business continues to be done in American, in both yellows and granulated. Some English sugars are also being sold.

MOLASSES — Dealers watch chances sharply to pick up desirable lots. Trade is being largely done in small packages, and New Orleans moves more freely than ever before, but dealers buy in small lots. Some choice Porto Rico is still held, and full figures are asked. Syrups have no sale here.

FISH— The supply is still very light. Dealers find it impossible to fill orders in almost any line except smoked herring, but it is in pickled herring where the shortage is most felt. Bay herring are the only grade offering. Price shows no further advance, as they will not bring much higher figures, but there is not nearly enough to go around. In dry cod full figures are obtained ; stocks are light. Pollock are scarce and bring full price. They are not favorites, but, owing to codfish keeping so high, they are in demand. Smoked herring are a better price than they have been ; new fish are rather easier, owing to improved receipts. Finnan haddies have a good sale, but owing to lack of stock, orders cannot be filled. Bloaters and kippers have a fair sale. Pickled shad are firmer and stock is now very light. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.85 to $4 ; small, $2.50 to $2.75 ; pickled shad, $4.50 to $5, as to quality ; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 8c.; halibut, 12 to 13c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c. ; pollock, $2.10 to $2.25 per 100; pickled herring, $2.00 to $2.20 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PRODUCE—In barreled pork the usual fall demand has made an active movement. Prices are firm and slightly advanced. In beef the market is even stronger. In this line the effect of the war is more felt. Lard moves up, but still shows quite a range in prices. There are fair stocks.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour there seems a firmer feeling, but in the local market there is no change in quotations. In Manitobas there is quite a change in western figures. Millers advise very active sales. Oats and oatmeal show no change, but a steady market is to be noted. Cornmeal moves freely, the more as feed continues scarce and high ; price shows no change. Beans show an almost unprecidented advance, and it is said another month will see the entire crop in the market. Our dealers, while making a fair profit, and in some few cases carrying fair stocks, were caught short. Hay is tending higher. All grains are held firm. We quote as follows : Manitoba flour, $4.50 to $4.70 ; best Ontario, $3.85 to $4.00 ; medium, $3.60 to $3.75 ; oatmeal, $3.80 to $4.00 ; cornmeal, $2.20 to $2.25; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 41 to 43c.; hand-picked beans, $1.25 to $1.35 ; prime, $1.15 to $1.25 ; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2 ; split peas, $4.10 to $4.15 ; round, $3.25 to $3.40 ; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.15 ; hay, $7 to $7.50 ; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Joseph Finley is offering New Orleans molasses in both choice and fancy grades.

A shipment of Cuban molasses is to hand this week consigned to T. Collins & Co.

Fancy molasses is getting very scarce. W. Frank Hatheway is still able to offer a small quantity. The market has never been so bare.

Rice has advanced 6d. on the English market during the past week. Dearborn & Co. have a shipment to hand, bought at the lowest figures.

A. L. Goodwin is daily expecting a car of Californian prunes. The first, if not the only, direct car to arrive this fall. They are choice Santa Claras in 25-lb. boxes.

Perhaps the largest shipment of canned blueberries to leave our Province was shipped by A. & R. Loggie to Chicago this week. There were seven carloads. They paid freight and duty in advance, the amount being $6,000.

J. Hunter White, representing Cochrane & Willson, of Ridgetown, Ont., bean merchants, received the following in a letter this week : "We are putting out about one car per day, and believe another month will see all the beans marketed, something never known before. Michigan and New York are in about the same boat. South Africa has lately taken 12 cars from us, and we look for a duplicate order."

FOUR BIG STARCH COMPANIES MERGED.

The organization of the United States Starch Company, a consolidation of four starch manufacturing companies, has been effected. The company has been organized under the laws of New Jersey, with a capital of $6,000,000, composed of $2,500,000 of 6 per cent. cumulative stock and $3,500,000 of common. The four companies merged are The Oswego Starch Factory ; The American Glucose Company, of Buffalo ; The Argo Manufacturing Company, of Nebraska City, Neb., and The Sioux City, Ia., Starch Works. The organization is simply a consolidation, no factories being bought, nor any new stock issued to be sold. Stock in the new company was exchanged for the stock of the merged concerns.

The officers of the new company are: President, T. P. Kingsford, of Oswego ; first vice-president, Hiram Duryea, of New York ; second vice-president, Carl Morton, of Nebraska City ; secretary-treasurer, J. D. Higgins, of Oswego. The directors are: T. P. Kingsford, Hiram Duryea, Joy Morton, of Chicago ; Charles R. Flint, of New York ; J. C. Young, Carl Morton, H. H. Duryea, of New York, and Gilbert S. Graves, of Buffalo.

THE ART OF WINDOW DRESSING.

AN INDEX OF CHARACTER.

I wonder if the majority of grocers realize that the only index of the character of their shop that is before most of the people they are trying to reach is their window. This is true both in the large city and the small country town. In the principal business streets of the city there are always a number of stores which cater to transient trade, and by means of leaders have succeeded in making the greater portion of the people in the neighborhood acquainted with the inside of their place of business. But, with the average store in town or city the reverse is the case. These do a family trade extending likely for miles on every side of them, yet there are many residing within two or three blocks of their store who never saw more than its windows and doorway. They patronize some other grocer regularly. A dull, ordinary window may never attract the attention of such people, yet they know the store is there, and, if they were asked for an opinion of it, the answer would be "I never go there. They do a common, ordinary business I guess." On the other hand, a series of bright, original displays, while they may not draw the trade of these people from their family grocer, do not fail to cause these people to consider the store a progressive, up-to-date one, and, in the event of their regular grocer going out of business or becoming unsatisfactory in any way, they would naturally turn to the store in which the window displays had won their attention and approval. It is the same with a newcomer into a neighborhood. In looking around for a grocer to deal with regularly the most potent factor in the forming of their opinion is the windows of the store nearby. They naturally turn first to the grocer whose windows or the appearance of whose shop, from the street, attracts them most. Realization of the importance of good appearances should make a grocer ambitious to have the best-looking store in his locality.

TWO UNIQUE WINDOW DISPLAYS.

Two photographs of window displays made in the store of M. Des Brisay & Co., grocers, Nelson, B. C., have been received by THE CANADIAN GROCER. Both of these displays are decidedly out of the common, and must have attracted great attention to this progressive store. Unfortunately, however, the photographs were made in a bad light, for reflections of the store opposite to Des Brisay & Co.'s somewhat blur the display, and make reproduction impossible.

One of them is a display of tea and other package goods, neatly arranged in small piles on the floor of the window. In the centre of the background, the figure of a man is shown ready for the scaffold. Around his neck hangs a placard: "Hang the man who doesn't know good tea and where to buy it."

The other display was a general one, various groceries being arranged on the window floor. In the centre, a tall, white monument bore the inscription: "Erected to the memory of a lost dollar which could have been saved by buying your goods from us."

A TIMELY WINDOW DISPLAY.

It is not often that so many grocery windows in Toronto are devoted to the display of the same line of goods as is the case just now. Almost every grocery store has one or more windows devoted to canned goods, especially canned vegetables. This fact is interesting, as it emphasizes the attention that is being generally given to these goods just now, and shows that grocers are taking more interest in their windows. Some very effective displays are shown. A good one is shown on Yonge street, just below College. The plate-glass front comes to within an inch or so of the floor of the window, which is fully two feet higher than the walk outside. About three feet from the front two brands of canned corn and one of vegetables are shown in the boxes which they came packed in. Two rows of boxes, one on top of the other, were shown. On top of these three pyramidal piles reached to fully five feet from the floor. In front of the boxes three piles, one of sardines, one of salmon and one of baked beans filled up the space between them and the window front. Price tickets were used. On all but the two referring to the corn merely the price and the name of the goods were given. One of the corn tickets read: "Good Corn, 9c."; the other, "Finest Corn, 10c." Another excellent display that I noticed included, in addition to canned goods, bottled catsup, red cabbage and pickles. The floor of this window was about six feet long and less than three feet deep. It slanted towards the front, having a total fall of over 10 inches. The canned goods shown were peas, corn and tomatoes. Each of the three was shown in a separate V-shaped pile, the apex of which was at the front, and the bases of which met at the back. The piles stood about three feet high at the base. The spaces between these piles were partly filled by small circular piles of the bottled goods. Price tickets were attached to all goods shown.

John S. Pearce & Co., seed dealers, London, Ont., have been succeeded by Fred. J. Darch and John W. Hunter, under the style of Darch & Hunter. Both of the members of the new firm are practical seedsmen, Mr. Hunter having been 25 and Mr. Darch 15 years in the business.

Got Off Easily.—"When I asked for a rise, I told my employer I had grown grey in his service." "What did he say?" "He said that if I had worked anywhere else I probably would have got bald."

AN ATTRACTIVE WINDOW DISPLAY.

To the firm of J. H. Chapman & Co., dry goods dealers, must be accredited great praise for having arranged a most attractive and unique display in honor of London's company of the Canadian contingent.

The west window in the elegantly appointed store of the company, at 126 and 128 Dundas street, contains a miniature camp. A sentry, dressed like a veritable Tommy Atkins, parades to and fro in front of a military tent that is supplied with all the accessories of such a one on the camp field. Flanking the tent are pictures of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and a "What we have we'll hold" bulldog. Stacked rifles, belts and coats scattered here and there, give a touch of realism to the scene; the low background has a unique mirror effect that largely increases the depth of the view, while above and at the rear are many well-displayed flags.—London News, Oct. 25.

THE RAISIN CROP IN CALIFORNIA.

A LETTER from Mr. M. Theo. Kearney states that before the rain raisins were being shipped from Fresno at the rate of 45 to 55 cars per day, the shipments up to October 17 amounting to 600 cars. This only covers raisins that had been paid for. Continuing, Mr. Kearney says: "We fear that the wet weather coming upon us at this time in the season will induce many growers to sell such of their raisins as are not well cured to the wineries, and, of course, there is not likely to be any attempt made to pick any more grapes for raisins this season. We are inclined to think, therefore, that our estimate of 2,800 cars for this season's crop may fall materially short, how much less than that it is impossible to make figures, well-informed people varying their estimate to the extent of 500 cars."

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

There has been little or no alteration in salmon, the demand being insignificant, and holders recognize the imprudence of forcing sales. Some sizes—notably ½-lb. tins—are in poor supply, and it is anticipated that the present stock will be quite inadequate to meet the demand until the new pack arrives.—Grocers' Journal, October 14.

NEW ORLEANS MOLASSES.

A few hundred barrels of new crop cane juice have arrived on the levee at New Orleans and they sold at prices ranging from 46 to 53c. The local market has been quiet but steady. The purchases made have been of a hand-to-mouth character, as the trade has been disposed to hold awaiting the new crop, which is expected to come on offer in the near future; prices have been unchanged.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 28.

VALENCIA RAISINS IN LONDON.

The sales of Valencias continue to be abnormally heavy, and there is ample evidence that they are not only being bought by grocers, but are also going rapidly into consumption. This is, of course, largely due to the fact that the new fruit has been shown much earlier than usual, and contributory causes have been their good quality and comparative cheapness as compared with other competing foods. There is a considerable falling off in the shipments, and prices show a decided advance, which appears to be perfectly justified; it is to be hoped, however, that values will not be forced down to unreasonable limits, as undoubtedly a very large proportion of the ordinary Christmas trade in this article still remains to be done. Up to the present there has been no advance in the stoned fruit, which is being offered below the level of the market, but there must necessarily be an alteration shortly should the advance in unstoned fruit continue. — Produce Markets Review, October 21.

TEA IN NEW YORK.

The feature of the week was the auction sale held on Wednesday. The offerings were moderately large, but they were absorbed at prices showing a good undertone to the market. The volume of line business transacted has been moderately large, as the interior trade has continued a buyer, although the purchases made have been confined largely to such supplies as have been needed to meet current wants. Dealers have shown no disposition to hurry sales, with the result that the business transacted, particularly in the lower grades, has been at full values. There has been some trading in the market for invoices and at fairly full values.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 28.

TAPIOCA TENDING UPWARD.

A New York paper of October 27 says: "The tendency of the tapioca market is upward as a result of the active demand, particularly from the West, and the small available supply. Sales of medium pearl were made on the spot to day at 3¾ to 3⅞c., and for arrival on the Pisa, which sailed October 6, 3⅜c. was paid for 25 tons. For November-January sail shipment 3½c. is asked for either fine or medium pearl, and per October steamer that price is demanded for the latter. Most of the stock coming is said to be controlled by strong hands."

CANNED GOODS IN THE STATES.

The situation of many articles in the line of canned goods is at present reflecting the advantage of reputation and impression on the minds of the people in general. It is very observable that consumers, and even retail distributers, obtained impressions during the season of the condition of supply to demand, and if these opinions can be sufficiently influenced in the early part of any season it is safe to calculate that such a belief will continue to impress those who have had it, although the market conditions may change entirely before the season closes. This season's pack of 1899 in many varieties illustrates the strength of these opinions and the truth of this assertion. Because all the world believes we were to have a deluge of tomatoes, the habit of that thought has almost become an instinct with many parties throughout the country. In the same way the impression naturally got abroad in the Spring and early Summer that the Eastern peach crop was entirely destroyed by the February low temperatures. Both of these beliefs have turned out to be only partially well founded.

Tomatoes have not been an excessive crop when the whole country is considered, and peaches, on the other hand, are proven by the statistics of the receipts to be something more than half of last year's crop in quantity.—The Trade, Baltimore.

MOCHA COFFEE.

E. S. Cunningham, American Consul at Aden, makes the following report on Mocha coffee exports to the United States:

"Some time since a prominent merchant of Aden called my attention to a paragraph in an American newspaper in regard to Mocha coffee and its use in the United States. The paragraph contained this sentence: 'Indeed, there is practically no genuine Mocha coffee in our market.' This statement is quite unjust to American importers of the genuine Mocha coffee direct from ports of Arabia. As appears from the invoice books at this consulate and the consular agency at Hodeida, there have been invoiced for exportation to the United States during the year ending June 30, 1899, 32,156 bags (160 pounds each—5,144,960 lb.) of Mocha coffee, I should think it but reasonable that at least 5,000 bags which are first shipped to Europe finally reach the American market without being mixed with inferior coffees.

"Doubtless, Mocha is mixed with cheaper coffee in Europe to a great extent, and is shipped to the United States as Mocha coffee; but it is hardly possible that an importer who buys his coffee at an Arabian port could get anything but genuine Mocha or Harrar coffee."

COFFEE IN NEW YORK.

Continued firmness has been experienced in the market for Brazil grades, and prices have advanced slightly. The principal bull factor has been large movement of coffee into consumption, both in the United States and Europe; in fact, this movement has reached sufficiently large proportions to lead many of the local trade to anticipate a slight reduction in the world's visible supply during the month of October, an unusual occurrence for the season of the year. The Brazil markets have continued firm at prices above a parity with those ruling locally. Europe has continued to be reported as a good buyer, and it also has been stated that fairly large purchases were made in the Brazil markets for the account of Arbuckle Bros.—New York Journal of Commerce.

HOW GREAT BUSINESSES ARE BORN.

A MASS of knotty, dusty waste, full of sticks and leaves, pierced cocoons, and dead silkworms. "Fit to be chucked away, and nothing else," said the silk manufacturer, as he stood looking at this pile of UNSAVORY WASTE.

What was his astonishment then when his companion, Mr. S. C. Lister, remarked that he would not mind giving a halfpenny a pound for the lot! "Take it, and welcome," said the man of silk. Mr. Lister had it carted off to his wool mills at Manningham, and there entered on the long series of experiments which, after bringing him to the verge of bankruptcy, ended by founding one of the biggest and most remunerative businesses the world ever saw — the manufacture of plush. To give some idea of the pluck of the man, he was no less than £360,000 to the bad at one time.

Britain owes very much of her prosperity to the invention of steel. The present development in that direction is due more to Sir H. Bessemer than anybody else. It was in 1836 his great discovery of making steel by passing air through liquid iron revolutionized the iron trade and started one of the biggest businesses in Britain. The price of steel went down at once over thirty per cent. Within thirty days of his readiug the paper announcing his discovery, he received £27,000 from ironmasters for licenses to use his process. He granted these, and then regretted the step, and bought them back for £31,500. A good thing he did so. It paid him many times over in the long run.

The whole of the town of Reading, with a population now of about 70,000, depends directly or indirectly on the giant firm of Huntley & Palmer, the

BISCUIT MANUFACTURERS.

What Answerite is there who has not eaten of the dainty products of the immense factory which stands alongside the Great Western Railway? All this tremendous business, which is now capitalized at two and a half millions, owes its origion to the Palmer who, some sixty years ago, had a little shop in the town where he used himself to make one special kind of biscuit, and sell this delicacy from a tray to travelers on their way through the town. There are now no less than seven Palmers at the head of the great concern.

Many other big businesses have owed their origin to the possession by their founders of some special recipe — Lea & Perrins, for instance, the wealthy proprietors of the famous Worcester sauce. Many people now alive can remember the little chemist's shop in the High street, which was all they owned before they began the manufacture of the well-known relish.

Mr. Thomas Holloway's famous pills were the result of a recipe given by an old German woman to his mother. They were a failure at first, and their youthful manufacturer was thrown into prison for debt. When he got out he started a shop in the Strand, began advertising, and never looked back.

In the same way the secret of Day & Martin's blacking was imparted to them by an old soldier who strayed one day into their little shop and asked charity. They were good to him, and, in gratitude, he gave them the recipe which has made their name known the world over.

Twenty-two years ago the idea of an Australian cricket team visiting these shores was not even mooted. That such an innovation would cover expenses, let alone pay, was

MORE THAN DOUBTFUL.

It was the proprietors of a small restaurant in Melbourne who decided to risk their entire savings in the cause of sport. They did so, and who will deny that Messrs. Spiers & Pond deserve the success which has since attended them? The company, at the head of which is F. W. Spiers, is capitalized at considerably over a million, and supplies its customers with anything, from a suit of clothes to a beefsteak.

When a youngster will take the trouble to walk three days on end to look at some beds of tulips and rhododendrons it is quite evident that boy ought to make gardening his business. He did, leaving his father's business of corn factoring and milling, and to-day the is familiar to every Briton who has a garden, whether at home or in the colonies, and to most of our American cousins into the bargain.

The country at large owes very much to the development by Mr. Martin Hope Sutton of the humble but ever-useful potato. It is due to him and his firm that the devastating potato disease is no longer the fearful danger it was when it ravaged these islands and caused the awful famine in Ireland in 1846.

This attempt of Sir Thomas Lipton to "lift" the cup is not his first experience of America. More than thirty years ago, when a mere lad of fifteen, he emigrated to the States. He took any work that came to hand, and by dint of infinite care and patience eventually amassed $500 (£100). With this he returned to the Old Country and took a little shop in Glasgow, which he stocked with great care, and proceeded to advertise by means of gigantic colored cartoon posters hung outside. He slept in the little back room and toiled early and late. His £100 gradually became £200. He opened another shop. To-day, as everyone knows, his shops and branches are numbered by the score. And he can afford to spend £70,000 to £80,000 in an attempt to regain for his country the cup that has been lost to it for ALMOST HALF A CENTURY.

Everyone has read with interest of the recent maiden trip of the biggest liner in the world—the Oceanic. This 20,000-ton floating palace was built at the yard of one of the biggest shipbuilding concerns in the word, Messrs Harland & Wolff, of Belfast, Mr. E. J. Harland was born 68 years ago at Scarborough. His father, though a doctor, was himself a good deal of a mechanical genius. In 1827 Dr. Harland invented and patented a steam motor-car, which worked to admiration.

Young Harland showed his bent early. He was always hanging around the yard, watching the wooden East Indiamen being built. His father apprenticed him at Robert Stephenson's works, where he worked 14 hours a day for a very small wage. He got on so well that at the age of 18 he was entrusted with the building of a locomotive. Then he invented a wonderful lifeboat, which was taken up by the Duke of Northumberland.

After a turn in the Glasgow yards, where he watched the early Cunarders being built, he went to Belfast as manager to Mr. Hickson. There he had most exciting times, for the manager he had succeeded had been very popular with the hands, who all struck at his dismissal. Young Harland was so plucky they all took to him, and soon he set up for himself.

He began increasing the length of ships, and building them with flat bottoms, taking fish as his model. So great was his success that the White Star gave him all their work. It was for them he turned out the first Oceanic in 1871. She, like the present ship, was the

MARVEL OF HER YEAR.

Lord Armstrong's name is one to conjure with amongst the steel workers of the civilized world. Few are aware that this mighty mechanic began life as a lawyer. He might have stuck to the law for life if he hadn't gone fishing one day. The fish were not rising, and Mr. Armstrong sat and looked at a "force," as they call them in the North—a waterfall tumbling over the rocks in front. The amount of power wasted there occurred to him, and suddenly there dawned on him the idea of the hydraulic machine, which was the first thing to make him known as a great engineer. The fame of this remarkable appliance has since been overshadowed by his wonderful guns. The gun he invented in 1859 was 57 times more accurate than any then in use, and enormously more powerful.—Answers.

WHOLESALE GROCERS, - - - MONTREAL

UNITED STATES AND CANADIAN SALMON PACK.

REVIEWING the salmon situation, The San Francisco Trade Journal says: "There is no canned salmon for sale outside of Puget Sound sockeyes and humpbacks or pinks and Alaskan reds, medium reds and pinks. It is said that the pack of the latter is larger proportionately than it was in 1898. All the Alaskan salmon is sold outside of the Alaska Packers' Association and that held by The Pacific Steam Whaling Company to meet their immediate spring call. The purchases outside of Alaska are largely from second hands, and even the supply obtainable from the latter appears to be about exhausted. We have withdrawn all quotations outside of the varieties now obtainable. The receipts of Alaskan at this port are about 950,000 cases, with 450,000 cases yet to come forward to The Pacific Steam Whaling Company. There have been received at Astoria from Alaska 21,000 cases, and at Puget Sound ports 56,000 cases, so say reports. This makes a total of 1,067,000 cases of this year's pack in Alaska. There were packed in British Columbia 679,600 cases spring and about 40,000 cases fall. Total, 719,600 cases. On Columbia river the spring pack was 273,500, and the fall pack is placed at about 50,000 cases. Total, 323,500 cases. On outside rivers in Oregon and Washington, 105,000 cases. The Puget Sound pack is placed at 514,000 cases sockeyes, 30,000 tyees or chinooks, 238,000 humpbacks, 7,500 cohoes, making a total of 850,000 cases. To this more cohoes will be added to end with chums, so that the pack on Puget Sound will not be less than 900,000 cases. The above makes a grand total of 3,114,600 cases. This total is subject to later returns, all of which will be given by canneries in our special cannery edition, but it is near enough correct to make no difference as to the final outcome."

FEATURES OF A MODERN STORE.

Markdale's business men appear to be enjoying the present prosperity of the northern part of Ontario, and, judging from the enlargement and improvement in the several stores in their smart town, they are not hiding their lights under a bushel. First, one notices on the main corner, what for years was considered the mart of the district, W. J. McFarland & Son's large general store which they have now enlarged to a floor space of 25,000 square feet. Some idea of the embellishments of this big concern may be arrived at when we learned that to light the building required 1,025 square feet of plate-glass window, while 60 electric jets illuminate it at night. The building is heated throughout by steam; cash-carriers traverse the store; a china-room alone, in the basement, is 34x70 feet. A new department, and a very convenient one, is a well-furnished waiting-room with a ladies' lunch-room opening off it, and, conveniently situated, are wash-rooms and lavatories, so closely has the head of this firm considered the convenience and comfort of his customers. Though well advanced in years, and a very busy man, Mr. McFarland always takes time for details.

A GROCERY PAPER'S THIRTIETH BIRTHDAY.

The American Grocer, New York, has been celebrating its 30th birthday, and has marked the occasion by issuing a special number. The American Grocer always appears neat and attractive, but it has surpassed itself on this occasion. The cover is a decidedly striking and handsome piece of work, the reading matter reflects much care and wisdom in preparation, the illustrations are many and interesting, and the arrangement and display of the advertisements should be a source of gratification to the advertisers. THE CANADIAN GROCER begs to wish The American Grocer many happy returns of the day.

SOAP WILL RISE.

The following, from The National Provisioner, while intended for a United States constituency, may not be uninteresting to Canadian readers: "An increase in the cost of raw material naturally presages an increase in the price of the article manufactured from it. This increased price of the manufactured article must follow the increased cost of the raw material. On this basis soap must rise in price, especially soaps made from animal and vegetable oils. These materials have increased in price from 25 to 80 per cent. over their cost a year ago. Common shop fat has risen from 1½ to 2½c. per pound, tallow has gone up from 3 to 5¼c., and all other animal greases have risen in proportion. Cottonseed has jumped from $6 per ton the first week in October of last year to $13 per ton quoted last week in Sherman, Texas. Texas crude oil has risen from 13 to 20c. for the same dates. Oleo foots and cottonseed foots which go into the common soaps and all other soap stock from animal and cottonseed oils must, therefore, go up in price to the manufacturer. He is then left the alternative of either raising the price of his goods or of making a cheaper product—faking his brands. No reputable factory will consent to this latter alternative. As there is no immediate prospect for a lower market for raw material, there is the inevitable raising of the price of soap to the jobber, and hence to the consumer."

In the Name

"Benson" and "Edwardsburg" there is a sure profit to the grocer who sells Starch, because Edwardsburg Starch is known by, and sells on its merits. It is not a new thing or an experiment—it has been tried for over forty years and not found wanting in any vital part. Whether it be for the laundry or for cooking, if the name is on the package, a grocer's profit is absolutely assured, because that package will sell. You won't have to stop to explain the virtues of the Starch, because its high quality, its absolute purity, and the unvarying evenness of the grade is known by cautious buyers all over Canada.

"Edwardsburg" or "Benson"

A WORD ABOUT

VENICE WAFERS

EXACT SIZE

They are a variation of our "FLORENCE" wafer, to which we recently drew attention. Made in the same flavors, Raspberry, Lemon, and Coffee, they are only half the size, being less than one inch wide. Their convenient size and shape make them very popular; particularly suitable where dainty "stand-up teas" and suppers are being served. When sending in your next order, include a case of "VENICE" wafers.

DUNN'S PURE MUSTARDS

GIVE UNBOUNDED SATISFACTION.

The reason is—They are profitable to dealers and satisfying to consumers.

"A Stitch in Time"

You know how many stitches "a stitch in time" saves, and you know, too, how much better it is to be the leader than to follow the leader. Perhaps you are waiting for some other grocer in town to begin selling Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats, and, if so, that delay is going to be a dangerous one for your business.

Folks don't go to one grocer for one thing and to another grocer for another, because it's human nature to buy all "cooking things" at one store. When your customer happens to buy a pound or two of Tillson's Pan-Dried Rolled Oats of your competitor and doesn't happen to find hulls and black specks in them, and does find a rich, nut-like flavor, it is ten to one you'll lose that customer's trade on everything else. Remember what "a stitch in time" saves.

"Save The Pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves." Many a large sh p has been sunk from a small leak. It's the trifles that count in life—the little things that are often overlooked on account of their littleness.

If you are one of the few grocers in Canada who are not selling my "Pebble" 5c. Cigar you are losing little daily profits that will amount to a big thing in the course of a year. If a customer once buys the "Pebble" he continues to buy it week after week. That's the strong point about the "Pebble" Cigar—it's a steady seller! Write me about it.

MADE IN CANADA.

It is no mean compliment that

"Sterling" Brand Pickles

are made in Canada. Canadian-made goods are to the front now the world over, especially in a line like pickles, wherein Canadians excel.

"Sterling" Brand Pickles are made of the best grown Canadian vegetables—and the world produces none better—made by modern methods in Canada's largest pickle factory.

The grocer who is resolved on catering to the best trade of his community will always keep on hand a good assortment of these pickles.

"Flavor Counts!"

A woman doesn't go into a hot kitchen and spend hours over her cooking just for fun. She goes there for business, and good-bye to the confidence that that woman has always had in you and your goods when she finds that you have persuaded her to buy some Flavoring Extract that paid you a little better profit because there was no strength, or richness, or delicacy of flavor in it.

If a grocer will put himself in a woman's place for just one minute, we think he'll agree to what we say.

Jonas'
Flavoring Extracts

have unequalled strength, because they are concentrated—they are distilled and double distilled until the greatest possible amount of richness and delicacy is compressed into the smallest possible amount of space. See how economical they are for a woman to use—see how sure a woman is (because of their absolute purity) of securing the best results when she works, and works, and works in a hot kitchen. Truly——"Flavor Counts."

GINGER, AND WHERE IT IS PRODUCED.

GINGER is the root of a kind of reed, grown both in the East and West Indies and China, also largely in Malabar, and to a certain extent in nearly all tropical countries. It is also, remarks Merchants' Review, New York, to be found, though of poor quality, in most of the Gulf States. The stem, or reed, is an annual, and grows directly from the root every spring to the height of about three feet, with long blades or lanceolate leaves, resembling very much in style and color American maize or corn. This reed, or stalk, terminates in an oblong scaly spike, and from each of the scales grow a little blue and white flower. This plant is now cultivated in very great quantities in the West Indies, especially in the Island of Jamaica, from which place the finest and most esteemed is imported.

Jamaica ginger is not only cultivated to very great perfection, but the selecting, scraping, drying, and all the necessary details in its preparation are observed with the utmost care and nicety. Ginger is imported into this country either in the form of the dried roots or as a preserve in syrup, and comes from Cochin China, Africa, and the East and West Indies. The preserved ginger from the West Indies is much esteemed and commands a very high price. The ginger root grows in knotty, branched pieces, in low, fenny, or marshy soils, and has a pleasant, aromatic odor and biting taste. There are viz.: the black and the white. Black ginger consists of the inferior roots, which have been steeped in boiling water previous to being dried in the sun. The color of the darkest kinds, however, is not black, but more of a dirty brown or stone color. White ginger consists of the roundest and finest roots scraped clean and then dried carefully without being scalded. It is firmer, less fibrous and more pungent than the black, and, from the fact that the finest and soundest roots are always selected, white ginger is, independent of the manner of its preparation, superior to black, and always realizes a much higher price in the market; but the difference of color depends wholly upon the manner of curing or preparing. For both of these kinds the tubes or roots are allowed to ripen, that is they are not dug up until after the annual stalks are withered.

THE PRINCIPAL VARIETIES OF GINGER

known in commerce are, white ginger—Jamaica, Cochin China, Africa, East Indian or Bengal and Tellichery; black or dark ginger—Jamaica and Malabar. Gingers imported into Europe are subjected to various modes of treatment, which tend greatly to improve and preserve them, for the finer its quality the more susceptible is ginger to the ravages of the fly or ginger worm. These various modes of treatment are washing, brightening and bleaching, and the gingers are consequently known in the trade as "originals," viz.: the ginger as imported; "washed," that which has been cleaned in water slightly acidified; "bright," the ginger which has undergone the preparatory course of bleaching; and "bleached," that which has received a coating or dressing of lime, etc. These latter modes of treatment of ginger until recently were carried on exclusively by experts in Europe, and it is only within the past few years that the art has been introduced into this country. When a is required, the roots are taken up in the sap, the stalks not being more than a few inches long; the young roots are scalded, then washed in cold water and afterwards carefully peeled. This process lasts for several days, during which time the water is often changed. When the cleansing is complete the tubers are put into jars and covered with a weak syrup of sugar. After a day or two this weak syrup is removed and replaced by a stronger one, and this shifting is two or three times repeated, increasing the strength of the syrup each time. The preserve thus formed is one of

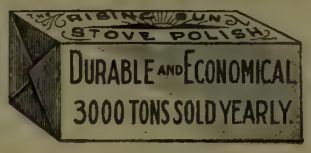
THE FINEST THAT IS MADE.



The removed syrups are not lost but fermented into a pleasant and agreeable beverage, known as "cool drink," used very much in topical countries. Preserved ginger, as manufactured here and in Europe, is dark and fibrous, but when prepared in the East or West Indies or China, the West Indies especially, from the young roots, it is almost transparent. It is imported in jars, and should be of a bright yellow color. Ginger is imported from Jamaica in barrels of about 100 lb. each, with actual tare allowance; from Cochin China and Malabar in cases of about 200 lb. each, also with actual tare allowance. African and East Indian ginger comes in bags of 100 lb. each, with tare of 2 lb. each bag.

Ginger is one of the most IMPORTANT MEMBERS OF THE SPICE FAMILY.

The import tables show that between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 lb. of the dried root are used annually in this country, about the same quantity as is taken of cassia. Between 250,000 and 500,000 lb. of pre-

TRADE CHAT.

A STEAMER left Sarnia, Ont., a few days ago with a consignment of 11,000 barrels of apples for the Canadian Northwest.

The Maritime Spice and Coffee Co., Limited, are applying for incorporation.

Potatoes are being imported to Regina, N.W.T., from Duck Lake, Grenfell and Portage la Prairie, Man.

Prince Bros., millers, Battleford, N.W.T., have bought out The A. Macdonald Co., general merchants of that place.

About $10,000 damage was done to The Sun Oil Company's refinery at Hamilton last Friday night. There was $2,000 insurance.

Vital Raby, grocer, Notre Dame street, Moutreal, is mentioned as a candidate for No. 1 seat, St. Antoine South ward, in the city council.

P. A. Boughner's general store in Mapleton, Ont., was burglarized last week. The thieves took away about $100 worth of merchandise.

D. I. Hamlink's apple evaporator, at Port Hope, Ont., was completely destroyed by fire last Saturday. The loss is placed at $4,000, with no insurance.

A. S. Williams & Co., general merchants, Eagle City, B.C., have sold their business to The British Columbia Mercantile and Mining Syndicate, Cascade, B.C.

Thos. Craig, general merchant, Ridgetown, Ont., who was burned out a few weeks ago, reopened last Saturday with a big clearing sale of salvage stock.

The McLaughlan & Son Co., Limited, manufacturers of biscuits, etc., and wholesale grocers, Owen Sound, Ont., have been incorporated with $150,000 capital.

William J. Stewart, of Glasgow, representing a syndicate prepared to invest $650,000, is investigating the suitability of Ontario for the establishment of a beet sugar industry.

The English Bay Canning Co., Limited, and The Scottish-Canadian Salmon Packing Co., of Vancouver, have amalgamated with The United Canneries of British Columbia, Limited.

On Sunday morning, Wm. B. Kellett's general store and building, with their contents, in Essex, Ont., were destroyed by fire. His loss is estimated at $6,500. There is $3,000 insurance.

"When you get your groceries to-day,' said the butcher to his wife, "don't go to that little grocer next door to my shop." "Why not?" she demanded. "Because he sent in yesterday and borrowed an old pair of my scales."

A good proof of industrial activity is given in The Ontario Gazette of November 4, which shows that companies with a total capitalization of $2,187,000 have been incorporated, and other companies have been empowered to increase their capital $750,000 during the past week.

The shipments from Mount Albert, Ont., station, for last week were: Two cars stock to Toronto; two cars potatoes to Toronto; one car barley to Montreal; one car peas to Montreal; one car barley to Portland; two cars of oats to Portland; one car of oats to New York; six cars wood to Toronto.

Canadian fruits are having a wide market every year in Manitoba and the Northwest, owing to the increased facilities of transportation, the low rates, and the growing demand. Winnipegers are now enjoying apples for the first time from the famous Annapolis Valley, a carload of the noted Gravensteins having been imported last week by a local firm.

MONSOON IN FAVOR.

The Monsoon Tea Co., Toronto, shipped a carload of their teas to Halifax last week. This firm has met with great success in the Lower Provinces, where "Monsoon" has had a steady sale from the date of its introduction.

FIRE AT LEAMINGTON.

Kennedy Bros.' evaporator at Leamington, Ont., was damaged to the extent of $2,000 by fire a few days ago. The factory employed about 60 hands. They have another kiln, which has been heretofore used for waste, which they will use until the end of the season. They have an immense stock of apples, both evaporated and green, which was not touched by the fire. Kennedy Bros. will erect new buildings for next season's operations.

J. C. Hazard, manager of T. B. Escott & Co.'s Montreal agency, reports the sale of "Grand Mogul" tea very good in the Province of Quebec. His firm have shipped him a carload this week to fill orders in Montreal and other parts of the Province. He reports business good and prospects for "Grand Mogul" excellent.

CANADIAN TRADE WITH JAMAICA.

The commercial agent of Canada at Kingston, Jamaica, suggests that during the meeting of the Legislative Council, of the Island, which convenes in December or January, the Dominion Government should take advantage of the tariff revision, which is to be made then, to secure whatever return is desired for Canadian favors already granted.

He also advocates a faster and cheaper boat service, as rates are now considered excessive. More energetic action on the part of exporters is also advanced. What has interfered greatly with the development of Canadian trade has been lack of promptness on the part of Canadian exporters in answering correspondence and their failure to comply with instructions. He is glad to note a house has been opened in Kingston, Jamaica, to handle Canadian boots, shoes, cottons, etc., direct from the manufacturers in this country. The Island is at length beginning to show signs of a revival of trade and agricultural prosperity.

WINTER IS COMING.

WINTER is coming. In a few days we will have frost and snow. The trees are already bare and the chilly winds are sighing through the forests. Cold weather generally comes so suddenly that few are prepared for it. Every year storekeepers loose thousands of dollars worth of goods because their cellars and storehouses are not frostproof. They intended, of course, to have everything fixed and put in proper order, but the frost caught them unaware, and their goods were spoiled on account of their procrastination. It is about time to put up your storm windows and get your heating apparatus in good shape. There are cellar doors that need repairing; air-holes in the partitions that should be stopped up; exposed walls that should be banked up with earth. All grocers and general storekeepers know these things very well, but they put off day to day what should be done at once, and the sudden and unexpected coming of a cold snap catches them.

Canned goods, vegetables, fruits; in fact, groceries of various kinds, are ruined in quality and flavor by freezing; some are utterly spoiled and become a total loss. All of this might be avoided by a little precaution and care.

Fall business may be brisk, but there is plenty of time to look your premises carefully over and see if everything is all right. It will not require a great amount of labor or expense to make everything snug and tight and ready to fight the frost. Attend to this matter at once, and it may save you many dollars.—Grocers' Criterion.

OLIVE OIL SHORT.

MAIL advices from a leading English broker in London say: "I am to-day in a position to confirm that in all olive producing districts the new crop will be considerably below the average. The present stocks are being rapidly bought up, and prices are already 15 per cent. higher than early in the season. The advance will specially be felt on the lower grade olive oils, for which an increasing demand for pharmaceutical purposes makes itself felt. The crop in Italy is expected to be very poor indeed, and considered barely sufficient for home consumption. Italian merchants are buying heavily for prompt and forward delivery from my principal in Algeria. Tunis and Algiers will have about half the average crop. Greece and the Levant.—The prospects are almost as bad as in Italy. Provence has an average crop, but genuine Provence oil fetches to-day 5s. 9d. to 6s. Spain's crop will be somewhat below the average, but, as Spanish oils are only suitable for technical purposes, this market will not affect the better oil. I can confidently advise my friends to cover their requirements for next year without any delay. The pressing of the new fruit will begin the middle of next month. Shipments of new oil may be expected early in December. Mr. Tiopulo has a weekly production of about 50 tons. As pointed out to you before, special attention is paid to the keeping properties of the olive oil. Olive oils for technical purposes (lubricating, soap-making, etc.) are at present very scarce, and business has been done at about £33 per ton nett c.i.f. United Kingdom ports for bright yellow oil of about 10 per cent. acid. I am authorized to make sales of new season's oil, well filtered, bright yellow color, 3 to 4 per cent. acid at £33 per ton nett c.i.f. United Kingdom ports, delivery as required January forward."

CLEANLINESS IN THE STORE.

IT may interest our readers to hear that one of the subjects discussed at the recent sanitary congress in Nuremberg was "The Need of Greater Cleanliness in the Retail Grocery Trade." It formed the title of a lecture delivered by Professor Erismann, of Zurich, and lest our readers may dispose of the matter with the flattering unction that it concerns only a European trade and public, we make known to them that a prominent metropolitan journal takes occassion to remark that the subject might be profitably discussed in other cities, meaning, of course, American as well as European cities, says The Merchants' Review.

There is much less cause for public concern as to the condition of grocery stores than formerly. During the last 20 or 25 years the average American grocery store has seen many changes, but none more marked than the improvement in the construction of the stores and in the fixtures and utensils, and, as the stores have grown more spacious and handsome and the refrigerators, counters, etc., finer and more elaborate, the obligation of perfect cleanliness has naturally been pressed upon the grocer's attention with greater force than formerly.

There is, of course, still room for improvement in some direction — there will probably always be room for that, because the poor and their crowded tenements will always be more or less in evidence, and the untidy, crowded grocery store of the neighborhood must keep them in countenance in order to preserve their patronage.

The fact that an important sanitary congress has seen fit to discuss this subject ought, however, to cause the mass of the grocers to take even greater pains than in the past to keep goods from contamination with dust and dirt. The exposure of foods to the open air of the store offends the better class of consumers, even when the practice is harmless, and the sooner the custom of displaying fruits and vegetables on the sidewalk is discontinued, the better the general public will be pleased,

Sanitary laws are multiplying in number and strictness in most of the civilized countries, and the condition of goods in the grocery store may soon become the care of our health boards. Grocers, therefore, would perhaps save themselves some annoyance by taking time by the forelock and removing all cause for further interference by health officers in their affairs.

A still more important consideration, and one which will always have weight with intelligent dealers, is that the public like clean stores, and will patronize them in preference to establishments of a different class.

A GOOD TRAVELER.

A good traveler should be, says The Scottish Trader: 1. A good man, but not prudish, and should make a firm resolution never to discuss religion, politics or other people. 2. He should dress quietly, speak quietly, act quietly and be a good listener. 3. He should do all he is paid to do, and as much more as he is able during each day; he is entitled to recreation in the evening. 4. He must be honest, truthful and sincere. 5. He must never overstock a customer, and should suggest such business as he knows will bring repeat orders, but he should on no account dictate, but with due deference should take his instructions and carry them out (with the assistance of his house) to the best of his ability and to the satisfaction of his clients. 6. He should be punctual in his appointments, and always remember that time is money to himself, his client and his house.

WHEN WRITING ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THAT YOU SAW THEIR ADVERTISEMENT IN THIS PAPER

EDUCATE THE PUBLIC.

IT is a question whether the average retail grocer realizes the value of his local paper to his business and himself. He, as a rule, understands from experience the benefits of its columns for advertising purposes, but he has not tried, therefore, does not know, how valuable it can be as a means of educating the public.

For instance, when certain lines of goods are stiffening or advancing in price, it would be a good move to acquaint the local editor with the fact. By this means, the public would be led to expect an advance on the part of the retailer.

The average consumer does not know that canned goods are rising in price, as they are. So the housewife, when asked an advance of 1c. or so from the retailer, will naturally argue that, as she got them cheaper a week or a month ago at a competitor's, that the grocer she is now buying from is dearer than the other fellow; whereas, an editorial note in the local paper would prepare her for this advance.

This information should not be paid for as a "reading notice," as it is news of benefit to the readers of the papers, and of no more advantage to the grocer giving it to the editor than to the other grocers in the town.

To make sure of the information being published correctly, it would be well to either write it out, or to show the local editor a report of it in the authority on such matters, THE CANADIAN GROCER.

COTTON CORD AND LINE DEARER.

The anticipated advance in cotton goods, such as lines and twine, has at last taken place.

Under these changes, cotton twine is from 1 to 1½c. per lb. higher; cotton rope, 1c. per lb.; clothes line, 10 to 12½ per cent., and sash cord, 1½ to 2c. per lb. higher.

SCARCITY OF FRENCH SARDINES.

Advices in regard to French sardines are very firm, it being confirmed that, owing to the storms that have prevailed, the fishing operations have been very disappointing. As a consequence, though a great number of buyers are offering higher prices, they find it difficult to place orders. The excessive dearness of tin and lead during the past year have also exercised a material influence, and the certainty of a shortage of olive oil makes the outlook for the French sardine canners poor. In fact, several of the large concerns expect that they will be compelled to shut down, and that, if the coming winter is severe, a year of extraordinary scarcity, like that of 1880, is a foregone conclusion.

REFUSED THE REBATE.

The A. I. Teed Co., Limited, St. Stephen, N.B., who bought a car of Californian raisins at the time the California Packers' Association quoted 1c. rebate on goods paying duty in Canada, were much surprised to receive a telegram that the association had withdrawn the rebate and would not even allow it on goods that had been bought and not delivered. This is but one of the unbusiness-like methods that have been introduced this year into the Californian raisin business. The car was sold to The A. I. Teed Co., Limited, by J. Hunter White, St. John, N.B., representing the J. K. Armsby Co., Chicago, and they, recognizing the injustice of the position taken by the association, undertake to see their customers are not the losers.

A FIRM RAISIN MARKET.

RECENT advices from California state that rains have so seriously damaged the crop there that no more offerings of Californian raisins can be looked for. As stocks of these raisins are just starting to arrive on this market, it is likely that the total supply of them will be light.

Cables from Spain re Valencias state that the crop is practically exhausted. It is estimated to be over 300,000 boxes lighter than last year, and that prices have considerably advanced.

Sultanas are more plentiful. All grades of this brand are now offering freely. The foreign market is dearer, however, and, as there is a large selection on the Canadian market to choose from, it would seem that the present would be the retailers' best opportunity of the season to purchase his stocks.

PACKING HOUSES BUSY.

The pork-packing houses are manifesting unusual activity just now. The near approach of the close of navigation has brought a greater rush of orders than is the custom even at this generally busy season of the year. The result is that, to fill orders in the limited time, all houses are working at extra pressure day and night.

This, too, in the face of a declining market. Within the past week, the price of dressed hogs has fallen 25c., making a total drop of 75c. in about five weeks. This naturally will affect prices, and, after the present rush is over, a decline in many lines may be looked for. But the rush will not be over for a week or two yet.

WHEN SHIPPING GOODS EAST.

Our St. John N.B., correspondent writes: "Western shippers should learn that when they sell goods delivered at St. John, if the buyers have them billed for export, the difference which the railways make in the rate of freight in the interest of export business belongs to the buyer and not to the shipper. This almost seems too simple a proposition to need stating, still, there are shippers in the west who hold that they should have the advantage of the reduced rate."

THE EXPORT POULTRY TRADE.

THOSE who are interested in the export of poultry from Canada have made, and are making, preparations for a big season's trade this year.

The export of poultry from Canada is small compared with that of other farm produce, but it is rapidly prowing. It has already, in fact, reached proportions that would have been considered impossible towards the close of the year 1890, when the passing of the McKinley Bill imposed a specific duty of 5c. per lb. on turkeys in place of the former ad valorem duty of 10 per cent., thus demoralizing the export of Canadian turkeys, etc., to that country.

Previous to that date Boston was Canada's market for ponltry, but frequently it was too limited a market, and prices were very irregular, especially in soft weather in the early winter. The average of prices, however, was much better than has been the case since that year.

The principal export, previous to 1890, was from Eastern Ontario, the centres of trade being the towns of Perth and Smith's Falls. At these points "turkey fairs," as they were locally called, were held annually, and, for four days, two at each town, deliveries of dressed poultry, of which turkeys formed the major part, brought by farmers from all the neighboring district, were made to Boston buyers. The prices ranged from 10 to 12c. to as high as 14 to 16c. for turkeys, and 2 to 4c. less for geese at the farmers' wagons. Generally from 8 to 14 tons were shipped from each of the towns.

Since the passage of the McKinley Bill, these "fairs" have still been held, but rarely has the price paid exceeded 10c. for turkeys, and 8c. for geese. In recent years a big demand for poultry has been experienced in Ontario from British Columbia and the Northwest. This trade has largely been captured by the Eastern Ontario towns.

Meanwhile a good export demand for poultry, especially turkeys, has been developed in Great Britain, while the United States has also taken some of our stock in late years. The following table shows the exports of dressed and undressed poultry from the beginning of the decade till the issue of the last Government returns, July, 1898 :

	Great Britain.	United States.
1898	$72,185	$20,124
1897	14,875	33,530
1896	3,075	8,618
1895	1,824	11,167
1894	11,867	2,592
1893	3 119	13,982
1892	6,577	15,929
1891	1,002	24,070
1890	....	49,232

As the 1890 returns are for the year ending June 30, they were not affected by the McKinley Bill. The effect is well shown in the succeeding years, however. The four years, 1893-4-5-6, show the smallest export. During November and early December of these years turkeys sold at about 6 to 8c. per lb. in Toronto.

The figures of 1898 show a total trade nearly double that of 1890. If those for the year ending June last were to hand, they would show a great gain over that of 1898. The increase in the production necessary for such devolopment of our exports has been extended over most of Eastern Canada, but the major portion of it has been in Western Ontario. Greater interest was taken in this trade last season than ever before by the merchants of this part of Ontario. Some of them, such as T. Whitehead, Walkerton, held special delivery days, similar to the "Fairs" of Perth and Smith's Falls, and in this way collected, in some instances, several tons in a day.

As before stated, the preparations for the present season are greater, and the export is likely to be larger than ever before. It is estimated that buyers have already contracted in the country for about 100,000 turkeys for the British market at about 7½ to 8c. per lb. for dressed stock. Its probable reception on that market may be judged from the following, taken from The Fish Trade Gazette, London : "We do not anticipate quite so strong a demand for Normandy turkeys this year, on account of probable large supplies of Canadian birds of fine quality. There is every reason to expect these birds to be much better prepared than in former years,"

When the average Eastern Canada farmer learns to properly fatten, kill and dress poultry—turkeys and fowl, especially—there will be an exceedingly great expansion in our exports of them. One of the most conservative commission men of Toronto states that $5,000,000 is by no means an impossible figure to reach, when the trade is properly looked after by all concerned.

And a review of the situation makes the claim seem a reasonable one.

MAKING COLLECTIONS.

DURING the fall of the year, when the farmer is making deliveries of grain, hogs, etc., and reaping the profits of his labors of the summer, the merchant who does a credit business with the farmer is called upon to exercise even greater skill than usual in the management of his business.

In dealing with his farmer customer he has to exercise much tact and skill that he will get his pay, yet shall not offend, and consequently lose, any desirable customers through the persistency of his request for payment.

All merchants should, and most successful merchants do, know personally all their customers—not only have a speaking acquaintance with them, but know their characters and natures so well that they are able to approach them successfully on such matters as the payment of their accounts.

When a merchant sells a customer goods on credit, his customer is under no obligation to him, if he pays it in a reasonable time. The merchant's reward is, or should be, in the increased charge made because of the business being on the credit basis. When this principle is thoroughly recognized, there is less difficulty in approaching a customer about his account than when the merchant looks upon it as a personal favor to his customer.

But, when the customer asks that his account may be left unpaid over the reasonable limit of time, he puts himself under obligation to the merchant, and should be able and willing to give satisfactory reasons for so doing.

As a general rule, the present is the reasonable time for the payment of farmers' accounts, and, if a farmer does not pay up when he is getting his own payments, he should give reasons for the neglect. The merchant should be able to know, from his knowledge of the man's character, whether the reason is satisfactory or not. If it is, certainly the request for longer credit should be granted ; if it is not, it should be "gently, but firmly," refused.

COMPETITION OF FOREIGN SUGAR.

IN addition to the unsettled feeling in raw sugar abroad, to which reference has already been made, another cause has materially contributed towards the frequent fluctuation witnessed in the price of Canadian refined sugar during the past month or six weeks.

Freer offerings of foreign refined sugar, both American and Dutch, is the influence referred to, and, in passing, increased competition from this direction was as much responsible for the latest cut in prices by the Canadian refineries, as the position of the raw material.

So far, this competition has not affected traders in the Montreal district as much as in other parts of the country.

In Quebec and the district adjacent to or controlled by importers there, it is Dutch granulated that our refiners have had to fight.

This sugar can be offered to the trade at about $4.15 per 100 lb., duty paid, but it has the disadvantage of being put up in bags, and, in catering to Canadian consumers who are used to barrels, by long odds the cleanest package, experts figure the preference in favor of the latter is about equivalent to 20 to 25c. per 100 lb.

This, of course, does not apply to the American refined sugar. This is being offered chiefly in the West, and it is understood that three well-known firms of importers, outside of the regular wholesale grocery trade, are bringing in large quantities of this sugar and storing it at Toronto, Winnipeg and other western points.

The competition now in progress between the United States refiners and the drawback of about $1.79 to $2 per 100 lb., allowed by the United States Government on refined sugar exported, is enabling these firms to purchase refined in bond in New York, and offer it to the trade in Canada at $4.40 per 100 lb., duty paid. This competition has been carried so far that the country has been flooded with circulars addressed direct to the retail trade, offering supplies in suitable quantities at the above figure.

Naturally, with the rebate that the Canadian refiners have to allow to wholesalers, this competition is felt all the more keenly, and it is not surprising that they express dissatisfaction with the present condition of affairs. The further west, also, that they cater for trade, the harder this competition from American refined is to meet. This is due to the difference in railway rates imposed from Montreal to points west compared with those asked from New York to the same points.

A case in point came up the other day. A well-known commercial man asked for a figure for 2,000 bbls. from New York to Winnipeg. He was quoted 63c. per 100 lb. by the American railways.

To ship a similar quantity from Montreal to the Western city would cost 73c. per 100 lb., or a difference of 10c. per cwt. in favor of the American sugar, quite a nice margin in these days of keen competition for business. Altogether, the present conditions are decidedly unfair to our Canadian refiners.

Figures obtained from the Customs Department demonstrate that this business in foreign sugar has been largely increased this year as compared with 1898.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, there were 28,544,981 lb. of foreign refined brought into Canada, valued at $807,064. During the same period in 1898 Canadian imports were 22,457,266 lb., valued at $573,448.

At Montreal, however, for the quarter ending September 30, 1899, the imports of foreign refined were less than in 1898. This year, Montreal, in the period named, only imported 1,459,455 lb., valued at $38,984, against 2,060,725 lb., valued at $52,757, in 1898.

THE WAR AND TRADE.

THE troubles in South Africa are, aside from their political significance, of direct interest to merchants and traders generally owing to the influence they exert on the world's money markets. The Imperial Government is shipping gold to South Africa to meet its military expenses, and it has enormously increased its disbursements for military and naval purposes, and, if the war is long drawn out, its need of money will necessarily be heavily added to. An issue of consols is rumored, but, whatever form it takes, the Mother Country cannot carry on war in Africa without withdrawing from commercial uses a considerable volume of money now in use in the loan markets or seeking investment. At the same time the war has cut off the supply of gold from what has become the largest producing section. The supply of gold would still be far larger than it was a few years ago, but the business of the world keeps itself adjusted to the supply of gold in a general way, though of late years it has had some difficulty in keeping up with the increasing supplies, and the sudden cessation of the production on the Rand cannot fail to have an effect upon the money supply. On the other hand, the war is being felt in a beneficial way in the increased demand for breadstuffs, and there must be an increased demand for provisions if it lasts any time and also for war material of every sort. Canada, of course, should share in these benefits; in fact, we have already had an experience in the shape of enormous purchases of Canadian hay for the army horses and mules. But, unfortunately, the stimulus thus afforded to certain branches of trade falls far short of compensating for the interruption of business in other directions. War involves waste of capital instead of its employment in reproductive forms, and the nerves and arteries of commerce are now so interlaced that waste at one point is not without its effect everywhere.

SUGAR DECLINES AGAIN.

After the decline of 5c. noted in sugar prices last week, it was expected by many that figures would hold steady for a while. Another drop, and one of 10c., is noted this week, however. The continued strong competition of foreign sugars, referred to in another column, has made this necessary, and a reduction of the price of raw materials has made it possible.

TORONTO GROCER SHOT.

John E. Varcoe, grocer, 182 Queen street east, Toronto, was shot in his bedroom early Thursday morning by burglars. Mr. Varcoe, who resides over his store, was wakened by a noise, and found one of the thieves beside his bed. He jumped up, and in the scuffle that ensued the thief drew his revolver and fired, hitting him twice, in the groin and the left side. Meanwhile, Mr. Varcoe's assistant, Noel Thomas, who slept in the next room, was prevented from helping his employer by another burglar with a loaded revolver.

After the shooting one of the thieves jumped from a second-storey window, and so hurt himself that he was easily captured by a night patrol in the neighborhood. The other one got out safely, but was chased by a second policeman, who, after firing a number of shots, wounded and captured him.

Two doctors were speedily summoned to Mr. Varcoe's assistance, and, after everything had been done to relieve his sufferings, he was removed to the General Hospital, where he died about 7 o'clock. Mr. Varcoe was a young man, and had many friends in Toronto.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

November 9, 1899.

GROCERIES.

THE market exhibits some interesting features this week. Sugar has declined 10c., making a total drop of 15c. per 100 lb. in two weeks. This is due to easier raw material markets and competition from the United States. Canned goods are decidedly firm, tomatoes showing an advance of 10c. and peas of 5c. Indian and Ceylon teas arriving from London this week show an advance of ½c. Imported nuts are scarce in quantity and high in price. Peppers show an advance of 2c. per lb. Fine and selected Valencia raisins are ½ to 1c. per lb. dearer. Currants are cheaper in Patras, but the reduction comes too late to affect prices for the Christmas trade. With the exception of currants and sugar, a general firmness is manifested, and a good, healthy trade is being done.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market shows decided strength. Tomatoes are the strongest, possibly, on the list. The general quotation is 90c. to $1 for first-class stock. Peas have advanced 5c. in the past week, and are now firm at 80 to 85c. Corn is firm, though last week's range, 95c. to $1, still covers the market.

The lightness of the pack of canned fruits keeps prices stiff, though the demand is but moderate. Pears are very scarce.

It is generally admitted that the pack of cohoe salmon is light, as has been stated in these columns. There is a good movement. Holders are still asking $3.40 to $3.50 f.o.b. at the Coast.

COFFEES.

There is nothing new. A good business is being done at unchanged figures.

SUGAR.

The weakness of this market is demonstrated by another decline of 10c., which follows the drop of 5c. noted last week. The cause of the decline is the competition of United States sugar, but it has been made possible by reduction in the raw sugar market. The decline, which went into effect at 1.30 p.m. Tuesday, makes the Guild price now $4.53 for Montreal granulated, and $4.48 for Acadia granulated.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Sugar syrup is in greater demand than can be supplied, so is decidedly firm. Corn syrup is also moving briskly at firm, unchanged prices. The demand for molasses is light, with prices steady and unchanged.

TEAS.

The strength of Indian and Ceylon teas is maintained by reports of slightly higher prices in the country of production. The London market also shows up strong, especially in the lower and medium grades. Stocks now arriving from England show an advance of ½d. The quantity of spot teas of desirable quality is very limited. Lead for packing teas has, owing to the high price of raw material, advanced £2 10s. from its lowest point. A heavy consumption of China green teas in the United States this season has made it hard to get Canadian orders filled, especially Young Hyson thirds. From recent reports to hand there is no indication of the market easing off in the near future. There is not much doing, though, as buyers refuse to meet sellers' figures. Higher grades of China blacks are easier. Japan teas are steady at unchanged figures.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

NUTS.

The stock of filberts in Canada will be light this season. The bulk of these goods for this market were on the ss. James Turpie, which was stranded, and the bulk of the nuts destroyed. There will be no opportunity of purchasing further supplies of these goods for the holiday trade except from New York. To lay them down from there would cost 9½c. A second cable from Dadelszan & Co., Bordeaux, states that marbots are very high, and that grenobles are in short supply. At the price quoted for grenobles it would cost 12c. in carlots to lay them down here. The ss. Jacona arrived at Montreal on Wednesday with the season's supply of Tarragona almonds. Owing to the high costs, the importation is very light, probably not more than 1,000 bags. To-day's cost of these nuts would be about 13c., original weights. The crop of Canadian hickory nuts and chestnuts has been above the average. Chestnuts are selling freely at $3 to $3.25, and hickory nuts at $1.75 per bushel.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—A brisk business is reported. The foreign markets are weaker, but this is not likely to affect the Canadian market before Christmas, as it is too late to get supplies at present prices before then. They can be bought to-day, though, ½c. lower than goods now arriving. The direct boat, which arrived at Montreal on Wednesday, carried 1,000 tons of currants, of which 520 tons were from Dem Schisas, Patras, the balance by sundry shippers.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Stocks in Spain are practically exhausted. The last quotations received (which were for only a trifling quantity of fine off-stalk) were ½c. higher than the last figure for selected. At the prices quoted, it would cost to lay down in Toronto 6½c. for fine and 7¼c. for selected.

SULTANA RAISINS—All grades are now offering more freely. The foreign market for these raisins is high, so dealers have now the best opportunity of the season to supply their wants at reasonable prices, and with a large selection to choose from.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS—The first shipments are now coming to hand. Advices just to hand state that rains have damaged the crop so seriously that no more Californian raisins can be offered.

PRUNES—Some European prunes have been sold on the market as Bosnias, but it is generally believed they are Servian prunes. Shippers who have their factories in Bosnia, and deliver Bosnias only, are asking 2s. more than these have been sold at. Californian prunes are steady at unchanged figures. There is a great scarcity of small sizes.

GREEN FRUITS.

Generally speaking, an excellent business is being done on the green fruit market. There is an splendid demand for Almeria grapes, sweet potatoes, cranberries, oranges, and lemons. There is also a good movement of winter apples. Large supplies of Verdilli lemons are now on the market at $2.50 to $3 50 per barrel. Jamaica oranges are offering at $5.50 to $6 per barrel, a decline of 50c. Cranberries have also declined 50c., the price being $6.50 to $7. Sweet potatoes are firm and at unchanged figures. The quality of bananas now offering is none too good, and first-class stock is held firmly at $1.50 to $1.75 per bunch, though most of what is offering is not worth much over $1. A few native grapes are still offering at 17 to 20c. per basket. Almeria grapes are firm at $5 to $5.50 per keg. Winter apples are easy at $2.50 to $3 per barrel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There is not much change. Prices are steady at last week's figures. Strictly fresh eggs are quoted at 18 to 19c. per dozen, though ordinary fresh-gathered stock can still be had at 17c., and 14c. is the price of cold-storage supplies. At outside points the price is firm at 15 to 16c.

POTATOES — The market shows a much stronger feeling this week, and 35 to 37c. per bag is being paid on track for carlots. Small lots are selling at 40 to 45c. out of store.

BEANS —The market is still advancing, both hand-picked and prime showing an advance of 10c. Prices now are firm at $1.40 for hand-picked, and $1.25 to $1.30 for prime.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—The market is firm at an advance of ¼c. in both dry and evaporated apples. Dried apples are very scarce, and dealers are cheerfully paying 5½ to 5¾c. outside. The jobbing price is firm at 6 to 6¼c. Evaporated apples are in good demand at 8 to 9c.

POULTRY—The offerings of turkeys continue to increase, and though the demand keeps good another decline of 1c. is noted, the top figure now being 9½c. A large average of scalded stock is arriving and is in exceedingly poor demand as they are not wanted here at all. Geese are firmer than last week and 6 to 7c. is the ruling figure. Chickens are in good demand at 35 to 50c., and ducks at 40 to 60c. per pair.

GAME—Owing to the comparatively warm weather, receipts of ducks and other game are not as large as we expected. Ducks are steady at from 25c. per pair for teal and other small varieties; 40 to 50c. for blue bills and red heads, and 75c. for mallards and large black ducks. Partridge are in good demand at another advance of 5c., the present price being 55 to 60c. per pair. A small quantity of venison has been received on the market. This has been sold at good prices, carcasses selling at 7 to 8c. per lb. and saddles at 11 to 12c.

VEGETABLES—The market is quiet, in consequence of a light demand. We quote: Cabbage, 40 to 50c. per doz.; red cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 40c. to 60c. per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 40 to 60c. per hundred; muskmelons, 50 to 70c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket all apples, $2 to $2.50 per bbl.; squash, $1 to $1.25 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The demand for home consumption keeps so large that the market is kept clear of all receipts, prices are, consequently, firm. We quote: Choice dairy large rolls at 18½ to 19c.; tubs at 17 to 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The feeling outside is rather firmer, and as high as 11¼c. has been paid at country boards. The majority of factorymen are making sales at the prices ruling. The jobbing trade keeps steady, and stocks are moderate. Prices are firm and sellers are not pushing sales at 12 to 12¼c. for Septembers.

PROVISIONS.

Unusual activity is noticed at local packing houses this week, caused principally by orders to be filled before the close of navigation. The demand is general, all goods going out in as large quantities as the packers can send them by working day and night. All packers are behind their orders of lard, so prices of tubs and pails have been raised ¼c. The price of dressed hogs has declined on account of declines in the British market. For carlots $5.25 is paid for select weights and $5 for heavy. It is probable that after the present rush of orders is filled the weakening in the price of hogs will be followed by declines in provisions.

FISH AND OYSTERS

A decline of 25c. per basket is noted in ciscoes. They sell well at $1, the present figure. There is a good demand for frozen fish and for oysters, which are not changed in price. We quote: Trout, 7 to 7½c. Niagara whitefish, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; Seattle salmon, 13 to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½ to 7c.; boneless fish, 5c.; quail-on-toast, 6c.; steak cod, 6½c.; ciscoes, $1.00 per basket. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.25; selects, $1.65; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN — The market is steady, with fall wheat unchanged at 67c. at outside points. Deliveries on the street market are good. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 70 to 71c.; goose, 70c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 31 to 33c.; barley, 43 to 47c.; rye, 54c. A brisk export demand for Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat keeps prices firm at at 79c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—A good local trade is being done. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.70; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS — Standard oatmeal and rolled oats are 10c. dearer. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.60 in bags and $3.70 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL

HIDES—Both cured and green hides are in good demand at the advance noted last week. We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 9¼c.; No. 2, 8¼c.; No. 3, 7¼c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 9¾c.

SKINS—The market is firm. A good business is being done. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 35 to 40c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 80c.

WOOL — Combing and unwashed wools have advanced ½c. as anticipated. We quote: Clothing wool, 17c.; combing fleece, 15½c.; unwashed, 9½ to 10c.

SEEDS.

The market is quiet. Red clover keeps firm, with dealers paying $4 50 to $5 outside. Alsike keeps easy, though prices are

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, November 9, 1899.

GROCERIES.

A GOOD volume of trade has been noted in groceries, and all the jobbers state that they have all they can do getting out orders. The chief news of the week has been another decline in the price of refined sugar of 10 per cent., due to the determination of the local refiners to keep out the American article at all costs. Molasses, under a limited stock, clearly point higher, and there is considerable excitement in Valencia raisins, owing to a sharp advance in values. Firmness in canned vegetables is still quite remarkable, and many other lines of leading canned goods promise to be much higher; notably sardines, mushrooms and French peas. Coffee exhibits a better tone, and there has been a fair business in teas.

SUGARS.

Another slump in the price of Canadian refined sugar has been the chief feature of the week. Domestic refiners are determined to keep out American refined at all costs, and this week's cut of 10c. per 100 lb. all around is a step in that direction. On the new basis, granulated is offered at $4.40 and yellows at $3.60 to $4.25. Advices on raw sugar continue easy, cables to-day reporting the market for beet sugar ¼d. lower, with November quoted at 9s. and December at 9s. 1½d. Cane was steady at previous prices, with Java quoted at 11s. 3d. and fair refining at 10s. 6d.

SYRUPS.

There is nothing new to report in syrups, business being dull and prices nominally quoted at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb. at the factory.

MOLASSES.

The position of molasses steadily becomes stronger, owing to the fact that stocks in first hands are very light, so much so that an advance in price is considered inevitable. There has been some demand for Barbadoes during the past few days, and some sales of 25 puncheon lots were made at 36c., but it is stated that holders now are asking 37c., and in some cases 38c. The Guild price is unchanged at 37c. for carlots and 38c. for smaller quantities.

DRIED FRUITS.

The Valencia raisin market is excited owing to advices from primary markets. The second direct steamer from Denia is due here on November 10, but from what information can be gathered none of her fruit cargo is on consignment; consequently, buyers who have held off with the expectation of filling their wants when she arrives will more than likely be disappointed. In fact, no fine off-stalk are now obtainable here for less than 6½c. in jobbing parcels, while no selected are to be had for prompt delivery, but they are quoted 7¼c. to arrive. Layers are stronger at 7½c.

There has been a fair demand for currants at 4½ to 4¾ and 5c. per lb., as to quality, with Vostizzas from 5½ to 7¼c., as to brand and package.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a good demand for canned vegetables, but, with limited stocks, business has been of small volume. Corn has sold at $1 per dozen, but holders in many instances will not accept less than $1.05 to $1.10. A round lot of tomatoes changed hands recently at a price equal to 85c. on spot. Peas have sold at 72½ to 75c. and beans at 82½c. per doz. here. Advices from France are to the effect that sardines suitable for the American trade are scarcely to be had. The pack this year was but 20 per cent. of that of last. Gallon apples are held firm at $2.25 and No. 30 at 85c. Peas are steady at 80 to 85c. for sifted Junes and 75 to 80c. for marrowfat. Both strawberries and raspberries continue scarce and firmly held. Mushrooms, owing to the drought in France, promise to be remarkably scarce, and, at the earliest, no deliveries can be made before January. French peas are equally scarce also, and, as a broker said, don't seem obtainable for love or money. In pickled olives prices will also be high, as they sold on the trees much higher than last year.

RICE.

Business in rice has been less active, but prices are fully maintained in sympathy with outside markets, and we quote "Standard" at $3.30 to $3 40.

SPICES.

In spices, the demand for nutmegs has been good, and some fair-sized sales have been made at firm prices. Other lines have been quiet, but values show no change. Cable advices report a firm market for pepper, and quote 12 5-16c. for Singapore black, December February, sail shipment. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 60c. per lb., as to size; mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality, and pimento, 8c.

COFFEES.

The stronger tone outside has caused a somewhat firmer feeling. Maracaibo is quiet with sales of 25 and 30-bag lots at 8¾c. and smaller lots 9 to 12c. as to quality. Rio and Santos range from 7 to 10c. as to quantity and quality.

TEAS.

There has been a fair inquiry for tea during the past few days, and, while small lots only are moving, a larger volume of business is noted. Sales of teas have been made here at prices which importers could not replace in Japan except at an advance of 2½ to 3c. per lb. There is considerable inquiry here for gunpowders, but buyers and sellers are apart in their ideas as to values. Advices from New York state that the demand for Young Hysons has been good, and all the stock obtainable at 13c. has been bought up for shipment to London. Low-grade congous here are held at 13c.

FISH.

There has been a fair demand for fish; but stocks are ample to fill all requirements. No green haddock or pollock are here at present, but green cod are arriving freely. Dried codfish are easier at $4 75 to $5, and haddies at 6 to 7c. The rest of the list is unchanged. We quote: No. 1 new Nova Sco

Fresh fish are: Haddock, 4c. per lb.; whitefish, trout and dore, 7½c. per lb.

Demand for oysters is good. Ordinary malpeques, $3.50 per bbl.; hand-picked do., $4.50 to $5; standard, in bulk, $1.30 per gallon; select do., $1.50.

GREEN FRUITS.

Receipts of apples have been free, and they are selling in round lots at $3 for No. 1, and No. 2 winter apples, $1.50 to $1.75. Many barrels are arriving that have been heated, and they have to sell for what they will fetch—$2 to $2.50. On the whole, the apple market is depressed owing to the demoralized state of the foreign markets. The best part of the Canadian grape season is now over; receipts of good sound stock are comparatively light, but there is any amount of frozen and wasty stock offering. No. 1 quality command 18c. per basket for blue, 20c. for Niagara, and 25 to 30c. for Rogers. Almeria grapes are offering at $4.50 to $7 per keg as to weight and quality. Jamaica oranges, which are the only variety offering, are selling under a fair demand at $5 to $5 50 per bbl. The lemon market is quiet at $2.50 to $3.25 per box. Bananas are slow sale at $1.75 to $2.25 per bunch, as to size. Sweet potatoes are selling fairly well at $2.25 per bbl. There is little or no demand for cranberries at $6 to $6 50 per bbl. Spanish onions remain unchanged at 65c. per crate.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The demand was good from loca buyers, and an active trade was done at firm prices. Strictly new laid near by stock sold at 22 to 23c.; choice candled at 20 to 20½c.; Montreal limed at 16c., and western culls at 12 to 12½c. per doz.

POULTRY—There was a good demand for dressed poultry to-day, and a fairly active trade was done at steady prices. Receipts were fair, considering the weather, but the supply was not sufficient to fill the requirements. Turkeys sold at 9 to 10c.; chickens at 7 to 7½c.; ducks at 7½ to 8½c., and geese at 6 to 7c. per lb.

GAME—Receipts of partridge were small and prices rule firm at 55 to 60c. for firsts, and at 30 to 35c. for seconds per brace.

MAPLE PRODUCT — In maple product business was exceedingly quiet. We quote: Syrup, in small tins, 60 to 65c.; and sugar, 7¾ to 8c. per lb.

HONEY—For honey there was a small demand. White clover comb is quoted at 12c., extracted at 9c., and buckwheat at 8c. per lb.

BEANS — There was considerable inquiry for beans at firm prices. Choice hand-picked are quoted at $1.45 to $1.50, and primes at $1.37½ to $1.40.

POTATOES — A fair trade is reported in potatoes, and prices rule steady at 40 to 45c. per bag in round lots.

ASHES—In ashes business continues quiet. We quote: First sorts, $4.10; seconds, $3.85, and pearls, $5.15 per 100 lb.

DRESSED HOGS—Owing to the continued mild weather, receipts of dressed hogs are still very small, there being only 15 received to day. The market is quiet, and prices rule about steady at $5.75 to $6.25 per 100 lb. in a jobbing way.

PROVISIONS.

There was no new feature in the market to note. The demand for most lines was fair at steady prices. We quote: Canadian short cut mess pork, $16; short cut back, $15.50; selected heavy short cut boneless mess, $16.50, and heavy long cut mess, $15 per barrel. Pure Canadian lard in pails, 7 to 7¼c. per lb.; and compound refined, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Hams 12c. to 13½c., and bacon 11½ to 12½c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR — A better demand was experienced for flour to day, and the market was more active, with a larger volume of business doing at steady prices. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $3.60 to $3.90; straight rollers, $3.40; in bags, $1.65; Manitoba patents, $3.90 to $4.20, and strong bakers', $3.60 to $3 70.

GRAIN—The feature of the grain market to-day was the decided improvement in the demand for Manitoba from Liverpool buyers; in consequence, round lots were placed, one shipper's sales aggregating 125,000 bushels. There was also a fair demand in the Winnipeg market for wheat from shipppers here and some round lots of No. 1 hard were purchased at 67½c. afloat Fort William. The demand for coarse grains on spot was slow, and, outside of some sales of buckwheat that were made at 54½c. afloat, which figure shows a decline of 1c. per bushel, there was nothing doing. Peas were quoted at 66c.; rye, 61c.; No. 1 barley, 51c.; No. 2 ditto 51c.; feed ditto 47½c.; oats, 29½c., and buckwheat 54½c.

OATMEAL—A meeting of the oatmeal millers was held recently in Toronto, at which it was decided to put the price of rolled oats at $3.60 per bbl. and $1.75 per bag in carlots, on track here, but it remains to be seen if they will all keep up to this agreement.

FEED—A fairly active trade was done in feed, there being a good demand for bran especially. Manitoba bran is selling at $15; shorts at $17 per ton, including bags; Ontario bran at $15 and $15.50; shorts at $17 to $18, and mouillie at $20 to $24 per ton, in bulk.

HAY—The tone to the market for baled hay was steady, with a good trade doing. We quote: Choice No. 1, $8.50 to $9; No. 2, $7 to $7.50; and clover, $6.50 to $7 per ton in carload lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

CHEESE—The market rules about steady, and so far as business between traders, there was little to make a price, but fine Quebec Septembers could be quoted steady at 10⅞ to 11c., and ditto Octobers at 10½ to 10¾c. At the wharf about 3,000 cheese were sold, and they ranged from 10¾ to 10½c., with possibly the inside the ruling figure. The goods were late October make. The cable was unchanged to-day.

BUTTER—The market was rather heavy in its disposition, and we understand that business was done in good-sized lines of stock down to 20¼c. The advices from Great Britain are not very encouraging, the notable fact being heavy receipts of Australian. In fact, it is estimated that between now and November 27 there will be landed in Britain 123,757 packages of Australian butter.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., November 9, 1899.

BUSINESS continues very good, and there is a general feeling of satisfaction amongst the trade. Groceries are not the only line that feel the effect of the improved condition. The advance in prices is, perhaps, even more noticed in hardware and in lumber, and freights have reached a point that has been looked forward to for years. In woollen goods and other lines there is an upward movement. All of this goes to make good times. Teas, particularly Indians and Ceylons, are higher. In cream of tartar, the tendency is downward, but there is no marked change, and price is rather higher than last sales were made at here. The stronger tone in all grades of raisins has been a feature of the week. Pepper is advanced, and the tendency is to still higher figures. Dealers have been quite free buyers of English rice. The market has advanced 6d. of late, and is very firm. Brooms, which have been lower in price, were advanced a considerable amount this week, much to the surprise of the trade.

OIL—Price of burning oil was again advanced this week. This time the advance was ½c. on the different grades, and prices are held very firm. Sales are very large, the entire business being practically with the one company. Turpentine and linseed oil are also again advanced, and very high prices now rule. There is but a fair sale. Lubricating and cod oils are quiet. The former is very firmly held.

SALT—It is doubtful if there was ever as little coarse salt in this market at this season as at present, and it is very difficult to get further supplies. A small lot of Liverpool coarse arrived via Boston during the week. It found a ready sale at an advance over late prices. There is but a fair demand. In fine salt market is well supplied. We quote : Liverpool coarse, 48 to 55c. ; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1 ; Canadian fine, $1 per bag ; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 per bbl. ; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each ; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb.

CANNED GOODS—Some packers have not yet filled their orders. All lines are firmly held. Corn has been advanced, and the stock is already short. Peas are firm and tomatoes tend higher. Sales are active. In salmon, the stock is still light, though there were some arrivals during the week. Prices are high, and the sales are largely confined to cohoe fish, some grades of which are giving good satisfaction. Lobsters are practically out of the market. Canned pineapple is scarce, and rather higher prices are asked. New oysters are offered at rather higher figures than last season. Canned apples are quite plenty, and were bought below the general western price, though those costing the least came from Montreal. Other fruits are firmly held, but have only limited demand, except, perhaps, peaches. Haddies tend higher. In bloaters and sardines, there is no change.

GREEN FRUITS — Business is active. Dealers are anxious to get stocks forward before cold weather. Winter apples are now being received. Prices are kept firm. There is quite a range between the fall and winter fruit. Very few continue to be sold at auction. Oranges and lemons both tend lower. In oranges, the trade continues to be confined to Jamaicas. Grapes have a good demand; Canadian are about done. There are a few Tokays, but the sale is now in Malagas. Cranberries are still low, the market being supplied with Cape Cods. Bananas are out of the market, except in a retail way.

DRIED FRUITS—There was considerable interest shown in the raisin market this week, the first reason being the general advance in all lines. Californians have been practically withdrawn; the crop is proving very short. This, however, makes little change in the situation here, as except some seeded none are bought for this market. A second reason was that one Denia shipper has so delayed shipment that the fruit will not arrive for the holiday trade, so his customers had to look to New York to supply present needs. Malaga loose muscatels shared in the advance, so that all prices have been advanced here. Stock, as yet, is very light, and dealers are anxious for the arrival of goods. Currants are easy in price; new goods not yet to hand. Figs are active at quite full figures. Californians are being offered. In prunes, little has yet been done. Peels move freely at even figures. Evaporated apples have a fair sale at quite full figures. In dried, but limited quantities are being offered. Onions are lower, American being landed below prices asked for Canadian stock. There is some complaint about the quality of the Canadian goods.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs have shown quite an advance during the week, and there is a good demand at present prices. There have been few Island eggs here of late, but shipments are now expected. Butter has a good sale at rather improved figures, extra stock being very much in demand; very little creamery continues to be seen. In cheese, stocks are small, but there is limited demand. Prices are rather easier. There are but few cheese left in this Province.

SUGAR—Is still low, but rather firmer in price. American has been very largely and steadily sold here. In granulated, it gives particularly good satisfaction. In yellows, there is not the range offered that there is in Canadian. There is active business.

MOLASSES—Stocks are very light, and New Orleans stock is being more largely used. Dealers who have Porto Rico left are getting full figures. New Orleans was advanced 2c. during the week. Prospects are for still higher figures, dealers not inclined to buy largely and market at outside points being very firm. There continues to be little demand for syrup.

FISH—This is a very firm line, prices being about as high as the several lines will stand. Dry fish show no change; supplies about equal to sales. In pickled herring, the very high prices still rule, and dealers find it impossible to fill orders. Even in smoked herring the outlook is for higher figures. Kippers and bloaters are both scarce, the right fish are not being caught. Haddock keep scarce, so that dealers find difficulty in filling orders for smoked. There are very few pickled shad offering. In boneless fish, there is large sale at full figures. A few small halibut are still being received. We quote: Large and medium dry cod, $3.85 to $4; small, $2.50 to $2.75; pickled shad, $4.50 to $5, as to quality; haddies, 4½c. per lb.; smoked herring, 6 to 9c.; halibut, 8 to 10c. per lb.; fresh haddock and cod, 2c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $2.10 to $2.25 per 100; pickled herring, $1.90 to $2 per half bbl.; bloaters, 60c.

PROVISIONS—This is a fairly active line at quite full figures, beef being higher in proportion to pork. Both have been advanced. In smoked meats, trade is largely supplied by the local curers. Lard is a good stock. There is quite a range in price, tendency being higher.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, dealers find supplies very slow in coming forward. The millers say they cannot get the cars. While prices show no change, millers report the tendency of the market very firm. Feed is still very scarce. Oatmeal and oats, if there is any change, are rather easier. Cornmeal shows no change. There will soon be a much larger mill capacity here than ever before. The supply for sometime has been short. The continued high price of feed has made an extra demand. Beans are very high. Dealers have fair supplies, and as season is getting late they are not inclined to buy, hoping, as demand falls off, to buy lower. Reports from the West do not favor this idea. Hay is rather easier. Barley, split peas and blue peas are light stock. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.40 to $4.60; best Ontario, $3.80 to $4.00; medium, $3.60 to $3.75; oatmeal, $3.75 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.20 to $2.25; middlings, $21 to $22; oats, 37 to 40c.; hand-picked beans, $1.65 to $1.75; prime, $1.55 to $1.65; yellow-eye beans, $1.90 to $2; split peas, $3.90 to $4.00; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.90 to $4.00; hay, $7 to $7.50; timothy seed, American, $1.50.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

W. Frank Hatheway has a shipment of White's English pickles to hand this week.

J. Hunter White has a cable message announcing that the crop of Valencias was practically exhausted, and quoting a considerable advance in price.

Mr. Alex. Jardine, president of The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., has been in the city calling on the trade in company with the local representative, Robt. Jardine.

New Orleans molasses has advanced 2c. during the past week. A number of our dealers were fortunate in buying before the advance. A considerable quantity was landed during the week.

Messrs. Dearborn & Co. have received their first shipment of Valencia raisins, but are very much behind in orders. They have two large shipments about due. These goods have lately advanced 2s.

In teas, blends are becoming even more popular and the tendency is for each retail dealer to have his own brand. Theo. H. Estabrooks has gained a high reputation not only for the quality of his blends, but for their continued regularity.

Dealers who bought "Oliver" brand Valencia raisins have been somewhat disappointed, as they have received word that shipment could not be made till about the middle of November. The dealers are buying in New York to fill present needs, at slightly advanced prices.

TORONTO MARKET NOTES.

Sugar has declined 10c. per 100 lb.

Jamaica oranges and cranberries have declined 50c.

White and black ground peppers have advanced 1 to 2c.

Geese are ½c. dearer and turkeys 1c. cheaper than a week ago.

Venison is offering. Sales have been made at 7 to 8c. for carcasses, and 11 to 12c. for saddles.

Beans are 10c. dearer. Evaporated and dried apples are both ½c. dearer. Potatoes in car lots are 2 to 4c. dearer.

Dressed hogs are selling at $5.25 for select weights, a decline of 25c. in the week, and 75c. in about five weeks.

CURRENT MARKET QUOTATIONS

THE VALUE OF EXPERIENCE.

DURING the last 25 years there has been a very material change in almost everything connected with our existence, writes G. W. Werlin, in The Chicago Grocer. War, for example, is at present conducted on very different lines from what formerly prevailed, and the change in business is no less conspicuous. Any nation that engages in war, or any man who enters upon business to-day, without such an experience and preparation as insures the use of the best up-to-date methods, is almost sure to meet disaster. Experience in war and experience in business are alike essential to success.

It may be possible occasionally to point out a business in which a man has succeeded without previous experience, but it is far easier to point out a very large number of cases wherein lack of experience has brought on disaster. That experience was lacking on the part of the one who failed may have escaped notice in some cases when the failure occurred, from the fact that some years had intervened between the time the business was begun and when the failure occurred. Nevertheless, it was inexperience that caused the disaster, and the disaster was delayed only during the period necessary to exhaust or consume the assets of the business.

Business cannot be learned from books or acquired at school. A theoretical course in business is only an introduction to its practice. It requires thorough training to make a successful business man. Employment in a prosperous and progressive establishment, affording as it does the opportunity for watching causes and effects, and stimulating a desire to excel in the duties imposed, is the only practical training school.

To enumerate causes of business failures would be an almost endless task. The causes are extremely numerous, but, for the most part, they are mixed up with one kind or another of inexperience. Buying cheaply and selling at high prices are not the only conditions to insure success. Good buying is an art, the practice of which requires one to know many things and to understand many conditions. Speaking in general terms, goods can be bought cheapest when bought in a manner that causes the seller the least expense to make the sale. Therefore, the buyer's condition of solvency, his ability to pay promptly, his management of the details of his business, and other conditions peculiar to himself, all affect the prices that he pays for his goods. But all these are things which require forethought; that demand for their proper employment an intelligent study of conditions and a thorough acquaintance with surroundings, which are only other names for experience.

THE INDIAN PEPPER CROP.

Reports about pepper and ginger in Southern India have not been very satisfactory of late, owing to the long drought, but, as prices have been well kept up, cultivators are probably not greatly alarmed. Buyers are, however. A home paper writes: "The position of pepper, indeed, is becoming more critical every day. Not only is the Tellicherry crop in danger, but the Lampong yield is reported seriously damaged by insects. This, on the top of steadily diminishing supplies of black Singapore, lends exceptional strength to the position of black pepper, and fairly threatens a squeeze in the near future. The markets here and in Havre appear to have realized the abnormal position, and speculators, although cautiously, are laying in stocks in view of the coming boom. An exceptionally large business has been done lately in black Tellicherry in our market at steadily rising prices, as much as 5½d. landed having been paid."—Planting Opinion, Madras.

BROOM CORN RISING.

IN the last four or five weeks the price of broom corn has advanced $50 a ton and is still going up. Factories are not well supplied with stock, and the speculators and a few manufacturers have the market in their control. This rapid advance, of course, will affect every household.

The country around Arcola known as the central Illinois broom corn district, produces three-fourths of all the broom corn of the world. Early last month, when the harvest began, farmers felt that if they could get $60 a ton they would be doing well, as it costs about $40 a ton to produce broom corn. Manipulators of the market realized that little old corn was held over from last season and that manufacturers must depend upon the new crop for broom stock.

Hardly had the cutting began when the broom corn districts were full of buyers. Brokers contracted for many farmers' crops before they were harvested. The highest price at that time was $60. Towards the close of September a few who had nice brush got $70. Then the price ran up to $80 a ton.

The last ten days in the central Illinois district have been the most exciting ever known during a broom corn season. Prices of corn have gone up steadily until now the farmers, or a portion of them, are holding their stock for $125 a ton.

The broom corn handlers of Chicago estimate that nine-tenths of all the corn is now in the hands of speculators and manufacturers. It is believed that before the first of the year the price will be $150 a ton.

Factories throughout the country are beginning to put up the price of brooms. During the week an advance of 10 per cent. has been made by some factories, and dealers here say that another 10 per cent. is likely to be made.

All this, of course, has its effect on the prices of the finished article, the brooms.—Chicago Grocer.

GOOD ADVICE.

Be especially reverent in your treatment of the customer of slender purse, says The Simcoe, Ont., Reformer. A multi-millionaire requires only one-tenth the respect due to the man or woman who is bound by the law of necessity to buy within a fixed limit. A readiness to show goods within that limit and a tactful avoidance of anything to wound or make forced economy conspicuous meets with instant appreciation, while attempts to force the sale of goods "just a trifle" above the price named by them is resented—and remembered.

ODDS AND ENDS.

In reference to working off odds and ends and stale stock, L. M. Marquett writes to the Grocery World: "After thirty-five years' experience I find it a very easy matter to dispose of the above, by simply placing all odds and ends on the counter and making it a system of calling the attention of every purchaser to the fact that we make a reduction in prices. Never, however, sell less than cost, and never let anything get so stale that it is not fit for use.

"We get the customers' confidence, and they are always ready to accept or take advantage of the reduction, knowing that they had at no time received anything misrepresented.

"This a short and simple way of getting rid of the above."

A BIG WEEK'S BUSINESS.

The week ending November 4 was the largest week's business The "Salada" Tea Co. ever had, and on Monday morning at 10 o'clock there were orders in the Toronto warehouse for 16,870 lb., or nearly 8½ tons, of "Salada."

Mr. J. A. McBain, Northwest agent for T. B. Escott & Co., London, Ont., who has been visiting in Ontario for the past month, has returned to Winnipeg, and will visit all the buyers throughout the Northwest.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, November 6, 1899.

THE whole news of the week may be summed up in the words of one of our city travelers : "Business is humming ; prices are good ; markets are firm, and we are happy."

WHEAT—Bad, is the best that can be said of the wheat market at present. It has grown steadily weaker every day, and when it closed at 1 p.m. Saturday, the market was further depressed by having several very large holdings dumped just a few minutes before closing. There is a general lack of demand for cash wheat, and this is not only true of Fort William, but also of Duluth and Chicago, and stocks are accumulating rapidly. There are a good many indications that wheat will drop to 65c., Chicago, and this would mean 50c. wheat here at country points, if the price did not go even lower than that. Delivery at country elevators, which had fallen off to almost nothing, has revived very considerably this week, and, in fact, the deliveries have been large. Owing to the extremely fine weather, a great deal of fall ploughing is under way, and will continue until heavy frost comes. The grading for September and October has just been published, and makes very interesting reading. During the two months 10,583 cars were inspected at Winnipeg. This means 8,783,890 bushels. Of this amount, 8,342 cars, or 6,923,860 bushels graded No. 1 hard, while only 65 cars showed signs of frost, and of these only 8 graded No. 3 frosted. Prices at closing Saturday were : Cash wheat and November deliveries, 66⅛ to 67c. Fort William. Country points, 15c. rate of freight, 52c. for No. 1 hard ; 16 and 17c. rate of freight, 51c.; 18 and 19c. rate, 50c.; 20 and 21c. rate, No. 1 hard, 49c.

FLOUR — The market is, if anything, rather weaker, owing to the drop in wheat. Quotations are, however, unchanged, as follows: Patent, $1.80 ; Glenora, $1.70 ; Manitoba strong bakers', $1.50 ; XXXX, $1.15.

FEED — Still very scarce, and price unchanged.

CEREALS—Rolled oats are still at $1.80, and the supply of oats for milling purposes is very short. Beans remain very firm at $1.60 to $1.65.

BUTTER—The creamery stocks are now all in second hands, and the supply of creamery in the city is very small. Dealers are asking 23c. from retailers for fresh creamery. The small amount that will be made from this time on will bring about 22c. factories, but the amount will be so small as to scarcely count in the market. Dairy butter is in very good demand for fresh-made, of which the supply is limited. Held butter is now coming on the market in considerable quantities, and is meeting with a ready sale where the quality is good. Fresh dairy is worth from 17 to 18c., and round lots at country points bring from 15 to 16c., while held goods vary from 13 to 15c., according to grade.

CHEESE—Factories are all closed, and all cheese in second hands. Holdings here are very small. Selling price, 12½ to 13c.

EGGS—Supply is very short and dealers are paying from 18 to 20c. Winnipeg for fresh gathered. A good many Ontario eggs are coming in, and many carloads are being shipped west to Vancouver.

POULTRY—The supply in the Province is even more limited than usual, especially turkeys. Dealers have already placed very heavy orders in the East for poultry, and prices will be high.

CURED MEATS—The market continues firm at last quotations, and there is a good deal of activity: Hams, 12½c. ; breakfast bellies, 11½c. ; backs, 10½c. ; spiced rolls, 10½c. : shoulders, 10c. Dry salt meats—long clear bacon, 8½c. ; shoulders, 8¼c. ; short clear, 8c. ; backs, 9c.

HOGS—Live hogs are bringing 5 to 5⅛c. and dressed hogs are arriving in larger quantities, and are quoted at 6 to 6½c.

GROCERIES—Practically no changes to report.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED FRUITS—Market in all lines of these goods is firm with a steady demand.

CANNED GOODS—Canned goods present no new features for the week.

GREEN FRUITS—The demand for all kinds of season fruits is very active. Winter apples continue to arrive in large quantities and in fair shape. There is no change in price. Winter apples, $3.65 ; Snows, $3 75; fancy Montreal Famuese, $5.25. The only line of oranges on the market at present are the Mexican, at $5.50 per case. New Californian lemons are also quoted at $5.50. Grapes are without change, except that large lots are quoted at about 2c. per basket cheaper. The season for Ontario grapes is about at an end. Cape Cod cranberries show a good sale at $7.50 per bbl. Southern vegetables, such as celery and cucumbers, are again being brought in in small lots by express.

MARKET NOTES.

In the hurry of preparing copy, in the article "Some Winnipeg Industries," which appeared in the issue of October 27, the writer referred to The Codville Co. This should have read Codville & Co., as the firm is not a joint stock company.

THE ART OF WINDOW DRESSING.

A Fruit Window.

For those who cater to a first-class trade, now is an excellent time to make a display of dried and preserved fruits. Michie & Co., King street, have a model window of these goods just now. The background of the display is made by piling a row of canned fruits across the full width of the window space. In front of these are small piles of canned and bottled fruits of all kinds. In the centre of the window is a box of cluster raisins; in front of this is one of citron peel, at the sides of which are boxes of orange and lemon peel. In the foreground, pulpwood tubs, about 18 inches in diameter and 6 inches deep, are filled with raisins and currants. The only tickets used are in these tubs, and they refer to the quality, not to the price, of the goods. This policy is always adopted by Michie & Co., I have noticed. They never talk price, but always quality.

Additional Attractiveness.

Last Saturday night I saw a window that was in many respects commonplace, but, by a simple means, was made to be very attractive. It was a display of canned vegetables. The goods were piled in a large pyramid the base of which covered the entire floor, and the apex of which was in the centre, and about three feet high. In this apex a jardiniere held a large bunch of chrysanthemums of varied colors. A card attached to the jardiniere read: "These flowers are for sale at —c.; so are these canned goods. They are the best on the market." Price cards were shown near the different lines of canned goods. As the window was well lighted, the flowers looked very tempting. I dare say many grocers do not handle flowers, but many of them might find it a good move on Saturday evenings.

Produce Windows.

Many grocers handle produce and green vegetables. A really beautiful window can be made of these goods. R. Barron, Yonge street, Toronto, nearly always has a display of these goods on view. The floor of his window is covered by a zinc stand, which fits closely to the front, sides and back, and is about three or four inches deep. It slants slightly towards the front, where a small trough carries to the cellar the water which is constantly sprayed over the vegetables by one or two fountains. The arrangement of the vegetables is important. Care is taken to arrange them so that the white of cauliflower or celery will be offset by the green cabbage, or the red and green of radishes. They are never piled carelessly in, one on top of another, as the effect of a good arrangement is worth more than the trouble of making it.

I saw a good display of vegetables, butter and eggs on Carlton street the other day. In the centre of a large window, the floor of which sloped towards the front, about a basketful of eggs were piled, and kept in place by parsley. At either side of this were three or four rows of celery. To the left of this was a row of cabbage, and then rows of cauliflower to the left side of the window. To the right creamery and dairy butter was shown. Around each package of butter shown was some strong tissue paper, which, however, was sufficiently open at the top to permit of the butter being examined. No cards were used except on the butter, where they were valuable for showing the variety in quality and price offered for sale.

Pointers From San Francisco.

A few essentials which every window-dresser of experience has learned are given by The San Francisco Advocate, as follows: "1. To be most effective, the window should be devoted to one line at a time. It is better to force one single idea into the heads of the passers-by than to excite their curiosity about a dozen things without interesting them particularly in any.

"2. The window should not have too much in it. There is a certain amount of space given for advertising. If the passer-by has been attracted to some article exposed in that space, the advertising has been a success. In the same way, if, after being attracted to the window, the purchaser glances at one of a dozen articles that are knocking into each other, but is not particularly interested in any, then the advertising would not be considered an advantageous investment.

"3. Displays should be changed frequently. This keeps people interested in the window itself.

"4. All rough boards and framework should be covered. In this way, changes without number can be wrought, and the furniture of the window will always look right."

ANXIOUS TO LEARN.

"Pluck is the secret of success on the Stock Exchange."
"Well, I'll give you $10,000 if you'll teach me your method of plucking."

Robert Forsythe, confectioner, Newbury, Ont., has been succeeded by James Armstrong.

P. W. Tully, general merchant, Marquette, Man., has sold out to Mrs. McPherson.

H. M. Burns & Co. and C. P. Spafford have retired from the grocery business in Picton, Ont.

Octave Guertin, wife of Jos. P. Prefontaine, has registered as proprietress of J. P. Prefontaine & Cie., merchants, Montreal.

W. T. Fleming, general merchant and baker, Shannonville, Ont., has sold his bakery to H. L. Loroy, and is removing his general business to Melrose, Ont.

FIRES.

W. P. Kilgour, general merchant, Verner, Ont., has been burned out.

Barr & Ruskin, general merchants, Argenta, B.C., are reported burned out.

DEATHS.

James Kaiser, general merchant, Conquerall Bank, N.S., is dead.

John Tanton, of Adams & Tanton, flour and feed dealers, London, Ont., is dead.

C. R. Slater, of Creed, Slater & Co., wholesale dealers in cigars, etc., Vancouver, is dead.

REBUILDING RIDGETOWN.

Thomas Craig, general merchant, and H. D. Smith, Ridgetown, Ont., have purchased a large lot of land in the district lately burned on Main street east, Ridgetown, and intend erecting thereon a two-storey brick business block with a frontage of 114 feet. It will be divided into four stores. One of these, to be occupied by Mr. Craig, will have 45 feet front. W. G. Malcolmson, a Detroit architect, is preparing plans for stores, first-class and modern in every particular.

Ready ?

The thoughtful housewife begins to serve light, dainty, wholesome dishes about this time—Autumn. Are you ready to meet the demand with one time-tried article that she will want to use? Benson's Prepared Corn has taken first prizes at all Canadian Exhibitions. Awards were made by skilful judges, carefully chosen for this one purpose—of selecting the best by all the tests that go to prove it "best."

It is absolutely pure—it has a delicacy which is all its own—it never varies from the one high standard of quality that has made it famous. It pays to handle articles of recognized merit like

INDO-CEYLON TEA.

You should be anxious to give your customers the very best in all lines.

No person who knows tea will say for a moment that there is anything which at all approaches "Monsoon" in value.

Don't take our word for it. Order a small assorted case, and let your customers try it—after all the consumer is the very best judge of everything.

If "Monsoon" does not please better than any other, return it and get your money back.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE Standard Account System

OF BOOKKEEPING WITH THE Mechanical Ledger?

The only always-balance ledger in existence. Here's a good letter we received. Read it!

PICTON, November 9, 1899.

GENTLEMEN.—I can for one congratulate The Standard Account Co., Limited, on their new system of bookkeeping. I have been using The Standard Duplicating Account System for about two months and I think that it is a perfect success.

In this system there is a great saving of time, as there are no accounts to be made out, and a few minutes each day posts my ledger, with no chance for errors to displease customers, as there is no disputing accounts.

If the customers carry pass books they can see after each transaction just where they are, or I can tell any customer in a moment just what they owe, or can give them their itemized and totalled account to look over; and my customers are well pleased with the scheme. Besides saving me hours of time each day it gives me a much better knowledge of my business than the old system of ledger, as I can see at a glance any time just what each customer owes. As soon as I get all my old accounts made out I will feel free from book slavery, as it is no more work to take care of a credit customer than a cash one.

It is the best investment I ever made; for my part I would not take three times what it cost if I could not get another.

Yours, very truly,
(Signed), G. R. HARE.

This is only one of many. Drop us a card and we will send you particulars.

No Profit For Me.

I don't pretend to make any money from customers who send me one or two orders and stop there—permanent trade is what I am after. I will take every cent's worth of risk if a grocer will let me send him an assortment of my Cigars, the whole order to cost him from $20 upwards.

Any grocer will be at liberty to return the Cigars at my expense at any time for thirty days after he gets them, and, moreover, if in six months after the order is received the grocer finds that the Cigars have not sold, I will even then take them back and refund the grocer his money. EARLY CLOSING IN TORONTO.

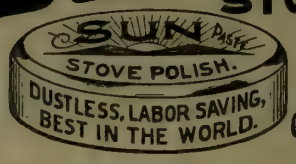
The Report of the Early-Closing Committee of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, presented to that Body on Monday Evening.

THE first attempt at early closing made by this association was in the year 1888, when several other trades, allied with the grocers, obtained the necessary signatures to the petition. The city council passed a by-law for the compulsory closing of shops in the city of Toronto at the hour of 7 o'clock p.m. Trade was, at that time, in a very unsettled condition. The progress of the land boom was in full swing, and, as a necessary consequence, stores were being opened up in all directions. The storekeepers and the citizens generally were unprepared for so radical a change as from 9 and 10, and even 11 o'clock p.m. closing to the hour of 7 o'clock p.m. Several persons who broke the by-laws were brought up before the magistrate, who, unfortunately, listened to the sentimental, rather than the lawful side of the question, and discharged each person. Among those who were summoned was a grocer doing business on Queen street west named Grant, who stated that he was not selling goods, but merely sitting in his store. This grocer, on the day following his summons, took around a petition for signatures to repeal the by-law, and obtained in two days the necessary one-third signatures, many signing against what they had formerly signed for. This ended the first early-closing movement, which left behind it, like every other attempt that has ever been made towards improvement and reform, 10 or 12 good grocery stores closing at 7 o'clock p.m. which have never discontinued. Since that time, many attempts have been made to provide for early closing of stores in different districts or sections of the city, most of them failing for some reason or another; and, while your committee think that moral suasion is the highest standard upon which to approach our fellow-grocers upon the early-closing question, yet, in the face of all past experience in this and other cities, they regret to be compelled to state that early closing is all but impossible to obtain by argument and example.



The present effort at early closing originated last January, when A. White proposed that the association place itself on record as being in favor of early closing. At a subsequent meeting the association went a step further, and appointed a committee to work upon the movement. The committee meet several times, and finally produced a circular setting forth the benefits of early closing, and urging every grocer to interview his neighbors and reduce their hour of closing one hour less than they had been accustomed to. The circular stated that is was the intention of the association, by means of the press, pulpit, and by moral suasion, to induce every grocer to close at 8 p.m. The Grocery Clerks' and Drivers' Association, hearing of what we were doing, started in to help us, but, as they had no person who could devote any time to the matter, their help was not so great as their sympathy. During March, of the present year, the grocers on Spadina avenue, Huron street, Sussex avenue, Major street and Robert street, formed themselves into an early-closing section, and your secretary hung up early-closing cards in each store, but your committee regret to state that the closing lasted only two nights. The grocers on Queen street west made two attempts, the first, at 7 p.m., speedily collapsed, but the later one of 9 p.m. lasted a much longer time, but finally dwindled down to every man going as he pleased. Those on Queen street east, from Church street to the Don, formed into a section and kept it very well indeed. The grocerymen on Gerrard street east, Church street, Davenport road and Yonge street north, formed into three distinct sections, and we believe are still closing at 8 p.m. Besides these, there are dozens of stores which are now closing at 8 p.m. as a direct result of our work in the early spring of this year. But, as there were many grocers who refused to close, and who were keeping others open, the association, through Messrs. J. S. Bond, White, Panter and Holmes, at our September meeting decided to obtain legal advice, and if it were possible for us to get early-closing by means of a by-law to do so. Our president, F. W. Johnson, and our vice-president, D J. Kelly, were entrusted with the matter and reported that there were no legal stumbling blocks in the way; all that was required was to obtain the necessary three-fourth signatures. The general meeting appointed the executive as the early-closing committee with power to proceed.

Secretary Hawes and two other suitable canvassers were engaged to interview the grocers and butchers of the city to secure signatures to the by-law. After a thorough canvass they reported as follows: "There are 780 grocery stores tabulated under the head of grocers in the 1899 issue of the "Toronto Directory." Your canvassers could find but 759, and fully 100 of these could hardly be called grocers, many of them carrying not more than $50 stocks. Of the 759 grocers interviewed, 568 signed the petition, and 191 refused. Thus, there are just 75 per cent., the necessary number of signatures. We report, however, that 10 of the grocers at present closing at 7 p.m., did not sign the petition. It is possible that a few more signatures could be obtained, but the city has been covered several times, and we are of the opinion that not a dozen more could be got.

"There are 280 butchers mentioned in the directory, but we found only 213. Of these, 191 signed the petition and 21 refused. This shows over 90 per cent. of the butchers to be in favor of the proposed by-law."

INSURING THEIR CUSTOMERS.

The London Grocer quotes the following from a handbill, recently issued by a large English tea company: "Remember—tea is sold at a price within the reach of all, viz., 2s. per lb. Owing to its immense strength and fine quality it will go twice as far as many ordinary teas, and is, therefore, cheaper. The —— Tea Company, Limited (incorporated under the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1898), will pay to every woman who becomes a widow, the following sums of money: If, at the commencement of taking tea, the husband is under 30 years of age, £30; 40, £25; 50, £18; 60, £12; 70, £7—provided she has purchased a half-pound of tea for the five consecutive weeks prior to her becoming a widow. Customers who purchase a quarter-pound of tea weekly will receive half the above sums. In the interest of bona-fide customers, the company require that the husband shall be proved to be in good health at the commencement of the continuous taking of the tea. Quarter benefit in five weeks, half benefit in six months, full benefit in twelve months. List of moneys paid, with the names and addresses of the widows who have received the benefit, can be seen at the registered offices of the company in London, or at any of the company's branches."

Joseph Chandonnet, grocer, St. Jean de Chaillons, Que., has assigned.

AN ENGLISH TRADE YARN.

Traders usually have a weakness for hearing trade yarns, says The London Grocer. We this week met with a specimen very fine and large. Mr. J. B. Green, grocer, King street and Anson road, Yarmouth, lost a quarter-ounce weight recently from his Anson road shop. The weight has returned this week in a very singular fashion. He had disposed of a quantity of fowls' rice to a customer from whom he buys eggs. To another customer this week he sold a quantity of eggs, and on one of these being broken the missing weight was found inside. The customer took the egg to Mr. Green, who at once identified the weight as the one he had lost. This story, which is well vouched for, quite put anglers' yarns in the shade. We hardly dare invite our readers to try and cap it, though there must be many a good yarn lying about in the trade—very much lying.

TO COMBINE THE CANNERIES.

Two rival syndicates are bidding to gain possession of all the salmon canneries in British Columbia. Several options have been obtained by both companies, but so far nothing definite has been announced as to the final outcome of the scheme. Including those on Rivers Inlet, Skeena and other canneries in the north, combined with those on the Fraser river itself, there are forty-seven canneries, and the owners place their value in round figures at about $40,000 each. Some of the largest of the canneries have as yet refused to give options to either company, and that has delayed matters a good deal.

The American firm negotiating for the combination is that of which T. B. McGovern, of New York, who engineered the Columbia river combine, is a leading member. It is proposed to pay each cannery-man half the value of his property and allow him to retain the remainder, leaving him as manager of the property. The smaller canneries, as a class, are falling in with the idea, but the aggregations of larger canneries, who are able to charter ships directly for themselves in London, will not reap the same advantages as the others, and will not join the combine.

The second company to offer the canners inducements for the combination of their properties is represented by W. Wymond, who was formerly manager of the fish oil and guano factory, which was recently burned. Mr. Wymond represents a large amount of British capital, so that it is now a matter a good deal of the highest bidder, the American or the English, as to who will own the cannery industry of British Columbia.—Portland, Oregon, Tradesman.

AFRAID FOR THEIR SUPREMACY.

The business interests of the State of New York are beginning to awake to the importance of the canal system recently completed by the Canadian Government connecting Lake Erie with the Atlantic by way of the St. Lawrence river, says The Commercial Gazette, New York. The New York State Commerce Convention recently adopted a resolution to the effect that the "Erie, Oswego and Champlain canals ought to be materially improved to maintain the commercial supremacy of the State, thereby promoting the prosperity of its people."

There seems to be no doubt that the Canadian canal system, designed to accommodate vessels of 14-foot draft, will divert considerable traffic from New York City to Montreal unless something is done to counteract the tendency.

The proposition is advanced that the people of New York, instead of placing dependence upon their State canal system, should cooperate with other interests tributary to the great lakes to secure the construction by the Federal Government of a deep waterway across the State of New York connecting the lakes with the Atlantic

CREDIT MAN MISTAKEN.

THE St. Louis Inter-State Grocer tells of a credit man in that city who was caught through judging of the depth of a man's purse by the clothes he wore. A Kansas country merchant went into a wholesale house and selected an $8,000 stock of goods, when he was introduced to the credit man, who at once asked the unpretentious merchant what terms he wanted.

"Well," replied the customer, "down in our country we always pay after harvest."

He was reminded that harvest was past, and, of course, he couldn't mean after the next harvest in 1900.

"Well," says the merchant, "that's when my people will pay me."

He was told that the house couldn't think of any such thing, as 90 days was the very best they could do, and even at that wanted to know many things about the visitor's prospects.

"How much discount if I pay in 60 days?"

The credit man quoted the terms.

"How much in 30 days?"

The discount was mentioned.

"How much for cash?"

"Spot cash—money down?"

"Yes; currency."

It was a wild question. The credit man knew (or thought he knew) he had no chance to get $8,000 out of that man, and he quoted a beautiful discount.

"Well, receipt the bill," was the buyer's rejoinder. And out from the folds of a $3 suit of clothes he dragged enough money to buy a yacht and run it all summer. He didn't put on much style, but he figures that he saved the expenses of his trip. It may be true that clothes make the man, but they don't always gauge the money.

MAY COMBINE TO SEPARATE.

The wholesale grocers' guild of the city held a meeting the other day and in reference to the complaint of some of the produce men, it is understood that the grocers think it is time the produce men should take the beam out of their own eye before removing the mote from the eye of their brethren in trade. It may be that concerted action of the members of the two lines will be taken in order to introduce uniformity, and make the separation between the grocery and produce trades distinct.—Province, Vancouver.

PRODUCTS WANTED.

Inquiries have been received at the Canadian Government offices, London, England, as follows: A firm of export agents offer their services for the introduction of any kind of Canadian goods in the European, Indian and Australian markets.

Attention has been drawn, by a well-known agent who acts for contractors supplying the War Office and other Government departments with preserved goods, to the large quantities of compressed dried vegetables now in requisition. Canadian contractors for this class of product, who are able to supply them in sufficient quantity and who desire to participate in the business, can be placed in communication with the agent in question.

The large business block owned and occupied by A. A. Wright & Co., general merchants, etc., Renfrew, Ont., was gutted by fire on Friday last. The loss on building and stock is estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000; insurance from $15,000 to $20,000.

The bad boy had a roguish lamb
That followed him around,
And every place the bad boy went
The lamb it would be found.

The boy would to the grocer's go.
The lamb would follow after.
The way the pair the grocer gouged
Would kill a mule with laughter.

The boy would "work" the inside,
The crackers, pie, and cheese.
The lamb would "work" the outside,
The cabbage, squash, and peas.

Yet, strange, the grocer rolled up wealth—
All honest grocers do—
For every dollar's worth they ate
He charged the boy's pa two.

VIAU & FRERE BURNED OUT.

On Sunday, the large four-storey candy and confectionery factory of Viau & Frere, at Notre Dame and Wolfe streets, Montreal, was burned to the ground. The fire, which started in the office, made rapid headway, and when the firemen arrived the whole structure was in flames. The fire also extended to Trotter's storage warehouse, a large stone building in the rear, which was speedily in flames. Both buildings were completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $300,000.

THE ART OF WINDOW DRESSING.

WHEN WINDOWS SWEAT.

When your windows sweat or become frosted, what do you do? What means do you take to prevent this? An inquiry in Montreal showed that the following means were adopted with more or less success to prevent sweating: Washing with alcohol; boring small holes in sides or top; the use of an electric fan; by having double panes of glass. Can you suggest a better way?

"SALADA" TEA AT THE BOSTON FOOD FAIR.

A UNIQUE WINDOW.

Grafton & Co., Owen Sound, Ont., have in their window an exhibition which would add to the interest taken in any class of store. It consists of a collection of firearms, ancient and modern. One of the number is an old gun obtained from a resident of a nearby village. The gun has been in use for seal-hunting, and is six feet in length, the barrel measuring over four feet. As this gun is a very odd-looking instrument, as compared with modern arms, it attracts considerable attention and excites much comment. Curiosities of this nature can be secured in almost every Canadian town, and are calculated to win especial attention, while the British Empire is so intensely interested in war and firearms.

WAR PICTURES.

The interest taken in things warlike, and the success that many merchants have made in seeking to win attention to their stores by the display of war pictures, is excellently described by "The Gossip" in The Toronto Star. She, for I judge from the signature as well as the article that the writer is a lady, puts it as follows: "The storekeeper who would attract a crowd about his windows these times must needs fill the said windows with pictures of soldiers and battles and other war-suggesting objects. Indeed, it will be quite unnecessary to fill the window, one picture, if it be of the right kind, will be enough to draw a crowd about the window, and partially obstruct traffic on that section of the street.

"In one big window was a display of the most beautiful evening dress goods—silks, laces, chiffons, gloves. They were arranged so as to show to the greatest advantage. One might have dreamed sweet dreams outside that window. Now, one would have supposed that the members of the fair sex who passed that window would have been held enthralled by the sight of the lovely things on view there. On the contrary, perhaps one woman in ten would pause for an instant. After a glance over the contents of the window she would pass on, little or no interest expressed on her face.

"But in place of the delicate fabrics and filmy laces, appeared a collection of pictures of famous men and historic battles. Presto! Witness the change! Men, women and children crowd and jostle for a chance to see into the window. As those nearest the window moved away satisfied others crushed in to take their places, while still others waited their turn on the edge of the crowd.

"It is the same all over the city. Before every window that displays such pictures, be they good, bad or indifferent, may be seen a similar gathering of people. The story of what may be seen goes home, for, on the streets, on the cars, one may be sure of hearing some person say: 'I am going down to see the pictures in such and such a window!' Thus, for the time being, the war holds paramount interest in the minds of our citizens, and a great many things will have to stand aside until this war-fever abates."

To win attention, however, is not the only use of a window; it should sell goods. Therefore, it would be better for the average grocer to use but few war-pictures, even if he has the opportunity to secure a collection for the purpose. It would be better to arrange the collection inside, and put one or two of the best ones in the window to tempt those without to go in and examine the rest.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Much attention is attracted to the window of J. H. McDonald, grocer, Listowel, Ont., by a crayon picture of Oom Paul Kruger, drawn by one of the "Knights of the Road."

A man who sees day after day
A window dressed in the self-same way,
Becomes so tired he'd like to break
The panes for mere resentment's sake.
A window's like a pretty maid,
And should be often new arrayed,
So as to catch the loving eye
Of every man who passes by.—Ex.

A SUCCESSFUL CLERK.

EVERY clerk who becomes conspicuously successful owes his success more to the fact that he has always done his best than to extraordinary ability, says The Commercial Enquirer, and no clerk however great his ability, ever won a permanent reputation for unusual ability who did his best only occasionally under the spur of flattery, in a spirit of rivalry, or in a spasm of ambition.

The clerk who does not do the best he can at all times treats himself almost as badly as he would were he to keep his brains muddled a great part of the time with rum and nicotine, and places between himself and success as formidable a barrier.

As the strength of a chain is measured by the strength of its weakest link, so the ability of a clerk is measured by the quality of his average work. If this is poor, his reputation and salary will also be poor, no matter though he now and then does work of surpassing excellence. The clerk who, knowing that he has unusual ability and has often proved it, carelessly or in a spirit of indifference does work that should shame a clerk whose services would be dear at $2 a week, and yet lays the flattering unction to his soul that he would be estimated by what he can do and has occasionally done instead of what he averages, makes a great mistake, as a writer like Kipling would should he think that because he has shown he is a literary genius he can write trash and retain the reputation he won.

It is not only a clerk's duty to his employer always to do the best work he can, whether the salary he receives is as large as it should be or not, just as it is a grocer's duty to give full weight for whatever he sells, even though he sells it below cost, but it is also his duty to himself to do so. Unless he does, he cheats his employer and robs himself. His employer's loss will be emporary, and, at the outside, only a few dollars, but his own will probably be permanent, and amount to a blighted or a ruined career.

CAN WE HOPE FOR PREFERENCE?

An increase of 22 per cent. in the exports of British and Irish produce to Canada during the last fiscal year, as compared with 1897, is by no means an unsatisfactory position, and one, doubtless, largely the result of the preferential tariff which came into full operation in August, 1898. To make this point conclusive, however, it would be necessary to have statistics for the same period of the imports of similar classes of goods from the United States, Germany, France and other countries not on a preferential basis. There seems to be a lull in the preferential tariff movement throughout the Empire, the Imperial authorities having evidently come to the conclusion that in view of the wide ramifications of British trade with foreign countries, the movement is one which must come from the colonies themselves. It is one thing to accept such a tariff from a colony, and quite another to ask or agitate for it from this side.—The British Trade Journal.

INTEND MOVING THEIR STORE.

P. & A. Patterson, grocers in Hume's block, Guelph, Ont., have rented A. H. Goodall's store on Main street, lately occupied by Mrs. Mills, and will move into it as soon as some alterations are made. Mr. Goodall will straighten out the windows in his two stores; put in side windows leading to the doors and an addition to the rear.

S. Brousseau, grocer, corner of St. Paul and Henderson streets, Quebec, discovered the other morning that somebody had walked off with a couple of barrels of oysters and other goods during the night. It was a surprise, but, according to The Quebec Telegraph, Mr. Brousseau takes no stock in surprise parties.

THE FAMILY GROCER.

It's a notion universal that the grocer has a snap,
That he's free from all the troubles which his neighbors handicap;
Nought to do save sand his sugar, and rake in the nimble cash,
Though around him the finances of the world may go to smash.

Not a trouble, nary danger, anxiety or care;
On Easy street he's domiciled, nor needs to turn a hair;
But while the public's certain that he's rolling in his wealth,
He often finds his business too exciting for his health.

It is constant toil and trouble, though the profit's very small,
And the grocer sometimes wonders how he ever stands it all.
To him troop a host of patrons when their path with care is sown,
Just as though the family grocer hadn't troubles of his own.

His day is long and toilsome, for he rises with the sun,
But none too long for losses, and complaints are never done.
If his goods are fine in quality, his prices are too high;
If he's prompt in asking payment, his customers may shy.

If he gives an extra day of time, they take another week;
If he shuts right down on credit, they leave him like a streak.
Though customers are falling off, the salesmen come in gangs,
While like the sword of Damocles, a mortgage o'er him hangs.

When he purchases quiet largely, the market takes a slump;
When he buys his goods in driblets, the prices upward jump.
In the former case the goods, he fears, may spoil upon his hands;
In the latter case he can't compete with pirate "cutter" bands.

Oh, yes, the grocer rolls in wealth, and lives without a care,
And always sands his sugar, for so saith the newspapaire.
His coffee smacks of chickory or from peas is seldom free,
And everybody knows he puts adulterants in his tea.

OUTLOOK FOR BUTTER POOR.

THERE has been a regular slump in the price of butter within the past week, prices being from 1½ to 1¾c. per lb. lower at Montreal, where the export demand has shrunk to almost nothing, and it seems likely that prices will have to go still lower before it will be renewed. The unsettled feeling is chiefly due to the competition of Australian and New Zealand butter in England, the offerings from these two countries being certain to steadily increase from now on. In fact, some of the more aggressive bear operators contend that before the price can be on a stable basis it will have to go back to 18 to 18½c.

Possibly this is an extreme view to take, but it is certain that Canadian butter producers will have to meet keener competition in the English market each winter from New Zealand butter. The Government of that colony are putting forth every effort to insure an improvement of its dairy produce. They are employing a large staff of traveling instructors, in addition to Mr. Ruddick, the Dairy Commissioner (a Canadian, by the way), and they have raised the standards of quality for creamery butter. Many factories have made extensive improvements in their buildings and equipments, and there is every prospect of a record year for quality and quantity. Another fact is also worthy of note: According to recent mail advices, the weather over the whole of Northwestern Europe, from which nearly all the continental butter is imported to England, has been very mild for the time of year, and the cows are in much better condition than usual, and the supply of milk greater. Altogether, so far as the export market is concerned, it seems very likely that Canadian producers will have to make up their minds for a lower level of prices for some time to come. It is well to note, however, that there is an active demand for butter in London that will retail at 1s. per lb., and, at present cost, the Canadian stands a much better chance of supplying this demand than Australian, which is too dear at present to retail at 1s. As the supply of antipodean butter increases, however, this position will change.

EDUCATE THE PUBLIC.

Under this heading, it was advocated in these columns last week that merchants should keep in touch with the editor of the local newspaper, and so educate the public as to advances made in market prices. The price of goods is not the only matter concerning which the country merchant should keep his customers posted.

Generally speaking, the merchant is better acquainted than the average farmer with the condition in which farm produce should be marketed. He should disseminate this knowledge through the local press, as well as by word of mouth. It will pay to do so. If he is in the habit of buying produce and shipping it, he will get better profits from the properly prepared produce. If he be not a buyer, his reward will come in another way. In many cases, the farmer's wife takes the money derived from the sale of butter, eggs, poultry, etc., for her portion, and she spends the extras frequently on luxuries for the table, etc. So, if she be taught to make first-class butter, to gather and bring in her eggs promptly, and to prepare her poultry properly, her purchases are bound to be increased in proportion to the increased receipts from the sale of her produce.

THREE MONTHS' IMPORTS.

THE returns for the first three months of the fiscal year, which have just been issued, show some striking developments in the imports of groceries in Canada over last year. The most remarkable of these is the increase in our imports of sugar. For the three months ending September 30 this year the importation amounted to $2,124,723, as compared with $1,285,789 for the same period of 1898, showing an increase of $838,934 or 64 per cent.

The shipments of tea to this country are also growing. While, during the first quarter last year, our imports were $868,431, this year they were $1,089,593, showing an increase of $221,163 or about 25 per cent.

The growth of our imports of syrup and molasses is also large. For the three months this year our imports were $366,555, against $210,203 in the same time last year.

Greater in proportion, though not in quantity, was the increase in our imports of tobacco and cigars. The figures $39,930 for the period last year were swelled to $97,826 for the same time this year.

The following table gives a list of the principal imports of groceries for the quarter in the two years:

	1898.	1899.
Coffee	$4,111,665	$3,245,739
Fish, and products of	274,461	366,712
Fruits and nuts, dried	130,368	197,024
Fruits green	300,078	331,375
Pickles, sauces, etc	46,868	55,612
Provisions, lards, meats, etc.	314,822	411,959
Soaps	94,990	111,071
Spices	44,445	49,064
Sugar	1,285,789	2,124,723
Syrups and molasses	210,203	366,555
Tea	868,431	1,089,593
Tobacco and cigars	39,930	97,826
Tobacco leaf	590,280	490,456

As will be seen the only decreases shown are in coffee and tobacco leaf. The decline in coffee imports from $4,111,665 to $3,245,739 is especially notable, coming as it does at a time when the importation of tea shows a gain of 25 per cent.

PERSIAN DATES.

Mail advices regarding Persian dates state that the first steamers, with 300,000 boxes of new fruit, are expected in London this week. It is added that the difficulties and disappointments of former years will, in all probability, be repeated again, owing to the fact that the exigencies of the trade are imperfectly understood by many buyers.

SOME STIFF ADVANCES IN WOODENWARE.

DURING the past summer there has been an unusually good demand for Canadian lumber, both for home consumption and for export. The cut of logs, has, however, been less than anticipated, and, as several large drives have been stuck in the rivers tributary to the Ottawa, there is at present a considerable scarcity of lumber. This has resulted in the price of all lumber being largely enhanced in value.

This advance in their raw material has resulted in the manufacturers of woodenware raising the prices of all their products. The following price list was adopted for the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario, east and south of Sudbury, and the Maritime Provinces, by the Canadian manufacturers of woodenware at a meeting held on Tuesday, this week :

Other lines of woodenware are naturally affected by the scarcity and high price of lumber. Washboards have also been affected by advances in the price of zinc. Concerning washboards, the E. B. Eddy Co., Limited, issued the following to the several branches the other day: "Again we are face to face with another advance in the price of zinc, while lumber for the sides and backs is absolutely unobtainable at any price, so we have had to withdraw prices and may have to temporarily stop the manufacture of washboards."

The fo lowing price-list, which was issued too late for insertion in the prices current on page 44, shows, by comparison, the advances that have been made in these goods :

Striking advances have been made in brooms during the past six weeks. Owing to a great shortage in the crop of Illinois and other broom-corn-producing States, Canadian manufacturers of brooms have had to pay heavy advances to secure supplies of broom corn.

The result has been proportionate advances in the price of brooms. Boeckh Bros. & Company are now quoting their bamboo-handle brooms as follows :

Bamboo handles, A, 4 strings,	per doz.	$4 60
" " B, 4 strings,	"	4 40
" " C, 3 strings,	"	4 20
" " D, 3 strings,	"	4 00
" " F, 3 strings,	"	3 70
" " G, 3 strings,	"	3 40
" " I, 3 strings.	"	3 00

It will be seen from the above quotations that the advance has amounted to $1.30 to $1.35 per doz. for all grades.

CANNED GOODS HIGHER.

The bulls are on the top in the canned vegetable market just now. It is generally recognized that stocks are not sufficient for the demand likely to be met this season.

Corn is the stiffest article on the list. Few packers have any stocks left and they want $1.05 f.o.b. factory this week, whereas two weeks ago this vegetable could be readily bought from wholesalers at 95c. to $1. Now $1.10 is the bottom figure in the wholesale way.

Stocks of peas in wholesalers' hands are being rapidly reduced. Some jobbers state that there is a possibility of peas being as dear as either corn or tomatoes by spring. This week has shown an advance of 10c., which narrows the range of prices to 85 to 90c.

Tomatoes are not less active than either of the preceding. A good demand is steadily depleting stocks. Carlots have been sold during the past week at 97½c., which is an advance of 5c. over a week ago. The jobbing price for ordinary purchases is $1.

Beans show an advance of 5 to 10c, and pumpkins of 10c., which brings the price of the former to 90 to 95c., and of the latter to 85c.

At the advance noted the market is decidedly firm, and the next likely change will be upward.

OUR INCREASING TRADE.

THE grocer, indeed every merchant, cannot fail to benefit from the increased sales of farmers' products abroad. The producer seems to find a market for many articles which had not formerly met with much demand outside of Canada.

The three last months for which we have figures are September, August and July. In that period Canada sent abroad of agricultural and animal products no less than $22,000,000 worth. This is enormous. For the same three months in 1898, we only sent abroad $16,000,000 worth. The increase, in such a short time, indicates the practically inexhaustible extent of outside demands if our various products are prepared in a way to attract the outside consumer.

Is enough being done to organize, train and assist the individual exporter? The Government is doing much. To better methods of making cheese, butter, the preparation of poultry, etc., we can trace the encoragement given by the State. But, do merchants in their trade organizations speak with sufficient force, and when they do speak are they listened to?

We believe that the proposal discussed in one or two quarters the past year in favor of reviving the Dominion Board of Trade is a wise one. Some central body, speaking with the authority of commerce all over Canada, watching our business interests, suggesting laws to Parliament (and seeing that they are passed), carefully considering our export trade, etc., could do valuable work.

There is always danger that, for want of concentration, for lack of a powerful representative body, Canadian commerce, now stepping forward, may be allowed to decline.

VALENCIA RAISINS STRONG.

THE strong position of Valencia raisins is fully maintained, and, while jobbing prices are not quotably changed this week, it is more than likely that there will be advances in the near future. This week Montreal agents cabled orders to Denia for shipments, and the reply was received that the primary market was entirely cleared of stock. The quantity in first hands in Canada is almost nil, and, although Montreal jobbers have some stock on hand, importers who received orders from Ontario for a few round lots found it impossible to fill them in Montreal. Those who have stock state that they want it all for their own trade. The supplies which arrived last week by the second direct steamer have not relieved the scarcity at all, because her consignments were sold before they were landed in Montreal. Altogether, Valencia raisins seem to be pretty good property for grocers to hold just at present, and those who got in at the low quotations by the second boat stand to turn some handsome margins on their purchases.

TO POULTRY SHIPPERS.

WHILE the great majority of merchants sending poultry to the large home markets make a point to send properly-prepared stock, there is still altogether too large a receipt of poorly-fatted and badly-dressed stuff.

The high prices ruling at the opening of the poultry season, and the expectation of considerable declines may have been a good reason for hurrying turkeys to market, but this cannot be considered an adequate excuse for sending in much of the thin, scalded stock that one cannot fail to see any time in a tour of the produce houses.

Really good turkeys are worth 9c. per lb. this week; thin, scalded stock are not worth 5c. per lb., and it is with difficulty the commissionman gets that for it.

The merchant, of course, does not kill or prepare the stock sent in, but, if he were to take a decided stand as to quality, and pay for inferior stock at its true value, he would not be offered so much poor stock. It is the bad habit of "averaging" prices that leads to ignorant or careless preparation of stock for market.

Chickens, too, are sent to market before they are ready. A pair should weigh from 7 to 10 lb.; yet, the market is continually the recipient of chickens that do not scale more than 4 lb. It should be remembered that the value of chichens per lb. increases with their weight. There is not more than a third the eating on a 4-lb. pair of chickens than there is on an 8-lb., though they are half the weight.

With geese, the trouble is that too many heavy birds are marketed. The goose in popular demand weighs from 7 to 9 lb. When they weigh 10 lb. or more, the only buyers of them are restauranteurs and hotel-keepers. This class of buyers is so limited that they force down prices before they will purchase.

Ducks, like chickens, should be well fattened, and should average about 8 lb. per pair when dressed. There is no love in either the buyers' or the commissionman's heart for "ducks with breasts clean of meat and sharp as razors," as a lot was contemptuously described the other day.

LEMONS ARE DEARER.

Advices received this week from New York quote advances averaging 50c. per box on all Messina and Verdilla lemons there. The advance is principally due to shortage of supplies, though the demand, being better than was anticipated, has helped to bring it about.

Prices are likely to follow. An advance of 25c. brings this week's quotations to $2.50 to $3, and another advance is likely to take place before long.

CHEESE FIRM.

The cheesemaking season practically closed with the end of October, as very few factories have made any November stocks. It closed, too, with prices firm. Early makes have been well cleaned off the market, and stocks of late makes are now so light that buyers are in no hurry to sell, and a reduction from the present high prices is very improbable.

OYSTERS MAY ADVANCE.

Owing to the brisk demand that the colder weather has created for oysters, dealers state there is a probability that the price may be raised. Standards are now selling at $1.25 per gallon.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

November 16, 1899.

GROCERIES.

WHILE there is not a large volume of business being done, there is considerable activity in the wholesale trade in filling sorting orders. Up to Wednesday, when the winter freight rates came into force, there was a large movement, as both jobbers and retailers stocked up well before the advance in rates. There was an especially good demand on this account from the Northwest. A lull is expected to ensue until the Christmas trade gets into swing. A few orders on this account have already been received. The only changes to report in general groceries are advances in canned vegetables, which are generally stiffer.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market continues to stiffen. Corn shows the greatest strength, the few packers who have stocks left quoting $1.05 f.o.b. factory, while wholesalers hold what they have firmly for $1.10. Stocks of peas and tomatoes in wholesalers' hands are being rapidly reduced, so prices are decidedly firm at last week's figures, 90c. to $1 for tomatoes, and 85 to 90c. for peas. It is thought by some that peas will be as dear as either corn or tomatoes before the season is over. Beans are exciting some interest at present, and a strong feeling has raised the price 10c., it now being 95c. Pumpkins are 5 to 10c. dearer, and are selling well at 80 to 85c., the present quotations.

COFFEES.

A decidedly better feeling has manifested itself, and some Canadian holders of Rios in New York have sold out at good advances. The latest advices report a firmer tone on higher kinds, with still further improvement in the situation expected before the end of the year.

SUGAR.

There has been a big volume of business done between refiners and wholesalers who stocked up heavily before the commencement of the winter freight rates, which went into force on November 15. There is no change in the situation as regards prices, as since the declines of the past weeks, prices have been steady. It is not probable that the increased freight rates, which cost 2 or 3c. more for the jobber to lay down supplies, will affect prices to the retail trade.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is nothing new; both corn and sugar syrups are in good demand at steady prices. Molasses are moving moderately well at unchanged figures.

TEAS.

There is a brisk trade doing. A good many buyers are replenishing their stocks, in anticipation of advances, which are likely to follow all along the line, but especially in Ceylons, Indians and Japans. Business in Japans is less brisk than is the case with the other kinds. China teas, particularly the lower grades, show advances this week of 1 to 2 taels, equal to ½ to 1c. per lb. Buyers are slow in meeting this advance, but holders are firm in obtaining it.

See pages 29 and 30 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John, and Winnipeg prices current.

NUTS.

The situation is practically unchanged from last week. All foreign nuts are scarce and firm.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The Patras market, which touched the lowest basis of the year during the past week, shows signs of recovery. The latest cables report a firm market, with prices 6d. per cwt. higher. Considerable buying has been done here lately.

VALENCIA RAISINS—There is practically nothing offering from Spain. Prices are decidedly firm, while orders from retailers are heavier than the supply will be able to fill. Some Malaga muscatels have been bought to take the place of Valencias owing to the scarcity and high price of the latter, but it is not likely that this will be done to any extent, as the muscatels have also been advanced 1c. per lb.

CALIFORNIAN FRUITS—The only grades of prunes offering from California are the two largest sizes, as all medium and small stocks have been cleared off the market. There is a big movement for so early in the season. Peaches and apricots are so dear that they are not selling in large quantities.

GREEN FRUITS.

The most interesting feature of the market this week is the stiffening in the price of lemons in New York, which has resulted in an advance of 25c. here, and is likely to cause a further advance of a like sum in the near future. Sweet potatoes, too, are very firm. The supply here is limited, and, as the weather is colder and likely to continue so, it is not likely that further supplies will be received in quantities. There is a good demand for Jamaica oranges, yet, the supply is even larger than the market can well take. Prices are easy in consequence. There is an excellent demand for Almeria grapes and cranberries which keep firm at unchanged prices. Spanish onions are rather easier, now selling at 70 to 80c. per crate, a decline of 10 to 15c. A few grapes are still in the market, but, as many are in poor condition, the lowest price quoted now is 15c., and the top 20c. The feeling regarding winter apples is exceedingly uncertain, though prices may be said to be nominally unchanged.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Really first-class stock is scarce, and as high as 20c. could be had for strictly fresh eggs. Fresh-gathered stock is selling at 17 to 18c. There is a good quantity of pickled eggs on the market, and these are selling well at 15 to 16c. per doz.

POTATOES — Owing to the difficulty in securing cars for shipping potatoes to market, the price here has been enhanced 5 to 7c. per bag for carlots, owing to the limited supply on the market. This makes the price on cars f.o.b. Toronto 42 to 45c. per bag. Small lots out of store are selling at 45 to 50c.

BEANS—The market continues to stiffen. A good demand is now noted, with prices firm at $1.45 for hand-picked and $1.35 to $1.38 for prime, which is an advance of 8 to 10c. per bush.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES—There is a better movement in evaporated apples, as packers are coming down to buyers' figures and selling freely. A good jobbing trade is noted at 8½ to 9c. Dried apples continue in excellent demand, with prices firm, buyers paying 5½ to 5¾c. for ordinary No. 1 stock. For No. 1 quarters, as high as 6c. is being paid outside. The jobbing price is firm at 6 to 6½c.

POULTRY—Though the market is improving, the offerings of turkeys are increasing even more rapidly than the demand, and prices have fallen ½c., the top figure now being 9c. There is still a lot of scalded stock on the market, and some stuff has had to be sold at as low as 5c. Geese are also arriving more freely and prices are lower, the range now being 5 to 6c. Chickens are selling freely and in large supply, at 25 to 40c., and ducks are firm at 35 to 55c.

GAME—Both the demand and the supply of vension have been considerably increased during the past week. Prices are steady at 6 to 7c. for carcasses, and 10 to 11c. for saddles and haunches. There is also a good supply of ducks, which are in good demand at 25c. per pair for teal and other small varieties; 40c. for blue bills; 65c. for pintails and redheads; 75c. for mallards and large blacks, and $1 for canvasbacks. Partridges are coming in more plentifully, and sell well at 50 to 60c. per brace.

VEGETABLES — The market is quiet. Prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Cabbage, 40 to 50c. per doz.; red cabbage, 50 to 75c. per doz.; cauliflowers, 40c. to 60c. per doz.; celery, 40 to 75c. per doz.; parsley, 10 to 15c. per doz.; pickling cucumbers, 40 to 60c. per hundred; muskmelons, 50 to 70c. per doz.; native watermelons, 50 to 75c.; onions, 60 to 75c. per bush.; green beans, 30 to 50c. per basket; squash, $1 to $1.25 per doz.; vegetable marrow, 40 to 60c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Though the export demand has fallen off, the home consumption is so large that for the present prices are very well maintained. Winter creameries start operation this week, and supplies are likely to be increased considerably shortly. There is very little really choice dairy offering, and for what of this quality can be had fully 1c. more than the market allows is paid for good stock. We quote: Dairy large rolls at 18½ to 19c.; tubs at 17 to 18c., and dairy prints at 18½ to 19c. Creamery is worth 21 to 22c. for tubs and boxes and 22 to 23c. for prints.

CHEESE—The feeling locally is steady, jobbers holding their stock firmly at from 11½c. for early makes and 12½c. for late makes. Factories have generally closed down, and most country boards have discontinued sales.

FISH AND OYSTERS.

During the present close season for fresh-caught whitefish and trout, orders are being filled with frozen stock, which is in good supply. Finnan haddies are ½ to 1c. per lb. cheaper, the present price being 5½ to 6c. Steak cod has declined 1c., and is now quoted at 6c. The cold weather has created an improved demand for oysters, and there is some talk of an advance, though prices as yet are unchanged. We quote: Trout, 7 to 7½c. Niagara whitefish, 8c.; pickerel, 7½c.; herrings, 4c.; halibut, 12½c.; Seattle salmon, 13 to 15c.; steak cod, 7c.; haddock, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½ to 7c.; boneless fish, 5c.; quail-on-toast, 6c.; steak cod, 6½c.; ciscoes, $1.00 per basket. Oysters, Booth's standards, $1.25; selects, $1.65; other brands, $1.25 per gal.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—Offerings are light, but what is moving is readily purchased at 66 to 67c. outside for both red and white. The street market keeps busy. Goose wheat has declined 2c. Otherwise there is no change. We quote this market as follows: Wheat, white and red, 70 to 71c.; goose, 68c.; peas, 62c.; oats, 31 to 33c.; barley, 43 to 47c.; rye, 54c. A brisk export demand for Manitoba No. 1 hard is easy at 77½c. Toronto and West.

FLOUR—A good local trade is doing, but shipping orders are light, as the market is easy. We quote: Manitoba patents, $4; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.70; Ontario patents, $3.65 to $3.75; straight roller, $3.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There is no change. Business is good. We quote as follows: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.60 in bags and $3.70 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.50; split peas, $4; pot barley, $4.

hides, We quote: Cowhides, No. 1, 9½c.; No. 2, 8½c.; No. 3, 7½c. Steer hides are worth ½c. more. Cured hides are worth 10c.

SKINS—Sheep and lambskins have again advanced 5c. The market is generally firm. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8-lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 35 to 40c.; culls, 15 to 20c. Sheep and lambskins are selling at 85c.

WOOL—There is a good demand for pulled wool, but the export inquiry for fleece is excellent. We quote: Clothing wool, 17c.; combing fleece, 15½c.; unwashed, 9½ to 10c.

SEEDS.

Very little seed of any kind is offering. Prices of red clover are unchanged with dealers paying $4.50 to $5 outside. With alsike, in absence of foreign orders, the feeling has eased off somewhat, and prices may be said to be nominally 50c. lower, the present prices being $4.50 to $7 which top figure is only paid for extra choice to fancy lots. There is practically nothing doing in timothy seed.

MARKET NOTES.

Turkeys and geese have declined 1c. per lb.

Alsike clover seed is 50c. per bushel cheaper.

Finnan haddies and stake cod are 1c. per lb. cheaper.

Canned corn, tomatoes, pumpkins and beans are 10c. per doz. dearer.

Both cured and green hides are ¼c. dearer. Sheep and lambskins have advanced 5c.

Lemons have advanced 25c., and are likely to be advanced 25c. more shortly. Sweet potatoes are scarce, and 50c. dearer.

Owing to light supplies, on account of lack of cars for transportation, potatoes are 5 to 7c. per bag dearer. Beans are 10c. per bag dearer.

A despatch from Boiestown, N.B., states that Thomas A. Peters, Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, paid an official visit to the new flour mills on the Miramichi. At this place, he inspected the new mill owned by The Wm. Richards Co., Limited, and found everything in first-class shape. The mill is capable of producing 35 bbls. of flour every 10 hours.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a good volume of business in groceries during the week, and the general tendency of values is steady. No further change is noted in sugar, and the reduction has led to a more active inquiry at the refineries. Syrups are steady, and there has been another sharp advance in molasses owing to extremely small stocks. Dried fruits, generally, continue firm as last noted, while walnuts promise to be dear throughout the ensuing season. First arrivals of new Austrian and Californian prunes came to hand this week. Canned vegetables of all sorts are strong, and values point still higher on leading staples. Spices are firm in tone, and there is a stronger feeling in coffee. Teas record no striking change, except that Japan stock seems to be more plentiful than it was.
